Antenatal and newborn screening timeline – optimum times for testing

Screening should be a personal informed choice. Women and their families should be supported to understand the tests and choose what’s right for them.