A guide to Child Tax Credit and Working Tax Credit
We've a range of services for disabled people. These include guidance in Braille, audio and large print. Most of our forms are also available in large print. Contact our helplines for more information.

Ffoniwch 0300 200 1900 i dderbyn fersiynau Cymraeg o ffurflenni a chanllawiau.
1 Introduction

There are 2 tax credits, Child Tax Credit and Working Tax Credit. This guide explains in detail what they are, who is eligible and how to claim.

If you’re responsible for children or are working as an employee or a self-employed person, you should find out more about tax credits.

The claim form includes comprehensive guidance notes.

Child Tax Credit and Working Tax Credit don’t affect Child Benefit payments, which we pay separately.

Child Tax Credit supports families with children. This can include children until their 16th birthday and young persons aged from 16 but under 20 years old. You can claim whether or not you’re in work.

The amount you get is based on your income. As a rough guide, you may get an award of Child Tax Credit if you have:

- one child and a household income of up to about £26,200
- 2 children and a household income of up to about £32,900

It’s important to know that these figures are a guide only. Depending on your circumstances you may still qualify if your household income is higher. For example, if you’re claiming for more than 2 children or have a child with a disability – read the information in the table on page 7.

Working Tax Credit is for working people on a low income and is based on the hours you work and get paid for, or expect to get paid for. You can claim whether you’re an employee or a self-employed person. Unpaid work doesn’t count for Working Tax Credit. You may also be able to get help with childcare costs.

From 6 April 2017, the following changes apply:

- the individual child element of Child Tax Credit will no longer be awarded for third and subsequent children or qualifying young persons in a household, born on or after 6 April 2017, there are exceptions, for more information go to www.gov.uk/hmrc/ctc-exceptions
- the family element of Child Tax Credit will only be payable if you’re responsible for a child or qualifying young person born before 6 April 2017

The 2 child limit doesn’t apply to the childcare element of Working Tax Credit or the disability element of Child Tax Credit. You can claim these 2 elements for all children who meet the conditions.

For more information, go to GOV.UK and search for WTC5 (childcare element) or TC956 (child disability element)

To ensure you don’t miss out on what you’re entitled to, you should still report the birth of a child and any changes involving your children or young people, even if you won’t get the child or family elements for them.

Who is eligible

To qualify for tax credits, you must be aged 16 or over and usually live in the United Kingdom (UK), that is, England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. The UK doesn’t include the Channel Islands or the Isle of Man. Short absences of up to 8 weeks, or in some cases 12 weeks, won’t affect your eligibility.

For Child Tax Credit you must have the right to reside in the UK.
Some people may be eligible even if they don’t live in the UK. For example, if you live outside the UK but you, or your partner if you have one, are a national of another country in the European Economic Area (EEA), or of Switzerland and you:

- work in the UK
- are a Crown servant posted overseas or their accompanying partner
- live in the EEA or Switzerland, and get
  - UK State Pension
  - contribution-based Employment and Support Allowance
  - Industrial Injuries Disablement Benefit
  - Widow’s Benefit or Bereavement Benefit
  - Incapacity Benefit
  - Severe Disablement Allowance

Countries in the European Economic Area are:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Austria</th>
<th>Greece</th>
<th>Norway</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Belgium</td>
<td>Hungary</td>
<td>Poland</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulgaria</td>
<td>Iceland</td>
<td>Portugal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Croatia</td>
<td>Ireland</td>
<td>Romania</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cyprus</td>
<td>Italy</td>
<td>Slovakia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Czech Republic</td>
<td>Latvia</td>
<td>Slovenia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Denmark</td>
<td>Liechtenstein</td>
<td>Spain</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Estonia</td>
<td>Lithuania</td>
<td>Sweden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Finland</td>
<td>Luxembourg</td>
<td>United Kingdom</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>France</td>
<td>Malta</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Germany</td>
<td>Netherlands</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

You may not be entitled to tax credits if you’re subject to immigration control, but there are some exceptions.

Immigration control means:

- the Home Office gives you permission to stay in the UK (known as ‘leave to enter or remain’), but this permission is given to you on the grounds that you don’t claim certain benefits, tax credits or housing assistance paid by the UK government (known as ‘no recourse to public funds’)
- you need permission to stay in the UK, again known as ‘leave to enter or remain’, but you don’t have it
- you’ve been refused permission to stay in the UK, but you appealed against that decision, and your appeal hasn’t been decided yet
- you’ve been given permission to stay in the UK, but on the condition that someone else, like a friend or relative, pays for your upkeep and gives you somewhere to live

Sometimes if you’re subject to immigration control you might still be able to claim tax credits, for example, if you’re part of a couple and only one of you is subject to immigration control.

For more information:
- go to www.gov.uk/tax-credits-if-moving-country-or-travelling
- phone our helpline

Claiming as a couple or a single person

It’s important that you understand the differences between claiming as a single person and claiming as a couple. If you get this wrong, you could build up an overpayment that you may have to pay back. You may also have to pay a penalty.

You must claim as a couple if you’re married, living with someone as if you’re married, or in a civil partnership. You should still make a joint claim... as a couple even if you’re living apart temporarily. For example, one of you is working away.
If you don’t have a partner, you should make a single claim based on your circumstances. If you’re legally separated or your separation is likely to be permanent, you should make a single claim. For example, you’re in the process of getting divorced.

How tax credits are paid
Tax credits are normally paid in arrears, directly into a bank, building society or Post Office® card account.
If you already have an account, give the details on the claim form.
If you don’t have an account, any bank, building society or the Post Office® can advise you on the accounts they offer.

2 Child Tax Credit

Child Tax Credit
Child Tax Credit is a payment to support families with children. You can claim it if you, or your partner, are responsible for at least one child or qualifying young person who usually lives with you. You don’t have to be working to claim. If the child or qualifying young person live with another family for part of the time, you and that other family should decide jointly who wants to claim for that child or qualifying young person. If you’ve both made a claim for Child Tax Credit for the same child or qualifying young person but can’t agree who should get tax credits for them we’ll have to decide which of you has the main responsibility. We’ll then pay the tax credits to the person who has the main responsibility.

Deciding who has the main responsibility depends on the facts. The number of days the child or qualifying young person lives with you is important, but this isn’t the only factor to consider. If you’re unsure what to look at, you should phone our helpline.

If another family makes a claim for the same child or qualifying young person, you may be asked to provide details of why you think you have the main responsibility for them. We’ll consider these, together with the details provided by the other person. If you can’t agree between yourselves who should claim for that child or qualifying young person, we’ll decide who has the main responsibility for them.

If you don’t agree with our decision, you can ask us to look at it again. We call this ‘mandatory reconsideration’. Our leaflet WTC/AP, ‘What to do if you think your Child Tax Credit or Working Tax Credit is wrong’ contains more information on this.

Go to GOV.UK and search for WTC/AP.
If you don’t have internet access, phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900.
You can usually get Child Tax Credit for a child who lives with you until 31 August after their 16th birthday. After this you can still claim for a qualifying young person as long as they’re under 20. This is providing they enrolled, accepted or started full-time non-advanced education or approved training before age 19.

If the qualifying young person is aged 16 or 17, and has left full-time non-advanced education or approved training, you may be able to get Child Tax Credit for them for up to 20 weeks after they left. To qualify for these extra weeks, they need to have registered for work or training with:
• a careers service, Connexions, local authority support service or similar organisation (in Northern Ireland, the Department for the Economy and the Department for Communities or an Education and Library Board)
• the Ministry of Defence, if they’re waiting to join the armed forces
• any corresponding body in another member state
To get these extra weeks, you must claim within 3 months of your child leaving education or training.

You can’t get Child Tax Credit for a child or qualifying young person if they’re:
• aged 16 or over and are getting Income Support, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, Employment and Support Allowance, tax credits or Universal Credit in their own right
• aged 16 or over, have left full-time non-advanced education or approved training, registered with a qualifying body, but then started paid work for 24 hours or more a week during the 20 week extension period
• serving a custodial sentence of more than 4 months imposed by a court
Special rules apply where children are placed with you by the local authority and you’re getting public funds for looking after them. For more information, phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900. You should also phone our helpline if a child or qualifying young person has come from abroad and is staying with you for educational purposes.

How Child Tax Credit is made up

Child Tax Credit contains several elements. The value of each is listed below but the amount you get depends on your income.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Element</th>
<th>Annual amount for 2018 to 2019 (£)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Family element (one per family)</td>
<td>545</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child element (paid for each child or qualifying young person)</td>
<td>2,780</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Disability element of Child Tax Credit, where the child or qualifying young person is disabled (paid in addition to the child element)</td>
<td>3,275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Disability element of Child Tax Credit, where the child or qualifying young person is severely disabled¹ (paid in addition to the child element)</td>
<td>4,600</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

¹Shown as 2 separate elements on your Award Notice - Disability element of £3,275 and Severe Disability element of £1,325 totalling £4,600.
You may get a disability element of £3,275 for each child or qualifying young person you’re responsible for if:

- Disability Living Allowance (DLA) or Personal Independence Payment (PIP) is being paid for him or her or would be so payable but for hospitalisation of the child or qualifying young person
- the child or qualifying young person is certified as severely sight impaired or blind by a consultant ophthalmologist
- the child ceased to be certified as severely sight impaired or blind by a consultant ophthalmologist in the 28 weeks before the date of your claim

You may get a disability element of £4,600 for each child or qualifying young person you’re responsible for if they’re paid either:

- DLA (highest rate care component) or would be so payable but for suspension of the benefit or hospitalisation of the child or qualifying young person
- enhanced daily living component of PIP or would be so payable but for hospitalisation of the child or qualifying young person
- Armed Forces Independence Payment

From 6 April 2017, the following changes apply:

- the individual child element of Child Tax Credit will no longer be awarded for third and subsequent children or qualifying young persons in a household, born on or after 6 April 2017, there are exceptions, for more information go to www.gov.uk/hmrc/ctc-exceptions
- the family element of Child Tax Credit will only be payable if you’re responsible for a child or qualifying young person born before 6 April 2017

The 2 child limit doesn’t apply to the childcare element of Working Tax Credit or the disability element of Child Tax Credit. You can claim these 2 elements for all children who meet the conditions.

