Using tasked witnesses and witnesses who assist

This guidance is based on the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000 (RIPA)
About this guidance

This guidance tells Home Office staff and officers working in criminal investigation teams in immigration enforcement about tasked witnesses and how to deal with them, about witnesses who assist and the modified process you are sometimes allowed to use.

It gives information on the following:

- definitions of tasked witness and a witness who assists
- about the tasked witness process
- procedures for dealing with tasked witnesses, and
- the modified process for witnesses who assist.

Changes to this guidance – This page tells you what has changed since the previous version of this guidance.

Contacts – This page tells you who to contact for help if your senior caseworker or line manager can't answer your question.

Information owner – This page tells you about this version of the guidance and who owns it.

Safeguard and promote child welfare - This page explains your duty to safeguard and promote the welfare of children and tells you where to find out more information.

Definition of a tasked witness

This section tells you the definition of a tasked witness.

A tasked witness is a person who:

- is likely or expected to give evidence in any forthcoming court case as a witness
- is required to fulfil the role of a covert human intelligence source (CHIS) in connection with the enquiry, and
- will give evidence of their activity as a CHIS.

The information in this page has been removed as it is restricted for internal Home Office use only.

For more information and the full definition of a CHIS, see links:

- RIPA 2000, and
- Covert human intelligence sources code of practice.
This guidance is based on the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000 (RIPA)

This page tells you about the tasked witness process and risks you need to think about when you are considering applying to use this process.

Applications

If you are dealing with a covert human intelligence source (CHIS) and you want to apply to use a tasked witness, you must be aware of and comply with:

- all relevant Home Office policy and associated procedures, including:
  - Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000 (RIPA), and
  - the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) guidelines.

Tasked witness process - roles and responsibilities

This page tells you about the roles and responsibilities you will have, depending on your part in an investigation, which involves using a covert human intelligence source (CHIS) or tasked witness.

Due to the complexities involved in many covert operations, the investigation must be overseen by an officer of at least:

- Her Majesty’s inspector (HMI)
- senior investigations officer (SIO), or
- detective inspector rank.
