Terms of Reference for the End User Specialist Group

Status
1. The End User Specialist Group (hereafter referred to as the “Specialist Group”) is a Standing Specialist Group established to advise the Forensic Science Regulator (“the Regulator”) and the Forensic Science Advisory Council (‘the Council’) on matters within its remit.

Remit
2. The Specialist Group will support the Regulator and the Council by first undertaking a one-off study leading to the specification of an End-User Requirement for forensic science services. For the purposes of this study, the end user will be taken to comprise those interests which are regularly engaged in contributing to criminal proceedings in courts, and the study will deal only with requirements relating to court\(^1\) proceedings. The study will be confined to England and Wales and will be designed to:

   a. Identify the “end users” of forensic science services in England and Wales;

   b. Identify the individual requirements of the end users in relation to:

      i. The quality of forensic science services provided;

      ii. The quality of expert witness contribution to criminal proceedings and inquests;

      iii. Other requirements.

   c. Establish how those requirements are currently met in terms of:

      i. Compliance with formal quality standards;

      ii. Compliance with standards established by the service providers;

      iii. Compliance with legal provisions;

\(^1\) This is to be taken to include proceedings in coroners’ courts.
iv. Compliance with other formal requirements established by the user;

v. Compliance with other norms and values (including those inculcated by education and training, and membership of professional bodies).

d. Identify any shortcomings in the extent to which the requirements are currently met;

e. Propose means of remedying the shortcomings, distinguishing between measures which fall within the remit of the Regulator and those which do not;

f. Make such other recommendations as appear appropriate.

3. Following the study, the Specialist Group will continue to support the Regulator and the Council by receiving information obtained through the Regulator’s on-going scrutiny of the use of forensic science in the CJS, and any other sources, in order to assess and advise on any shortcomings in the delivery of forensic science to the end users. This assessment will also assist with the Regulator’s management of risk.
