Annex A

Medical Records

The Department of Health and Social Care does not hold medical records (health records).

Informal requests to view your health record

If you want to view your health records, you may not need to make a formal application. Nothing in the law prevents healthcare professionals from informally showing you your own records. You can make an informal request during a consultation or by phoning your GP surgery or hospital to arrange a time to see them. Copies of records are supplied only if a formal application for access to the records has been made.

Formal requests under the General Data Protection Regulation

Under article 15 of the General Data Protection regulation, you have a legal right to apply for access to health information held about you. This includes your NHS or private health records held by a GP, optician or dentist, or by a hospital.

A health record contains information about your mental and physical health recorded by a healthcare professional as part of your care.

If you want to see your health records, you don't have to give a reason.

Applying for access to your health records

Depending on which health records you want to see, submit your request in writing or by email to a registered health professional such as:

- your GP surgery
- your optician
- your dentist
- the hospital trust's health records manager or patient services manager

For more information on how to access your medical record please visit the NHS Choices website. A link to the section, "How do I access my medical records (health records)?" on the NHS Choices website is below.
