Summary of Victims' Rights

Right 1

To be able to understand and to be understood

You have the Right to be given information in a way that is easy to understand and to be provided with help to be understood, including, where necessary, access to interpretation and translation services.

To have the details of the crime recorded without unjustified delay

You have the Right to have details of the crime recorded by the police as soon as possible after the incident. If you are required to provide a witness statement or be interviewed, you have the Right to be provided with additional support to assist you through this process.

To be provided with information when reporting the crime

You have the Right to receive written confirmation when reporting a crime, to be provided with information about the criminal justice process and to be told about programmes or services for victims. This might include services where you can meet with the suspect or offender, which is known as Restorative Justice.

To be referred to services that support victims and have services and support tailored to your needs

You have the Right to be referred to services that support victims, which includes the Right to contact them directly, and to have your needs assessed so services and support can be tailored to meet your needs. If eligible, you have the Right to be offered a referral to specialist support services and to be told about additional support available at court, for example special measures.

To be provided with information about compensation

Where eligible, you have the Right to be told about how to claim compensation for any loss, damage or injury caused as a result of crime.

To be provided with information about the investigation and prosecution

You have the Right to be provided with updates on your case and to be told when important decisions are taken. You also have the Right, at certain stages of the justice process, to ask for decisions to be looked at again by the relevant service provider.

Right

To make a Victim Personal Statement

You have the Right to make a Victim Personal Statement depending on personal needs and circumstances, which tells the court how the crime has affected you and is considered when sentencing the offender. You will be given information about the process.

Right

To be given information about the trial, trial process and your role as a witness

If your case goes to court, you have the Right to be told the time, date and location of any hearing and the outcome of those hearings in a timely way. If you are required to give evidence, you have the Right to be offered appropriate help before the trial and, where possible, if the court allows, to meet with the prosecutor before giving evidence.

Right

To be given information about the outcome of the case and any appeals

You have the Right to be told the outcome of the case and, if the defendant is convicted, to be given an explanation of the sentence. If the offender appeals against their conviction or sentence, you have the Right to be told about the appeal and its outcome.

To be paid expenses and have property returned

If you are required to attend court and give evidence, you have the Right to claim certain expenses. If any of your property was taken as evidence, you have the Right to get it back as soon as possible.

To be given information about the offender following a conviction

Where eligible, you have the Right to be automatically referred to the Victim Contact Scheme, which will provide you with information about the offender and their progress in prison, and if/when they become eligible for consideration of parole or release. Where applicable, you also have the Right to make a new Victim Personal Statement, in which you can say how the crime continues to affect you.

To make a complaint about your Rights not being met

If you believe that you have not received your Rights, you have the Right to make a complaint to the relevant service provider. If you remain unhappy, you can contact the Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman.

Introduction

What is the Victims' Code?

The Code of Practice for Victims of Crime¹ (Victims' Code) sets out the services and a minimum standard for these services that must be provided to victims of crime by organisations (referred to as service providers) in England and Wales.

Who is a 'victim' under this Code?

This Code acknowledges that the terms 'complainant' and 'survivor' are often used in the criminal justice system to describe a person who has made a criminal allegation to the police. However, for the purpose of this Code, the definition of a 'victim' is:

- a person² who has suffered harm, including physical, mental or emotional harm or economic loss which was directly caused by a criminal offence;³

1 The Victims' Code is issued by the Secretary of State for Justice under section 32 of the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004.

2 Legal persons (e.g. businesses or other enterprises such as charities) are not included within the definition of a victim. However, businesses and other enterprises such as charities can receive the services in this Code and make an impact statement where a criminal offence has been committed against them, subject to provision of a named point of contact to the relevant service provider. More information about how to make an Impact Statement for Business is available at: www.gov.uk/government/publications/impact-statements-for-business/impact-statements-for-business-guidance

3 For the purposes of this Code a 'criminal offence' means an offence that is committed, or subject to criminal proceedings, in England and Wales.

- a close relative⁴ (or a nominated family spokesperson) of a person whose death was directly caused by a criminal offence.

You can also receive Rights under this Code if you are:

- a parent or guardian of the victim if the victim is under 18 years of age;⁵ or
- a nominated family spokesperson if the victim has a mental impairment or has been so badly injured because of a criminal offence that they are unable to communicate or lacks the capacity to do so.

All service providers must have the victim's best interests as their primary consideration and take the victim's age, maturity, views, needs and concerns fully into account.

Which Rights will apply to you?

Which Rights apply to you will depend on whether the crime is reported to the police, if the case goes to court, and whether the defendant is convicted, as well as your personal needs and circumstances. Rights 1, 4 and 12 apply to all victims. The remaining Rights only apply where a crime has been reported to the police. The relevant service provider will tell you which Rights apply to you.

4 This normally refers to the spouse, the partner, the relatives in direct line, the siblings and the dependants of the victim. Other family members, including guardians and carers, may be considered close relatives at the discretion of the service provider.

5 Unless the parent or guardian is under investigation or has been charged by the police in connection with the crime or if, in the reasonable opinion of the service provider involved, it is not in the victim's best interests for your parent or guardian to receive such services.

How can I expect to be treated?

You have the Right to:

- be treated with respect, dignity, sensitivity, compassion and courtesy;
- make informed choices that are fully respected;
- have your privacy respected by service providers in accordance with their obligations under the relevant privacy and data protection laws; and
- have services provided to assist you and your family to understand and engage with the criminal justice process and that are offered in a professional manner, without discrimination of any kind.

Support for witnesses

If you have suffered harm, including physical, mental or emotional harm or economic loss, as a direct result of witnessing a crime, you are a victim of crime for the purposes of this Code and are able to access services that support victims. You do not need to have provided a statement to or been interviewed by the police, or be required to attend court as a witness.

All other witnesses can access services provided under the Witness Charter,⁶ rather than under this Code.

6 www.gov.uk/government/publications/the-witness-charter-standards-of-care-for-witnesses-in-the-criminal-justice-system

Resident status

You have the Right to services under this Code regardless of your resident status. However, if the crime was committed in England or Wales but you live elsewhere, you should access support services where you live. If you are required to give evidence in court in England or Wales, you will be able to access support services while you are in England or Wales.

Families bereaved⁷ by murder or manslaughter abroad

Families bereaved by murder or manslaughter of a British national committed outside of the United Kingdom should contact the Foreign, Commonwealth & Development Office. They provide support and information about processes in the country where the incident occurred, including repatriation of the deceased. They may also be able to refer the deceased's family to specialist support services. Further information is available by calling: 020 7008 5000⁸ or at:

www.gov.uk/government/publications/helping-british-people-abroad-murder-and-manslaughter

There is a Memorandum of Understanding to help clarify the role of the Foreign, Commonwealth & Development Office, the police and coroners in England and Wales, when a British national is a victim of murder, manslaughter or infanticide

7 This refers to the spouse, the partner, the relatives in direct line, the siblings and the dependants of the victim. Other family members, including guardians and carers, may be considered close relatives at the discretion of the Foreign, Commonwealth & Development Office.

8 Available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. If you are not in the United Kingdom, you can find the contact details of the nearest British embassy, high commission or consulate online at: <https://www.gov.uk/world/embassies> abroad. The Memorandum focuses on both the deceased and their family and explains what type of support is available.

How can I ensure I receive the best service?

Service providers will try to minimise the number of different people you have contact with during your case, and wherever possible, offer you a single point of contact for information. To assist them in delivering your Rights under this Code, you should:

- let them know if your contact details or preferences change;
- ask them questions if you are unsure about anything related to your case or the criminal justice process; and
- give service providers your views on the services they are providing to help them deliver and tailor a high-quality service.

What if I do not want to receive the Rights offered under this Code?

You may decide that you do not want some or all of the Rights under this Code. You should discuss this with the relevant service provider.

You can choose to opt back in to receiving Rights under this Code at any time while the case is under active investigation, or prosecution, or the offender is serving their sentence. This does not apply to the Right to access support to help you to cope, and as far as possible, recover from being a victim of crime. This Right is available regardless of whether anyone has been charged, convicted of a criminal offence and regardless of whether you decide to report the crime to the police or you do not wish to cooperate with the investigation.

Your Right to be protected

You have the Right to be protected from re-victimisation, intimidation and retaliation during and after the investigation and proceedings. If you are concerned for your immediate safety, you should contact the police on: 999.

In the unlikely event that the suspect (pre-trial) or offender (following conviction) escapes from custody, the police will contact you. If it is assessed that the suspect or offender poses a significant risk of harm to you, they will take any necessary measures to ensure your on-going protection.

