AGE ASSESSMENT JOINT WORKING GUIDANCE

1. Introduction and purpose

This guidance replaces the original Joint Working Protocol drafted in 2005. It sets out the agreed arrangements between the Home Office and Local Authorities (LAs), in England, where either disputes the age of a person claiming to be a child. This guidance has been agreed between the Home Office and the Association of Directors of Children’s Services (ADCS), which acts on behalf of and in consultation with LAs and local government associations.

This guidance is for front line officers, practitioners and managers in the Home Office and LAs. It may also be of interest or use to others who are involved in the age assessment process. This guidance is intended to help the relevant agencies to work together to provide an age assessment process which is efficient, effective and enables them to comply with their statutory duties (please refer to the glossary for details of statutory duties). It is important that timely decisions are made in order to minimise levels of distress and uncertainty for those going through the age assessment process.

The Home Office and LAs are subject to a legal duty to safeguard children who are in the UK and to promote their welfare. A Merton compliant age assessment may be required when there is reason to doubt an individual’s claimed age in order to be sure they are treated age-appropriately and that they receive the necessary services and support. In many cases, this will be in the context of an asylum claim from an individual claiming to be an unaccompanied child, but could also be relevant in other circumstances for example a trafficked young person who has not claimed asylum.

Whilst age assessments are routinely undertaken by LAs, they may also be conducted by the National Age Assessment Board (NAAB). The NAAB is a decision-making function in the Home Office, staffed with qualified social workers and subject to capacity, is able to conduct age assessments upon referral from a local authority or the Home Office. Refer to the National Age Assessment Board guidance for further information on the NAAB, at Annex A.

This Age Assessment Joint Working guidance primarily applies to age assessments conducted by LAs unless stated otherwise, although some of the best practice may also be relevant to the NAAB. Where ‘Home Office’ is referred to, this usually refers to immigration and asylum decision making teams within the Home Office, unless stated otherwise.

1.1 What does this guidance cover?

This document does not replace the ADCS Age Assessment Guidance or Home Office age assessment guidance. This guidance focuses on the joint working and information sharing aspects of age assessment and is designed to work alongside other age assessment procedures and instructions (links to relevant Home Office and LA guidance are provided at the end of this document in Annex A).

This document sets out the requirements and standards in the following sections:

- section 2 - contact and referral points
- section 3 - information sharing
- section 4 - where age assessments can be conducted
- section 5 - reviewing and amending age
- section 6 - resolving disputes

2. Who are the contact and referral points in the Home Office and local authorities?

It is not possible to be fully prescriptive about contact arrangements because of the variety of circumstances where age disputes may arise, along with the variation in local organisational arrangements in both the Home Office and in individual LAs. However, the minimum standards that should be adhered to are:

- contact between the Home Office and LA should usually be between the Home Office member of staff and social worker managing the case (alternatively where the NAAB has been asked to conduct an age assessment or has been asked to provide advice on the conducting of an age assessment the NAAB will contact the LA directly)
- as well as reaching agreement on cases, the points of contact in each case will be responsible for ensuring that safeguarding, best interests and data protection responsibilities are fully complied with
- verbal communication must be followed up with written confirmation:
  - you should ensure that personal data is communicated securely in line with data protection obligations as set out in relevant guidance –
  - relevant records must also be noted for audit purposes (including who spoke to whom, when the conversation occurred and the outcome of the discussion) and to provide evidence should it be required – for example at an appeal hearing or as a result of judicial review proceedings
- each LA and Home Office business area should put in place arrangements which allow for the escalation of disputes between the parties, should they occur, up the management chain (see section 6 below)
- in cases where resolution cannot be reached either at Home Office member of staff or social worker level or at manager level, each Home Office business area and LA should identify a named senior manager who will resolve the issue with their counterpart - in the Home Office this individual would usually be the Assistant Director responsible for asylum in the area concerned - in the LA it would usually be the Head of Service or equivalent level.

When an individual approaches the LA before the Home Office, the LA must make it clear to those who wish to claim asylum that they must contact the Home Office as soon as possible.

3. What are the information sharing requirements (Home Office and local authority responsibilities)?

Home Office notifies LA in writing that it doubts that an age-disputed person in relation to whom the LA has exercised or may exercise functions under relevant children’s legislation is the age that they claim (or are claimed) to be:

The Home Office will refer an age-disputed person to a LA when their claim to be under 18 years of age is doubted. This referral can initially be made by telephone but must be promptly followed up in writing. The referral must explain, in as much detail as possible, the concerns of the Home Office about the claimed age. The Home Office must give the LA the relevant information it has in relation to the individual's age and, if available, a copy of the IS.97M or IS.98M issued to them and a copy of the ASL.3596 (BP7). This includes what the young person has said about their age. For example, has the individual given an approximate age or exact date of birth, has this been consistently maintained or changed, and any information the individual has provided in support of their claimed age.

