The Armed Forces Covenant

An Enduring Covenant Between

The People of the United Kingdom

Her Majesty's Government

– and –

All those who serve or have served in the Armed Forces of the Crown

And their Families

The first duty of Government is the defence of the realm. Our Armed Forces fulfil that responsibility on behalf of the Government, sacrificing some civilian freedoms, facing danger and, sometimes, suffering serious injury or death as a result of their duty. Families also play a vital role in supporting the operational effectiveness of our Armed Forces. In return, the whole nation has a moral obligation to the members of the Naval Service, the Army and the Royal Air Force, together with their families. They deserve our respect and support, and fair treatment.

Those who serve in the Armed Forces, whether Regular or Reserve, those who have served in the past, and their families, should face no disadvantage compared to other citizens in the provision of public and commercial services. Special consideration is appropriate in some cases, especially for those who have given most such as the injured and the bereaved.

This obligation involves the whole of society: it includes voluntary and charitable bodies, private organisations, and the actions of individuals in supporting the Armed Forces. Recognising those who have performed military duty unites the country and demonstrates the value of their contribution. This has no greater expression than in upholding this Covenant.

Section 1: Principles Of The Armed Forces Covenant

1.1 We East Lancashire Hospitals NHS Trust will endeavour in our provision of health services to uphold the key principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, which are:

- No member of the Armed Forces Community should face disadvantage in the provision of public and commercial services compared to any other citizen
- In some circumstances special treatment may be appropriate especially for the injured or bereaved.

- Seeking to support our employees who choose to be members of the Reserve Forces, including by accommodating their training and deployment where possible
- Offering to support local cadet units, wither in our local community or in local schools, where possible

2.2 We will publicise these commitments through our literature and/or on our website, setting out how we will seek to honour them and inviting feedback from the Service community and our customers on how we are doing.

2.3 We will establish an Armed Forces Group within the Trust consisting of serving Reservists, Cadet Force Adult Volunteers and Veterans to take forward our Armed Forces agenda.

2.4 We will provide opportunities for 207 (Manchester) Field Hospital to brief our new members of staff at induction on the benefits and opportunities offered by service as a Reservist volunteer.

2.5 We will work with the Step into Health scheme and College for Military Veterans and Emergency Services to provide opportunities for work placements to give an insight to working in the National Health Service.