If you are receiving unwanted contact from an offender in prison, you should contact Her Majesty's Prison and Probation Service Victim Helpline⁹ on: 0300 060 6699¹⁰ or email: victim.helpline@justice.gov.uk

If you receive unwanted contact from an offender who is on licence in the community, you can contact the police or if you have one, your Victim Liaison Officer. If the offender is under 18, you can also report any unwanted contact to the police, but if you know they are being supervised by a Youth Offending Team, you may wish to contact the team directly. Contact details for Youth Offending Teams are available at: www.gov.uk/government/collections/youth-offending-team-contact-details

9 Her Majesty's Prison and Probation Service must maintain a telephone helpline (the Victim Helpline) to ensure that victims have a number to ring if they receive unwanted contact from a prisoner.

10 Monday – Friday, 9.00am – 4.00pm.

Information provided under this Code

Service providers must include information about this Code on their websites. This information must also signpost victims to the relevant pages on: GOV.UK.

Where required to share information under this Code, service providers must do so effectively and in accordance with their obligations under the Data Protection Act and General Data Protection Regulation 2018 and other relevant legislation.

Where there is a high number of victims involved in a case, such as large-scale investment frauds with multiple investor victims, or in other exceptional cases, the service provider may communicate information¹¹ that a victim has the Right to under this Code through alternative channels, such as their website, rather than contacting each victim individually.

Nothing in this Code requires a service provider to provide information to the victim where its disclosure:

- could result in harm to any person;
- could affect the proper handling of any criminal investigation or prosecution, or could otherwise prejudice any civil or criminal case, or parole proceedings; or
- would, in the service provider's view, be contrary to the interests of national security.

11 This may include communication information under Rights 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9 and 11 of this Code.

What if I am contacted by the media?

Generally, journalists can attend and report events that happen in court. Sometimes the media may take an interest in a case and approach you and/or your family for comment. There is no obligation to speak to them. However, you should be careful that you do not do anything to risk unfairly influencing the outcome of a court case and being in contempt of court.¹²

If you have any concerns or would like some advice, you can speak with the police or a victim support provider. Alternatively, you can contact the Independent Press Standards Organisation at: www.ipso.co.uk, who will talk to you about your concerns and give practical advice and guidance.

Access to medical support

If you have been the victim of crime and have a physical or mental health need as a result, you can access National Health Service services. You do not need to have reported a crime to the police in order to access these services.

If someone is seriously ill or injured and their life is at risk, call the emergency services on: 999. If it is not a life-threatening emergency, there are several options you can take. You can:

- Call 111 (National Health Service England) or 0845 46 47 (National Health Service Wales) non-emergency medical helpline;

- go to your local National Health Service walk-in centre or local urgent care centre/minor injuries unit or your local Accident and Emergency (A&E) service department;
- visit or call your General Practitioner, who can refer you to specialist services including mental health support; or
- talk to a pharmacist.

More information about National Health Service services is available at: www.nhs.uk or www.wales.nhs.uk, or by calling: 111/0845 46 47 in (England/Wales) or by visiting your General Practitioner.

As well as being referred by the police, you can also refer yourself to a Sexual Assault Referral Centre.¹³ These centres have specially trained professionals who can give you both physical and mental health support if you have experienced rape or sexual assault, regardless of whether you choose to report the crime to the police or not.

You can also access a wide range of psychological and emotional counselling and therapeutic approaches provided in a wide variety of settings, for instance, the National Health Service, voluntary sector agencies and private practice.

13 www.nhs.uk/live-well/sexual-health/help-after-rape-and-sexual-assault/

If you are not ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom, you should note that some health services are exempt from payment, such as primary care services; services for the treatment of a physical or mental condition caused by torture, female genital mutilation, domestic violence, sexual violence or if you are determined a victim of modern slavery or human trafficking. Further details are available at: www.gov.uk/guidance/nhs-entitlements-migrant-health-guide

Coroners

Coroners are not included as service providers under this Code. This is because inquests are not criminal proceedings and bereaved family members already have interested person status in inquests which gives them certain statutory Rights. This includes the Right to ask relevant questions of the witnesses and to receive disclosure of documents and other evidence. Bereaved family members of a victim of crime who are involved in an inquest should instead consult the guidance on coroners' investigations for bereaved people which is available at: www.gov.uk/government/publications/guide-to-coroner-services-and-coroner-investigations-a-short-guide

Who is responsible for meeting the Rights under this Code?

The following organisations are required to deliver the Rights under this Code:

- Police and Crime Commissioners
- All police forces in England and Wales, the British Transport Police and the Ministry of Defence Police
- Police Witness Care Units¹⁴
- The Crown Prosecution Service
- Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service
- Her Majesty's Prison and Probation Service
- The National Probation Service
- The Parole Board for England and Wales
- The Criminal Cases Review Commission
- The Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority
- The UK Supreme Court
- Youth Offending Teams

14 Witness Care Unit is the generic name to describe a police led function which provides information and support to victims and witnesses in cases progressing through the criminal justice system. This unit may be known by another name in your local area. The police will tell you the name of the unit who deliver the Rights assigned to the Witness Care Unit in this Code.

Under this Code some victims will receive their Rights through a combination of the service providers listed above and other service providers, including:

- The Competition and Markets Authority
- Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy (Criminal Enforcement)
- The Environment Agency
- The Financial Conduct Authority
- The Gambling Commission
- The Health and Safety Executive
- Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs
- Home Office (Immigration Enforcement)
- The Information Commissioner's Office
- Independent Office for Police Conduct
- The National Crime Agency
- The National Health Service
- Natural Resources Wales
- The Office of Rail and Road
- The Serious Fraud Office

Other service providers can also have a role in relation to the investigation and/or prosecution of crimes.¹⁵ However, unlike the police and the Crown Prosecution Service, who have a broad remit to investigate and prosecute crimes, these service providers are limited to investigating and prosecuting specific types of offences committed in certain circumstances. This will determine the way in which, and frequency with which, they come into contact with victims.

The Rights in this Code only apply where other service providers (such as those listed above) accept formal responsibility for conducting a criminal investigation or making a decision to prosecute. However, not all functions undertaken by other service providers are identical to those carried out by the police and the Crown Prosecution Service. Where functions are equivalent to a service provider under this Code (for example the other service provider is investigating or prosecuting an alleged offence), they must deliver the same Rights without unjustified delay, regardless of whether the other service provider is listed above.

15 This only applies to the extent that the service provider has formally accepted responsibility for conducting a criminal investigation into the crime or has formally accepted responsibility for making a decision to prosecute that crime.

The role of Police and Crime Commissioners

Police and Crime Commissioners are locally elected to secure efficient and effective policing. They have a legal duty to consult with victims in setting the policing priorities in their area and to hold the Chief Constable of the police in their area to account. They are responsible for commissioning many of the services that support victims outlined in this Code.

The role of the Commissioner for Victims and Witnesses (Victims' Commissioner)

The Victims' Commissioner is not listed as a service provider under this Code. This is because the Commissioner has a statutory duty to keep this Code under regular review. It is part of the Commissioner's role to listen to the views of victims, understand the criminal justice system from the victims' point of view and try to help improve the services and support available. The Victims' Commissioner cannot help with individual cases or challenge criminal justice agencies to make different decisions.

Enhanced Rights

This Code acknowledges that victims who are considered vulnerable or intimidated, are a victim of the most serious crime (including a bereaved close relative) or have been persistently targeted are more likely to require specialised assistance (some victims may fall into one or more of these categories). Such support may include being offered a referral to a specialist support service, being contacted sooner after key decisions and having access to special measures (see Right 4) Within each individual Right this Code highlights where such Enhanced Rights apply.

Once a service provider has identified that you are eligible for Enhanced Rights, they must ensure that this information is passed to other service providers with responsibilities under this Code and, where appropriate, to services that support victims.

If you do not fall within the categories outlined above, a service provider may decide to provide access to certain Enhanced Rights depending on your circumstances or the impact of the crime.

Vulnerable or intimidated victims

You are eligible for Enhanced Rights under this Code as a vulnerable¹⁶ victim if:

- you are under 18 years of age at the time of the offence,¹⁷ or
- the quality of your evidence is likely to be affected because you:
 - suffer from mental disorder within the meaning of the Mental Health Act 1983;
 - otherwise have a significant impairment of intelligence and social functioning; or
 - have a physical disability or are suffering from a physical disorder.

