WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT

The Government Legal Department (GLD) is the largest provider of legal services across government, working with all the main Whitehall Departments. From roads to rivers, and health to human rights, our work touches on most aspects of public life.

The department has more than 14 client-facing advisory teams who provide legal advice on the development, design and implementation of government policies and decisions, draft secondary legislation and work with Parliamentary Counsel on primary legislation. Our cross-cutting expert service groups for Litigation, Employment and Commercial Law provide specialist legal services to a wide range of government departments and public bodies.

We are a non-ministerial government department with more than 2,200 employees, around 1,600 of who are solicitors or barristers. The department is based primarily in London but has teams in Bristol as well as an ever expanding presence in Leeds, making this an exciting time to join one of our teams there.

As an organisation our vision is to be trusted by government to provide consistently excellent and value for money services so government departments want to come to us to meet their legal needs, to be known throughout the legal profession for the quality of our legal work, and to be the best employer for our people.

Vacancy Description - Commercial Law Group

The Commercial Law Group (CLGp) was launched on 2 June 2014, enabling the start of the journey towards a unified expert commercial law service for government. CLGp was created by drawing together the existing commercial lawyers in several government departments and consists of seven teams (Litigation and Dispute Resolution Team plus six commercial transactional teams). The teams are located in central London (Whitehall/Westminster/Holborn), Leeds and the North West, with many based in the main government buildings for the client department which they advise or one of the other client departments in CLGp. They provide non-contentious commercial legal services to the following departments:

- Home Office;
- Cabinet Office;
- Crown Commercial Service;
- Department for Education;
- Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs;
- Department for Work and Pensions;
- Department for International Trade
- Department for International Development
- Government Digital Service
- Ministry of Justice; and
- Department of Health.

There are approximately 120 lawyers in CLGp led by Wendy Hardaker, Commercial Law Director, who won the Civil Service Leadership Award in 2016. The seven teams in CLGp range in size from six to 18 lawyers and are each led by a Senior Civil Servant. The Group also has a Business Management Team.

Continued learning and development is very important in CLGp, both legal knowledge and skills and professional non-legal skills. We have recently appointed a know-how lawyer to CLGp. Each team within CLGp organises training specific to legal issues of its relevant client department. There are also regular training sessions organised by government lawyers, external law firms and Chambers, on cross-cutting commercial legal issues, public law, and professional skills which lawyers in CLGp are encouraged to attend. The Civil Service Commitment to five learning days a year applies to all staff and is actively encouraged. GLD has recently entered into a new contract for access to the widest range of online legal resources including PLC and LexisNexis.

There is a broad range of skills and experience in CLGp with a mix of solicitors and barristers, those who have trained in private practice law firms or chambers and those who have trained in the public sector, those for whom CLGp was their first in-house role, and those who have worked in-house elsewhere previously. Almost all lawyers advise on commercial, contract and public procurement law and many have areas of expertise in addition.

The creation of CLGp highlights the increasing importance of commercial skills to government, as new projects and programmes are increasingly delivered through commercial arrangements. CLGp aims to ensure delivery of high quality legal advice and commercial litigation services. CLGp is involved in many of the government's highest profile and most sensitive matters.

Much of CLGp's work is on the boundaries of commercial and public law, often at the forefront of major government initiatives. The government draws continuously upon the skills of commercial lawyers to bring to life policies pledged in their election manifestos and elsewhere.

CLGp lawyers advise on a comprehensive range of commercial matters, including public procurement, contracts, information technology, grants, intellectual property and state aid. They draft and advise on every part of the commercial process, from the commercial law implications of a policy, through to designing the appropriate commercial construct, ensuring that projects appropriately manage legal risk, that contracts are managed effectively, and that any disputes are resolved as effectively as possible.

Effective contract and supplier management is essential to extract maximum value and so CLGp lawyers are called upon to advise on handling performance issues and disputes before a formal dispute resolution procedure is commenced. Management of legal risks, in conjunction with other risks is a very large element of the role of a CLGp lawyer. If a dispute resolution procedure is commenced then CLGp lawyers often work alongside the litigation lawyers/counsel. CLGp lawyers also play a key role in instructing and managing external law firms and counsel where additional and/or specialist advice is required. Additionally CLGp lawyers work closely with their legal colleagues in the advisory law teams in GLD which advise the same department helping to implement policies and advise on any commercial legal issues raised.

There is an increase in workload across CLGp generally, largely due to the need to drive value from contracts, increasing commercial disputes and because of new programmes of purchasing. This increase in demand for CLGp's services has led to the need to recruit high calibre, commercial lawyers to help deliver the continuing success of CLGp. The work of CLGp offers some of the most interesting, varied, complex and high-profile commercial in-house work available. Successful candidates can therefore expect to be involved in some of the most high profile, complex and far reaching commercial issues in government.

PRE-EMPLOYMENT CHECKS

All government departments are required to ensure that any personnel employed by them comply with the Baseline Personnel Security Standard (BPSS) before they take up employment.

This standard involves verification of identity; nationality and immigration status (including an entitlement to undertake the work in question); employment history (past 3 years) and criminal record (unspent convictions).

You will be asked to produce original documents when attending interview to enable us to verify the above if you are successful. The information which you provide will be treated in the strictest confidence by the GLD and its authorised representative (TMP Worldwide).

Supplying false information or failing to disclose relevant information could be grounds for rejection of your application, or, dismissal and could amount to a criminal offence.

Your referees will not be approached until your permission has been obtained following success at interview.

Regarding criminal record checks, a basic disclosure will normally be required (covering convictions considered unspent under the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974). This will apply to successful candidates only and your permission will be required before checks are undertaken.

Successful candidates will also be required to be cleared to SC (security check) level.

Some posts will require clearance to a level higher than SC in view of the sensitive nature of the work. You will be told if this applies to you. Details of HM Government vetting policy can be found here: <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/hmg-personnel-security-controls>