For more information, go to GOV.UK and search for WTC5 (childcare element) or TC956 (child disability element)

To ensure you don’t miss out on what you’re entitled to, you should still report the birth of a child and any changes involving your children or young people, even if you won’t get the child or family elements for them.

How much you can get

Child Tax Credit is paid in addition to Child Benefit. The amounts of Child Tax Credit are shown below in pounds.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income (£)</th>
<th>One child/ qualifying young person</th>
<th>2 children/ qualifying young persons</th>
<th>3 children/ qualifying young persons</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>No income</td>
<td>3,330</td>
<td>6,110</td>
<td>8,890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5,000</td>
<td>3,330</td>
<td>6,110</td>
<td>8,890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8,000</td>
<td>3,330</td>
<td>6,110</td>
<td>8,890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10,000</td>
<td>3,330</td>
<td>6,110</td>
<td>8,890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15,000</td>
<td>3,330</td>
<td>6,110</td>
<td>8,890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20,000</td>
<td>1,730</td>
<td>4,515</td>
<td>7,295</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>2,465</td>
<td>5,245</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>415</td>
<td>3,195</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>35,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1,145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>40,000+</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Using this table, if your income is £15,000 a year and you have 2 children but aren’t eligible for Working Tax Credit, you could get an annual Child Tax Credit award of £6,110, equivalent to £117.50 a week.
Child Tax Credit will be paid directly to the main carer for all the children in the family. If you’re part of a couple, you’ll need to tell us which of you is the main carer for the children. If you’re a single parent, this will be paid direct to you. You can choose whether to get payments weekly or every 4 weeks.

Payments will normally be made into a bank, building society or Post Office® card account.

If you’re getting another benefit
You’re entitled to the maximum amount of Child Tax Credit for your children if you get:
• Income Support
• income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance
• income-related Employment and Support Allowance
• Pension Credit

3 Working Tax Credit

Working Tax Credit
Working Tax Credit is for working people on a low income. You can be employed or self-employed, and you don’t have to have children to claim. In all cases you have to be either:
• working (whether in employment or self-employment) when you make your claim
• starting paid work within 7 days of making your claim

You may get more if you have a disability or are responsible for children and have childcare costs.

Working Tax Credit is paid directly to the person who is working. The childcare element of Working Tax Credit is paid directly to the main carer of the child or children along with Child Tax Credit.

How Working Tax Credit is made up
Working Tax Credit contains several elements, including additional amounts for:
• working people with a disability
• people with a severe disability
• the costs of registered or approved childcare
The maximum value of each element is listed below, but the amount you get depends on your income.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Element</th>
<th>Annual amount for 2018 to 2019 (£)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Basic element (one per single person or couple)</td>
<td>1,960</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Couple element(^1) (paid in addition to basic element but only one couple element allowed per couple)</td>
<td>2,010</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lone parent element (paid in addition to basic element for single customers who are responsible for a child or qualifying young person)</td>
<td>2,010</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30-hour element(^2) (paid in addition to other elements but only one 30-hour element allowed per couple)</td>
<td>810</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Disability worker element(^1) (paid in addition to other elements)</td>
<td>3,090</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Severe disability element(^1) (paid in addition to other elements)</td>
<td>1,330</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Childcare element, maximum eligible cost for families with childcare for one child</td>
<td>£175 a week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Childcare element, maximum eligible cost for families with childcare for 2 or more children</td>
<td>£300 a week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Percentage of eligible childcare costs covered</td>
<td>70%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Notes

1 If the claim is a joint claim and you’re both entitled to any of these elements, the award will include 2 elements per couple.

2 If you’re in a couple and one of you is subject to immigration control, and you’re not claiming for any children, you won’t normally be able to get the couple element. But you still need to make a joint claim.

3 The 30-hour element is available to those working 30 hours or more per week.

Working hours

You usually need to be working a minimum number of hours a week to claim Working Tax Credit.

If you’re responsible for a child or qualifying young person and you’re not part of a couple, you can claim Working Tax Credit if you:

- are aged 16 or over
- work at least 16 hours a week

If you’re responsible for a child or qualifying young person and you’re part of a couple, you can claim Working Tax Credit if you’re both aged 16 or over and:

- you work at least 24 hours a week between you, with one partner working at least 16 hours a week
- one partner works at least 16 hours a week and qualifies for the disability element of Working Tax Credit
- one partner works at least 16 hours a week and is aged 60 or over
- one partner works at least 16 hours a week and the other partner can’t work because they’re
  - incapacitated (getting certain benefits because of a disability or ill health)
  - an inpatient in hospital
  - in prison either on remand or serving a custodial sentence
  - entitled to Carer’s Allowance

Also see pages 13 to 15 about the disability elements.
If you’re not responsible for a child or qualifying young person you can claim Working Tax Credit if you or your partner, if you have one, are aged:
• 25 or over and work at least 30 hours a week
• 16 or over, work at least 16 hours a week and qualify for the disability element of Working Tax Credit
• over 60 and work at least 16 hours a week

If you’re part of a couple with children, you’re eligible for the 30-hour element if you jointly work at least 30 hours a week. This is providing one of you works at least 16 hours. Couples without children can’t add their hours together to qualify for the 30-hour element.

You must expect the work to:
• continue for at least 4 weeks after you’ve made the claim
• be paid, so for example, working as a volunteer where you’re not paid doesn’t normally count

You can still claim Working Tax Credit if you work at a school or college and don’t work during school or college holidays.

If you’re a foster carer the hours you work as a foster carer may count for tax credits if you’re paid by your local authority. If foster caring is your main source of income or your main job you may get Working Tax Credit.

Limitations to entitlement

Entitlement to Working Tax Credit is deliberately wide ranging but some restrictions apply. Working Tax Credit may not be available to you, if you are:
• engaged by a charitable organisation, or a volunteer, and get only expenses payments
• working for a local authority, health authority, charitable or voluntary organisation caring for someone who isn’t a member of your household and where the only payment you get is covered by the Rent-a-Room scheme
• engaged on a scheme for which a training allowance is being paid unless the training allowance is taxable as part of your employed or self-employed income
• participating in the Intensive Activity Period or Preparation for Employment Programme, unless the payments you get are taxable as part of your employed or self-employed income
• engaged in an activity where a sports award has been made
• participating in an Employment Zone programme unless you only get disregarded discretionary payments or a training premium
• serving a custodial sentence or remanded in custody and are engaged in work while serving the sentence or remanded in custody
• a student only doing work as part of your course, as any grant or loan that you receive is for maintenance and doesn’t count as payment for work
• a student nurse, as the NHS Bursary and other grants or loans you receive don’t count as payment for work
Maternity leave

Most women get Statutory Maternity Pay (SMP) or Maternity Allowance (MA) for the first:

- 26 weeks of ordinary maternity leave
- 13 weeks of any additional maternity leave

This can be followed by up to 13 weeks of unpaid leave.

For the 26 weeks of ordinary maternity leave, and for the first 13 weeks of additional maternity leave, that is, for a total of 39 weeks, whether or not you’re getting SMP or MA, you’re still treated as being in work and able to claim Working Tax Credit. This is providing you and your partner, if you have one, worked the required number of hours applicable to your circumstances immediately before going on maternity leave. This also applies if you’re self-employed.

If you’re a first-time mother, you can claim Working Tax Credit from the date of birth of your first child. This is providing you and your partner, if you have one, usually worked the required number of hours applicable to your circumstances, as a person responsible for a child, immediately before going on maternity leave (read Working hours on page 9).

When the 39 weeks (this includes 26 weeks of ordinary maternity leave and 13 weeks additional maternity leave) are over, you continue to be eligible for Working Tax Credit if you begin work again at that point. Any further additional maternity leave doesn’t count as being in work. You must tell us within one month if you don’t go back to work after the 39 weeks.

Adoption leave or paternity leave

If you adopt a child you may be eligible for Statutory Adoption Pay (SAP) for the first:

- 26 weeks of ordinary adoption leave
- 13 weeks of any additional adoption leave

New parents may be eligible for 2 weeks ordinary paternity leave and be paid Ordinary Statutory Paternity Pay (OSPP) for those 2 weeks.

New parents may be eligible for up to 26 weeks additional paternity leave and be paid Additional Statutory Paternity Pay (ASPP) if your partner has returned to work.

If you’re on ordinary adoption leave, ordinary or additional paternity leave, or on the first 13 weeks of any additional adoption leave, whether or not you’re getting SAP, OSPP or ASPP, you’ll still count as being in work and able to claim Working Tax Credit. This is providing you and your partner, if you have one, worked the required number of hours applicable to your circumstances immediately before going on adoption or paternity leave.

This also applies if you’re self-employed (read Working hours on page 9).

If you’re a first-time parent, you can claim Working Tax Credit from the date of placement for adoption or birth of your first child. This is providing you and your partner, if you have one, worked the required number of hours applicable to your circumstances as a person responsible for a child immediately before your adoption or paternity leave began.
When your time on:
• ordinary adoption leave
• ordinary or additional paternity leave
• the first 13 weeks of additional adoption leave is over, you continue to be eligible for Working Tax Credit if you begin working again at that point. Any further leave doesn’t count as being in work. You must tell us within one month if you don’t go back to work after this time.

Shared Parental Leave

You may be entitled to Shared Parental Leave (SPL) and Statutory Shared Parental Pay (ShPP) if:
• your baby was born on or after 5 April 2015
• you adopted a child on or after 5 April 2015

You can start SPL if you’re eligible and you or your partner end their maternity or adoption leave or pay early. The remaining leave will be available as SPL. The remaining pay may be available as ShPP.

You can take SPL in up to 3 separate blocks. You can also share the leave with your partner if they’re also eligible. Parents can choose how much of the SPL each of them will take.

SPL and ShPP must be taken between the baby’s birth and first birthday (or within one year of adoption). SPL and ShPP are only available in England, Scotland and Wales.

If you’re eligible and you or your partner end maternity or adoption leave and pay (or Maternity Allowance) early, then you can take the rest of the:
• 52 weeks of leave (up to a maximum of 50 weeks) as Shared Parental Leave (SPL)
• 39 weeks of pay (up to a maximum of 37 weeks) as Statutory Shared Parental Pay (ShPP)

A mother must take a minimum of 2 weeks maternity leave following the birth (4 if she works in a factory).