You are also eligible for Enhanced Rights under this Code as an intimidated victim if the service provider considers that the quality of your evidence will be affected because of your fear of distress about testifying in court.¹⁸

When assessing whether a victim is intimidated, the service provider must consider:

- the behaviour towards the victim on the part of the suspect, members of their family or associates, or any other person who is likely to be a suspect or witness in the case;

16 This is based on the criteria in section 16 of the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 for the court to determine eligibility for special measures.

17 For general Enhanced Rights under this Code. However, in order to be eligible for special measures under section 16 of the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999, you must be under 18 at the time of the hearing.

18 This is based on the eligibility criteria for special measures in section 17 of the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999.

- the victim's age;
- if relevant, the victim's social and cultural background, religious beliefs or political opinions, ethnic origin, domestic and employment circumstances;
- the nature and alleged circumstance of the offence to which the case relates (victims of a sexual offence or human trafficking will be considered to be intimidated); and
- any views expressed by the victim.

Victims of the most serious crime

You are eligible for Enhanced Rights under this Code as a victim of the most serious crime, if you are a close relative bereaved by a criminal offence, a victim of domestic abuse, hate crime, terrorism, sexual offences, human trafficking, modern slavery, attempted murder, kidnap, false imprisonment, arson with intent to endanger life and wounding or causing grievous bodily harm with intent.

Additional Enhanced Rights that are available for bereaved close relatives are highlighted separately within each individual Right of this Code.

Persistently targeted victims

You are eligible for Enhanced Rights under this Code as a persistently targeted victim if you have been targeted repeatedly as a direct victim of crime over a period of time, particularly if you have been deliberately targeted or if you are a victim of a campaign of harassment or stalking.

Right 1: To be able to understand and to be understood

- 1.1 You have the Right to be helped to understand what is happening and to be understood. In considering appropriate measures, service providers must consider any relevant personal characteristics which may affect your ability to understand and to be understood. All service providers must communicate in simple and accessible language and all translation or interpretation services must be offered free of charge to the victim.
- 1.2 If, due to the impact of the crime, you need assistance to understand or to be understood, you can be supported by a person of your choice, unless the service provider considers that it would not be in your best interests or that it would impact the investigation or prosecution. In these circumstances, the service provider will tell you why.

1.3 If you have difficulty understanding or speaking English, you have the Right to use an interpreter¹⁹ to help you understand, when:

- reporting a criminal offence;²⁰
- being interviewed by the police; and
- giving evidence as a witness.

1.4 You can also receive the translation of any document where it is essential for the purposes of the interview or court proceedings to read a document that is given to you, including:

- the written acknowledgment of the reported crime;
- where it is essential for the purposes of the interview or court hearing to see a particular document that is disclosed to you, a copy of the relevant parts of the document;
- communication informing you of the date, time and location of the trial;
- the outcome of criminal proceedings and, where available, the reasons for the decision; and
- the response to any complaint or request made under the Victims' Right to Review Scheme.²¹

19 This includes both spoken and non-spoken interpreting, for example if a victim is deaf or hard of hearing.

20 You have the Right to report the crime in a language you understand or with the necessary linguistic assistance if you do not speak English.

21 See Right 6 for explanation of the Victims' Right to Review.

- 1.5 You can also receive an oral translation or summary of any of the documents listed above, unless doing so would prejudice the fairness of the proceedings.
- 1.6 For cases heard in Wales, you have the legal Right to use Welsh when giving evidence and the court will make the necessary arrangements.²² You also have the Right to submit a Victim Personal Statement to the Parole Board in Welsh, irrespective of the location of the offender, and to ask for a summary of the parole decision to be provided in Welsh.

22 Section 22(1) of the Welsh Language Act 1993 provides: "In any legal proceedings in Wales the Welsh language may be spoken by any party, witness or other person who desires to use it". No prior notice to use the Welsh language is required in magistrates' court proceedings. However, sometimes it is necessary for interpretation to be arranged, and prior notice will be given to the Welsh Language Unit to make necessary provisions.

Right 2: To have the details of the crime recorded without unjustified delay

- 2.1 You have the Right to have details of the crime recorded by the police without unjustified delay after the incident. When you report an incident, you will be asked to provide details about the crime.
- 2.2 If you are asked to make a witness statement, the police will explain to you that this may result in you needing to give evidence at court, if the case goes to trial.
- 2.3 If you are asked to be interviewed, any interview should take place without unjustified delay, the number of interviews should be kept to a minimum and where possible be conducted by the same person. The police must take any steps necessary to ensure that you (and your family) do not have unnecessary contact with the suspect.
- 2.4 The police must consider whether you would benefit from additional support, for example, the assistance of an interpreter, and that any interview is carried out by or through professionals trained for that purpose. They must also seek to ensure that it takes place in premises designed or adapted for the purpose. If this is not possible, the police will tell you why.

- 2.5 You also have the Right to request to bring a person of your choice to the interview. If this is not possible, the police will tell you why.
- 2.6 If the police or the Crown Prosecution Service believe that the quality of your evidence may be adversely affected by a vulnerability, they must consider whether you are eligible for support from a Registered Intermediary (see Right 4) and make any other reasonable adjustments based on your needs.

What is a Registered Intermediary?

A Registered Intermediary is a self-employed communication specialist who helps vulnerable victims and witnesses with communication difficulties to give evidence to the police and to the court in criminal trials.

A victim/witness might need the help of a Registered Intermediary because of their age, a learning disability, a mental disorder or a physical disability that affects their ability to communicate. They are often the difference between a witness being able to give evidence or not.

- 2.7 If a medical examination is required for the purposes of the criminal proceedings, these must be kept to a minimum and are subject to your consent.

- 2.8 If you are a victim of sexual violence, gender-based violence or domestic abuse, you have the Right to request that the police officer conducting the interview is of a gender of your choice. The police must meet your request unless doing so would prejudice the fairness of the proceedings. If this happens, the police will tell you why.
- 2.9 If you are considered vulnerable, for example under 18 years of age or intimidated (see Enhanced Rights on page 19 of this Code), the police will ask you, or your parent/guardian, if you would like your police interview to be video recorded to make it easier for you to tell them what happened. This may be presented as your evidence in court. You may also be able to have your court cross-examination evidence pre-recorded at a time earlier and separate to the trial. The police will discuss this option with you. If you do want to give your evidence at the trial, if eligible, a court may allow you to give your evidence and be cross-examined via a live-link room away from the court or a remote site, to minimise the risk of meeting the defendant. However, if you would prefer, you can give your evidence in court. Prosecutors should make witnesses aware that while they can consider how they might like to give evidence, it will be subject to an application to the court and the final decision is made by a judge.

Right 3: To be provided with information when reporting the crime

- 3.1 If you report a crime to the police or have an allegation reported on your behalf, or if you are contacted as a victim in the course of investigations, you have the Right to written confirmation of your allegation. This will include the basic details of the offence, a crime reference number and the contact details of the police officer dealing with your case. The confirmation could be a letter, email, text message, or it could be written by hand.
- 3.2 Where the police consider there may be a risk of harm to you from sending the written confirmation, for example in domestic abuse cases, they must provide confirmation in a way that does not potentially risk your safety.
- 3.3 The police will explain where you can get further information about the criminal justice process and your Rights as a victim. This will include information on where and how to get advice and support. For example, where appropriate and available, how to seek compensation (see Right 5) access to medical support, specialist support, such as psychological support (including pre-trial therapy and counselling), and alternative accommodation. The police will also explain what arrangements are available if you do not live in England and Wales.

Accessing Safe Accommodation

If you are experiencing domestic abuse there are a number of organisations that can provide advice and support on how to access safe accommodation. The National Domestic Abuse Helpline is staffed 24 hours a day, every day of the year, by a dedicated team of experts and can be reached on: 0808 2000 247. The Samaritans is also staffed every day, 24 hours a day, and can be contacted on: 116 123. Alternatively, a range of other services including social services, General Practitioner's, pharmacies, and the Citizens Advice Bureau can provide further information and signpost support in your area.

Further information can be found at: www.gov.uk/report-domestic-abuse. Most domestic abuse support sites have quick exit options for those with limited time. If you are in immediate danger you should contact the police on: 999.

- 3.4 If the offender is an adult, you have the Right to receive information about Restorative Justice from the police and how to access Restorative Justice services in your local area. If the offender is under the age of 18, you have the Right to receive information about Restorative Justice from the Youth Offending Team.²³
- 3.5 Although the police are responsible for providing you with information on Restorative Justice initially, all service providers must consider whether you would benefit from receiving this information at any stage of the criminal justice process.

What is Restorative Justice?

