Ministerial foreword

In June I announced a package of government measures to make it easier to build on brownfield land that is suitable for housing.

There is enough previously-developed, brownfield land to deliver up to 200,000 planning permissions for new homes across the country. Homes will be built on unused and previously-developed land under the government’s plans to make it easier to build on brownfield sites suitable for housing. We’re determined to work in partnership with local planning authorities and private sector development partners to seize the opportunity this provides to create much needed housing while protecting England’s valued countryside.

Councils play a critical role in bringing forward brownfield land and are being asked to put in place local development orders which can provide sites with outline planning permission to speed up the building of new homes. That’s why we are making available a £5 million fund will help local planning authorities create the first 100 sites with local development orders.

This invitation to bid provides more information on how Councils can bid for funding to support their local development orders.

The Rt Hon Eric Pickles MP,
Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government
Introduction

1. The government has announced funding to support local planning authorities who consult on and make local development orders on brownfield land that is suitable for housing in their area. This invitation to bid sets out more detail about the funding and bidding process for the preparation of local development orders.

2. Brownfield land can have a vital role to play in meeting the country’s housing needs where the land is in an area of sufficient demand and is attractive to developers. Analysis of the returns from local planning authorities suggests that there is suitable brownfield land to accommodate planning permissions for up to 200,000 new homes¹. We therefore expect to see permissions for homes in place on more than 90% of this land by 2020.

3. The funding is part of a long-term programme of measures designed to incentivise the delivery of housing on brownfield land which includes plans to create 30 Housing Zones on brownfield sites across the country as part of our efforts to increase housing supply. We are also funding work to develop templates and guidance to help local planning authorities who take advantage of the opportunity to put in place a local development order.

The Local Development Order Incentive Fund

4. Local development orders can help unlock sites and support developers in securing planning consent by establishing the parameters for housing on brownfield sites. They can relate to the size and numbers of housing but can also cover other issues such as design or the provision of infrastructure. This will help developers working up suitable schemes to get work started on site quicker and deliver much needed homes sooner. Local development orders also enable local planning authorities to work with local communities to develop workable solutions to determine what forms of development should be taken forward on sites in their local area. A new £5 million fund will support new local development orders for housing on brownfield land. Therefore local planning authorities will want to consider how they will use the funding to work with developers and communities to deliver new homes through the use of a local development order.

5. The funding for local development orders is part of a drive to unlock viable housing schemes on brownfield sites through the delivery of planning simplification. A local development order will make clear that the local authority is promoting the site for new housing development. Local planning authorities are also being encouraged to put forward proposals for local development orders as part of their expression of interests for Housing Zones.

6. This invitation to bid sets out the arrangements for local planning authorities to submit bids to secure funding to support the preparation of a local development order to facilitate housing on brownfield land. Bids are encouraged from local planning authorities which can identify brownfield sites that are suitable for housing, can accommodate in the region of 100 dwellings or more and where work on a local development order can commence in the Autumn this year with a view to being in place in 2015.

Availability and Eligibility

8. The fund is designed to provide financial assistance to help local planning authorities bring forward a local development order for identified brownfield housing sites which will help them to speed up delivery of housing in their areas. The £5 million fund will be awarded on a competitive basis through this bidding round.

9. All local planning authorities are eligible to bid. Bids should be made by the local planning authority in which the site is situated. A local development order can cover one site or several sites. Where sites straddle more than one local planning authority area it will be for the local planning authorities concerned to decide whether separate bids should be made to support their local development orders or whether one local planning authority could act as a lead authority, for example where funding could be used to support both the authorities’ local development orders. For sites straddling boundaries each local planning authority will still need to adopt their own LDO for the part of the site located in their own area. It is open to local planning authorities to make more than one bid for funding in their area. The Government wishes to ensure that the bidding process is as flexible as possible and encourages innovative applications from local planning authorities across England. To be eligible sites must be on land where the majority of the area is on brownfield land, suitable for housing and capable of accommodating in the region of 100 dwellings or more and be located in England.

10. It is anticipated that successful bidders would receive £50,000 per bid towards the costs incurred in delivering the local development order. On the assumption that the Government receives eligible bids of an appropriate quality it is expected that a maximum of 100 awards will be made. Payments will be made through section 31 of the Local Government Act 2003. The £5 million fund will be paid over both 2014-15 and 2015-2016 with the bulk of the funding to be available in 2014-15 unless there are strong delivery reasons for there to be spend in 2015-16, such as the phasing of Housing Zones. The Department reserves the right not to pay recipients the full amount requested in either financial year (this will depend on affordability in light of the total amount of funding requested in each financial year). Where grant is paid in both 2014-15 and 2015-16, two agreements will be made – one for each financial year.

11. Local planning authorities will be expected to confirm when the local development order comes into force.

Award Criteria

12. In making awards priority will be given to those local planning authorities who provide the strongest evidence in support of their bids. Applicants should adopt a proportionate approach to the submission of evidence which should be sufficiently robust to present a convincing case about the eligibility and deliverability of sites, and the prospect of delivering the local development order. There should be real commitment from the local planning authority, signed off by an individual with authority at the appropriate level, to prepare and consult on the draft local development order by April 2015.

13. The specific criteria are set out in the table below and each bid will be assessed on a scale of 1 to 15 points, where 15 is the maximum score available. The assessment of bids will be made against the evidence in the bids submitted.

14. In summary applicants will be required to demonstrate and evidence, that:

a. sites are deliverable\(^4\)
b. there is a clear project plan in place for consulting on the draft local development order by April 2015
c. the local planning authority has sufficient capacity to prepare and deliver the local development order, particularly staff resources,
d. there is a clear commitment to timely discharge of conditions or the granting of prior approval
e. it is clear how the local planning authority intend to use the money and that it will be used in a cost effective way.

15. The Government’s ambition is to deliver the maximum number of homes on brownfield sites by 2020 and bids will also be assessed according to the number of units to be provided through the local development order. Local planning authorities are also asked to identify where their bid is associated with wider strategic initiatives such as a bid for Housing Zone funding. Local planning authorities should also set out their plans for how the authority will engage with developers and communities on the future development of the site.

\(^4\) In line with policy in the National Planning Policy Framework, to be considered deliverable, sites should be available now, offer a suitable location for development now, and be achievable with a realistic prospect that housing will be delivered on the site within five years and in particular that the development of the site is viable.

<td>(c) Sufficient capacity, including staff and other key resources, to prepare and deliver the local development order</td>
<td>Up to 3</td>
<td>The funding for successful bidders will provide an important boost to local planning authorities preparing local development orders for housing. But the Government recognises that in most cases it will need to be supplemented by additional resources, including staff time, if high quality local development orders are to be delivered on time. To ensure confidence that this will be achieved a clear assessment about the level of resources needed and a commitment to ensuring that this will be made available will be vital to the successful delivery.</td>

Up to 3 bids. Local development orders are designed to simplify and speed up local planning. A delay to discharging any associated conditions or granting prior approval would undermine this core objective and act as a disincentive to developers. Therefore bids should include details of how prior approval will be handled and how conditions will be discharged and a firm commitment that both will be undertaken in a timely manner.

Up to 3 The funding provided to successful bidders will act as an important boost to local planning authorities that are keen to streamline the planning process, provide greater certainty for developers and communities, and operate a more efficient service. It is open to successful bidders to bid for resources for activity that is required to support the creation of the local development order. This may well be on additional staff resource but it could also be to support other aspects of the local development order preparation process. Successful bidders will need to set out clearly how they intend to spend the funding including a breakdown of proposed activities and costs and demonstrate why it is cost effective.