For any period you or your partner are receiving Statutory Shared Parental Pay you’re still treated as being in work and able to claim Working Tax Credit. This is providing you and your partner, if you have one, worked the required number of hours applicable to your circumstances immediately before going on Shared Parental Leave (SPL). This also applies if you’re self-employed.

When your time on SPL is over, you continue to be eligible for Working Tax Credit if you begin working again at that point. Any further leave doesn’t count as being in work. You must tell us within one month if you don’t go back to work after this time.

Sick leave

If you’re off work for up to 28 weeks because of illness and are getting either:
• Statutory Sick Pay (SSP)
• short-term Incapacity Benefit at the lower rate
• Employment and Support Allowance
• Income Support paid on the grounds of incapacity for work
• National Insurance credits on the grounds of incapacity for work or limited capability for work then you’ll still count as being in work and be able to claim Working Tax Credit. This is providing you and your partner, if you have one, worked the required number of hours applicable to your circumstances immediately before you started getting any of these benefits. This also applies if you’re self-employed (read Working hours on page 9).

When the 28 weeks of sick leave are over you continue to be eligible for Working Tax Credit if you begin work again at that point. Any further sick leave doesn’t count as being in work. You must tell us within one month if you don’t go back to work after the 28 weeks.

The disability element

If you meet all of the following 3 conditions, you may be able to get the disability element of Working Tax Credit. If you’re claiming as a couple and your partner also meets all 3 conditions, you may be able to get 2 disability elements.

Condition 1: You usually work 16 hours or more a week.

Condition 2: You have a disability which puts you at a disadvantage in getting a job.

Details of the disabilities which count to meet this condition are set out in the notes that go with the tax credits claim form. They relate to a wide range of things, for example:

- seeing
- hearing
- communicating with people
- getting around
- using your hands
- reaching with your arms
- mental disabilities
- exhaustion and pain

We may ask you to give us the name of a healthcare professional who can confirm how your disability affects you. For example, a doctor, a district or community nurse, or an occupational therapist.

Condition 3: You currently get, or have been getting, a qualifying sickness or disability benefit.

You’ll meet this condition if at least one of the following 4 descriptions applies to you, or if you:

- were entitled to the disability element of Working Tax Credit within the last 8 weeks
- had this entitlement because you satisfied one of the descriptions in 2, 3 or 4 on the following pages

1 You’re getting one of the following qualifying benefits:

- Attendance Allowance
- Disability Living Allowance, Personal Independence Payment or Armed Forces Independence Payment
- Industrial Injuries Disablement Benefit (with Constant Attendance Allowance for you)
- a vehicle provided under the Invalid Vehicle Scheme
- War Pension (with Constant Attendance Allowance or Mobility Supplement for you)
2 You have received a sickness or disability benefit for at least one day in the last 6 months. The benefits that count are:
- Employment and Support Allowance (ESA), where you have received this allowance for 28 weeks or more or you received Statutory Sick Pay (SSP) followed by ESA for a combined period of 28 weeks or more (see Note 1 below)
- Incapacity Benefit at the short-term higher rate or the long-term rate
- income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance*
- Income Support*
- Housing Benefit*
- Severe Disablement Allowance
*This must include a Disability Premium or a Higher Pensioner Premium for you.

Note 1: The 28 weeks doesn’t need to be a single continuous period. You can add together any periods that you got:
- Employment and Support Allowance (ESA), as long as they were no more than 12 weeks apart
- Statutory Sick Pay (SSP), as long as they were no more than 8 weeks apart
- SSP with periods that you got ESA, as long as they were no more than 12 weeks apart

3 You have been ‘training for work’ for at least one day in the last 8 weeks.
‘Training for work’ means attending government-run training such as that provided by the Work Programme in the UK, Work Based Learning for Adults in Wales, Training for Work in Scotland or a course that you attended for 16 hours or more a week to learn an occupational or vocational skill.
In the 8 weeks before you started training for work you must have been getting:
- Incapacity Benefit paid at the short-term higher rate or long-term rate
- Severe Disablement Allowance
- contribution-based ESA for 28 weeks or more
- Statutory Sick Pay (SSP) followed by contribution-based ESA for a combined period of 28 weeks or more (see Note 2)

Note 2: The 28 weeks doesn’t need to be a single continuous period. You can add together any periods that you got:
- contribution-based ESA, as long as they were no more than 12 weeks apart
- any periods that you got SSP, as long as they were no more than 8 weeks apart
- SSP with periods that you got contribution-based ESA, this is providing they were no more than 12 weeks apart and you met the contribution conditions for contribution-based ESA on the days that you got SSP

4 All of the following 4 points (4.1 to 4.4) apply to you.
4.1 You’ve been getting at least one of the benefits in box A or box B for 20 weeks or more (read Note 3 overleaf), and you got this benefit within the last 8 weeks.
A
- Statutory Sick Pay
- Occupational Sick Pay
- Incapacity Benefit at the short-term lower rate
- Income Support paid because of incapacity for work
- National Insurance credits awarded because of incapacity for work

B
- Employment and Support Allowance
- National Insurance credits awarded on the grounds of limited capability for work

Note 3: The 20 weeks doesn’t need to be a single continuous period. You can add together any separate periods that you got the benefits or credits in:
- box A, as long as they were no longer than 8 weeks apart
- box B, as long as they were no longer than 12 weeks apart

4.2 Your disability is likely to last for at least 6 months or the rest of your life.

4.3 Your gross earnings (before tax and National Insurance contributions are taken off) are at least 20% less than they were before you had the disability.

4.4 Your gross earnings (before tax and National Insurance contributions are taken off) are at least £15 a week less than they were before you had the disability.

For more information, go to GOV.UK and search for TC956.

If you don’t have internet access you can also get a copy by phoning the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900.

The severe disability element
If you or your partner (if you’re claiming as a couple) get Disability Living Allowance (highest rate care component), enhanced daily living component of Personal Independence Payment, Armed Forces Independence Payment or Attendance Allowance (higher rate), you can get the severe disability element.

You don’t have to be working to qualify for the severe disability element as long as your partner is working. If you both qualify, you’ll get 2 severe disability elements.

Help with the costs of childcare
You may be able to get more Working Tax Credit to help with the cost of registered or approved childcare. This is the childcare element of Working Tax Credit. The childcare element can help with up to 70% of your childcare costs, up to a maximum cost of £175 a week for one child and £300 a week for 2 or more children. This means that the childcare element is worth up to:
- £122.50 a week (70% of £175) for families with one child
- £210.00 a week (70% of £300) for families with 2 or more children
The amount you get will depend on your income and will be paid directly to the main carer along with Child Tax Credit.

To claim the childcare element you must be 16 or over.

If you’re a lone parent, you must work 16 hours a week or more.

If you’re in a couple, both of you must work 16 hours a week or more. Only one partner needs to work 16 hours a week or more if the other is:

• incapacitated
• an inpatient in hospital
• in prison either on remand or serving a custodial sentence
• entitled to Carer’s Allowance

You’ll be treated as incapacitated if you get one of the following:

• Disability Living Allowance, Personal Independence Payment or Armed Forces Independence payment
• Attendance Allowance
• Severe Disablement Allowance
• Incapacity Benefit at the short-term higher rate or long-term rate
• Industrial Injuries Disablement Benefit (with Constant Attendance Allowance for you)
• War Pension (with Constant Attendance Allowance or mobility supplement for you)
• Housing Benefit with a disability premium or higher pensioner premium
• Council Tax Reduction (sometimes called Council Tax Support) with a disability premium or higher pensioner premium that has been in payment since 1 March 2013 and Working Tax Credit has been in continuous payment since 1 March 2013
• a vehicle under the Invalid Vehicle Scheme
• contribution-based Employment and Support Allowance (ESA) if you got – this allowance for 28 weeks or more
  – Statutory Sick Pay (SSP) followed by contribution-based ESA for a combined period of 28 weeks or more

The 28 weeks doesn’t need to be a single continuous period. You can add together any periods that you got:

• contribution-based ESA as long as they were no more than 12 weeks apart
• SSP as long as they were no more than 8 weeks apart
• SSP with periods that you got contribution-based ESA, as long as they were no more than 12 weeks apart and you met the contribution conditions for contribution-based ESA on the days that you got SSP

You can claim the childcare element for any child up to the Saturday following 1 September after their:

• 15th birthday
• 16th birthday if – the child is certified as severely sight impaired or blind by a consultant ophthalmologist
  – the child ceased to be certified as severely sight impaired or blind by a consultant ophthalmologist in the 28 weeks before the date of your claim
  – you get Disability Living Allowance or Personal Independence Payment for that child

If you’re on paid maternity, adoption or paternity leave and are still treated as being in work, you can claim the costs for registered or approved childcare you pay for:

• the child you’ve taken leave to look after
• any other children you’re responsible for

This will enable you to settle a new baby or child into childcare before returning to work.
You can claim Working Tax Credit, including the childcare element from the birth or adoption of the child, as long as you (and your partner, if you have one) usually worked at least 16 or 24 hours a week, depending on your circumstances, before the maternity, adoption or paternity leave began (read ‘Working hours’ on page 9).

Read page 29 about changes to your childcare. You must tell us about these changes as they may affect how much tax credits we pay you.

