The Authors

Claire Durrant has been jointly responsible for managing the LA Omnibus Survey with her colleague Elaine Winter since Wave 6 in 2001. She joined GfK NOP in 1996, having previously worked for MORI, where she worked for seven years in the Social Research Unit, and before that, the Gallup Organisation. At GfK NOP she has worked on a wide variety of studies for central government, as well as local authorities and academics. This includes the British Household Panel Study and the Home On-Line Study, both run by the Institute for Social and Economic Research (ISER), based at the University of Essex, as well as other studies for the Department for Work and Pensions, including the Maternity Rights and Benefits Survey among employers and parents. She has also co-managed projects for Jobcentre Plus in recent years.

Elaine Winter joined NOP as a graduate trainee in 1988, having gained a degree in Geography from the University of Newcastle-upon-Tyne. She has worked on a wide variety of studies but has specialised in managing longitudinal and employment/benefit policy surveys. Her experience includes managing a seven-year cohort study of the effects of benefit policy change on lone parents for PSI and a panel survey with the unemployed and those on low incomes researching the introduction of the Earnings-Top-Up benefit, also for PSI. In addition to these surveys Elaine works regularly for local government clients and has co-managed projects for Jobcentre Plus.

Elaine and Claire were assisted with the management of the LA Omnibus Survey by their colleague, Darren Yaxley (Research Manager) who joined GfK NOP in 2004 from the National Centre for Social Research having graduated from the University of Birmingham with a BA (with honours) in Political Science in July 2003. Since joining GfK NOP's social research team Darren has worked extensively for various public sector organisations, including both central and local government clients, using a variety of data collection methods. Darren has worked on 12 waves of the Local Authority Omnibus since joining. Darren is a full member the Market Research Society (MRS) and a member of the Social Research Association (SRA).
