Main points

- The total number of on-licensed premises at 30 June 2001 was 110,000, about 4,200 (4 per cent) more than twelve years ago. The number of on-licences has been fluctuating slightly in recent years.
- The number of off-licensed premises at 30 June 2001 was 44,700. This number has also been fluctuating slightly over recent years.
- There were just over 5,000 new applications for on-licences and about 2,350 new applications for off-licences in the year to June 2001. In both cases about seven out of every eight applications was granted.
- Some 180 licences were revoked in the year to June 2001 of which 130 were on-licences.
- At 30 June 2001 there were just over 9,100 Special Hours certificates in force. During the previous twelve months over 1,900 new certificates were granted.
- 40,000 occasional permissions were granted to 22,000 organisations.

COMMENTARY

On-licensed premises (Table 1, figure 1)

On 30 June 2001 there were 110,000 on-licensed premises, a fall of 1,300 (1 per cent) from the number recorded in June 1998, the last time a full survey was carried out. Compared with 1989, twelve years, or four reporting cycles, ago, the overall number of on-licences has risen by 4,200 (4 per cent). There was a steady rise in the number of on-licences until the early 1990s, since when the numbers recorded have fluctuated slightly but with no obvious trend (Table 1).

Types of on-licence (Tables 1 and 2 and figure 2)

Compared with twelve years ago, the largest growth has been in "general" full on-licences (i.e. public houses, etc.) which rose 5,800 or 8 per cent to 78,500; and restaurant licences, which were up 1,100 or 6 per cent to 20,300, although the latter reached a slightly higher figure during the intervening period (Table 2).

Although there was an increase in actual numbers, restaurant-only licences accounted for about 18 per cent of all on-licences consistently for at least the last twelve years; the proportion represented by full on-licences has climbed slightly from 68 per cent twelve years ago to 71 per cent three years ago, where it now remains.

Despite the growth in restaurant-only licences the numbers of residential and combined restaurant and residential licences have both fallen over the twelve-year period, by 26 and 24 per cent respectively.

The number of licensed clubs is about 200 below the number recorded in 1989. After a slow rise up to the mid-1990s the number of these clubs is now declining gently.

New applications (Table 3 and figure 3)

During the twelve months ending 30 June 2001 there were just over 5,000 new applications for on-licences, almost exactly the same as the number at the last enquiry three years ago, and the success rate at 88 per cent matched, almost exactly, the rate last time. Seventy per cent of new applications were for full on-licences (pubs etc.) and 27 per cent were for restaurant and residential licences. Of the 3,500 applications for full on-licences 3,100 (87 per cent) were granted; however 91 per cent of applications for restaurant and residential licences were granted (1,210 out of 1,340 applications).

The picture at the end of the 1980s (four reporting cycles ago) was somewhat different in that full on-licence applications represented only 46 per cent of the whole and were actually outnumbered by restaurant and residential licence applications which accounted for 49 per cent. Success rates for full on-licence applications were slightly lower than now, with 82 per cent being granted, but 94 per cent of restaurant licence applications were successful.