What we mean by registered or approved childcare

In England

To get help with childcare costs in England, the childcare you use must be provided by:

- a childcare provider, such as a childminder, playscheme, childcare club or nursery and they need to be registered on one of the following
  - Ofsted Early Years Register (EYR) with either Ofsted or an Ofsted registered childminder agency if your child is under 5 years of age
  - Ofsted compulsory part of General Childcare Register (GCR) with either Ofsted or an Ofsted registered childminder agency if your child is aged 5 to 7
  - Ofsted voluntary part of the GCR with either Ofsted or an Ofsted registered childminder agency if your child is aged 8 or over
- a nanny who provides care in the child’s own home – as long as they’re registered with Ofsted
- an activity-based care, such as a sports club – as long as the provider is registered with Ofsted
- a school, to a child aged 2, 3 or 4 years old, as long as both of the following apply
  - it’s provided under the direction of the school’s proprietor (either the governing body or the person responsible for managing the school)
  - it takes place on the school premises or other premises that may be inspected as part of an inspection of a school by Ofsted or by the equivalent inspection body appointed by the Secretary of State to inspect certain independent schools (for example, the Independent Schools Inspectorate, Bridge Schools Inspectorate or the Schools Inspection Service)
- a school, to a child aged between 5 and 15 years old (or 16 if disabled), if all of the following apply
  - it’s provided out of school hours
  - it’s provided under the direction of the school’s proprietor (either the governing body or the person responsible for managing the school)
  - the care is provided on the school premises or on other premises that may be inspected as part of an inspection of a school by Ofsted, or by the equivalent inspection body appointed by the Secretary of State to inspect certain independent schools – an example of ‘other premises’ could be a village hall used by the school for its childcare activities outside of school hours
- an approved foster carer registered with Ofsted – but the childcare must be for a child who isn’t the carer’s foster child
- a care worker or a nurse from a registered domiciliary care agency, looking after your child in your own home

For more information about childcare in England, go to www.gov.uk/childcare-tax-credits
In Scotland
To get help with childcare costs in Scotland, your childcare provider must be:
• registered with Social Care and Social Work Improvement Scotland
• a childcare club registered with Social Care and Social Work Improvement
  Scotland to provide childcare outside of school hours
• a person from a registered childcare agency, sitter service or nanny agency providing childcare in your child’s home
You can also claim help with your childcare costs in Scotland if you use:
• an approved foster carer
• a kinship carer but the childcare must be for a child who isn’t the carer’s foster or kinship child. The foster carer or kinship carer must be registered with Social Care and Social Work Improvement Scotland as a childminder or a day care provider.
For more information about childcare in Scotland, go to www.scottishfamilies.gov.uk

In Wales
To get help with childcare costs in Wales, your childcare provider must be:
• registered by the National Assembly for Wales through the Care and Social Services Inspectorate for Wales (CSSIW)
• a person who is employed or engaged under a contract for services to provide care and support by the provider of domiciliary care support service within the meaning of Part 1 of the Regulation and Inspection of Social Care (Wales) Act 2016
• a school that provides childcare outside of school hours and on the school premises
• a local authority that provides childcare outside of school hours
• someone approved by the Approval of Childcare Providers (Wales)
  Scheme 2007 who provides childcare in the child’s home, or if several children are being looked after, in one of the children’s homes
• an approved foster carer but the childcare must be for a child who isn’t the carer’s foster child and the foster carer must be – registered with the Care and Social Services Inspectorate Wales if your child is under age 8
  – approved under the Approval of Child Care Providers (Wales) Scheme if the care is in your child’s home and your child is under age 16
For more information about childcare in Wales, go to www.wales.gov.uk and search for childcare
In Northern Ireland
To get help with childcare costs in Northern Ireland, your childcare provider must be:
• registered with a Health and Social Care Trust
• a school that provides childcare outside of school hours, on the school premises
• a person approved under the Approval of Home Child Care Providers (Northern Ireland) 2006 Scheme providing childcare in the child’s home
• an Education and Library Board that provides childcare outside of school hours
• an approved foster carer, but the childcare must be for a child who isn’t the carer’s foster child, and the foster carer must be – registered with a Health and Social Care Trust if your child is under age 12 – approved under the Approval of Home Child Care Providers (Northern Ireland) 2006 Scheme if the care is in your child’s home and your child is under age 16

For more information about childcare in Northern Ireland contact the Early Years Team in your local Health and Social Care Trust.
Go to www.nidirect.gov.uk/early-years-teams

Crown servants working abroad
If you’re a civil servant or a member of the armed forces posted overseas, and your child has gone with you, you may get help with childcare costs if your childcare provider is approved by a Ministry of Defence accreditation scheme abroad.

Childcare provided by a relative
You can’t get the childcare element of Working Tax Credit if your childcare is provided by a relative even if they’re registered or approved.

The exception to this is when your child is cared for by a relative who’s a:
• registered childminder who cares for your child, away from your child’s own home
• childcare provider approved under a Home Child Care Providers Scheme in Wales or Northern Ireland, who cares for your child away from your child’s own home. They must also care for at least one other child who’s not related to them

The relationship can be by blood, half-blood, marriage, civil partnership or affinity. ‘Affinity’ means a person with a strong relationship to the child, for example, someone in a parental position regarding their partner’s children, and this could include step-parents.

You can’t claim the costs of childcare if it isn’t registered or approved. Your provider should be able to tell you whether or not they’re registered or approved. Some providers have to renew their registration each year. Ask to see their registration or approval certificate to check that it’s still valid.
In order to claim the childcare element you must work out your average weekly childcare costs. For more information about how to do this, read our leaflet WTC5, ‘Working Tax Credit: help with the costs of childcare’.

Go to GOV.UK and search for WTC5.

If you don’t have internet access, phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900 for a copy.

How much Working Tax Credit you can get

Working Tax Credit is paid in addition to any Child Tax Credit you may be entitled to. Some people will be paid both Child Tax Credit and Working Tax Credit.

The amount of your Working Tax Credit award is based on your circumstances (for example, how many hours you work or whether you’re disabled) and your income. The table below provides a guide to how much (in pounds) you could get for the tax year 6 April 2018 to 5 April 2019.

The table below shows how much money you could get if you are in work and not responsible for any children or young persons.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income (£)</th>
<th>Single person aged 25 or over, working 30 hours or more a week</th>
<th>Couple (working adults aged 25 or over) working 30 hours or more a week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>12,215¹</td>
<td>395</td>
<td>2,405</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13,000</td>
<td>75</td>
<td>2,085</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1,675</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1,265</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>855</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>445</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19,000+</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

¹Someone aged 25 or over, working 30 hours a week on National Living Wage (based on April 2018 rates) would earn £12,215 a year.
The table below shows how much money you could get for the tax year 6 April 2018 to 5 April 2019 if you’re in work and responsible for at least one child or young person.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income (£)</th>
<th>One child/ qualifying young person</th>
<th>2 children/ qualifying young persons</th>
<th>3 children/ qualifying young persons</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6,240¹</td>
<td>7,300</td>
<td>10,080</td>
<td>12,865</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12,215²</td>
<td>5,735</td>
<td>8,515</td>
<td>11,295</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15,000</td>
<td>4,595</td>
<td>7,375</td>
<td>10,155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20,000</td>
<td>2,545</td>
<td>5,325</td>
<td>8,105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25,000</td>
<td>495</td>
<td>3,275</td>
<td>6,055</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1,225</td>
<td>4,005</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>35,000</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1,955</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>40,000+</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

¹Those with incomes of £6,240 a year are assumed to work part-time (working between 16 and 29 hours a week).

²In families with an income of £12,215 a year or more, at least one adult is assumed to be working 30 or more hours a week (consistent with National Living Wage of £7.83 based on April 2018 rates for those aged 25 and over).

Note: If you have a child with a disability you may be entitled to more.

Using these tables, for example, if you are claiming as a lone parent or a couple with 2 children and working 30 hours or more a week, with an income of £12,215 a year, you could get an annual tax credits award of £8,515.

The maximum amounts may be higher if you're entitled to the disability or childcare elements of Working Tax Credit.

4 Income and capital

The amount of tax credits you’ll get depends on your circumstances, for example:
• how many children or qualifying young persons you’re responsible for
• how many hours you work each week
• whether you’re disabled
• how much you pay for registered or approved childcare
It also depends on the level of your income. If you’re part of a couple, it depends on your joint income.

As Child Tax Credit and Working Tax Credit are annual tax credits, we’ll look at your income for a tax year to work out your award, usually the last complete tax year before the year of the tax credits claim.

What income you have to report

For tax credits, we generally take into account your gross earnings figure (this is before Income Tax and National Insurance deductions). There are exceptions, some of which are outlined on the next page.
If you make contributions from your earnings to buy shares in your employers company under Share Incentive Plan, then those contributions must be added back to your gross pay.

Contributions to any HM Revenue and Customs registered pension scheme (such as a personal pension plan or retirement annuity) and payments under the Gift Aid scheme should be deducted when you work out your income for a tax credits claim. If you made personal pension or retirement annuity contributions, Gift Aid payments or a trading loss, read TC825, ‘Working sheet for tax credits relief for Gift Aid donations, pension contributions and trading losses’.

Go to GOV.UK and search for TC825.

If you don’t have internet access phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900 for a copy. This will help you to work out the income to enter on your tax credits claim.

You shouldn’t normally deduct any contributions to an occupational pension scheme or payments under a payroll giving or Give As You Earn scheme. This is because your employer will have already deducted these payments from your gross pay.

We take the full amount of salary and wages into account when we work out how much tax credits to pay, this includes:
• commission
• bonuses
• tips
• gratuities
• profit-related pay
• holiday pay
• statutory Sick Pay (SSP)
• some benefits in kind which may be provided by your employer
  (for example, car and car fuel, allowances for the use of your own car on business, vouchers and credit tokens)

Although Statutory Maternity Pay (SMP), Statutory Paternity Pay (SPP) and Statutory Adoption Pay (SAP) are taxable, you should deduct the actual amount paid up to a maximum of £100 for each week of payment from your income for tax credits purposes.

