They set out the circumstances in which security may be required, who it may be required from, the procedural requirements to be satisfied where security is sought and appeal rights. They also specify the period of time that a person has to give the security sought before the offence of failure to provide security in section 70A(4) of the Finance Act 2004 ("FA 2004") or paragraph 88A(4) of Schedule 18 to the Finance Act 1998 ("FA 1998") is committed.

6. Legislative Context

- 6.1 Legislation introduced in Finance Bill 2018-19 gives HMRC powers to make provision in regulations to require a person to give security for payment of Construction Industry Scheme deductions or corporation tax where HMRC considers this is necessary for the protection of the revenue. This is the first use of these powers.

- 6.2 These regulations amend the Income Tax (Construction Industry Scheme) Regulations 2005 (S.I. 2005/2045) to make provision allowing HMRC to require security for the payment of Construction Industry Scheme deductions. They set out who security may be required from, the procedural requirements that HMRC must satisfy when it seeks security and the appeal rights of those from whom security is required. The regulations also make equivalent provision for corporation tax liabilities.
- 6.3 The provisions that will be inserted by Finance Act 2018-19 into FA 2004 and Schedule 18 to FA 1998, make it an offence for a person to not provide security within a specified period of time when required. A person guilty of that offence is liable on conviction to a fine. These regulations set out the time limits for giving security, after which the offence is committed.

7. Policy background

What is being done and why?

- 7.1 HMRC already has powers to require security for the payment of Value Added Tax, Pay As You Earn (“PAYE”), National Insurance Contributions, Insurance Premium Tax and certain environmental and gambling taxes, where this is considered necessary for the protection of the revenue. These powers are used in a highly targeted way, in cases where a significant amount of revenue is at risk and there is an established history of non-compliant behaviour or evidence of phoenixism.
- 7.2 The behaviours that trigger security interventions are not usually limited to a specific tax or duty but are typically found across all aspects of a business’s tax affairs. In Autumn Budget 2017 the government announced that it would extend HMRC’s power to require security to Construction Industry Scheme deductions and corporation tax with effect from April 2019, to strengthen HMRC’s ability to address similar risks in these areas of the tax system.
- 7.3 These regulations set out the detailed provisions for the payment of security in respect of Construction Industry Scheme deductions and corporation tax and are for the most part modelled on the provisions that apply for PAYE in Part 4A of The Income Tax (Pay As You Earn) Regulations 2003.

8. European Union (Withdrawal) Act/Withdrawal of the United Kingdom from the European Union

- 8.1 This instrument does not relate to withdrawal from the European Union / trigger the statement requirements under the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018.

9. Consolidation

- 9.1 There are no plans to consolidate amendments to the Income Tax (Construction Industry Scheme) Regulations.

10. Consultation outcome

- 10.1 Following the announcement in Autumn Budget 2017, the government published a consultation on the implementation of this change “Extension of the existing security deposit legislation to include CT and CIS deductions”. The consultation ran from 13 March – 8 June 2018 and the government’s response was published alongside draft Finance Bill legislation on 6 July 2018.

10.2 [Technical consultation on draft SI – to be completed following consultation].

11. Guidance

11.1 New guidance on Corporation Tax and Construction Industry Scheme securities will be incorporated into the Securities guidance on Gov.UK before this instrument comes into effect.

12. Impact

12.1 There is no, or no significant, impact on charities or voluntary bodies.

12.2 There is no, or no significant, impact on the public sector.

12.3 A Tax Information and Impact Note (TIIN) was published on 6 July alongside draft legislation to extend HMRC's power to require security to Construction Industry Scheme deductions and corporation tax. This is available at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/extension-of-security-deposit-legislation>

13. Regulating small business

13.1 The legislation applies to activities that are undertaken by small businesses.

13.2 No specific action is proposed to minimise regulatory burdens on small businesses.

13.3 The basis for the final decision on what action to take to assist small businesses was that the legislation is targeted specifically at defaulters and businesses that seek financial gain from non-compliance with their tax obligations. The majority of businesses will not be affected by the legislation.

14. Monitoring & review

14.1 HMRC will monitor the impact of the changes introduced by this instrument on an ongoing basis using information collected from its internal systems.
