PLEASE NOTE:-

The way the law applies to any particular case can vary according to circumstances - for example, from vessel to vessel - and you should consider seeking independent legal advice if you are unsure of your own legal position.

Summary

- This Marine Guidance Note provides information on the Dreadnought Medical Service, available for seafarers through the medical services at Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust in London.
- It includes a referral form (Annex A) which may be used by a seafarer's General Practitioner or company doctor to arrange referral to the Dreadnought Medical Service

1. Introduction

1.1 The Dreadnought Medical Service is a facility offering priority medical treatment to eligible seafarers through the medical services of the Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust in London. While there are no longer dedicated wards within the hospital, services are available to offer treatment for a full range of medical conditions. The service aims to provide treatment in a shorter time scale than may normally be offered in a seafarer's local NHS hospital, although this cannot be guaranteed. The purpose is to enable serving seafarers to return to work at sea as soon as possible. This MGN describes the services and the referral process.

2. Eligibility for priority medical treatment and services available

2.1 Active seafarers who are resident in the UK, including fishing vessel personnel, pilots, cadets, those in the towage industry and shipping company shore staff essential to the function of the fleet are all eligible to be considered for elective priority treatment through the Dreadnought Service. Seafarers' dependents may also be eligible where the illness of a seafarer's spouse or child is such as to cause the seafarer grave concern. Retired seafarers will be considered but will not normally be entitled to receive priority treatment.

The service has a designated Administrator, who should be contacted for advice in the case of any query about eligibility or other information (see below for details).

2.2 A wide range of medical and surgical services is available. In addition to medical treatments, dental treatment can also be provided, a “one-stop” hernia service is available and in certain circumstances, female seafarers can have access to the hospital’s gynaecological services. Although cardiac surgery is included, there is no priority given to seafarers. As the service operates within the National Health Service, there is no charge for UK resident seafarers.

3. Location

3.1 St Thomas’ is conveniently located near Waterloo Station in Central London and can easily be reached by bus or underground. Guy’s Hospital is located adjacent to London Bridge Station. Assistance with transport and travel costs may be available through the hospital’s patient transport service or in certain cases, the Seamen’s Hospital Society (contact telephone: 020 8858 3696). A limited amount of accommodation is available nearby for close relatives, if required, for which there is a moderate charge.

4. Referral Procedure

4.1 There is a standard referral form which can be completed by the seafarer’s General Practitioner or Company doctor; a copy is attached at Annex A. This may be photocopied as necessary. The completed form should be sent to the Dreadnought Administrator at the address below.