You should include any earnings from employment outside the UK, for example:
• taxable profits from self-employment, including any from outside the UK
• the following taxable social security benefits
  – Carer’s Allowance
  – Bereavement Allowance
  – contribution-based Jobseeker’s Allowance
  – contribution-based Employment and Support Allowance
  – Income Support paid to a couple and the person getting it was on strike
  – Incapacity Benefit paid after the first 28 weeks of incapacity (at the short-term higher and long-term rates, including any child dependency increases paid with these benefits)

But not, non-taxable benefits such as
• Child Benefit
• Attendance Allowance
• Disability Living Allowance or Personal Independence Payment
• Council Tax Reduction (sometimes called Council Tax Support) or Housing Benefit
• income-related Employment and Support Allowance
• income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance is taxable but isn’t included as income for tax credits
• an Adult Dependants’ Grant paid to students with a spouse, unmarried partner or a dependent adult and in Scotland, any Childs Dependant’s Grant
• miscellaneous income that’s taxable such as copyright royalties paid to someone who isn’t a professional author or composer, which is taxable under Part 5 of the Income Tax (Trading and Other Income) Act 2005

We also take into account:
• State Retirement Pensions (including Widowed Parent’s Allowance, Widow’s Allowance, Widow’s Pension and Industrial Death Benefit) and occupational or personal pensions – but not war pensions, whether paid on grounds of wounds or disability or paid to widows
• most income from savings and investments (for instance, interest from bank and building society accounts, dividends from UK companies, payments from trusts or the estate of a deceased person in administration) – but not income from certain tax exempt investments, such as,
  Individual Savings Accounts (ISAs), Personal Equity Plans (PEPs) or non-taxable National Savings products
• rental income from property – but not income which is exempt from Income Tax under the Rent a Room scheme (briefly, if you let furnished accommodation in your own home for up to £7,500 a year)
• foreign income, for example, from investments or property overseas and social security payments from overseas governments, before any overseas tax was taken off but deducting any bank charges or commission when converting foreign currency to pounds – we want to know about all foreign income, whether or not it was received and taxed in the UK, unless you were unable to send the income to the UK because of exchange controls in the country of origin

But you should deduct the first £300 from the combined total apart from:
• income from employment
• self employment
• taxable social security benefits
• student dependant’s grant
• miscellaneous income

You only need to report other income if it’s more than £300 a year in total. If it is, you only need to enter the amount over £300 on the tax credits claim form. If you make a claim as a couple, the £300 limit applies to your joint income, not to each of you separately.

For help on how to work out your income if you’re employed or self-employed, go to www.gov.uk/tax-credits-working-out-income

About capital
We’ll not normally take capital (that is, deposits in current and savings accounts at banks and building societies, most lump sum payments and the value of property, shares and other investments) into account when we work out your entitlement to tax credits.

However, in some cases where the Income Tax rules treat capital as income, and tax it as such, you’ll be expected to include the taxable amount as income in your tax credits claim. This can happen if, for example, you hold shares in a UK company and the company gives you a stock dividend (new shares) instead of a cash dividend. This is part of what we call ‘notional income’.
What ‘notional income’ means

Besides capital that’s treated as income under the Income Tax rules, notional income also includes income that you can be treated as having which you may not in fact have, such as:

- trust income payable to one person but which the Income Tax rules treat as the income of another person – the tax credits rules also treat the income as belonging to that other person (for example, investment income of a child where trust funds have been provided by a parent and the amount exceeds £100)
- income you may have deprived yourself of for the purpose of getting tax credits or more tax credits
- income that would be available to you if you applied for it, for example, a social security benefit. There are some exceptions, for example, – a deferred state or personal pension or retirement annuity – compensation for personal injury
- if you work or provide a service for free or less than the going rate, you’re treated as getting the going rate for the job if the person you’re working for or to whom you’re providing the service has the means to pay – this doesn’t apply if you’re working as a volunteer (for example, helping out in a charity shop or a Citizens Advice Bureau) or you’re on an employment or training programme

Tax credits and maintenance payments

We don’t take maintenance payments, such as child support or payments under a divorce settlement into account when calculating your tax credits award. You’ll be able to have full use of any maintenance that you get in addition to your tax credits.

Child Tax Credit and student loans or grants

We don’t take student loans or grants to meet the cost of tuition fees, childcare or the Parent’s Learning Allowance into account when calculating your tax credits award. But you should tell us if you get an Adult Dependant’s Grant for a spouse, unmarried partner or a dependant adult and in Scotland, any Childs Dependant’s Grant.

If you’re a student nurse or a health profession trainee and you get a bursary under the NHS Bursary Scheme, you don’t need to tell us about these payments in your claim.

When you’ve finished your studies and start work, repayments of student loans aren’t deductible from income in tax credits claims.

Where you can find details of your income

If you were employed in the tax year 2017 to 2018, details of your earnings will be shown on your:

- P60 tax certificate given to you by your employer after the end of that tax year, or a P45 if you left before 5 April 2018
- pay slips
- P11D certificate (if you got relevant benefits in kind) given to you by your employer

If you were self-employed in the tax year 2017 to 2018, details of your earnings will be shown on your Self Assessment tax return.
If your tax credits award is renewed automatically and you’re in PAYE employment, we’ll have used income figures provided to us by your employer. It’s important that you check these figures are correct for tax credits. Contact us if you think they’re not. Your renewal notes will help.

Benefits in kind from your employer

Your employer will give you the details you need on a form P11D. The notes with the tax credits claim form will tell you exactly which benefits to tell us about. If your employer has ‘payrolled’ these benefits you’ll need to deduct the total cash equivalent from the total of your P60 and P45 income.

If you’re self-employed, you should tell us the taxable profit calculated in your Self Assessment tax return for 2017 to 2018. However, if you’re a farmer, market gardener or a creator of literary or artistic works, averaging relief for fluctuating profits isn’t allowed in tax credits claims; further details are provided in the notes (page 15) that go with the tax credits claim form (TC600). If you haven’t yet sent us your Self Assessment tax return for 2017 to 2018, you must estimate your profits for that year.

If your business made a loss in that tax year, for tax credits purposes you can offset that loss against:

- other income you may have for that year
- any income of your spouse or civil partner for that year
- any income of your personal partner (but not your business partner) for that year

If this doesn’t use up the entire loss, the balance (that is, the unused part of the loss after deducting the amounts set against other income of that year) must be carried forward to offset against the profits of the same business in a future tax year. For example, if your business made a loss in 2016 to 2017 and there is some loss remaining after the deduction from other income of 2016 to 2017, the unused part of the 2016 to 2017 loss must be brought forward and deducted from the profits of the same business in the tax year 2017 to 2018.

If you made a trading loss, read TC825, ‘Working sheet for tax credits relief for Gift Aid donations, pension contributions and trading losses’.

Go to GOV.UK and search for TC825.

If you don’t have internet access, phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900 for a copy.

If you got taxable social security benefits in 2017 to 2018, the Department for Work and Pensions (in Northern Ireland, the Department for Communities) should have sent you a record of the taxable amount of benefit.

If you got other types of income, you should refer to the statements, passbooks or to tax deduction certificates provided by the payer of the income and which you should be keeping for tax purposes.
5 How your award is worked out

The amount of tax credits that you and your partner, if you have one, will get is worked out by dividing each of the elements of Child Tax Credit and Working Tax Credit which your family is entitled to by the number of days in the tax year and rounding up to the nearest penny to give a daily rate. These daily rates are then multiplied by the number of days in the relevant period and added together to give your family’s maximum entitlement.

We then look at your income, and your partner’s if you have one, to work out whether you’ll get tax credits in full or at a reduced rate. We’ll send you an award notice which tells you how much tax credits you’ll get and when payments will start.

If you or your partner, if you have one, get Income Support, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, income-related Employment and Support Allowance or Pension Credit you’ll automatically get the full amount of tax credits that you qualify for.

If you’re entitled to Child Tax Credit only, you’ll get the full amount until your annual income reaches £16,105.

If you’re entitled to Working Tax Credit, whether on its own or in addition to Child Tax Credit, and your family’s annual income is below the threshold of £6,420, you’ll get the maximum amount of all the elements that you qualify for. If your income is over £6,420, the maximum amount is reduced by 41 pence for every pound of income (41%) over the £6,420 (rounded down to the nearest penny).

If your income is over £6,420, your tax credits will be reduced in the following order:
• Working Tax Credit apart from the childcare element
• the childcare element of Working Tax Credit
• the child elements of Child Tax Credit
• the family element of Child Tax Credit

What happens once you’re getting tax credits

Your tax credits award will initially be based on your current circumstances and your income for the previous tax year.

If your circumstances don’t change and there are no significant changes in your income during the year, the initial award will run until the end of the tax year (5 April).

At the end of the tax year, we’ll send you a renewal notice that tells you the information we hold about your claim, in particular the circumstances and income we based the award and the amount of tax credits paid to you over the year. You should check this notice carefully and:
• confirm that the details are correct, if we’ve asked you to • correct the details if there are changes that you haven’t previously told us about

You also need to tell us about your income for the year just ended. You can do this by:
• going online at www.gov.uk/managetaxcredits
• phoning the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900
• completing the notice and returning it in the envelope provided
Once we’ve all the details, we’ll:
• check whether the amount we paid you was right
• work out your award for the following year, as the renewal notice will also act as your claim for the following year

If your circumstances and income stayed the same throughout the year that has just ended, or if your income in that year wasn’t more than £2,500 higher than the year before that, you should have got the right amount of tax credits for that year.

If your income goes down by £2,500 or less throughout the year, the amounts of tax credits you get won’t be affected.

As your current year payments are provisional and based on your previous years income, you should let us know of any changes to your income as they happen. Waiting until you make your renewal declaration at the end of the year will lead to an overpayment in some cases which you may be asked to repay.

If you only get the family element of Child Tax Credit, or have been getting the full amount of Child Tax Credit you qualify for because you’ve been getting Income Support, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, income-related Employment and Support Allowance or Pension Credit for the whole of the period of your award, you don’t have to do anything if your income remains within the range specified in the end-of-year notice, provided your circumstances haven’t changed. This notice will tell you whether you need to return it or not.

If you don’t have to return the notice, you’ll be treated as having automatically made a new claim for the next award.

What happens if your circumstances or income change

There are some changes that could affect the amount of your tax credits award. They include:
• changes to the number of adults in the household, for example, if you and your partner stop living together or if you’ve been living on your own and you begin living with someone as a couple
• changes affecting the elements of tax credits you’re eligible to, such as – the birth or death of a child
  – a child or qualifying young person leaving the household or stopping full-time non-advanced education or approved training – stopping using registered or approved childcare – changing your usual weekly working hours
  – moving abroad
• you or your partner begin to qualify for a disability element of Working Tax Credit
• you or your partner no longer have a disability which puts you at a disadvantage in getting a job
• a child you’re responsible for is certified as severely sight impaired or blind by a consultant ophthalmologist
• Disability Living Allowance or Personal Independence Payment starts or stops being paid for a child you’re responsible for
• the highest rate care component of Disability Living Allowance or the enhanced daily living component of Personal Independence Payment starts or stops being paid for you, your partner, or a child you’re responsible for
• the higher rate of Attendance Allowance starts or stops being paid for you or your partner
• changes in income between the previous year and the current year

You should keep:
• a record of any changes in circumstances you’ve told us about
• your new award notice after you’ve told us about a change of circumstances

Changes in circumstances

You need to tell us about any changes in your circumstances. If you don’t, you may be overpaid tax credits or you may not get the full amount you’re entitled to. You may also have to pay a penalty of up to £300.