Restorative Justice is a process that brings those harmed by crime, and those responsible for the harm, into communication. It enables everyone affected by a particular incident to play a part in repairing the harm which can be valuable in finding a positive way forward. The communication may take many forms, for some this may mean meeting the offender face-to-face, for others, this could be communicating via letter, recorded interviews or videos. Whichever form of Restorative Justice is most suited to you, trained facilitators will prepare and support you throughout.

Restorative Justice is voluntary for all parties and it must be agreed by all involved, including facilitators, that it is safe and appropriate to proceed. It will only happen if you and the offender, having acknowledged the basic facts of the case, both want to take part. You do not have to take part and you can withdraw at any time. You can ask to participate in Restorative Justice at a time that is right for you. You may be offered the opportunity to take part because the offender has been referred and it is assessed as safe.

- 3.6 All information under this Right must be provided within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code) of reporting the crime.

Right 4: To be referred to services that support victims and have services and support tailored to your needs

Needs Assessments

- 4.1 When you report a crime to the police, you have the Right to be offered support. This will include an assessment of whether you are entitled to receive the Enhanced Rights as set out on page 19 of this Code. The more information you are able to provide during this assessment will ensure that service providers are able to offer help and support that better meets your needs.
- 4.2 Throughout your case, all service providers must give you the opportunity to be re-assessed if you tell them how your needs have changed.
- 4.3 If you are required to attend court to give evidence, you will be offered a separate needs assessment by the Witness Care Unit to determine whether you require any further help and support before the trial and at the court.

Referral to Services that support victims

- 4.4 Services that support victims are there to help you cope and, as far as possible, recover after a crime. Access to support is free, even if the crime hasn't been reported to the police. For further information about the support in your area, contact your local Police and Crime Commissioner²⁴ or visit: www.gov.uk/get-support-as-a-victim-of-crime
- 4.5 If you report a crime to the police, you have the Right to be referred to a service that supports victims, including Restorative Justice services. The police will tell you about all the support services available in your local area. You will be referred to a support service within 2 working days, and these services will endeavour to provide timely access to support based on availability.
- 4.6 If you choose not to report the crime to the police, you still have the Right to access support services at any time. You can contact local support services directly. To search for a support service near you, contact your local Police and Crime Commissioner²⁴ or visit: www.gov.uk/get-support-as-a-victim-of-crime

24 www.apccs.police.uk/find-your-pcc/

4.7 If you are a bereaved close relative, you have the Right to have a Family Liaison Officer assigned to you by the police, where the Senior Investigating Officer considers this to be appropriate (this will happen in most cases). Your Family Liaison Officer will normally act as the single point of contact between you and service providers. If your case involves an allegation of murder or manslaughter, you also have the Right to be referred to the National Homicide Service and any other relevant specialist support service. This offer will normally be made through your Family Liaison Officer.

What is the National Homicide Service?

The National Homicide Service is a free service that provides emotional, practical, specialist and peer support to families bereaved by murder or manslaughter, including after an act of terrorism.

4.8 Depending on your needs and the nature of your case, you may be offered specialist support, for example from an Independent Sexual Violence Advisor or an Independent Domestic Violence Advisor. Your advisor will normally act as your single point of contact throughout the case and communicate with the police, Witness Care Unit and the Crown Prosecution Service on your behalf.

What is the role of an Independent Sexual Violence Advisor or Independent Domestic Violence Advisor?

An Independent Sexual Violence Advisor is an adviser who works with people who have experienced rape and sexual assault, irrespective of whether they have reported to the police.

Independent Domestic Violence Advisors work with victims of domestic abuse to understand their experiences and their risk of ongoing harm. They will develop an individual safety plan with a victim to ensure they have everything they need to become safe and start to rebuild their lives free from abuse. This plan may include supporting victims to access statutory services (such as health care and housing services), representing their voice at a Multi-Agency Risk Assessment Conference and accessing other voluntary services in their communities. Independent Domestic Violence Advisors are independent of statutory services and are able to provide victims with relevant information and advice tailored to their needs.

- 4.9 If you are required to give evidence in court, you have the Right to be offered a referral to a Witness Support Service (see Right 8).

4.10 At the end of your case, regardless of the outcome, you have the Right to be offered a referral to a support service even if you haven't accessed them previously. To search for a service that supports victims near you, contact your local Police and Crime Commissioner²⁵ or visit:
www.gov.uk/get-support-as-a-victim-of-crime

Special Measures

4.11 You have the Right to have your needs assessed by the police or Witness Care Unit to determine whether you are eligible and would benefit from giving evidence using special measures.²⁶ The police or Witness Care Unit will explain what special measures are available and will ask for your views about which you might like to apply for.

25 www.apccs.police.uk/find-your-pcc/

26 The Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 introduced a range of measures that can be used to facilitate the gathering and giving of evidence by vulnerable and intimidated witnesses. The measures are collectively known as 'special measures'. Special measures help to relieve some of the stress associated with giving evidence and apply to prosecution and defence witnesses, but not the defendant.

What are special measures?

Vulnerable or intimidated victims and witnesses can ask for special measures to be used during the trial to help them give their best evidence in court and help to relieve some of the stress associated with giving evidence. If eligible, a court will decide whether special measures should be granted.

Common special measures include: having a screen/curtain around the witness box or giving evidence by live video-link, either from a separate room within the court or a dedicate live-link site outside the court building, so you do not have to face the defendant and court observers.

Other special measures include:

- giving evidence in private with no press or public allowed in the court room;
- removing of wigs and gowns worn by the judge, and the defence and prosecution advocates in the Crown Court;
- the use of communication aids or having the help of an intermediary to understand questions; or
- providing evidence or being cross-examined through pre-recorded video, which means the witness does not need to give evidence at the trial (witnesses are not able to change their minds from pre-recorded to attending trial to give evidence).

4.12 The judge or magistrate will decide whether special measures should be granted following a request from the prosecutor. The Witness Care Unit will tell you the judge's or magistrates' decision (see Right 8) and Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service court staff will ensure that any special measures granted are available for you at court.

Right 5: To be provided with information about compensation

Court ordered compensation

5.1 If the defendant pleads or is found guilty, the judge or magistrate may order them to pay you compensation for any loss, damage or injury caused as a result of the crime. You have the Right to be told by the police how to seek compensation and you may be asked to provide evidence of any loss or damage, for example receipts or quotes for repairing the damage caused during the crime.

Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme

5.2 If you have suffered a serious physical or mental injury as a direct result of a violent crime, you may be entitled to compensation through the Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme (the Scheme).²⁷ The Scheme is for those injured in England, Wales and Scotland. You have the Right to be told by the police how to apply for compensation through the Scheme²⁸ (see Right 3).

27 If you are considering making an application for criminal injuries compensation to the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority, you should be aware that an award will be withheld unless you have cooperated as far as reasonably practicable in bringing the assailant to justice.

28 Eligibility for compensation from the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority may depend on your residency or nationality unless you are conclusively identified by a competent authority as a victim of trafficking in human beings or granted asylum under Immigration Rules made under section 3(2) of the Immigration Act 1971.

- 5.3 The Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority is responsible for administering the Scheme.
- 5.4 Do not delay your application. You must apply as soon as reasonably practical. This should normally be within two years of the date of the incident. The Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority can only extend the time limits where there are exceptional circumstances.²⁹ Different rules apply if you were aged under 18 years of age at the time of the incident. To be eligible for compensation, you will need to meet the wider eligibility criteria set out within the Scheme.
- 5.5 You should not wait for the outcome of a criminal trial to apply. Your claim is not dependent on the conviction of an offender. However, the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority may put your application on hold until you know the outcome of the trial, if they do not have sufficient information to be able to progress your claim.
- 5.6 The Scheme is one of last resort. Where the opportunity exists to pursue compensation elsewhere, you should do so. An award under the Scheme will take account of other compensatory payments made to you, such as court ordered compensation or a civil personal injury award. The Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority may defer making a decision on a claim until you take reasonable steps to seek compensation through other routes available to you and await the outcome of those steps.

²⁹ Due to exceptional circumstances an application could not have been made earlier; and there is evidence available that a crime of violence occurred and a claims officer can make a decision without further extensive enquiries.

