Introduction

North Macedonia is a landlocked country in the Balkans sharing international boundaries with Albania, Bulgaria, Greece, Kosovo and Serbia; it gained its independence from Yugoslavia in 1991. The name North Macedonia was ratified in 2019 (see Country name, p.2).

Geographical names policy

PCGN policy for geographical names in North Macedonia is to use official sources from North Macedonia written in Macedonian Cyrillic, romanizing these as required according to the agreed romanization system, or to use official sources from North Macedonia that have already been romanized according to this method.

The agreed BGN/PCGN Romanization System for Macedonian was adopted by BGN and PCGN in 2013, replacing the previous 1981 system. The 2013 agreement was an adoption of the system in widespread use in the country, the differences in the replacement system² also serving to reinforce the distinction from the Serbian language.

² Specifically, the representation of /f/ as /ǵ/ and /k/ as /ǵ/ (rather than as /g/ or /d/ and /k/ or /c/, respectively).

Country name

The country gained independence from Yugoslavia in 1991 with the name Macedonia; however, Greece objected to the use of this name, stating it implied territorial aspirations to Greece's northern province of Macedonia. The country was eventually admitted to the UN in 1993 as "The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia" with an agreement to pursue UN-mediated negotiations on resolving the name dispute. In January 2019 both Macedonian and Greek parliaments ratified an agreement made in June 2018 on a new country name: North Macedonia.

Sources for geographical names

Official mapping is produced by North Macedonia's Agency for Real Estate Cadastre (formerly State Institute for Geodetic Affairs). This agency publishes data and mapping available to buy: <https://www.katastar.gov.mk/en/data/cartographic-products/>

The US Board on Geographic Names (BGN) GEOnet Names Server is a good source of names for North Macedonia, and the BGN-produced Geographic Names Standardization Policy for North Macedonia is also a useful resource.

Language and People

The primary official language of North Macedonia is Macedonian (mkd), spoken by some two thirds of the population as a mother tongue. Whilst the country name has been agreed as North Macedonia, the agreed name for the language and its people is Macedonian³. Additionally, in January 2018, the government adopted a new law on languages, which elevated the Albanian language (sqi) to a second nationally official language.

The Constitution states that in municipalities where ethnic minorities constitute at least 20% of the population, the languages of the minority groups are official at the local level: thus, Turkish (tur) is co-official in Centar Župa and Plasnica⁴, Romani (rmn)⁵ in Šuto Orizari⁶ and Serbian (srp) in Čučer-Sandevo. And, while not quite meeting the 20% level, Aromanian (rup)⁷ in Kruševo⁸. Additionally, Bosnian (bos) is a recognised minority language but doesn't have official status in any municipality. If the relevant minority names are available on official sources for these municipalities then they may be shown on HMG products alongside the Macedonian names.

According to the census of 2002, the ethnic composition of the country was recorded as: 64% Macedonian; 25% Albanian; 4% Turkish; 3% Roma and 1.5% Serb. Other minorities constituted less than 1% (with Aromanians (sometimes termed Vlachs) about 0.5%).

³ For the people, either Macedonian or Citizen of the Republic of North Macedonia is acceptable.

⁴ Turkish forms: Merkez Jupa and Plasnitsa

⁵ Romani or Romy (rom) is considered a macro-language with divergent variations: the form spoken in North Macedonia is Balkan Romani (rmn) with some 600,000 speakers (SIL International estimate) across the Balkans.

⁶ The Balkan Romani form is believed to be Shuto Orizari. (Note that Šuto Orizari is one of the 10 municipalities comprising the City of Skopje, see Administrative structure, below).

⁷ Aromanian is a Romance language, similar to Romanian.

⁸ The Aromanian form is believed to be Crushuva.

Inventory of characters (and their Unicode encodings⁹):

The BGN/PCGN Romanization system for Macedonian Cyrillic contains the following letter-diacritic combinations in addition to the unmodified letters of the basic Roman script:

Upper-case character	Unicode encoding	Lower-case character	Unicode encoding
Ѓ	01F4	ѓ	01F5
Ž	017D	ž	017E

Administrative structure

North Macedonia is composed of 70 opštini (municipalities), singular opština (mkd); komunat; singular: komuna (sqi), and one grad (city) (mkd); qytet (sqi): Grad Skopje; Qyteti i Shkupit (City of Skopje). Additionally, 10 municipalities constitute the City of Skopje; these municipalities enjoy a high level of autonomy but remain somewhat subordinate to the overarching City of Skopje, and as stipulated in North Macedonia's Law of Territorial Organisation of 2004, the centre of each of these is the City of Skopje. The categorisation of the 10 municipalities is sometimes included at the first-order level (so the country as a whole comprises 80 municipalities in such lists). These 10 municipalities with their ISO 3166-2 codes are shown below the main table.

Although Albanian is now considered a second official language across the country, Macedonian sources use predominantly Macedonian-only geographical names, and only these forms have been shown in the list below. For information on Albanian names, please contact PCGN.