The Home Office and LA must establish that the individual has been told the information they provide to them could be shared with other government organisations to enable it to carry out its functions. The Home Office can then disclose information to an LA on the basis that the LA will only use the information provided by the Home Office for the purposes of providing appropriate services to young people. This includes for the purpose of care planning, support, safeguarding, child protection, where trafficking is suspected, and conducting an age assessment. The LA can then disclose information to the Home Office for it to discharge its immigration and safeguarding responsibilities and, if the NAAB has been asked to conduct an age assessment or the LA requests age assessment advice from the NAAB, the LA may disclose information to the NAAB to help enable that assessment to be conducted or the requested advice to be provided.

LA requests information from the Home Office:

LAs may request information from the Home Office for a number of reasons, including to:

- help with an age assessment or a decision whether an age assessment is required
• to carry out its statutory duties (please refer to the glossary for details of statutory duties)
• check the immigration status of the individual
• establish whether the individual is accompanied or unaccompanied

See Annex B for information on submitting age assessment related queries to the Home Office.

LA to verify documents with the Home Office:

LAs may base their assessment of age, or an amendment to an age assessment, on documentary evidence of the date of birth from the individual’s country of origin, or on documentation which originates in another country. LAs must aim to refer documents (for example travel, identity documents or birth certificates) to the Home Office contact to be verified before the LA conducts their age assessment. For contact details, refer to Annex B - Contact details for Home Office asylum decision making teams.

When the LA does this it should forward original documents to the Home Office by recorded delivery having first taken a copy of the original. Home Office staff should look to establish the reliability of the documentation, as soon as possible, and relay the findings back to the LA. This can include referral to internal document fraud experts. The authorities of the individual's country of origin will not be contacted in cases in which an asylum applicant may be at risk of persecution – this means if the country of origin state is the alleged actor of persecution and the asylum claim has not been fully determined or the individual’s appeal rights have not been exhausted.

When an individual is granted leave the Home Office must be sure that genuine documentation is returned to the individual (the Home Office has the power to retain documentation before this in case it is required to facilitate removal from the UK.)

LA to notify the Home Office of the age assessment outcome:

When the LA has completed the assessment, in accordance with section 50(3) of the Nationality and Borders Act 2022, it must inform the Home Office in writing of the result of its assessment. Where the LA conducts an age assessment, in accordance with section 50(4) of the 2022 Act it must, on request from the Home Office, provide the Home Office with such evidence as the Home Office reasonably requires for the Home Office to consider that decision. While section 50(4) must be adhered to, upon receipt of such a request from the Home Office, a LA should make their own assessment of what evidence should be reasonably shared in order for the Home Office to consider the decision on age, taking into account the LA’s duties under UK data protection legislation.

When informing the Home Office of the outcome of the assessment, the LA should complete the age assessment information sharing proforma to confirm that the age assessment complies with case law (Merton judgement and following case law - refer to the ADCS Age Assessment Guidance and Asylum Instruction (see Annex A for links) for information on relevant case law). It is likely that this proforma, if completed correctly, will contain sufficient information to enable the Home Office to consider the LA’s decision in most cases for the purposes of section 50(4). If an individual’s legal representative requires a copy of the full age assessment, they must request this, with the individual’s permission, from the LA.

Where there is an age dispute and the Home Office has made a referral to the LA, unless the NAAB has accepted a referral from the LA to conduct an age assessment or the LA determines that there is no reason to doubt the person’s claimed age, the LA will aim to assess the age of the individual within 28 days and provide the Home Office with the outcome of the age assessment via the age assessment information sharing proforma (see ADCS Age Assessment Guidance for informing the individual of the outcome). The LA must ensure age assessments are conducted in line with case law and guidance. Where more time is needed to complete the assessment, for example if the LA is waiting for relevant outstanding information or specialist assessments, the LA must let the Home Office know the reasons within 28 days.

