2016-009 Baby2k.com

From: Baby2k .com [mailto:info@baby2k.com]
Sent: 11 November 2016 16:07
To: Furniture Regulations Consultation
Subject: RE: Furniture & Fire Regulations Review (consultation ending midnight tonight).

Dear Sirs,

RE: Furniture & Fire Regulations Review (consultation ending midnight tonight).

I write in support of sections 41 to 46 that products conforming to BS EN 1888 and BS EN 1466 (pushchairs & carrycots) should be removed from the Furniture & Fire Regulations regulations.

We agree that these products have very little to zero chance of causing or fueling a fire and that the current regulations are very unhelpful to us and our customers. Moreover, parents do not want baby products contaminated with chemicals and by applying fire retardants the current regulations is driving British consumers to buy from other European countries where product quality & safety standards may not be as high as in the UK.

Kind regards,

[redacted]
Baby2k.com Ltd

Baby2k.com - Sales Team

Baby2k.com
43 Copnor Rd
Portsmouth
Hampshire
PO3 5AB

T: [redacted]
E: info@baby2k.com
W: www.baby2k.com

Like us on Facebook!

This email was received from the INTERNET.

Communications via the GSi may be automatically logged, monitored and/or recorded for legal purposes.