FOREWORD

NATURE CONSERVANCY COUNCIL

Statement of account prepared pursuant to paragraph 18 of Schedule 3 to the Nature Conservancy Council Act 1973

1. Funding

The Nature Conservancy Council was established "for the purposes of nature conservation and fostering the understanding thereof". It is financed by Grant in Aid from the Department of the Environment (Class VIII, Vote 4). The grant for 1979-80, originally £6,848,000, was increased to £7,300,000 in the autumn, in respect of pay rises and in recognition of Council's difficulties in financing some £300,000 of the cost of the Ribble Estuary Site from the normal budget, and increased again late in the year to £8,000,000 to provide for the special purchase of Scotland Lodge Farm, including Parsonage Down (see paragraph 3). Management activities on National Nature Reserves produced receipts of £124,519 and other receipts amounted to £297,952. Income from all sources thus totalled about £8.4 millions compared with £10 millions in 1978-79. The supplementary grant of £1.6 millions (see foreword to 1978-79 Account) was not available in 1979-80. In consequence there was an all-round reduction in activities.

(i) Salaries and superannuation £4,056,073

In conformity with Government policy a reduction in staff numbers of approximately 7 per cent was achieved during the year by natural wastage. Note 1 to the Income and Expenditure Account gives information on the remuneration of Council Members.

(ii) Maintenance of Nature Reserves (net) £232,453

The financial stringencies allowed only essential maintenance to be undertaken. Continuing remedial work at Coed Tremadoc NNR following a rock fall in the winter of 1977 accounted for £138,189. Payments made under section 15 of the Countryside Act 1968 amounted to £25,170 during the year. Other expenditure was offset by a significant increase in receipts, £124,519 compared with £79,015 the previous year.

(iii) Publicity £79,179

Expenditure, significantly reduced from 1978-79, includes the production costs of priced publications, priced and free leaflets, displays, wall-charts and posters relating to general nature conservation topics and to the management of National Nature Reserves and their use by visitors.

(iv) Research £949,946

This heading covers commissioned research and contracted field survey work only. Details of the research programme are given in the 6th Report of the Nature Conservancy Council laid before Parliament under paragraph 17(2) of Schedule 3 of the Nature Conservancy Council Act 1973.

(v) Grants £167,834

Expenditure on Capacity Grants, £133,625, and management projects, £34,209, arose solely from commitments initiated the previous year.

3. Capital expenditure £1,232,725

The total cost of land purchased for declaration as National Nature Reserves during the year was approximately £926,000. The most outstanding purchase was Scotland Lodge Farm, including Parsonage Down, in Wiltshire. The generosity of the will of Mr. R. Wales, late of Scotland Lodge Farm and a special supplementary grant of £670,000 from the Department of the Environment, enabled Council to acquire the 1,000 acre farm, containing 706 acres of permanent chalk grassland classified as a site of special scientific interest, as a going concern. Land of lesser conservation interest will be sold to repay the special supplementary grant. The gift element of the bequest is referred to in paragraph 4 below.

Other purchases, originally in the 1978-79 programme, but delayed by the purchase of the Ribble site, included further land at the Lizard, Cornwall and extensions to NNRs at Wye and Crundale, Kent, Derbyshire Dales and Wybunbury Moss, Cheshire. Significant expenditure other than purchases for NNRs included work on a new headquarters for Wales (£114,637) and the acquisition of a warden's house in the Derbyshire Dales. No new proposals were approved during the year.

4. Gifts to the NCC

Gifts and bequests provide a welcome addition to funds for nature conservation and donors are exempt from Capital Transfer Tax on such gifts. The bequest of the late Mr. R. Wales (paragraph 3 above) enabled the Nature Conservancy Council to acquire Scotland Lodge Farm, including Parsonage Down, in Wiltshire, on behalf of the nation. The actual cost to the Nature Conservancy Council inclusive of fees and expenses, though not yet finalised, is expected to be £732,465. The farm and the live and deadstock purchased have been valued at £1,741,481. The value of this most generous bequest is therefore assessed at £1,009,016.