LA is satisfied that the individual is the age they claim to be

If, however, the LA is satisfied that the individual is the age they claim to be and, as a consequence, an age assessment is not required (a decision under section 50(3)(c) of the Nationality and Borders Act 2022), they must inform the Home Office in writing of the result of its decision and on request of the Home Office (in accordance with section 50(4)), provide it with evidence it reasonably requires for it to consider the LA’s decision. While section 50(4) must be adhered to, upon receipt of such a request from the Home Office, a LA should make their own assessment of what evidence should be reasonably shared in order for the Home Office to consider the decision on age, taking into account the LA’s duties under UK data protection legislation.

Home Office action following receipt of the age assessment proforma:

When the Home Office receives the age assessment proforma, the member of staff responsible for the case must carefully consider the findings and whether the processes which have led to the findings appear compliant with case law (see Assessing Age Asylum Instruction (AI) and ADCS Age Assessment Guidance for further information on this, at Annex A).

The Home Office must discuss the age assessment with the local authority when they have concerns. For example, where it appears from the age assessment proforma that the age assessment may not have been carried out in line with case law, because information is unclear or does not seem to be supported by available evidence. It is important that, where necessary to clarify the findings or lawfulness of the assessment, all credible, available and relevant information is shared between the Home Office and the LA. In
In accordance with section 50(4) of the 2022 Act, where the LA conducts an age assessment it must, on request from the Home Office, provide the Home Office with such evidence as the Home Office reasonably requires for it to consider that decision. As stated above, while section 50(4) must be adhered to, upon receipt of such a request from the Home Office, a LA should make their own assessment of what further evidence should be reasonably shared in order for the Home Office to consider the decision on age, taking into account the LA’s duties under UK data protection legislation. The Home Office and LA will agree the accepted age and 'effective date from' to facilitate transfers to services which have an age qualification and will ensure that those who are found to be adults are told by the LA that they can apply for asylum support. The LA and Home Office must amend all records and relevant documents with the accepted date of birth and forward these to the other organisation and individual as appropriate.

LA and Home Office action when new information emerges:

If new information emerges which requires changes to be made to the other party’s records, all reasonable steps must be taken to ensure that the other party is quickly notified of the required changes and, if the information falls outside the type of information the person concerned has been notified might be shared, ensure they are made aware that this information will be shared. If the information means the existing age assessment should be reconsidered this must be discussed with the other party (see section 5 for what actions should be taken when information relevant to age emerges after a decision on age has been taken.)

Data Protection

The sharing of information on individuals must comply with:

- relevant data protection legislation, including the UK General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR) as contained in the Data Protection Act 2018
- the Human Rights Act (specifically Articles 3 and 8)
- common law duty of confidentiality
- internal policies on information management

Any potential breaches must be raised quickly and appropriately. The Department for Education has published information sharing guidance which gives advice for practitioners who provide safeguarding services to children, young people, parents and carers (See Annex A).

Any concerns raised or complaints received from individuals relating to the processing or sharing of their personal information must be dealt with promptly and in accordance with the internal complaints procedures of the organisations involved. The other party should be told that a complaint has been made about the information shared with them.

4. Where can age assessments be conducted?

Age assessments should be conducted at suitable facilities by qualified social workers. They must not be rushed (for example, not be undertaken by out of hours or emergency duty teams), the young person must understand the purpose of the interview and the process must be in line with Merton and following case law (see ADCS Age Assessment Guidance for more information regarding conducting age assessments). On this basis facilities such as police stations are not considered appropriate venues for conducting comprehensive age assessments and a comprehensive age assessment interview carried out here is not case law compliant.

There may be occasions where an individual who has previously been considered to be an adult may claim to be a child whilst in detention or under escort. In these cases, you must follow the process, below, which is detailed in Detention Service Order 14/2012 (DSO) (link provided in Annex A).

An individual who is defined as an age dispute case within the DSO, will not remain in detention pending an age assessment (with the exception of individuals previously sentenced by the criminal courts as an adult). The Home Office is responsible for liaising with the LA so that they can assume their statutory responsibility and arrange a placement. Individuals should not be released into the community until a place of safety has been found by the LA.

Referrals must be made to the LA as soon as possible so they can arrange a suitable placement as quickly as possible. In the event that the LA placement is delayed by them, the relevant Immigration Removal Centre will make immediate arrangements to safeguard the individual within the centre whilst they await the response from the LA.

The LA must make appropriate arrangements to help the transfer of an age dispute case from the centre to LA care in discussion with the Immigration Removal Centre in question.

For the full guidance on handling cases of age dispute in detention or during escort see DSO 14/2012 (link provided in Annex A).

