Foreword

The Government aims to reform the adoption system to remove barriers and reduce delay so that all children for whom adoption is in their best interests can be placed quickly with adoptive families.

The Government published An Action Plan for Adoption: Tackling Delay in March 2012 which set out proposals to speed up the adoption process, including by proposing changes to legislation. One commitment made in that document was to reduce delay caused by the search for a perfect or near perfect ethnic match for a child. In July 2012, the Prime Minister announced proposals to introduce a new legal duty for “Fostering for Adoption”. This is to encourage local authorities to place children with their potential permanent carers more swiftly.

These changes would reduce the time children have to wait for an adoptive placement and enable more children to be placed in stable, loving homes with less delay and disruption. This would improve their chances of leading full and happy lives.

Edward Timpson MP

Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for Children and Families

PROVISIONS ABOUT ADOPTION: EARLY PERMANENCE THROUGH ‘FOSTERING FOR ADOPTION’ AND MATCHING FOR ADOPTION

EXPLANATORY NOTES

INTRODUCTION

1. These explanatory notes relate to the provisions about adoption reform as published for Pre-Legislative Scrutiny on 7 November 2012. They have been prepared by the Department for Education. Their purpose is to assist the reader in understanding these provisions. They do not form part of the provisions.
2. The notes need to be read in conjunction with the provisions. They are not, and are not meant to be, a comprehensive description of the provisions.

COMMENTARY ON CLAUSES

Clause 1: Placement of looked after children with prospective adopters

3. This clause amends section 22C of the Children Act 1989 as it applies in relation to England. It imposes a new duty on a local authority looking after a child to give preference to the placement of the child in a ‘Fostering for Adoption’ placement if one is available.
4. The duty will apply where the local authority has decided that the child ought to be placed for adoption and it has matched the child with an approved prospective adopter who is also a local authority foster parent, but it does not yet have authorisation to place the child for adoption. In these circumstances the local authority will be under a duty to give preference to a placement with those foster parents, where this is considered to be the most appropriate placement. Section 22 of the Children Act 1989 (duty of local authorities in relation to children looked after by them) will apply in relation to a decision about what placement is most appropriate.
5. It is already legally possible for children to be placed under the Children Act 1989 with carers who are local authority foster parents, but who are also prospective adopters and have been identified as prospective adopters for that particular child. This amendment is intended to ensure that local authorities give preference to such placements.

These notes refer to the provisions about adoption

Clause 2: Adoption agencies: repeal of requirement to give due consideration to ethnicity: England

6. This clause amends section 1 of the Adoption and Children Act 2002 so that subsection (5) does not apply in relation to local authorities in, and registered adoption societies whose principal office is in, England. Section 1(5) of that Act requires adoption agencies to give due consideration to a child's religious persuasion, racial origin and cultural and linguistic background when placing him or her for adoption.

7. Adoption agencies are required by section 1(2) and (4) of that Act to make a child's welfare throughout his or her life their paramount consideration, and to have regard to a range of matters, including the child's needs, wishes and feelings, and his or her background and other relevant characteristics, in reaching a placement decision. These provisions, therefore, mean that the adoption agency will be under a duty to have regard to the child's religious persuasion, racial origin and cultural and linguistic background, amongst other factors, where relevant. An adoption agency is also required by section 1(3) of that Act to bear in mind that any delay in coming to a decision is likely to prejudice the child's welfare.

8. The amendment to subsection (5) is intended to avoid any suggestion that the current legislation places a child's religious persuasion, racial origin and cultural and linguistic background above the factors in section 1(2) to (4).
