

SURVEILLANCE CAMERA COMMISSIONER

Objective 11 - Foregrounding human rights and civil liberties standards in the use of surveillance camera technologies for the provision public safety

Work Strand Lead - Professor Pete Fussey, University of Essex

Number	Deliverable	Success measure	Target Date	How does this contribute towards objective
11.1	Establish human rights sub group under Surveillance Camera Commissioner (SCC) advisory panel to access a range of perspectives on issues of law, operations and technology.	Composition of sub panel	07/01/2019	Provide advice from core areas of relevance including legal, technological and operational expertise.
11.2	Scope relevant existing advice and provision on human rights and liberties in domains that are related yet external to the SCC remit.	Acquisition of information concerning: (a) different approaches to using rights instruments and ethics principles, (b) the efficacy of human rights instruments in current statutes and regulatory controls, (c) operational experience and where better guidance may be required, (d) points of friction between human rights and ethical standards approaches. and explore whether additional guidance may be appropriate.	03/05/2019	(a) provide detailed understanding of parallel discussions on related themes that could inform SCC policy development. (b) target human rights focused discussion and interventions most effectively towards areas of identified need.
11.3	Develop a strategy to capture and communicate core principles concerning human rights as they apply to surveillance cameras.	Report to advisory panel for consideration and advice on next steps dissemination	TBC	Disseminate key topic specific thinking on human rights standards and approaches as they apply to surveillance camera uses for the provision of public safety.
11.4	Integrate human rights strand work with SCC policy developments and other strand activities.	Integration of outputs from D2 & D3 into other strand activities and SCC policy including future editions of the national strategy.	TBC	