The LA must inform the |
6. What must be done when there are conflicting age assessments/disputes or legal involvement?

Agencies must communicate disputes and decisions at the earliest possible opportunity. Delay in notifying changes of status can be extremely prejudicial to the welfare of the individual and could lead to incorrect decisions, removals and/or loss of support.

6.1 Between the Home Office and an LA

In most cases the Home Office’s opinion on age will be consistent with the LA’s and, in cases where an age assessment was conducted by the NAAB following a referral from a local authority, the assessments are binding on:

- a local authority that has exercised or may exercise functions under relevant children’s legislation in relation to the young person whose age has been assessed and where the local authority is aware of the assessment
- the Home Office, including immigration officers when exercising immigration functions

These assessments will have taken into account the views of the local authority.

In cases where the LA has not made a referral to the NAAB for an age assessment to be conducted there may be some cases where opinions will differ, for example:

- when the Home Office believes that there is doubt that the person is the age they claim to be and, therefore, a Merton compliant age assessment needs to be conducted, despite the LA’s acceptance of the claimed age, or

• the Home Office has concerns about the outcome of a LA age assessment.

Such differences of opinion could arise when there is conflicting evidence of age, and the Home Office decides to afford more or less weight to specific evidence than the LA. You can refer to Home Office and LA guidance for further information (see Annex A). Different pieces of information will carry different weight depending on the circumstances. You must explain the reasoning for giving greater weight to a particular piece of information.

It may be necessary for the Home Office and LA to liaise further in some cases. For example, where the individual claims to be an adult but other organisations have concerns that they may actually be a child. The process for reaching agreement is outlined below:

1. The Home Office must first discuss the case with the LA, pointing out contrary information they believe supports a different conclusion to that arrived at by the LA.
2. Where agreed cannot be reached, the case must be escalated to Assistant Director (AD) level in the Home Office (usually the AD responsible for the asylum decision making team) and Head of Service (or equivalent level) in the LA and a formal reconciliation reached between them as soon as possible. The Home Office must alert its local safeguarding lead.
3. Where agreement between the Assistant Director and Head of Service cannot be reached, the Home Office should consider obtaining advice from the NAAB and, if required and subject to the NAAB’s capacity, the NAAB will liaise with the LA and Home Office.
4. Where the NAAB is unable to provide assistance or a resolution cannot be reached, the case must be escalated to the Director of Children’s Services (DCS) and the Assistant Director of the NAAB to reach agreement. The Assistant Director of the NAAB should request the assistance from the Deputy Director of UASC Operations if they are unable to reach agreement with the DCS.
5. While most differences of opinion between the Home Office and the local authority will be resolved through dialogue between both parties, in certain situations age assessments can be conducted by the NAAB under section 51) at the request of the Home Office without a referral by a local authority being made, for the purposes of deciding whether or how the Home Office should exercise any immigration functions in relation to those young people. NAAB age assessments conducted in these circumstances are binding on the Home Office, including immigration officers when exercising immigration functions, but, unlike with age assessment conducted upon request of an LA under section 50, are not binding on a local authority that has exercised or may exercise functions under relevant children’s legislation in relation to the young person (refer to the National Age Assessment Board guidance... for further information). Where an age assessment is conducted under section 51 in these circumstances, a copy of the report will be sent by the NAAB to the LA to consider (if the local authority has previously conducted an age assessment, the NAAB’s assessment should be treated as new information and the guidance in ‘New information received after an age assessment has been conducted by an LA’ should be referred to).

6. When an outcome is reached the LA will formally notify the individual of the decision.

Whilst agreement is being sought the individual must be supported in line with the LA assessment, if this is in line with case law, and safeguarding must be considered.

6.2 Conflicting LA age assessments

LA responsibility is tied to geographical boundaries so it is possible that an age assessment may be sought from more than one LA. For example, where an asylum seeker moves to accommodation which is within a different LA boundary. In some cases, the assessments may not be in agreement. LAs must work together, and with other agencies, and be sure they prioritise safeguarding the individual and adhere to the Children Act 1989 and Children Act 2004.

Scenarios may emerge where both the LA and the NAAB produce separate age assessments. Where this is the case, refer to the National Age Assessment Board guidance for further information on what action should be taken in these circumstances, at Annex A.

The following is intended to reduce unnecessary repetition of the assessment process:

Existing lawful age assessment

When a LA is approached for an age assessment/it appears one may be required, it should check with the Home Office whether any previous assessment has been carried out by another LA or the NAAB.