- 5.7 Once you have applied, the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority will confirm that your application has been received and respond to all written correspondence regarding your application within 20 working days of it being received.
- 5.8 Having considered your application, you will be provided with information on the Right to review the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority's decision, including the procedure and time limits for reviewing that decision.
- 5.9 Further information about applying for compensation can be found at: www.gov.uk/claim-compensation-criminal-injury, from the police, your local support service, or by contacting the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority on: 0300 003 3601.³⁰
- 5.10 Whilst it is outside of the scope of the Code, UK victims injured in terrorist attacks abroad may also be entitled to compensation through the Victims of Overseas Terrorism Compensation Scheme. Further information about applying for compensation can be found at: www.gov.uk/compensation-victim-terrorist-attack, or by contacting the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority on: 0300 003 3601.³⁰

Civil (non-criminal) compensation

5.11 It may be possible to seek compensation from the suspect or offender outside of the criminal justice process. If you want to consider applying for civil compensation, you should seek legal advice and assistance from a solicitor.

Getting legal advice/assistance on claiming compensation

- 5.12 If you need legal advice and/or assistance you should contact a solicitor. If you are on a low income or benefits you may be able to get Legal Aid to help cover the cost. More information on whether you are eligible for Legal Aid is available at: www.gov.uk/legal-aid
- 5.13 To find a local solicitor you should contact the Law Society at: www.lawsociety.org.uk

Right 6: To be provided with information about the investigation and prosecution

- 6.1 You have the Right to be told by the police when key decisions on the investigation are made and, where applicable, to have the reasons explained to you within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code) of a suspect being:
- arrested;
 - interviewed under caution;
 - released without charge; and
 - released on police bail or under investigation or if police bail conditions are changed or cancelled.
- 6.2 If the police decide not to investigate your case, you will be given an explanation of this decision within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code). The police will also offer you a referral to a support service.
- 6.3 Where the police do investigate your case, they will discuss with you how often you would like to receive updates and your preferred method of contact. You can update your preferences at any time.

- 6.4 The investigation and decision on whether the case should go to court can take a long time and there may be long periods between key decisions. The police will discuss with you if you would like contact during this time and provide you with contact details if you have any questions during the investigation.
- 6.5 There may be times when a service provider is unable to provide you with updates and/or use your preferred method of contact, but in these instances, they will tell you why.
- 6.6 In some cases, the police or the Crown Prosecution Service may decide to deal with the case without taking it to court. This is called an out of court disposal.³¹ This enables the incident to be dealt with relatively quickly and may prove more effective in preventing further offences.
- 6.7 Where the police or the Crown Prosecution Service are considering an out of court disposal you have the Right to be asked for your views and to have these views taken into account when a decision is made. Where this is not possible for practical reasons, the police or the Crown Prosecution Service will tell you why.
- 6.8 The police or the Crown Prosecution Service will take the final decision after considering the full circumstances of the offence and your views. You have the Right to be told the reasons for their decision within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code) of an out of court disposal being given to the offender.

31 Alternatives to prosecution, such as cautions, conditional cautions and penalty notices for disorder, intended for dealing with low-level, often first-time offending, where prosecution would not be in the public interest.

6.9 When the police have finished their investigation, they may decide what should happen next or, for more serious crimes, pass the information to the Crown Prosecution Service, who will then decide if there is enough evidence to take the case to court.

6.10 If the police or the Crown Prosecution Service decide not to prosecute the suspect, you have the Right to be told within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code) of the decision of:

- the reasons for the decision;
- how you can get further information;
- how to seek a review and make representations under the National Police Chiefs' Council or the Crown Prosecution Service Victims' Right to Review scheme;³² and
- how to be referred to a support service.

6.11 If you are unhappy with a police or a Crown Prosecution Service decision not to prosecute the suspect, you have the Right to ask for a review under the National Police Chiefs' Council or Crown Prosecution Service Victims' Right to Review schemes.

32 Other service providers (listed on page 15 of this Code) will explain how to ask for a review through their own scheme.

What is the Victims' Right to Review Scheme?

The Victims' Right to Review Scheme gives victims of crime a Right to request a review of a police or Crown Prosecution Service decision not to prosecute, or to stop the case.

Police

The Victims' Right to Review Scheme gives victims the Right to ask for a review of a police decision not to prosecute³³ a suspect. This applies to cases in which a suspect has been identified and interviewed under caution, either after an arrest or voluntarily. You have the Right to request a review if the police decide:

- not to bring proceedings in cases where they have authority to charge; or where
- the case doesn't meet the test for referring the matter to the Crown Prosecution Service for a charging decision.

33 Victims' Right to Review specifically relates to decisions not to prosecute. It doesn't cover crime-recording decisions or decisions not to continue with enquiries.

Crown Prosecution Service

The Victims' Right to Review Scheme gives victims the Right to seek a review of a Crown Prosecution Service decision not to bring charges or to terminate all proceedings. Under the scheme you can seek a review of the following decisions:

- not to charge;
- to discontinue (or withdraw in the Magistrates' Court) all charges, thereby ending all proceedings;
- to offer no evidence in all proceedings; or
- to leave all charges in the proceedings to 'lie on the file' (this is the term used in circumstances where the Crown Prosecution Service makes a decision not to proceed and requests that the charges be allowed 'to lie on the file' marked 'not to be proceeded with without the leave of this Court or the Court of Appeal').

6.12 If you are a victim in a specified case³⁴ where the Crown Prosecution Service tells you of a decision not to charge a suspect, you have the Right to be offered a meeting unless the Crown Prosecution Service decides that a meeting should not take place. On the rare occasions where the Crown Prosecution Service decide that a meeting is not appropriate, this decision will be explained to you.

34 Specified cases where victims are entitled to meet with the Crown Prosecution Service are: child abuse; sexual offences; racially and religiously aggravated offences; offences with a homophobic or transphobic element; offences aggravated by hostility based on disability; and cases motivated by hostility based on age.

6.13 If the suspect is charged with an offence(s), you have the Right to be told by the police within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code) of:

- the offence they are charged with;
- the date, time and location of the first court hearing; and
- where the suspect is released on police bail to appear in court, any bail conditions and any changes to these bail conditions.

6.14 If you are a bereaved close relative in a qualifying case³⁵ you have the Right to be offered a meeting with the Crown Prosecution Service prior to or following a decision about whether or not to charge a suspect. If a decision is made to charge, the Crown Prosecution Service will explain how the case is likely to progress and answer any questions that you may have. The Crown Prosecution Service will also discuss your needs and jointly agree how regularly you will receive updates.

35 The cases where bereaved families are entitled to meet with the Crown Prosecution Service are: murder, manslaughter, corporate manslaughter, familial homicide, causing death by dangerous driving, causing death by careless driving while unfit through drink or drugs, causing death by careless driving or through inconsiderate driving, causing death by driving whilst unlicensed, disqualified or uninsured and aggravated vehicle taking where death is caused.

6.15 If, after the suspect has been charged with an offence(s), the Crown Prosecution Service decides to stop a charge and proceed with another, make a big change to a charge or stop the case, you have the Right to be told the reason why and, where the decision is to stop the case, how to ask for a review under the Crown Prosecution Services' Victims' Right to Review Scheme, if you disagree with their decision.

Right 7: To make a Victim Personal Statement

- 7.1 You have the Right to make a Victim Personal Statement depending on personal needs and circumstances, to explain in your own words how a crime has affected you, whether physically, emotionally, financially or in any other way. This is different from a witness statement. The Victim Personal Statement is considered by the judge or magistrate when determining what sentence the defendant should receive and can also help service providers to consider what additional support you and/or your family may require.
- 7.2 If you are a bereaved close relative, you have the Right to make a Victim Personal Statement and the Right to have someone with you when you do so, regardless of whether you have made a witness statement.
- 7.3 To help you decide whether you wish to make one, you have the Right to be provided with information about the Victim Personal Statement process by the police when reporting a crime. If you decide to make a personal statement, you will be asked for your preference about whether you would like to read your statement aloud in court or to have it read on your behalf. You can also request a copy from the police and will be given an opportunity to make an additional personal statement to reflect the changing impact of the crime.

- 7.4 If the defendant pleads guilty, or is found guilty, and you have asked that your statement is read aloud (or played) in court, the judge or magistrate will decide whether and what sections of your personal statement should be read aloud (or played), and who should read it. The judge or magistrate will always take your preference into account when making their decision, unless there is good reason not to do so. The Witness Care Unit will let you know the judge's or magistrates' decision.
- 7.5 You do not have to read your Victim Personal Statement yourself or have it read on your behalf. If at first you choose to have your personal statement read aloud but later decide you do not want this, you can change your mind. Your personal statement will be considered by the judge or magistrate in the same way, whether or not it is read (or played) aloud in court.
- 7.6 In addition to the named point of contact for a business being able to make a Victim Personal Statement, businesses of all sizes can make an Impact Statement for Business. This is similar to a Victim Personal Statement and will be used in the same way in court, but allows the business to explain how a crime has affected it, such as direct financial loss, operational disruption or reputational damage.
- 7.7 The named point of contact has the Right to be provided information about the Impact Statement for Business process by the police when reporting the crime, to help them decide whether the business wishes to make one.