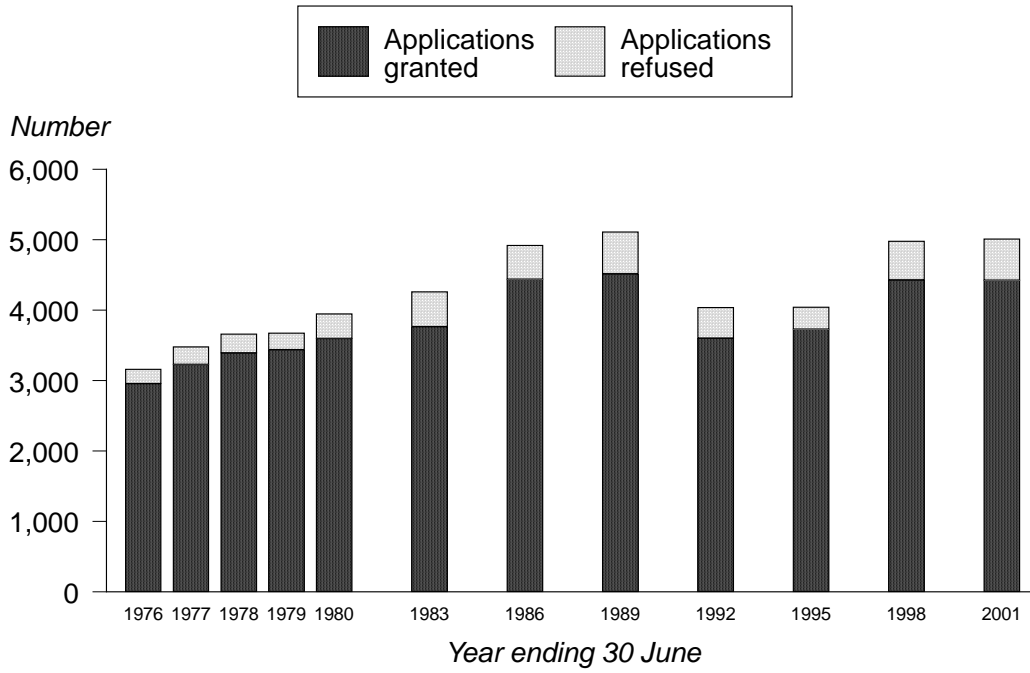

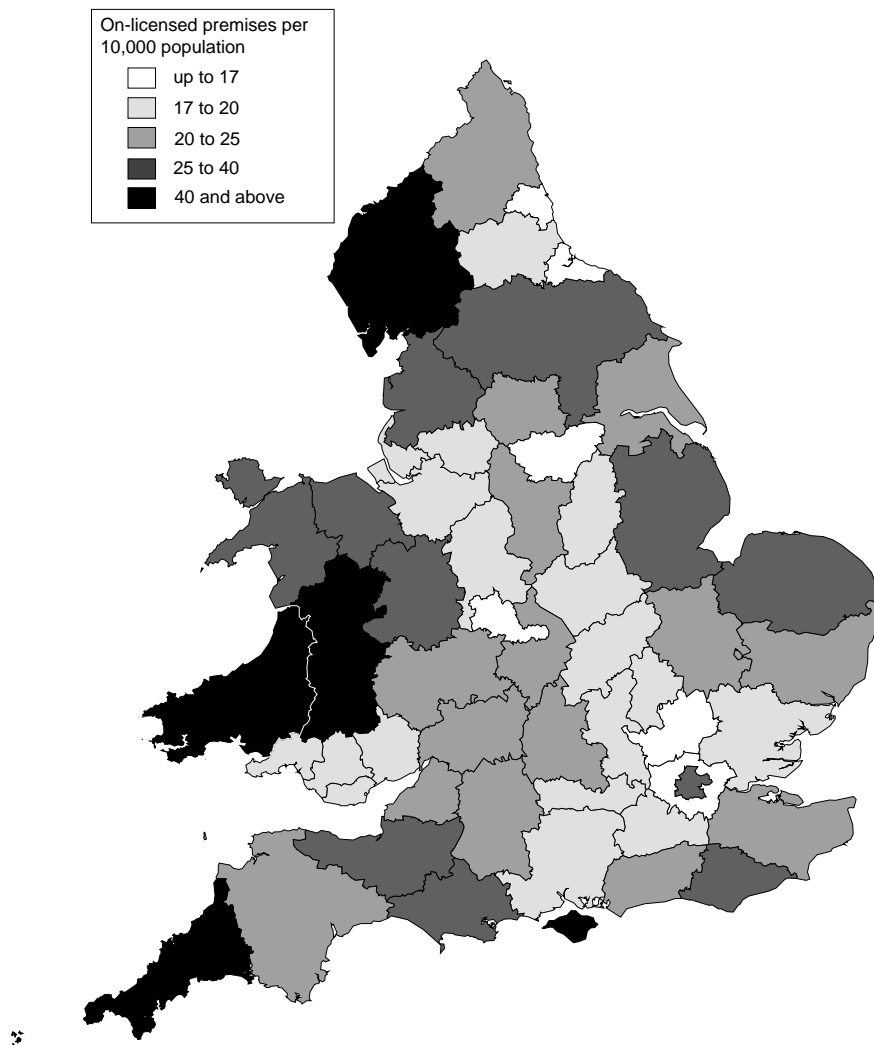

FIGURE 3: APPLICATIONS FOR ON-LICENCES DEALT WITH, BY OUTCOME, ENGLAND AND WALES, 1976-2001

MAP 1: ON-LICENCES PER 10,000 POPULATION BY COUNTY, ENGLAND AND WALES, 30 JUNE 2001

Geographical distribution of on-licences (Map 1)

The highest densities of on-licensed premises per head of population are to be found in the counties of rural mid- and west Wales, Cornwall, Cumbria and the Isle of Wight. In general these are all areas where tourism is the main or an important industry. The lowest densities are to be found in outer London, the West Midlands, and some of the old industrial areas of the north and north-east of England.

Off-licensed premises (Tables 1 and 3, figure 4)

The number of off-licensed premises on 30 June 2001 was 44,700, some 700 fewer than the numbers recorded at the last enquiry three years earlier and 800 fewer than in 1989. The number of off-licences climbed till the early 1990s but since then appears to have declined slightly, though the actual numbers have tended to fluctuate from year to year.

Shops possessing an off-licence continue to comprise the majority of off-licensed premises and their proportional share is similar to that reported at the last enquiry in 1998. Supermarkets (defined for these purposes as those shops with a selling area of over 2000 sq. ft. or 186 sq. metres) have increased their share slightly and now represent 18 per cent, up by 3 percentage points from three years earlier.