In cases where an age assessment was conducted by the NAAB following a referral from a local authority, the assessments are binding on:

- a local authority that has exercised or may exercise functions under relevant children’s legislation in relation to the young person’s whose age has been assessed and where the local authority is aware of the assessment
- the Home Office, including immigration officers when exercising immigration functions
However, if a LA assessment has previously been completed, it must be established whether this was conducted lawfully (usually shown by completion of the information sharing proforma). The LA must contact the other LA to request a copy of any previous age assessments.

If the Home Office asylum/immigration decision making teams have an existing lawful Merton age assessment it must inform the newly-involved LA:

- that there is an existing lawful age assessment
- whether the assessment was conducted by an LA or NAAB and, if the assessment was conducted by an LA, the name of the LA which carried out the assessment
- when the assessment was carried out
- if the assessment was conducted by the NAAB – it must request that the NAAB sends a copy of the age assessment report to the local authority

Existing potentially unlawful local authority age assessment

If the documentation the Home Office has is not sufficient to indicate that the local authority assessment was completed in line with case law, the Home Office must:

- inform the newly-involved LA of this
- contact the original LA to get a completed age assessment proforma

If it becomes clear there is not enough evidence to show that an age assessment was completed in line with case law, the Home Office must ask the LA for this information. If the LA cannot provide this, an age assessment which is in line with case law must be carried out. The LAs must collaborate and promptly agree which LA must take responsibility for either conducting the age assessment or requesting that the NAAB conducts the assessment.

Conflicting local authority age assessments

If the Home Office becomes aware of conflicting assessments of age from different LAs, it must notify the LAs concerned for them to agree which LA should take responsibility. Home Office asylum/immigration decision making teams will continue to follow the case law compliant decision that had previously been notified to the Home Office unless and until new information is submitted as part of a case-law compliant assessment.

If previous age assessments were not compliant or the Home Office had not yet accepted the assessment, the individual would continue to be given the benefit of the doubt and be treated as a child. It should be noted that while it is expected that most age assessments undertaken by the NAAB will be conducted upon referral from a local authority, in certain situations age assessments can be conducted under section 51 of the Nationality and Borders Act 2022 without a referral by a local authority being made, for the purposes of deciding whether or how the Home Office should exercise any immigration functions in relation to those young people. The scenarios where this could occur are specified within the National Age Assessment Board guidance.

If a different age is agreed, the Home Office documents must be updated to show the revised age as soon as possible, and be sent to the LA and the individual concerned as appropriate.

New information received after an age assessment has been conducted by an LA

In the event that new information relevant to the assessment of age is obtained after an age assessment has been conducted, if the individual has moved location and LA, this should also be referred to the LA which conducted the previous age assessment and agreement reached between the LAs, depending on the circumstances, as to which LA will reassess the age of the individual, taking full account of all sources of information. The Home Office must be kept updated.

6.3 Dispute between the young person and the LA which conducted the age assessment, and determination of age by the courts

In the event that no new information is brought forward that was not considered as part of the original assessment, but the claimant’s complaint concerns a point of process or conduct, they should be informed that they can make a formal complaint to the LA responsible for the age assessment. In addition, if the young person disagree with the outcome, they should be advised that they can look to legally challenge the age assessment and be referred to independent advice.

A decision on age can be subject to judicial review if the individual concerned challenges that decision. R (A) v London Borough of Croydon, R (M) v London Borough of Lambeth [2009] UKSC 8 addressed the lawfulness of the age assessment process for young people. If there is a dispute between the young person and the party which conducted the assessment (LA or NAAB) on the issue of whether the person is the age they claim to be, then the courts – in exercising their judicial review function – may make a final finding on age which is binding on all agencies (known as a declaration in rem), including the Home Office and the LA (R. (on the application of S) v Croydon LBC [2011] EWHC 2091 (Admin)).

Sections 54 and 55 of the Nationality and Borders Act 2022 introduce a right of appeal to the First Tier Tribunal for an age-disputed person who was determined, following an age assessment under Part 4 of the Act, to be an age different to the age they claimed to be. However, sections 54 and 55 have not been commenced at the time of publishing this guidance document. Once commenced, these appeals will replace Judicial Review as the means to challenge a decision on age by an LA or NAAB.
The LA is not bound by First-tier Tribunal decisions, in asylum appeals, on the age of an individual (see R (on the application of) PM v Hertfordshire County Council [2010] EWHC 2056 (Admin)). An LA is also not bound by a decision by a criminal court to sentence the individual as an adult. However, in light of the Tribunal’s/Court’s determination/sentencing the LA must fully take this into account and consider whether it is appropriate to reassess the individual.