If a change increases the amount of tax credits you receive, it can only be backdated by up to one month. For example, if you had a baby on 12 June but you didn’t report this until 12 October, your tax credits would only increase from 12 September.

The child element for a young person aged 16, 18 or 19 will automatically stop each year unless you tell us that they’re staying in full-time non-advanced education or approved training.

The child element for a young person aged 17 staying in full-time non-advanced education or approved training will automatically continue.

You must tell us within one month if you made a:
• single claim but you’re now married, in a civil partnership, or living with someone as if you’re married or in a civil partnership
• joint claim (as part of a couple) but are now separated, or one of you dies

If any of these changes happen you’ll need to make a new claim.

You must also tell us within one month if you:
• or your partner stop working
• or your partner stop working more than the relevant minimum of 16 or 30 hours a week (for couples with children 24 hours a week is the combined minimum and one of you must work at least 16 hours a week)
• are laid off
• have been on strike for more than 10 days
• or your partner leave the UK permanently or go abroad for more than 8 weeks (12 weeks if you go or remain abroad because you’re ill or because a member of your family is ill or has died)
• and your partner lose the right to reside in the UK

For more information, go to www.gov.uk/tax-credits-if-moving-country-or-travelling

You must also tell us within one month if:
• a child or qualifying young person leaves the family and moves to live with someone else – this includes a child or qualifying young person who has been taken into care or fostered to another family
• sentenced to custody or detention for a period of more than 4 months
• a child or qualifying young person dies
• a qualifying young person leaves full-time non-advanced education or approved training before age 20 years or stops being registered with a careers service, Connexions, local authority support service, Ministry of Defence or similar organisation
• a qualifying young person starts to have their training provided under a contract of employment
• a qualifying young person starts to get Income Support, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, Employment and Support Allowance, Child Tax Credit, Working Tax Credit or Universal Credit in their own right
• you told us that your child was continuing in full-time non-advanced education or approved training after 31 August following their 16th birthday, but didn’t then do so

If you claimed childcare costs you must tell us if:
• your average weekly costs go down by £10 or more
• your costs go down to zero
• your childcare provider stops being registered or approved
• you start getting help with your childcare from a local authority or any government department – such as early years education grant for 3 to 4 year olds
• you start getting help with your childcare costs through your employer, such as childcare vouchers or childcare vouchers in return for a reduction in your salary (known as salary sacrifice)
• you no longer qualify for childcare costs as a couple because one of you is now working less than 16 hours a week

You should tell us if you change to a different registered or approved childcare provider. We’ll need to know your new provider’s registration or approval number. The amount of tax credits you get won’t usually be affected if all your other circumstances stay the same. We may need to contact your childcare provider from time to time to make checks. If we are unable to contact your provider, we may stop paying you the extra Working Tax Credit for your childcare.

Changes to your working hours
You must tell us within one month if:
• you stop working 16 or 30 hours a week (for couples with children, 24 hours a week between you, with at least one of you working 16 hours a week)
• you work at least 30 hours a week and your hours drop to less than 30 (for couples with children, your joint working hours count towards the 30 hours)
• you stop work
• your employer lays you off

You may get Working Tax Credit for 4 weeks from the change if:
• your working hours drop to less than 16 or 30 hours a week (for couples with children 24 hours between you and one of you must work at least 16 hours a week)
• you stop work completely

If your employer lays you off and tells you it’s temporary, you’re treated as though you’re still working for up to 4 weeks from the date your employer lays you off. If there’s no work for you after that, you’re treated as not working. You’ll be entitled to a ‘run on’ payment of Working Tax Credit for a further 4 weeks before your Working Tax Credit stops.
You can only get Working Tax Credit for up to 8 weeks after your employer lays you off.

Example 1

John Smith is laid off for 4 weeks on 8 January. His employer tells him that he can expect to go back to work on 5 February. John phones the Tax Credit Helpline to tell them about this. He also tells them when he expects to go back to work.

On 5 February he goes into work. His employer has no work for John and doesn't know if he will in the future. John phones the Tax Credit Helpline to tell them the layoff is now indefinite. He'll continue to get Working Tax Credit up to 5 March.

If your employer lays you off but can't tell you if you'll go back to work or you'll lose your job

If during the first 4 weeks you’re laid off your employer says you:

- are now laid off indefinitely
- have lost your job

you’ll be treated as if you’ve stopped work from the day they told you.

You’ll still get Working Tax Credit for 4 more weeks from that date.

Example 2

Anne Jones is laid off on 8 January. Her employer tells her she can expect to go back to work on 1 February. Anne phones the Tax Credit Helpline and tells them the layoff is temporary. On 26 January her employer tells her that they don't know if she'll be able to go back to work at all. Anne phones the Tax Credit Helpline to tell them the layoff is now indefinite. Anne is treated as though she has stopped work. She'll get Working Tax Credit up to 23 February (4 weeks from 26 January).

Example 3

On 8 January Anita Roberts is told that her employer has to lay her off indefinitely. Her employer doesn't know if she'll be able to go back to work at all. Anita phones the Tax Credit Helpline to tell them she's been laid off indefinitely. Anita will get Working Tax Credit up to 5 February.

You need to tell us straightaway about any changes that may increase your tax credits award such as:

- a new child in the family
- starting to use registered or approved childcare
- your average weekly childcare costs increase by £10 a week or more
- an increase in your working hours (or those of your partner) so you meet the working hours conditions for Working Tax Credit, read page 9

To get any increase backdated from the date your circumstances change, you must tell us within one month.

Changes in income

Your award will initially be based on your income for the previous tax year. If your income throughout the current tax year rises by less than £2,500, it won’t affect your award and we’ll still base it on your income for the previous year. So for the current year, you’ll get the benefit of a rise in income up to £2,500 without it reducing your tax credits award.

The increased level of your income isn’t taken into account until the next year, but you should tell us about the increase on or before 6 April to avoid an overpayment of your provisional payments.
If your income goes down by £2,500 or less throughout the year, the amount of tax credits you get won’t be affected.

If your income in the current year is lower than last year’s income by more than £2,500, we’ll disregard the first £2,500. For example, if your income last year was £20,000 and this year you expect it to be £15,000 we’ll calculate your tax credits award on an income of £17,500. In this case, you may be due more tax credits. You can:
• tell us about this drop during the year – we’ll then adjust your payments to make sure you get the right amount in-year
• wait until we finalise your award and we’ll pay you any extra tax credits you’re due in a lump sum

We’ll check at the end of the year what your income was. If you tell us during the year about a fall in your income and it’s less than you expected, you’ll have to pay back any tax credits you’ve been overpaid.

If your income increases by more than £2,500, then we’ll calculate your final award on your current year’s income after disregarding the first £2,500 of the increase. We will, however, use the full amount of income when calculating your award for the following year.

What happens if there are changes in your tax credits award

You should tell us immediately if you think that your income will increase by more than £2,500 in the current tax year. This will help you to avoid building up an overpayment of tax credits which you’ll have to pay back after we finalise your award at the end of the year.

If your tax credits award goes up because of a change in circumstances which increases your entitlement, and if you’ve told us about this during the year, we’ll:
• pay any extra tax credits for up to one month before the adjustment was made in a lump sum
• increase your award for the rest of the year

If your income has reduced by more than £2,500 and you tell us about it during the year, we’ll pay you any extra tax credits due from the date you tell us about it. If, at the end of the tax year, we find that you were due more tax credits than you were in fact paid because of a change in circumstances or income, we’ll pay the extra amount as a lump sum.

You should tell us immediately if you think that your income will go down in the current tax year. Your award may not go up this year, but you may get more next year.

If your tax credits award goes down because of a change in circumstances which reduces your entitlement, or an increase of more than £2,500 in your income that you’ve told us about during the year, we’ll reduce your tax credits award for the whole period so that we pay you the right amount for the year overall.

Alternatively, if we’ve paid you too much in this tax year (or a previous one) we’ll automatically reduce your ongoing payments until you pay back the overpaid money.

The amount we reduce your payments by depends on the amount of tax credits you receive. We make our decision based on the information you gave us about your income. The higher your income, the more your tax credits payments are reduced.

Check your award notice to find out if you get tax credits at a reduced rate.
If you do, it’s shown as ‘reduction due to your income’ in part 2 of your award notice – ‘How we work out your tax credits’.

For those entitled to the maximum tax credits with no reduction due to income, the most we’ll take back is 10% of your ongoing payments.

If you’re getting Child Tax Credit or Working Tax Credit below the maximum and your total household income is £20,000 or less, the most we’ll take back is 25% of your ongoing payments.

If your total household income exceeds £20,000, the most we’ll take back is 50% of your ongoing payments.

If you’re only getting the family element of Child Tax Credit, we’ll take back up to 100% of your ongoing payments.

If you disagree with the level of your tax credits award or with having to pay a penalty

If you think that something on your notice is wrong or missing then contact us straightaway and we’ll try to put it right.

If we can’t resolve your tax credits or penalty problem and you’re not satisfied, you can ask us to look at the decision again. We call this ‘mandatory reconsideration’. Normally you have to do this within 30 days of the date of your award notice.

To find out more, see our leaflet WTC/AP, ‘What to do if you think your Child Tax Credit or Working Tax Credit is wrong’.

Go to GOV.UK and search for WTC/AP.

If you don’t have internet access, phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900 for a copy.

When we’ve looked at the decision again we’ll send you a Mandatory Reconsideration Notice to tell you what we’ve done. If you’re still unhappy with the decision, the Mandatory Reconsideration Notice will include all the information you need to make an appeal to HM Courts and Tribunals Service (HMCTS) in England, Scotland and Wales or The Appeals Service in Northern Ireland.

6 Help and advice

How to claim or get more information about tax credits

You can make a claim by filling in and returning the claim form TC600.

