

Access to foreign government's websites is not disabled and is, therefore, accessible by DCLG staff.

DCLG does, however, routinely scan internet traffic for viruses and other malicious code. Where such code is detected, then the code is disabled. This may, occasionally, cause some websites to fail to display correctly.