Inspection of children's homes

1. This is a significant period of change for children's homes and an opportunity to improve the life chances of the vulnerable children and young people who live in residential care. We want children's homes to provide the best possible care and experiences, while improving the children's life chances and helping them to successfully manage their lives as young adults.
2. Between December 2013 and February 2014, we consulted on a new inspection framework that had a much stronger focus on the experiences of children and young people. We received 123 responses to our online consultation and secured the views of 207 children and young people. The majority of respondents were in agreement with our proposals. We decided not to implement the new framework at that time because we wanted to align more closely with the full package of regulatory reform led by government. We considered that two rapid changes to the inspection framework would be both destabilising and unhelpful.
3. Now that government has made clear its intentions for the regulations, the quality standards and the new guidance, we are able to consult on an inspection framework. It is fully informed by the previous consultation, takes into account the new regulations and is well informed by the headline responses to the Department for Education (DfE) consultation conducted in September this year.
4. In this consultation we set out how we will make inspection judgements and how we anticipate putting the new quality standards into operation. Professional judgement, accountability and the relationship between the regulatory framework and Ofsted inspections are at the heart of this consultation.
5. We set out our proposed criteria for each of the judgement areas. We want you to tell us if you think we have got these right. We also set out how we intend to ensure that we provide the best scrutiny of those homes that give us the most concern by providing inadequate care. We want to hear your views on this proposal.

This consultation

We want to make sure you understand:

- how we intend to make judgements using the grade criteria in a 'best fit' model
- the relationship between the regulations, the government guidance and the inspection framework.

We would also like your opinions on:

- the grade criteria for each inspection judgement
- our approach to homes judged inadequate.

Your views will help to refine and develop our framework for inspecting children's homes.
