

The background features a dark red and orange gradient with scattered white binary code (0s and 1s). A grid of hexagons is overlaid, each containing a different icon representing various cloud services: a desktop computer, a laptop, a Wi-Fi signal, a microphone, a USB symbol, and a mobile phone. The bottom of the page is divided into a dark teal curved shape on the left and a lighter teal curved shape on the right.

Why work with us?

If you are a public sector buyer our G-Cloud agreement allows you to choose and purchase cloud services, covering infrastructure, platform, software and specialist cloud services.

Benefits include:

- a contract award using a quick and easy 6 step buying process
- access to latest innovation & technologies
- transparency: catalogue shows suppliers, services, prices & supplier terms & conditions
- agreement is compliant, regulated and refreshed regularly
- moving away from long term contracts – initial duration is 24 months with an option to extend by 2 x 12 month periods (this is subject to spend control approval for central government customers)

What's on offer

The G-Cloud agreement offers you cloud hosting and support options to choose from

Cloud hosting

Cloud hosting suppliers provide cloud platform or infrastructure services that can help buyers deploy, manage and run software. As well as, process, store and provide networking resources

Cloud software

Cloud software suppliers provide applications that are accessed over the internet and hosted in the cloud

For example, accounting, finance, collaborative working, customer relationship management (CRM)

Cloud support

Cloud support suppliers provide services to help buyers set up and maintain their cloud services

For example, planning, setup and migration, testing, training, ongoing support