To get a claim form or for more advice about Child Tax Credit or Working Tax Credit you can:

• online, go to www.gov.uk/claim-tax-credits
• phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900
• textphone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3909

For our opening hours, go to www.gov.uk/contact-hmrc

Backdating your claim

We can normally only backdate your tax credits for up to 31 days from the date we get your claim. So, to avoid losing money make sure you claim straightaway.
You’ll need to ask for backdating if any of the following apply. You’re:

• receiving Income Support, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, income-related Employment and Support Allowance, or Pension Credit
• only claiming Working Tax Credit and haven’t received Income Support, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, income-related Employment and Support Allowance, or Pension Credit in the last 31 days
• claiming both Working Tax Credit and Child Tax Credit, and have come off Income Support, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, income-related Employment and Support Allowance, or Pension Credit in the last 31 days

To ask for backdating, send us a separate sheet of paper with your claim form telling us:

• your name, address and National Insurance number
• the date you started work or the date you started getting one of the benefits listed above

Tax credits claims can sometimes be backdated more than 31 days if you apply within one month of being granted asylum or of the decision awarding you certain qualifying sickness or disability benefits, for example, Disability Living Allowance or Personal Independence Payment. Tell us the date your benefit was awarded from, if this applies to you.

Note: We can’t backdate your claim into a period where you received Universal Credit.

For more information on backdating your claim, go to www.gov.uk/claim-tax-credits/backdate-a-claim

Leaving the tax credits system

There are 3 reasons your tax credits may stop.

You can phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900 or write to us to tell us that you don’t want to claim.

If you do this before 31 July, your claim for the current year won’t be renewed.

You may have already got provisional payments for the current year which we’ll ask you to pay back.

If you contact us after 31 July, your claim will continue until the end of the tax year but will not be renewed for the next tax year.

You may get a letter from us telling you that we’ll not renew your claim for the next year because the level of your income means that you don’t currently get or won’t get tax credits payments for the next year.

If you want to renew your claim, you should contact us by the date shown in the letter.

Even though you may not get any payments, you can still renew and continue your claim – if you do, this will protect your claim if your income later reduces and you then become eligible you’ll not need to make a new claim, or if you currently qualify for the disability element of Working Tax Credit you may continue to qualify.
You claim Universal Credit (you can’t claim tax credits and Universal Credit at the same time).

Whether you’ve asked us to stop your claim or we’ve written to you to tell you that we’ll not renew your claim, we’ll still send you an end of year notice. You should still provide us with any information requested on the notice so that we can finalise your claim for the year just ended. If your claim is not renewed for the next tax year and your circumstances change, you’ll need to make a new claim. If you do make a new claim:

- we’ll only usually backdate your new claim up to 31 days
- you may not qualify for the disability element of Working Tax Credit (if claimed previously)

In some cases we may have paid you too much tax credits, this is called an overpayment. This may happen if you tell us that you no longer want to claim tax credits for the new tax year. How we deal with tax credits overpayments is set out in our Code of Practice 26.

What other help you can get

If your income is below a certain level you may be entitled to benefits and services, such as help with the costs of health services, provided by other government departments, agencies or local authorities. You may need to use your tax credits award notice as proof of your income for these benefits and services.

For information about these benefits and services, you’ll need to contact the organisation that provides them.

If you get Housing Benefit, Council Tax Reduction (sometimes called Council Tax Support), your tax credits award may affect the amount of benefits you’re entitled to. When you get your award or renewal notice, you should contact your local authority’s Housing Benefit, Council Tax Reduction (sometimes called Council Tax Support) office so that they can reassess your case.

Child Benefit

If you’re claiming Child Tax Credit because you’re responsible for a child or qualifying young person, you may also be entitled to Child Benefit. If you’ve not already done so, you should make a claim for Child Benefit.

About Child Benefit

Child Benefit can be claimed by anyone bringing up a child or qualifying young person. It’s paid for each child or young person that qualifies. You don’t need to be the parent of the child or young person to qualify, but you must be responsible for them.

The child or young person doesn’t need to live with you, but if they live with someone else you can only get Child Benefit if:

- you pay money to bring up the child
- the amount you pay is the same as, or more than, the weekly rate of Child Benefit you get for them
- the person the child lives with is not getting Child Benefit for them

Additional qualifying conditions apply once a child reaches age 16.
When and how to claim Child Benefit

Child Benefit can only be backdated for up to 3 months from the date your claim is received in the Child Benefit Office. To avoid losing money make your claim straightaway.

You should claim Child Benefit as soon as:
- your child is born
- a child or young person that you’re responsible for comes to live with you
- you adopt a child who is living with you
- you start to contribute to the cost of looking after a child that you’re responsible for, unless the person the child lives with is already getting Child Benefit for them and the amount you contribute is the same as, or more than, the weekly amount of Child Benefit they get for that child

If you have a baby, the bounty pack you may get from the hospital when your baby is born has a Child Benefit claim pack inside. Alternatively, or if another child comes to live with you, fill in a claim form online.

Go to www.gov.uk/child-benefit

You can also:
- phone the Child Benefit Helpline on 0300 200 3100 or if your preferred language is Welsh, phone 0300 200 1900
- textphone the Child Benefit Helpline on 0300 200 3103

National Insurance credits for social security benefits

Go to www.gov.uk/child-benefit

You can also:
- phone the Child Benefit Helpline on 0300 200 3100 or if your preferred language is Welsh, phone 0300 200 1900
- textphone the Child Benefit Helpline on 0300 200 3103

For advice on National Insurance, including National Insurance credits and Small Earnings Exception, go to www.gov.uk/personal-tax
7 Examples of tax credits calculations

The following examples explain how tax credits will help people in differing circumstances. Other than example 11, for easy reference, these calculations don’t take account of the rounding procedures and the weekly amounts are calculated assuming a 52-week year.

Example 1 – single parent, working less than 30 hours a week, with one child.

Patricia Taylor is a single parent with one child aged 12 and works less than 30 hours a week. Patricia’s gross earnings last tax year were £8,000 (rising to £8,400 in the current year) and apart from Child Benefit (which is disregarded for tax credits purposes) she has no other income. She doesn’t use registered or approved childcare.

Patricia’s maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:
- Child Tax Credit – family element (£545) and child element (£2,780), giving £3,325 a year
- Working Tax Credit – basic element (£1,960) and lone parent’s element (£2,010), giving £3,970 a year

A total of £7,295.

As her income in the current year is expected to rise by less than £2,500, her tax credits award for the year will be based on last year’s income. The income threshold is £6,420. Patricia’s award is worked out as follows:

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Annual income</td>
<td>£8,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>-£6,420.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£1,580.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£7,295.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>£647.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£6,647.20 (£127.83 a week)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Example 2 – single parent, working more than 30 hours a week, with one child and uses a registered childminder.

Rebecca Dobson is a single parent with one child aged 4 and works more than 30 hours a week. She uses a registered childminder, which costs her £100 a week. Her gross earnings last tax year were £15,000 (rising to £15,750 in the current year). She gets Child Benefit and maintenance from the child’s father of £1,200 each year. She also has £5,000 in her building society account which in the previous tax year paid gross interest (that is, before tax) of £150 and she expects the same amount this current year. Her total gross income last tax year was therefore £16,350 (not including Child Benefit, which is disregarded). For the purposes of tax credits we also disregard the:

- maintenance payments
- gross interest, because it is below the £300 limit for reporting in the tax credits claim form

Therefore, her income for tax credits purposes is only her earnings of £15,000 last year and £15,750 this year.

Rebecca’s maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:

- Child Tax Credit – family element (£545) and a child element (£2,780), giving £3,325
- Working Tax Credit – basic element (£1,960), a lone parent element (£2,010), a 30-hour element (£810) and 70% of the eligible childcare costs of £100 a week (£5,200 a year), which is £3,640 a year, giving £8,420

A total of £11,745.

As her income in the current year is expected to rise by less than £2,500, her tax credits award for the year will be based on last year’s income. The income threshold is £6,420. Rebecca’s award is worked out as follows:

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Annual income</td>
<td>£15,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>-£6,420.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£8,580.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£11,745.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>-£3,517.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£8,227.20 (£158.22 a week)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Example 3 – couple, working less than 30 hours a week, with one child.

Jenny and Mike Smith have one child aged 5. Mike works 16 hours a week while Jenny works 8 hours a week. Mike had gross earnings last tax year of £15,000. Jenny’s gross earnings were £5,000 and apart from Child Benefit (which is disregarded for tax credits purposes) they have no other income. They don’t use registered or approved childcare.

Mike and Jenny’s maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:
- Child Tax Credit – family element (£545) and a child element (£2,780), giving £3,325
- Working Tax Credit – basic element (£1,960) and couple element (£2,010) giving £3,970
A total of £7,295.

As Mike and Jenny’s income in the current year is expected to rise by less than £2,500, their tax credits award for the year will be based on last year’s income. The income threshold is £6,420. Mike and Jenny’s award is worked out as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income</th>
<th>£20,000.00</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>-£6,420.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£13,580.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£7,295.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>£5,567.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£1,727.20  (£33.22 a week)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

However, if Mike’s hours dropped to below 16 hours a week, Mike and Jenny wouldn’t be entitled to Working Tax Credit because as a couple with children they have to work 24 hours a week between them with at least one of them working 16 hours a week.
Example 4 – couple, both work more than 30 hours a week, with 3 children all of school age

Rashid and Yasmin Ali both work more than 30 hours a week and have 3 children, all of school age. They don’t use registered or approved childcare. Last tax year, Rashid earned £15,000 (rising to £15,750 in the current year) and Yasmin earned £11,700 (rising to £12,000 in the current year). She also got Child Benefit for the children. The couple also have £12,000 in a joint building society account, which last tax year paid gross interest of £360 and they expect the same amount this current year.

Their total gross income last tax year was therefore £26,760 (not including Child Benefit). Their maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:

• Child Tax Credit – family element (£545) and a child element (£2,780 per child), giving £8,885
• Working Tax Credit – basic element (£1,960), couple element (£2,010) and a 30-hour element (£810), giving £4,780

A total of £13,665.

As Rashid and Yasmin’s income in the current year is expected to rise by less than £2,500, their tax credits award for the year will be based on last year’s income, with £300 of the gross interest being disregarded. This gives last year’s income of £26,760. The income threshold is £6,420. Their award is worked out as follows:

Annual income £26,760.00
Less threshold -£6,420.00
Excess income £20,340.00

Maximum tax credits £13,665.00
Less 41% of excess income -£8,339.40
Award £5,325.60 (£102.42 a week)
Example 5 – couple, one who works more than 30 hours a week, with a disabled child.

