This appendix documents the food groups used in dietary surveys such as NDNS which have been adapted for DNSIYC. Some food groups are historical and therefore no longer used and new food groups have been created to replace them, i.e. food group 1A was originally all pasta dishes and then became food group 1D and 1E to separate commercial and homemade pasta dishes, and in other cases new sub category food groups have been added i.e. food group 13A (infant formula) and 52R (commercial toddler foods). These sub categories are specific to DNSIYC to account for the different types of foods consumed in this age group.

- Food groups are expressed as integers
- Subsidiary food groups are integers with alphabetical suffix
