

Funding provided to the Syrian National Coalition

“A detailed breakdown of the amount of funding provided to the Syrian National Coalition (either in cash or in kind through the provision of equipment, personnel etc) by DFID.

Please include, if possible:

- What the money was used for
- When it was given
- What further funds have been pledged
- What audits or follow up reports have been done to examine how this money was spent”

“A detailed breakdown of the amount of funding provided to non combatant opposition activists in Syria (either in cash or in kind through the provision of equipment, training, etc) by DFID.

Please include, if possible:

- What the money was used for
- When it was given
- What further funds have been pledged
- What audits or follow up reports have been done to examine how this money was spent”

UK funding to Syrian National Coalition and non-combatant activists in Syria is provided by the Conflict Pool which is directly funded from the Treasury with shared responsibility across the Ministry of Defence, Foreign and Commonwealth Office and DFID.

A wide range of information on the UK Government’s response to the crisis in Syria is available on the Inside Government website. This includes details of DFID funding for humanitarian activities in Syria and the region as well as information on UK Government funding provided through the Conflict Pool.

To date DFID has not provided direct funding to the Syrian National Coalition or to non-combatant opposition activities in Syria.