Uniform Resource Identifiers (URI)

Customer Guide

Companies House has introduced a simple Uniform Resource Identifier (URI) for all companies on our register. The URI is permanent and represents the company. When used as an internet address, it will return basic company details in a format appropriate for the requesting system.

Such a URI may be stored and freely exchanged as a company reference that can be used to discover the latest basic company details. It provides a more efficient way of data linking for users and the business information industry.

The 'business.data.gov.uk' domain is used for the company URI service, and complements the existing Companies House XML Gateway by offering a simple, more open mechanism to basic company details (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Representational_state_transfer). The XML Gateway continues to provide more detailed company information/documents and company name searches, which URIs do not provide.

Supported Formats

The supported formats for URI are RDF, JSON, XML, CSV, YAML and HTML.

The appropriate format is determined through content negotiation, automatically performed between the requesting client and the service. Therefore, the company data for a URI request will be returned in the format most suitable to the requester, e.g. if through a web browser HTML will be returned, if via an RDF client, RDF will be returned.

URI structure

`http://data.companieshouse.gov.uk/doc/company/{companynumber}`

e.g. under the URI scheme company number 02050399 would be represented as: `http://data.companieshouse.gov.uk/doc/company/02050399`

Where a company number contains a prefix e.g. SC, NI, FC, the prefix should be provided in upper case.

e.g. company number SC002180 would be represented as:
`http://data.companieshouse.gov.uk/doc/company/SC002180`

Data returned for URI