- 7.8 Further information about the Victim Personal Statement and Business Impact Statement process is available from the police and at: www.gov.uk/government/publications/victim-personal-statement

When can I make a Victim Personal Statement?

You can make a Victim Personal Statement at any time prior to sentencing of the offender, however you may not have an opportunity to make it once the court hearing has started, especially if the defendant pleads guilty.

For many victims, the best time to make a Victim Personal Statement is when they are told that the suspect has been charged and the full impact of the crime may be clearer. The police may still ask for details of the initial impact when conducting your needs assessment or taking your witness statement.

Can I change my mind or update my Victim Personal Statement?

Once you have made a Victim Personal Statement, it becomes part of the court papers and you cannot withdraw or change it. However, if you remember something important, or feel that the impact of the crime on you has changed, you may make another statement.

Will the defendant be able to see my Victim Personal Statement?

If the case reaches court, the defendant will usually be allowed to read your personal statement. As with other evidence, if the court agrees it is relevant to the case, the defence can ask you questions about the contents of your personal statement. If your statement is read aloud in court, what is said could be reported by the media.

Further questions or help recording your Victim Personal Statement

If you have questions about making a Victim Personal Statement, how it will be used or what to include, you can speak with the police, Witness Care Unit or a support service for victims of crime. They can also help you to record it.

Victim Personal Statements in parole hearings or tariff review³⁶ hearings

7.9 You can ask that your original Victim Personal Statement be used at tariff review hearings and at Parole Board hearings. However, you are entitled to write a new Victim Personal Statement for these hearings, where you are able explain how the crime continues to affect you and/or your family, and the impact that any outcome at one of these hearings may have on you. Different rules apply to a Victim Personal Statement made to the Parole Board, (see Right 11).

36 The minimum term of those offenders detained at Her Majesty's Pleasure can be reviewed by the High Court once the offender has served half of their original minimum term, in light of progress and development made by the offender. This reflects the fact that young people change more rapidly than adults, in a way that may not have been fully apparent at the time of sentencing. Victims or the family of a deceased victim may submit a Victim Personal Statement to the High Court.

Right 8: To be given information about the trial, trial process and your role as a witness

8.1 If the case goes to court, you have the Right to be told by the Witness Care Unit within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code) of them receiving the information from the court, which will be within 5 working days of the outcome of the relevant hearing:

- the time, date and location of any hearing (within 1 working day for all victims);
- the outcome of any bail hearing (and relevant bail conditions, any relevant changes to these bail conditions and the reasons for those changes);
- if an arrest warrant has been issued for the suspect and the outcome of a hearing if the suspect is re-arrested; and
- the outcome of any hearing if the suspect has been re-arrested.

8.2 If the suspect pleads not guilty and you are required to attend court, you have the Right to:

- be told by the Witness Care Unit if you are required to give evidence within 1 working day (for all victims)

of them receiving the information from the Crown Prosecution Service;

- have your needs assessed and be offered a referral to a witness support service who can arrange a visit to the court before the trial date to familiarise yourself with the building, or another support service (see Right 4); and
- be told of the outcome of any special measures application (see Right 4).

8.3 If you are required to give evidence, you will be able to refresh your memory by reading (or watching where it has been recorded) your witness statement. Where possible, if the court allows, the prosecutor will meet you before you go into court to explain what will happen and answer any questions you may have.

8.4 If you are a bereaved close relative, you have the Right to request, from your Family Liaison Officer or Witness Care Unit, a visit to the court before the trial date to familiarise yourself with the building, regardless of whether you are required to give evidence. You also have the Right to be offered a meeting with the Crown Prosecution Service prosecutor or advocate who will be presenting the case in court. This meeting will usually take place shortly before the trial and is an opportunity for you to be introduced and to ask any questions that you may have.

- 8.5 When attending court, and where possible, you will be able to enter through a different entrance to the defendant and wait in a separate waiting area before and after your case has been heard. Some court buildings do not currently have separate entrances for victims, however, where informed, Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service staff will make arrangements to ensure that you do not have to see the defendant on arrival.
- 8.6 During the trial, you may have to wait to give evidence, Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service court staff will give you a contact point at the court (who may be a member of a witness support service) to keep you updated on the progress of the trial and they or the Crown Prosecution Service prosecutor or advocate will tell you how long you will likely need to wait.
- 8.7 Sometimes you may need to come back to court on another day, if this happens, Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service court staff or the Crown Prosecution Service prosecutor or advocate will tell you why.

Help when attending court

Having to attend court can be a worrying experience for any victim. However, you will be contacted by the Witness Care Unit before the trial.

As well as providing the Rights listed in paragraphs 8.1, 8.2 and 8.4, they can also provide practical guidance and advice to help you. This includes:

- being told about what to expect in court and answer any questions you might have about the court process;
- if the victim is under 18, being given information for young witnesses;
- being offered help with directions to the court and planning and/or arranging travel or accommodation;
- being offered help arranging child care or additional support to allow you to attend court;
- being given information about claiming witness expenses and allowances;
- being referred to the Crown Prosecution Service, who will answer any questions you may have about the sentence which the Witness Care Unit is not able to answer; and
- being offered a referral to services that support victims before, during or after you have attended court.

Right 9: To be given information about the outcome of the case and any appeals

- 9.1 At the end of the case, you have the Right to be told the outcome, including where available, a brief summary of reasons for the decision,³⁷ by the Witness Care Unit, within 1 working day of them receiving the information from the court, which will be within 5 working days of the outcome of the case.
- 9.2 If the defendant is convicted (found guilty), you have the Right to be told the sentence they received, including a short explanation about the meaning and effect of the sentence, by the Witness Care Unit, within 1 working day of them receiving the information from the court, which will be within 5 working days of the outcome of the case. If you have any questions about the sentence which the Witness Care Unit are unable to answer, you have the Right to be referred to the Crown Prosecution Service, who will answer any questions which the Witness Care Unit is not able to answer.

³⁷ The Witness Care Unit will be unable to provide an explanation if the offender has been found not guilty by a jury, because the jury do not have to provide reasons for their decision.

9.3 If you are a bereaved close relative, you have the Right to be offered a meeting with the Crown Prosecution Service:

- following conviction, but before the sentencing hearing of the defendant, to confirm that a Victim Personal Statement has been made or to confirm that it is up to date (this meeting will usually take place at court);
- following the sentencing hearing to explain the sentence given (this meeting will usually take place at court);
- in cases where the defendant is found not guilty or is convicted of a less serious charge the offer of a meeting will be made a few weeks after the case has concluded, unless the Crown Prosecution Service decide that this is inappropriate. On the rare occasions where they decide that a meeting is not appropriate, this decision will be explained to you. The actual timing of the meeting will be informed by the wishes of the family and you will be contacted to discuss when it should take place; and
- in a murder case where all defendants are found not guilty of all charges, the police and Crown Prosecution Service will follow the process set out in the National Standards of Support for bereaved families. The National Standards of Support are available on the Crown Prosecution Service website at: www.cps.gov.uk and a copy is provided by the police to bereaved families as part of the police bereavement pack.

If you think the sentence given to the offender is far too low

- 9.4 For some (but not all) cases sentenced in the Crown Court you can ask³⁸ the Attorney General³⁹ to refer the sentence to the Court of Appeal to reconsider it. This can only be done if the Attorney General thinks that the sentence was not just lenient but ‘unduly lenient’,⁴⁰ such that the sentencing judge made a gross error or imposed a sentence outside the range of sentences reasonably available in the circumstances of the case.
- 9.5 If the Attorney General considers that the sentence meets the standard of being ‘unduly lenient’, the case is referred to the Court of Appeal. The Attorney General must consider the matter as soon as possible after sentence and no later than the 28th calendar day after the sentence was imposed (in business hours and with sufficient time for consideration). If the Court of Appeal agrees, it may increase the sentence.
- 9.6 The Witness Care Unit will tell you about the scheme, when you are told the sentence in the case.

38 The Crown Prosecution Service may also contact the Attorney General if they have concerns about the sentence.

39 The Attorney General is chief legal adviser to the Crown and has a number of independent public interest functions, as well as overseeing the Law Officers’ departments.

40 A sentence is ‘unduly lenient’ if it falls outside the normal range of sentences the judge could have reasonably considered appropriate.