The timescale for this must be agreed between the involved parties, as soon as possible, to avoid there being long periods of time before action is taken following the determination/sentencing and in order to ensure that there is no gap in support as a result.

The Assessing Age Asylum Instruction section ‘Discussing the immigration judge’s findings with the local authority’ provides further information on this (see Annex A). If the LA decides not to accept the Tribunal’s decision then it must explain its reasoning for this to the Home Office contacts and place a note in the LA records.

Note: The LA must provide the Home Office with the full age assessment report, if required, as a result of a legal challenge. This can be done via the young person’s solicitor if they have one. The full age assessment may be required by the immigration judge a minimum of 5 working days before the hearing. Data protection concerns would not be reason to withhold sharing an age assessment; any discrepancies would be put to the individual to clarify.

In addition to being consistent with Section 50(4) of the Nationality and Borders Act 2022, this approach reflects the comments of the judge in A & WK Vs SSHD & Kent County Council [2009] EWHC 939 (Admin), in which it was considered that, “since it [the Local Authority assessment] is being obtained for the benefit of the Home Office as well as the authority, it is in my judgement entirely reasonable that it should be disclosed to the Home Office. Only if the full report is available can it be seen whether there are any apparent flaws in it and whether it is truly Merton compliant. And sight of the full report will be essential if there is any challenge raised to the decision by the Home Office.”

Glossary

The Home Office and LAs may use differing terminology. This glossary outlines how key terms have been used in this Joint Working Guidance:

ADCS - The Association of Directors of Children’s Services Ltd (ADCS) is the national leadership association in England for statutory directors of children’s services and their senior management teams. ADCS members hold leadership roles in children’s services departments in local authorities in England. They specialise in developing, commissioning and leading the delivery of services to children, young people and their families, including education, health, youth, early years and social care services. Working in partnership with other public agencies our members work to achieve tailored and joined-up services for children, whatever their identified needs.

Age Assessment – for the purposes of this guidance refers to assessments carried out by LAs or the NAAB to determine an individual's age.

Age Dispute – age is disputed when the age claimed by an individual is not accepted by the authorities. This is relevant in cases in which there is doubt over whether an individual is an adult or a child, or where it is accepted that a young person is a child but the claimed age is in doubt.

Merton-compliant – this term is often used to describe whether an age assessment is case law compliant. There is no prescribed way in which local authorities are obliged to carry out age assessments; the courts, however, provided guidance to local authorities in a case involving Merton Council ([B v London Borough of Merton [2003] EWHC 1689 (Admin)]). All local authority and NAAB age assessments must be compliant with the case law of Merton and following case law since this judgement.

Proforma – this refers to the age assessment information sharing proforma which is on the ADCS website, under good practice, and should be used for all LA age assessments (see Annex A).

Statutory Duties - Section 55 of the Borders, Citizen and Immigration Act 2009 requires the Home Office to carry out its immigration, asylum, nationality and customs functions, and services carried out by third parties on the Home Office’s behalf, having regard to the need to safeguard and promote the welfare of children who are in the United Kingdom. Section 55 is how the UK gives effect to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) in immigration matters that affect children. The UK is a signatory to the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) (More information can be found on the GOV.UK website).

The Nationality and Borders Act 2002 includes a number of provisions on the actions that must be taken by the Home Office and local authorities in respect of age disputed persons.
Under the Children Act 1989, local authorities are required to provide services for children in need for the purposes of safeguarding and promoting their welfare. Local authorities undertake assessments of the needs of individual children to determine what services to provide and action to take. Working together to safeguard children provides further information.

The Children Act 2004 addresses co-operation by Children’s Services to improve well-being.

The Department of Education provides statutory guidance for local authorities on the Care of unaccompanied and trafficked children. It states under ‘Age Determination’ that:

> “Many unaccompanied and trafficked children arrive in the UK without documentation or with forged or counterfeit documents. Where the age of a person is uncertain and there are reasons to believe they are a child, that person is presumed to be a child in order to receive immediate access to assistance, support and protection in accordance with section 51 of the Modern Slavery Act 2015. Where an age assessment is required, local authorities must adhere to standards established within case law. Age assessments should only be carried out where there is reason to doubt that the individual is the age they claim. Age assessments should not be a routine part of a local authority’s assessment of unaccompanied or trafficked children.”
