GUIDANCE NOTES ON APPLICATIONS FOR LICENCES FOR THE REMOVAL OF HUMAN REMAINS

The current law relating to the removal of individual buried human remains is contained in Section 25 of the Burial Act 1857 which states that it is not lawful to remove any body or the remains of any body, which have been interred in any place of burial, without a licence from the Secretary of State or, in certain circumstances, the Church of England.

Unless the grave in which the deceased is buried is in ground consecrated according to the rites of the Church of England, and is to be reburied in consecrated ground (see guidance on Question 4[c] below), any person who wishes to exhume buried remains will need to apply to the Ministry of Justice (MoJ) for an appropriate licence.

The MoJ receives over 1000 licence applications a year. Each will be considered on its merits, but applications made for private family reasons on behalf of the next of kin will, subject to any other necessary consents, normally be considered sympathetically.

The Application form
Avoiding delays	The form should be completed in BLOCK capitals, preferably by the next of kin (see Question 7). Failure to provide the required information may result in a delay to your application.
Part A	PART A should be completed preferably by the applicant but it may be completed by someone on their behalf.
Part B	Once completed the form should either be sent or handed to the burial authority (the organisation in charge of the burial ground where the deceased is buried). PART B should then be completed by the burial authority. The burial authority will then forward the completed application to the MoJ. The burial authority may charge a fee for this service. We recommend you ask the burial authority to make a copy of the application form.
Urgent applications	If the licence is required URGENTLY, please state the reasons why and ask the burial authority to fax the application to us. The current fax number can be obtained by ringing the telephone numbers given under the QUERIES section below.
Validity	Normally a licence will be valid for twelve months from the date of issue. However, if the licence has not been used within that time, a written application can be made to extend the validity for a further period, as long as it is made at least 4 weeks before the licence expiry date. There will be no need to complete the application form again, but the next of kin and grave owner should confirm that they still agree to the exhumation. If the licence has expired, a new application form should be completed.
Fees	Although the Ministry of Justice does not charge a fee for an exhumation licence, applicants should be aware that burial authorities may charge for completing Part B of the form.
Church of England	If the remains are buried in consecrated ground then authority (known as a faculty) from the Church of England will also be required (see Question 4[c]). If a faculty has been issued, it would be helpful to attach a copy to the application form.

GUIDANCE NOTES ON COMPLETING THE APPLICATION FORM

The following information is provided to assist with completing the form.

QUESTION 1	Age at death
Remains under 24 weeks gestation	Removal of a foetus that has not survived more than 24 weeks' gestation does not require an exhumation licence. Applications to remove such remains from their place of burial may be made direct to the burial authority.

QUESTION 2	Family circumstances
Civil Partner	Same-sex couples can have their relationships legally recognised as 'civil partnerships'. Under the Civil Partnerships Act 2004, civil partners must be treated the same as married couples on a wide range of legal matters.
Unmarried partner	See Question 7

QUESTION 3	Cremated remains
Urns/Containers	A licence should be sought for buried cremated remains in a container.
Scattered remains	It is not practical to remove scattered remains. They are not considered to be buried and no licence is therefore required if they are to be disturbed.
Above ground	The movement of cremated remains that are held above ground (eg. in a vault or columbarium) does not require a licence (but may require the consent of the owner or deed holder).
Crypts/vaults	A licence should be sought to remove cremated remains kept in an underground crypt or vault.
Remains without containers	If the remains have been placed in the grave without a container, it may not be practicable to remove them. Any application for a licence to do so will be considered in the light of advice from the burial authority.
	Non-Cremated remains
Buried and above ground non-cremated remains	A licence is required to disturb non-cremated remains whether or not they are buried or kept above ground in a vault, tomb, mausoleum, sarcophagus or columbarium
	Cause of death (non-cremated remains only)
Death certificate	Confirmation of the cause of death is required in cases where the deceased died within the preceding 12 months and the remains are to be cremated. This information may be required for public health or cremation regulation purposes.

QUESTION 4 [b]	Remains going to another place of burial in England or Wales

Consent of receiving cemetery	Please remember to include written confirmation of agreement from the person in charge of the cemetery, churchyard or crematorium where the remains are to be re-buried or cremated.
	Remains going to another place of burial outside England or Wales
Remains going outside England or Wales	The table below sets out the circumstances where the MoJ require written confirmation from the person in charge of the cemetery, churchyard or crematorium and from the carrier that they are prepared to transport the remains. In addition you will also need to apply for an Order allowing the removal of remains abroad from the local coroner. However, this information is not required by the MoJ.

Type of remains	Destination	Written confirmation required from the person in charge of the cemetery/crematorium	Letter from airline or shipping agents
Non cremated remains	Outside England and Wales	Yes	Yes *
Cremated remains		No	No
Non cremated remains for cremation		Yes	Yes

* not required if transporting remains by road to Scotland

Non-cremated remains going abroad for cremation	Where non-cremated remains are to be exhumed for cremation abroad written confirmation of acceptance should be provided from the overseas crematorium where the remains are to be cremated. An order allowing the removal of the remains abroad will also be necessary from the local coroner.
Transportation of cremated remains	It is understood that cremated remains can normally be transported as hand luggage. However, applicants are advised to check with the airline company beforehand to check for any specific requirements. When escorting human remains overseas, it is advisable to carry all relevant documentation as evidence as to the contents of the containers, and the consent of the UK authorities, the carrier, and, as appropriate, the receiving authorities.

