Removing the Housing Revenue Account borrowing cap

Dear colleague

Following the recent announcement by the Prime Minister that we are removing the Housing Revenue Account borrowing cap to enable councils to build more homes, I am writing to all stock owning local authorities about the next steps in delivering this commitment.

In my conversations with local authorities the borrowing cap was mentioned as the biggest barrier to councils building new homes. Recognising this, in June I launched a £1bn programme for local authorities in areas of high affordability pressure areas to bid for additional borrowing. I am pleased that so many councils took the opportunity to bid for a share of the available additional borrowing. This was very helpful in demonstrating the scale of local authority ambitions ahead of the Prime Minister's announcement.

I was also very pleased that the Prime Minister's announcement received such a positive reaction from local authorities. This reaffirms local authorities' appetite to deliver a new generation of council homes.

We intend to remove the borrowing cap by issuing a determination revoking previous determinations that specified a local authority's limits on indebtedness. We must consult local authorities, representative of local government, and relevant professional bodies before issuing this determination. Accordingly, I attach a draft of the determination that we are intending to make. If you, or a member of your team, identifies any issues with the wording of the attached draft determination it would be helpful if my officials could be alerted as soon as possible, and no later than 24th October, by emailing: HRABorrowing@communities.gov.uk.

Following consultation, our aim is to remove the borrowing cap as soon as possible, with further details confirmed in the Budget.

If you require any further information or have any questions I would be grateful if they could be emailed to: HRABorrowing@communities.gov.uk.