If the offender appeals

9.7 Sometimes the offender will ask the court to look at the case or the sentence again. This is called an appeal. What will happen next will depend on whether the offender is allowed to appeal and if so, the outcome of that appeal.

If an application is made to the Crown Court to appeal against a conviction or sentence in the Magistrates' Court

9.8 If the offender appeals to the Crown Court, you have the Right to be told by the Witness Care Unit within 1 working day of them receiving the information from the court, which will be within 5 working days of the outcome of the hearing:

- that a notice of appeal has been made;
- the date, time and location of any hearing; and
- the outcome of the appeal, including any changes to the original sentence.

9.9 If you wish to attend the appeal, you have the Right for court staff to arrange for you to:

- wherever possible wait and be seated in court in an area separate from the offender and their family and friends;
- be provided with a contact point at the Crown Court; and
- receive information about services that support victims where appropriate and available.

If an application is made to appeal against a conviction or sentence to the Court of Appeal, or an application or appeal is made to the UK Supreme Court in a criminal case on a point of law

9.10 If the offender appeals to the Court of Appeal or UK Supreme Court, you have the Right to be told by the Witness Care Unit within 5 working days (1 working day under Enhanced Rights – see page 19 of this Code) of them receiving the information from the court, which will be within 5 working days of the outcome of the relevant hearing:

- if the offender has been given permission to appeal against the conviction, sentence or point of law;
- the date, time and location of any hearing, and any changes to this information (within 1 working day for all victims);
- if the offender is to be released on bail pre-appeal or if the bail conditions have been changed (within 1 working day for all victims);
- the name of a contact for the Criminal Appeal Office or UK Supreme Court staff;
- the outcome of the appeal, including any changes to the original sentence, and
- how to request a copy from the Criminal Appeal Office or UK Supreme Court staff of the court's judgment in the case once it has been published.

- 9.11 If you wish to attend the appeal, you have the Right for court staff or UK Supreme Court staff to arrange for:
- wherever possible, to wait and be seated in court in an area separate from the offender and their family and friends; and
 - special arrangements to be made for you if the offender is present and you do not wish to sit in the courtroom (it is rare for the offender to attend hearings in the Supreme Court).
- 9.12 Following a decision to give the offender permission to appeal, if you are a bereaved close relative, you have the Right to be offered a meeting with the Crown Prosecution Service to explain the nature of the appeal and the court processes.
- 9.13 In determining an appeal against a sentence, the court will always take into account any Victim Personal Statement that was considered by the sentencing court.
- 9.14 It is not normally necessary for a further personal statement to be provided to the Court of Appeal. However, if there is information that the court should know about the continuing impact the crime has had on you, a new or further Victim Personal Statement may be sent to the Court through the police or the Crown Prosecution Service.

Criminal Cases Review Commission

- 9.15 The Criminal Cases Review Commission investigates alleged miscarriages of criminal justice in England, Wales and Northern Ireland. An offender can apply to the Commission to review their convictions and/or sentence if there is some new information or new argument which might mean the conviction is unsafe or the sentence too long.
- 9.16 The Commission, when reviewing a case, will assess the potential impact on you and decide if you should be notified.
- 9.17 The Commission will not usually try to contact you just because they have received an application. This is because most reviews will not lead to a referral to the Court of Appeal, and therefore there is no need to warn you that the offender has applied. However, the Commission will tell you if they think there is a reasonable chance that you may find out that they are looking at a case through the media or through another source. The Commission will usually work with the police to notify you of an application and will contact you again when a decision has been made on whether they refer the case.
- 9.18 If the Commission decides that it is not appropriate to contact you during the review, but subsequently decides to refer the conviction or sentence to the courts, the Commission will try their best to contact you before the case is referred for an appeal.

Right 10: To be paid expenses and have property returned

- 10.1 If you attend court⁴¹ to give evidence, you have the Right to claim certain expenses from the Crown Prosecution Service,⁴² for example, for travel, child care, loss of earnings, refreshments and meals (further details are available on the Crown Prosecution Service website at: www.cps.gov.uk). The Witness Care Unit will be able to help if you have any questions about claiming expenses.
- 10.2 The Crown Prosecution Service will pay any expenses due to you within 10 working days of receiving a correctly completed claim form.
- 10.3 If the police took any of your property as evidence, you have the Right to get it back as soon as it is no longer required. The police will be able to help if you have any questions about the return of your property.

41 If you attend a prison to present your Victim Personal Statement to the Parole Board panel you are eligible to claim certain expenses from the Parole Board, for example, for travel, or refreshments and meals. Your Victim Liaison Officer will be able to help if you have any questions about claiming these expenses.

42 Other service providers responsible for prosecuting an offence must have rules under which victims have the possibility of reimbursement of expenses incurred from attending court to give evidence.

Right 11: To be given information about the offender following a conviction

The Victim Contact Scheme

- 11.1 If you are the victim or a bereaved family relative and the offender was convicted of a specified violent or sexual offence,⁴³ and sentenced to 12 months or more in prison⁴⁴ (or detained in a hospital for treatment under the Mental Health Act 1983 with or without a restriction order⁴⁵), you have the Right to be automatically referred within 10 working days of sentencing to the National Probation Service Victim Contact Scheme and be assigned a Victim Liaison Officer. The Victim Liaison Officer will contact you within 20 working days of the referral.
- 11.2 Where you choose to receive the Victims Contact Scheme, you are entitled to receive information at key stages of the offender's sentence (see 11.3). You may opt-out and opt back in to the Victims Contact Scheme at any time whilst the offender is serving their sentence/hospital order.

43 As defined in section 45(2) of the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004.

44 Prison in this case can mean any place the person is liable to be detained, including for example a Young Offenders Institution.

45 Restrictions will be placed on a patient if the court considers that this is necessary for the protection of others from serious harm. The Secretary of State is involved in the management of 'Restricted patients'. This means that the Secretary of State will make decisions about the offender's rehabilitation. 'Non-Restricted patients' are managed by clinicians, and hospital managers.

11.3 The Victim Liaison Officer will tell you:

- what the sentence of the court means in terms of the offender's detention in prison or hospital, and if there are any changes to their sentence;
- when an offender in prison becomes eligible to be considered for a transfer to open conditions;
- if a prisoner moves to open conditions;
- when an offender is being considered for release or for conditional discharge;
- when the offender is released, or discharged from hospital, and if they are recalled to prison or hospital;
- how to make a Victim Personal Statement where it falls to the Parole Board to decide whether to direct the release of the offender from prison;
- how to apply to read your Victim Personal Statement to the Parole Board, or have it read out on your behalf, or make a pre-recording in those cases where the Parole Board holds an oral hearing;
- how to apply for licence/discharge conditions to reduce the chances of you encountering the offender in the community, or to prohibit them from contacting you;
- about any licence/discharge conditions that relate to you and the date they will end or where a request to change or remove them has been made;
- how to ask for a summary of the Parole Board's decision and how to seek to make representations where the Parole Board decides the offender is safe to release;
- if the offender escapes or absconds from custody;

- how to ask for information should the offender be convicted of a most serious offence (see 11.18 – 11.19); and
- how to make a reconsideration request (where eligible) (see 11.9 – 11.10).

11.4 In addition to the statutory offences where the Victims Contact Scheme is offered, the National Probation Service will also offer victims access to the scheme where the offender is sentenced to 12 months or more in prison (or detained in a hospital for treatment under the Mental Health Act 1983 with or without a restriction order) for:

- Causing Death by Careless or Inconsiderate Driving (Road Traffic Act 1988);
- Causing Serious Injury by Dangerous Driving (Road Traffic Act 1988); or
- Controlling or coercive behaviour in an intimate or family relationship (Serious Crime Act 2015).

Victims of offenders who are under 18 years old

11.5 If the offender in your case is under the age of 18 and you are not eligible for the Victims Contact Scheme, the Youth Offending Team may contact you directly. This is in cases where a young offender is sentenced to less than 12 months in custody, 12 months or more for a non-sexual or non-violent offence or a community-based order. A community-based order puts conditions on an offender serving a sentence in the community rather than prison.

- 11.6 The Youth Offending Team may seek your views prior to sentencing and explore whether you want to get involved in any Restorative Justice initiatives (see Right 3), where appropriate and available.
- 11.7 You have the Right to receive the following information from the Youth Offending Team:
- information about the progress of the offender's case upon request; and
 - information on appropriate services that support victims if you ask for additional support.