QUESTION 4[c]	Ground consecrated in accordance with the rites of the Church of England
Meaning	Consecrated means a burial ground that has been sanctified or made holy in accordance with the rites of the Church of England. It does not mean ground blessed during the funeral service.
Other religious denominations	Ground consecrated by the Roman Catholic Church, the Church in Wales or any other religious denomination does not have the same legal effect as ground consecrated by the Church of England.
Confirmation of consecration	The burial authority will be able to advise as to whether the ground the remains are interred in is consecrated or not.
Diocesan Office	If the grave from which the deceased is to be removed is within consecrated ground you will need to apply for a faculty. The burial authority will be able to advise you of the contact details of the local Diocesan Office if necessary.
Guide to when a faculty and/or MoJ licence is required	The table below sets out the circumstances in which an exhumation licence alone, a faculty alone, or both, will be required:

From	To	Authority required
Removal of remains from consecrated ground	To a different grave plot that is also consecrated	Faculty
Removal of remains from consecrated ground	Re-interring in exactly the same grave	Faculty
Removal of remains from consecrated ground	To unconsecrated ground	Faculty
Removal of remains from unconsecrated ground	To consecrated or unconsecrated ground, or reinterment in the same grave	MOJ licence

QUESTION 4 [e]	To examine the remains or the contents of the coffin/other container
Examination of non-cremated remains	Please explain on page 4 of the application form the reasons why the remains or the contents of the coffin or container need to be examined, and the proposed arrangements for such an examination. Written confirmation should be provided from the person due to undertake the examination. This should include their opinion as to the likelihood that the examination will succeed in meeting its purpose.
Human Tissue Act 2004	Any examination of non-cremated remains less than 100 years old is likely to require compliance with the provisions of the Human Tissue Act 2004.

QUESTION 5	Self explanatory

QUESTION 6	Self explanatory
QUESTION 7	Relationship to the deceased
Next of kin	The consents of all the next of kin of the deceased are normally required. The next of kin for the purposes of an exhumation licence application are broadly those as set out below:
Order of kinship	Order of kinship is as follows: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Spouse or civil partner (see the Civil Partnerships Act 2004) 2. All children and both parents 3. All brothers and sisters 4. All grandchildren and grandparents
Those not regarded as next of kin	The following will not be regarded as next of kin: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Divorced spouse 2. Unmarried partner However, it remains open for such a person to make an application (see advice under 'Applications by those other than by next of kin' below).
Next of kin unable to give consent	Where the next of kin are unable to give their consent personally, for example, on account of frailty or illness, written confirmation to that effect should be provided by a suitable person such as their doctor.
Power of Attorney	Where someone acts on behalf of the next of kin by virtue of a Power of Attorney, or as a Deputy, granted for the purposes of managing their affairs, evidence of their status (including confirmation that the Power has been registered with the Public Guardian Office) should be provided with the application. Delegated powers for the purposes of managing financial affairs only will not normally suffice for our purposes.
Missing next of kin	If the whereabouts of the next of kin (which may be more than one person) are not known, the applicant should explain the situation in a covering letter, including the reasons why and for how long the next of kin have not been in contact.
Contacting missing next of kin	In such circumstances, a decision on the application may be deferred until suitable notice has been displayed on the grave for an appropriate length of time (normally 3 months) to enable anyone with an interest in the deceased or the grave to come forward. The MoJ will advise applicants on the need and contents of any such notice, and will also seek the agreement of the burial authority.
Applications by those other than by next of kin	Where an application is not made by the next of kin, an explanation why this is the case should be provided in a covering letter. Where the application is made by a person formerly in an unmarried relationship with the deceased, evidence (eg. a joint bank account statement, utility bill, etc), or independent confirmation (eg. from a person who knew the couple personally), may be requested.
Other remains in grave	If there are other human remains in the grave, then the consents of the next of kin for those remains will be required as will the consent of the burial authority to open the grave. A separate form will be required for each set of remains. Where there are a large number of remains within a grave it is unlikely licences will be granted.
Executors	If you are the executor of the deceased's estate, but not the next of kin, the consent of the next of kin will still be required. It may not be possible to issue a licence unless all the required consents of the next of kin/grave owner have been provided.

QUESTION 8	Objections
Next of kin	If there are any known objections to the proposed exhumation, applicants, even if they are the next of kin, should provide the following information in a covering letter: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Name of the objector(s) 2. Address of the objector(s) (if known) 3. Contact telephone number (if known) All objections will be taken into account; however, the views of the next of kin are likely to be given precedence over objections from less closely related persons.
Grave owner	If the grave owner objects to the application, the Ministry of Justice would not normally be prepared to issue a licence because such a licence does not override the grave owner's civil rights (see also Question 10).
Land owner	Nor would a licence normally be granted if there is an objection from the owner of the land in which deceased is buried as the licence provides no authority for the holder to access the grave

QUESTION 9	Applicant's Declaration
Requirements	The form should be signed and dated by all the next of kin as evidence of their consent. Failure to do so may result in a delay to your application pending further enquiries.
Other information	Further information from those signing the application form may be necessary and a telephone number is requested to aid such enquiries.
Next of kin under 18 years of age	Where the next of kin is under 18 years of age, their consent should be given by their parent or legal guardian, with a covering letter to explain why they are completing the form on their behalf.

QUESTION 10	Grave Owner's Declaration
Grant of access	The application should be made with the consent of the owner of the exclusive rights of burial relating to the grave (if any). This is because an exhumation licence is permissive and does not override the rights of the holder of the burial rights to determine who should be buried in the grave.
Burials on private land	Where remains have been buried on private land (such as in a garden or field), the land owner would be considered the burial authority and should complete PART B of the form.
