

Managing Cashflow Guides

4. Treating suppliers fairly

Cashflow keeps business in business and if you don't pay your suppliers on time you risk damaging their business or – worse – causing, or contributing to, their failure. You want your invoices paid on time, and you should do the same. It's not just good business practice and ethical behaviour; it's also a demonstration of corporate social responsibility.

Can you answer yes to all these questions?

- Do you agree payment terms with your suppliers before you place an order?
- Do you pay bills on or before the due date?
- Do you tell your supplier immediately if you have a query with their invoice so that they can resolve the problem and still be paid on time?
- Do you let your suppliers know immediately if anything is going to prevent payment by the day they expect it?
- Do you make sure your suppliers know what information and detail you require on their invoices to enable you to approve and pay them promptly?
- Do you check in advance where and how your supplier needs to be paid?

Five Top Tips

1. Make sure payments due are in your cashflow forecast so they don't catch you by surprise.
2. Talk to suppliers early if you have a problem preventing prompt payment.
3. Paying promptly:
 - earns your business respect
 - may allow you to negotiate better deals or agree a prompt payment discount
 - helps you avoid late payment or interest charges
 - ensures supplies don't get stopped
 - improves your trading relationships
 - makes you a more valued customer.
4. Give your key customers a copy of this guide.
5. Treat your suppliers as you want your customers to treat you.