The Parole Board

- 11.8 The Parole Board⁴⁶ must:
- consider all representations that victims have made about licence conditions; where a victim has requested a licence condition which has not been included, or has been amended, and provide an explanation for this non-inclusion or amendment;
 - read a Victim Personal Statement if one is submitted;
 - consider any application by the victim to be permitted to attend the hearing and read their Victim Personal Statement or have it read by someone else on their behalf;

46 The majority of prisoners are released automatically without any involvement from the Parole Board. The main categories of prisoner the Parole Board is responsible for considering the suitability for release of are: a), extended determinate sentence prisoners who can be released on licence after having served a specified part of their sentence in custody, b) indeterminate sentence prisoners such as those serving a life sentence or Imprisonment for Public Protection, and c) standard determinate sentence prisoners who have been recalled to custody after having breached their licence conditions.

- unless there is a good reason for not doing so, agree to the statement being read at the hearing by the victim or someone else on their behalf; and
- provide a summary of the parole decision upon application, unless there is a good reason for not doing so.⁴⁷

The Parole Board and Victim Personal Statements

When can I make a Victim Personal Statement to the Parole Board?

You can make a new Victim Personal Statement any time leading up to the parole review, but it must be submitted in good time in order for the Parole Board to read it. If there is to be a parole oral hearing the Victim Personal Statement should be submitted at least eight weeks in advance. A parole hearing is unlikely to be delayed to allow for a late Victim Personal Statement to be submitted.

Can I change my mind or update my Victim Personal Statement?

You can update your Victim Personal Statement or write a new one, but you will need to withdraw a previous version first. You can write a new statement for each parole review that may take place.

47 For example, where it might put someone – the offender, victim or other person, at risk.

Will the offender be able to see my Victim Personal Statement?

The overriding principle is that the offender will see all information related to the parole review, unless in very exceptional circumstances the Parole Board agrees not to disclose it to the offender. This practice is consistent with the fundamental principles of our criminal justice system. However, if you do not wish the offender to read your statement you may ask your Victim Liaison Officer to apply for the statement to be withheld, under a non-disclosure application. There are rules about this which will need to be followed, including strict timeframes for making a request (eight weeks ahead of an oral hearing) and specific reasons for when information can be withheld, which are set out in the Parole Board Rules 2019. The final decision lies with the Parole Board. If the Board agrees not to disclose your Victim Personal Statement, the prisoner's solicitor may still have sight of it, although he/she may be required not to disclose it to the prisoner.

If you request non-disclosure and the Parole Board turns it down, you may withdraw your Victim Personal Statement.

Further questions or help recording your Victim Personal Statement

If you have questions about making a Victim Personal Statement, how it will be used or what to include, you can speak to your Victim Liaison Officer. They can also help you to record your personal statement.

Asking for a parole decision to be reviewed⁴⁸ (Reconsideration Mechanism)

11.9 The Parole Board considers certain offenders for parole (release on licence) or re-release following recall and does so based on their risk of harm to the public.

11.10 If the Parole Board decides it is safe to release an offender the decision is provisional for 21⁴⁹ calendar days in the majority of cases (except standard determinate recalls⁵⁰). The Secretary of State may ask the Parole Board to reconsider the decision during this period, if he has an arguable case that:

- the correct process was not followed in the review of the offender for parole - for example, important evidence was not taken into account; or
- the decision was irrational - the decision cannot be justified based on the evidence of risk that was considered.

As a victim, you may submit a request to the Secretary of State asking that an application for reconsideration is made, if you believe that the decision meets either of these tests. Your request must be submitted within the

48 <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/challenge-a-parole-decision>

49 In exceptional circumstance requests can be made to shorten this period, if this happens victims will be informed.

50 A determinate prison sentence is for a fixed length of time. The prisoner will spend the first half or two-thirds (depending on the overall length of the sentence and offence) of the sentence in prison and the remaining portion in the community 'on licence'. If they breach any licence conditions, for example they demonstrate poor behaviour which increases their risk, they could be recalled back to prison to serve the remainder of the sentence.

21-day provisional window. The Secretary of State will only do so where there is evidence the criteria is met. You will receive a letter informing you of whether the Secretary of State makes an application for reconsideration or not.

Sexual Offender Notification Requirements Review Process

- 11.11 Registered sex offenders are subject to 'notification requirements'. This means they must tell the police about some of their personal details. The notification requirements are an automatic consequence of a conviction or caution, for a Schedule 3 offence under the Sexual Offences Act 2003, but the length of time an offender will be subject to the requirements will vary dependent upon the sentence they are given. A breach of the notification requirements is a criminal offence and is punishable by up to five years imprisonment.
- 11.12 Offenders who are subject to notification requirements for life can apply to have this reviewed after a set period of time following their first notification, which usually takes place at release from prison. The set period of time is 15 years for adults and 8 years for juveniles. If the offender makes such an application, the police will then carry out a review, including a risk assessment to decide whether the offender's notification requirements may be stopped. Sex offenders who are assessed as still being a risk will remain subject to notification requirements and will do so for life if necessary.

11.13 If you are a victim of an offender who makes such an application, you have the Right to be contacted by the police to provide your views on the application as part their review. Your Victim Liaison Officer will provide you with further information about this process.

Foreign National Offenders

11.14 If you have been a victim of a crime committed by a foreign national and the offender:

- has received a prison sentence of 12 months or more, or a hospital order, for an offence against you;
- was recommended by a court for deportation for an offence against you; or
- was sentenced to a period in prison for a violent or sexual offence.

then you have the Right to receive information about the offender's deportation. You can choose not to receive this information. The National Probation Service (Victim Liaison Officer and Offender Managers) must take all reasonable steps to work with the immigration authorities to ensure, as far as possible, that information about the prisoner's immigration status and any deportation information is passed on to victims.

11.15 If you have been the victim of a crime as set out in 11.14, your Victim Liaison Officer assigned by the Victims Contact Scheme (see 11.1) will be able to obtain updates from the Home Office on your behalf.

11.16 If you are not eligible for the Victims Contact Scheme or have opted out of the scheme, but you meet the criteria (see 11.14) you have the Right to ask for updates regarding the immigration case of the Foreign National Offender directly from the Home Office's Victim Support Team.

11.17 The Home Office Victim Support Team can tell you:

- whether the Home Office intends to take deportation action against the offender;
- the final outcome of any appeal against deportation;
- when the offender is going to be released from immigration detention;
- when the offender has been deported; or
- if the offender is not being deported and if possible, the reasons why.

Serious Further Offence Reviews

11.18 In the event that an offender commits a Serious Further Offence⁵¹ while they are under statutory supervision by the provider of probation services, or shortly after this supervision has ended, the provider of probation services will carry out a Serious Further Offence Review, to investigate how the case was managed and whether or not there are any improvements that need to be made to manage future cases.

51 An offence listed in Annex C to Probation Instruction 15/2014 'Notification and review procedures for serious further offences' (as amended from time to time). These are currently all serious violent or sexual offences which attract a maximum of 14 years imprisonment or an indeterminate sentence.

11.19 In the most serious cases, providers of probation services will offer to share the findings of a Serious Further Offence Review with the victim or their families following conviction of the offender. If this occurs you have the Right to be contacted by your Victim Liaison Officer, to be asked whether you would like to meet with a senior manager from the provider of probation services to talk about the findings of the Serious Further Offence Review, and if you would like a copy of the report.

Right 12: To make a complaint about your Rights not being met

- 12.1 If you believe that you have not received any of your Rights under this Code, you can make a complaint. In the first instance, and if you feel comfortable doing so, you should discuss your complaint with the person you have been dealing with at the relevant service provider.
- 12.2 If you remain unhappy, or if you do not feel comfortable discussing the complaint with the person you have been dealing with, you can make a complaint through the service provider's internal complaints' procedure.⁵² They will provide you with information about their complaints procedure and respond within the timescales set out in this procedure.
- 12.3 If you send your complaint to the wrong service provider or it needs to be dealt with by more than one service provider, they will let you know.

⁵² Service providers must have a clearly identified complaints process through which victims can make a complaint if their Rights under this Code have not been met.

- 12.4 If you are still not satisfied after you have finished the service provider's complaints procedure, or they are taking too long to get back to you, you can ask your Member of Parliament to refer your complaint to the Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman. The Ombudsman will consider any complaints referred to them and, where appropriate, undertake an independent investigation.
- 12.5 Further information about making a complaint to the Ombudsman can be found on their website at: www.ombudsman.org.uk or by calling their Customer Helpline on: 0345 015 4033.⁵³

⁵³ Monday – Thursday, 8.30am - 5.00pm, and Friday, 8.30am – 12:00pm.
