The Armed Forces Covenant

An Enduring Covenant Between

The People of the United Kingdom

Her Majesty's Government

– and –

All those who serve or have served in the Armed Forces of the Crown

And their Families

The first duty of Government is the defence of the realm. Our Armed Forces fulfil that responsibility on behalf of the Government, sacrificing some civilian freedoms, facing danger and, sometimes, suffering serious injury or death as a result of their duty. Families also play a vital role in supporting the operational effectiveness of our Armed Forces. In return, the whole nation has a moral obligation to the members of the Naval Service, the Army and the Royal Air Force, together with their families. They deserve our respect and support, and fair treatment.

Those who serve in the Armed Forces, whether Regular or Reserve, those who have served in the past, and their families, should face no disadvantage compared to other citizens in the provision of public and commercial services. Special consideration is appropriate in some cases, especially for those who have given most such as the injured and the bereaved.

This obligation involves the whole of society: it includes voluntary and charitable bodies, private organisations, and the actions of individuals in supporting the Armed Forces. Recognising those who have performed military duty unites the country and demonstrates the value of their contribution. This has no greater expression than in upholding this Covenant.

Section 1: Principles Of The Armed Forces Covenant

1.1 We Derby Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust will endeavour in our dealings to uphold the key principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, which are:

- no member of the Armed Forces Community should face disadvantage in the provision of healthcare services compared to any other citizen
- in some circumstances special treatment may be appropriate especially for the injured or bereaved.

Section 2: Demonstrating our Commitment

2.1 We recognise the value serving personnel, reservists, veterans and military families bring to our healthcare delivery. We will seek to uphold the principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, by:

- promoting the fact that we are an Armed Forces-friendly organisation;
- Veterans: seeking to support the employment of veterans young and old; working with the Career Transition Partnership (CTP) and the NHS Employers Step into Health programme, in order to establish a tailored employment pathway for Service Leavers;
- Service Spouses and Partners: striving to support the employment of Service spouses and partners; endeavouring to offer them a degree of flexibility in granting leave before, during and after a partner's deployment;
- Reserve Forces: seeking to support our employees who choose to be members of the Reserve Forces, including by accommodating their training providing two weeks annual training leave (one week paid/one week unpaid) and deployment where possible; offering reservists full access to an occupational health service to which they can self-refer in a confidential manner;
- Cadet Organisations: seeking to support our employees who choose to be volunteer leaders in military cadet organisations by providing two weeks annual training leave (one week paid/one week unpaid);
- aiming to participate actively in Armed Forces Day;

2.2 We will publicise these commitments through our literature and/or on our website, setting out how we will seek to honour them and inviting feedback from the Service community and our customers on how we are doing.
