Programmes to improve mental health

“I would be grateful if you can let me have details of any programme spending in financial year 2013-14 on programmes primarily or solely aimed at improving the mental health of recipients. I am interested in what was spent (if any) on what, and what it achieved.”

DFID does not hold a breakdown of spending on programmes primarily or solely aimed at improving the mental health of recipients. DFID records the purpose of our projects at broad and input sector levels. Projects relating to mental health would be included in the input sectors listed under the broad health sector in DFID’s Development Tracker.

You can, however, find some information on current DFID projects relating to mental health in the following links to the Development Tracker:

Programme for Improving Mental Health Care (PRIME)

Health Partnership Scheme

Disability Rights Fund