Mike and Claire Jones have one child, aged 10, who is disabled. Mike works more than 30 hours a week while Claire stays at home to look after their child. Mike had gross earnings last tax year of £20,000 (rising to £21,000 in the current year). Claire gets Child Benefit and Personal Independence Payment (PIP) on behalf of the child, both of which are disregarded for tax credits purposes. The couple also have £12,000 in their joint building society account, which last tax year paid gross interest of £360 and they expect the same amount this current year. Their total gross income last tax year was therefore £20,360 (not including Child Benefit and or PIP).

Their maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:
- Child Tax Credit – family element (£545), a child element (£2,780) and a disabled child element (£3,275), giving £6,600
- Working Tax Credit – basic element (£1,960), couple element (£2,010) and a 30-hour element (£810), giving £4,780

A total of £11,380.

As Mike and Claire's income in the current year is expected to rise by less than £2,500, their tax credits award for the year will be based on last year's income, with £300 of the gross interest being disregarded. This gives last year's income of £20,060. The income threshold is £6,420. Their award is worked out as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income</th>
<th>£20,060.00</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>-£6,420.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£13,640.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£11,380.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>-£5,592.40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£5,787.60 (£111.30 a week)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Example 6 – single person, working more than 30 hours a week

Nick Sinclair is single, aged 25, works more than 30 hours a week and has no children. His gross earnings last tax year were £12,700 (rising to £13,000 in the current year) and he’s no other income.

Nick’s maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of Working Tax Credit – basic element (£1,960) and a 30-hour element (£810), giving £2,770.

As his income in the current year is expected to rise by less than £2,500, his tax credits award for the year will be based on last year’s income. The income threshold is £6,420. Nick’s award is worked out as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Category</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Annual income</td>
<td>£12,700.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>-£6,420.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£6,280.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£2,770.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>-£2,574.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£195.20  (£3.75 a week)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Example 7 – couple, one who works more than 30 hours a week, with one child

Vicky and Simon Graham have one child aged 12. Vicky works more than 30 hours a week and Simon is unemployed. They don't use registered or approved childcare. Last tax year their gross earnings were £12,000. They've no other income (apart from Child Benefit, which is disregarded).

Their maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:
- Child Tax Credit – family element (£545) and a child element (£2,780), giving £3,325
- Working Tax Credit – basic element (£1,960), couple element (£2,010) and a 30-hour element (£810), giving £4,780

A total of £8,105.

The income threshold is £6,420. Based on last year's income, Vicky and Simon's tax credits award would be as follows:

Annual income £12,000.00
Less threshold -£6,420.00
Excess income £5,580.00

Maximum tax credits £8,105.00
Less 41% of excess income -£2,287.80
Award £5,817.20 (£111.87 a week)

However, at the start of the new tax year, Vicky takes a better paid job and expects to earn £13,500 gross a year. Simon also gets a job and expects to earn £21,000. This joint rise in income of £22,500 (£1,500 plus £21,000) is £20,000 higher than the £2,500 limit for reporting increases in income. They contact us immediately to have their tax credits award reassessed on the basis of their current year's income.

Their maximum tax credits entitlement based on their circumstances remains the same but the increase in income will reduce their tax credits award. The first £2,500 of the increase in earnings is disregarded, so the revised award will be based on income of £32,000 (that is, £34,500 less £2,500). We'll therefore amend Vicky and Simon's award as follows:

Annual income £32,000.00
Less threshold -£6,420.00
Excess income £25,580.00

Maximum tax credits £8,105.00
Less 41% of excess income -£10,487.80
Award £0
Example 8 – single person, works more than 30 hours a week, with a disability

Mark Joyce is single, aged 30, works more than 30 hours a week and has no children. He’s deaf and gets Personal Independence Payment (PIP). Mark’s gross earnings last tax year were £12,700 (rising to £13,000 in the current year) and, apart from PIP (which is disregarded for tax credits purposes), he’s no other income.

His maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of Working Tax Credit - basic element (£1,960), a 30-hour element (£810) and disability element (£3,090), giving £5,860.

As his income in the current year is expected to rise by less than £2,500, his tax credits award for the year will be based on last year’s income. The income threshold is £6,420. Mark’s award is worked out as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income</th>
<th>£12,700.00</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>£6,420.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£6,280.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£5,860.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>-£2,574.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£3,285.20  (£63.18 a week)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Example 9 – couple, one who starts working more than 30 hours a week

John Smith, aged 51, starts work at the beginning of the new tax year, having spent the previous year on contribution-based Jobseeker’s Allowance (JSA). His new job means that he works more than 30 hours a week and he expects to earn £29,000 gross a year. He and his wife Margaret, have £5,000 in their joint building society account, which currently pays £150 a year gross interest (this is disregarded as it’s below the £300 limit for reporting on the tax credits claim form). Margaret stays at home and the couple have no children or qualifying young persons living with them.

John and Margaret’s maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of Working Tax Credit - basic element (£1,960), couple element (£2,010) and a 30-hour element (£810), giving £4,780.

Their tax credits award will initially be based on their previous years income and then revised when they tell us their current year’s income. The first £2,500 of the increased income is disregarded. So the award will be based on income of £26,500 (that’s £29,000 less £2,500).

The income threshold is £6,420. John and Margaret’s award is worked out as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income</th>
<th>£26,500.00</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>£6,420.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£20,080.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£4,780.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>-£8,232.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Example 10 – couple, both working with a child born after 6 April 2017

Reece and Scarlett Jones both work more than 30 hours a week and each get a salary of £12,000 a year and have 2 children of school age. On 8 October 2017, their third child is born who is disabled. Scarlett gets Child Benefit, and Personal Independence Payment (PIP) on behalf of the disabled child, both of which are disregarded for tax credits purposes. They use a registered childminder for the child born on 8 October 2017, which costs £100 a week.

Their maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:

• Child Tax Credit:
  - family element (£545) – payable as they have 2 children born before 6 April 2017, and the child element totalling £5,560 (£2,780 for each child born before 6 April 2017), a disabled child element (3,275) payable for the relevant period (in this example of 180 days) of £1,615 for the child born on 8 October 2017.

  Giving a Child Tax Credit entitlement of £7,720.

• Working Tax Credit
  - basic element (£1,960), the couple element (£2,010) and the 30-hour element (£810), 70% of the eligible Childcare costs which is £3,640 a year payable for the relevant period (in this example of 180 days) of £1,795.07.

  Giving a Working Tax Credit entitlement of £6,575.07.

Annual income £24,000.00
Less threshold –£6,420.00
Excess income £17,580.00

Maximum tax credits £14,295.07
Less 41% of excess income –£7,207.80
Award £7,087.27
The following example takes account of the rounding process.

Example 11– couple, who both work and their first child is born after 6 April 2017.

Colin and Mary Owen are in their early twenties. They both work more than 30 hours a week and each get a salary of £12,000 a year. On 8 October 2018, their first child is born and Mary gives up work permanently to look after the child. Colin continues to work at the same level of salary. Mary gets Child Benefit but this is disregarded for tax credits purposes. Their tax credits entitlement for the tax year 2018 to 2019 will be based on Colin’s salary of £12,000 and Mary’s salary for the first 6 months of the tax year of £6,000, giving a total gross income of £18,000.

Colin and Mary can’t claim tax credits for the first 6 months of 2018 to 2019 because they’re both under 25, neither have a disability and at that stage, have no children. For the next 6 months, 8 October 2018 to 5 April 2019, they can claim both Child Tax Credit and Working Tax Credit – as they’re now responsible for a child.

Their maximum tax credits entitlement will be a combination of:

- Child Tax Credit - they’re not entitled to the family element (£545) as the child was born after 6 April 2017, child element (£2,780) which is divided by the number of days in the tax year (365 days in 2018 to 2019) and rounded up to the nearest penny to give a daily rate - these daily rates are then multiplied by the number of days in the relevant period (in this example 180 days) and added together, giving a Child Tax Credit total of £1,371.60
- Working Tax Credit - basic element (£1,960), couple element (£2,010), 30-hour element (£810) which are divided by the number of days in the tax year and rounded up to the nearest penny to give a daily rate - these daily rates are then multiplied by the number of days in the relevant period and added together, giving a Working Tax Credit total of £2,358.00

Total tax credits of £3,729.60.

As the fall in their income was over £2,500, their tax credits award will be based on the current year’s income (£18,000) plus £2,500 (disregard) giving an income of £20,500. This figure is then divided by 365 (the number of days in the tax year) and multiplied by 180 (the number of days in the relevant period). This gives an income of £10,109.59. The income threshold is £6,420 divided by 365 and multiplied by 180 giving £3,166.03. Colin and Mary’s award is worked out as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual income</th>
<th>£10,109.59</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Less threshold</td>
<td>-£3,166.03</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excess income</td>
<td>£6,943.56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maximum tax credits</td>
<td>£3,729.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less 41% of excess income</td>
<td>-£2,846.86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Award</td>
<td>£882.74 (£16.98 a week from 8 October 2018 to 5 April 2019)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
8 Universal Credit and tax credits

Universal Credit supports people who are on a low income or out of work and is gradually replacing a range of existing benefits, including Working Tax Credit and Child Tax Credit. Eligibility to claim Universal Credit depends on where you live and your personal circumstances. You can’t receive Universal Credit and tax credits payments at the same time.

If you claim Universal Credit your tax credits award will end. If you’re already getting tax credits, you don’t need to do anything yet. You should continue to report changes in your circumstances that could affect your tax credits straightaway. If your change of circumstances means you claim Universal Credit, for example, if you lose your job or start living with a partner who already gets Universal Credit, your tax credits payments will stop.

For more information about Universal Credit, go to www.gov.uk/universal-credit

9 Your rights and obligations

‘Your Charter’ explains what you can expect from us and what we expect from you.

For more information, go to www.gov.uk/hmrc/your-charter

If you give us incorrect information, we may charge you a penalty up to £3,000 or we may prosecute you.

Our leaflet WTC7, ‘Tax credit penalties’ gives more information about penalties. For a copy:

- go to GOV.UK and search for WTC7
- phone the Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900 if you don’t have internet access