New applications for off-licences (Table 3, figure 5)

There were 2,350 applications for off-licences in the year ending 30 June 2001, about 300 more than the numbers recorded in both 1995 and 1998, but somewhat lower than the peak of around 3,400 recorded in the mid-1980s. Of the applications made in 2000-01, about 2,050 (seven out of every eight) were granted, comparable to the success rate noted in 1995 but higher than that recorded in other recent years.

MAP 2: OFF-LICENCES PER 10,000 POPULATION BY COUNTY, ENGLAND AND WALES, 30 JUNE 2001

Geographical distribution of off-licences (Map 2)

The distribution of off-licences reflects to a certain extent that of on-licences. The highest densities of off-licences held per head of population are to be found in mid- and west Wales, Cumbria and Cornwall. The lowest densities are to be found in a number of counties in southern England and in Devon.

Licences revoked (Table 5)

In the twelve months ending 30 June 2001 a total of 183 licences were revoked: 132 on-licences and 51 off-licences. This is somewhat fewer than in recent years. There appears to have been a peak in the mid-1990s but at present there are too few entries to identify a definite trend. As in previous years the main categories of licences which were revoked were full on-licences (e.g. pubs) and off-licensed shops other than supermarkets. In the year ending 30 June 2001 these categories accounted for three quarters of revocations of on- and off-licences respectively.

Special Hours certificates (Table 6)

During the twelve-month period ending on 30 June 2001, some 2,230 applications were made of which 1,930 (87 per cent) were granted. This success rate is similar to that noted in 1989 and 1998 but higher than that for applications in the intervening years. (The 1988 Licensing Act gave justices the power to refuse an application for a special hours certificate even though the required criteria are met.) At 30 June 2001 there were over 9,100 Special Hours certificates in force.

Occasional permissions (Table 7)

Applications for occasional permissions were received from 22,000 organisations in the year ending 30 June 2001, a slightly lower number than in recent years. There were 41,000 applications, of which 40,000 were granted; a success rate of 98 per cent, the same as at the last reporting cycle in 1998.

Children's certificates (Table 8)

In the year ending 30 June 2001 there were around 620 applications for children's certificates, of which 550 were granted. The total number of certificates issued since the scheme started in 1995 is now 4,600.

Restriction orders and Extended Hours orders

The Licensing Act 1988 contained a provision for restriction orders to be made in order to avoid unforeseen nuisance or disturbance arising from the extended afternoon opening hours permitted by the Act. In the twelve months to 30 June 2001, six such grants were reported.

Extended hours orders allow alcohol to be served up to 1 a.m. on certain days in on-licensed premises where substantial refreshment and entertainment are also provided; for this reason most of these orders are made in favour of restaurant-type premises. In the year ending 30 June 2001, 102 applications were made, of which 81 were granted. Just under 1,100 orders are currently in force.

NOTES, DEFINITIONS AND CONVENTIONS

Public houses, etc	Public houses, hotels etc. (other than those licensed under Part IV of the Licensing Act 1964) having a justices' on-licence. A justices' on-licence authorises the sale of intoxicating liquor for consumption on or off the premises, unless a condition is attached to the licence prohibiting off-sales.
Restaurant and residential licences	Premises with a restaurant, residential or combined restaurant and residential licence under Part IV of the Licensing Act 1964.
Licensed clubs	Clubs licensed under Section 55 of the Licensing Act 1964, including clubs holding a justices' licence which is also a Part IV licence under the Licensing Act 1964.
Off licences	Premises with a justices' licence to sell intoxicating liquor for consumption off the premises.
Theatres	Premises used for the performance of stage plays, whether under Royal Patent or licensed under the Theatres Act 1968, in which intoxicating liquor can be sold without a justices' licence (Licensing Act 1964, section 199(c)).
Registered clubs	Clubs registered under Section 40 of the Licensing Act 1964.
Special Hours certificates	Certificates granted under sections 76 to 83 of the Licensing Act 1964 to permit the sale and consumption of liquor during specified times on particular days outside of licensing hours. These certificates apply to on-licensed premises and registered clubs which have a music and dancing licence and provide substantial refreshment; and also to casino premises which provide gaming facilities and substantial refreshment. A certificate remains in force until revoked.
Occasional permissions	Permissions granted under the Licensing (Occasional Permissions) Act 1983 to representatives of charitable and non-profit-making organisations authorising the sale of alcohol at particular functions.
Children's certificates	Since 3 January 1995, licensing justices may grant Children's Certificates to permit accompanied children under 14 to enter the bar area of licensed premises. Section 19 and Schedule 7 of the Deregulation and Contracting Out Act 1994 have inserted into the Licensing Act 1964 provisions which allow children under 14 accompanied by an adult to be admitted to certificated bar premises in certain circumstances. Before granting a certificate, licensing justices must be satisfied that the bar area to which an application relates constitutes an environment in which it is suitable for children under 14 to be present, and that meals and beverages other than intoxicating liquor will be available for consumption in that area. Licensing justices are also able to impose other conditions, including restrictions on the days or hours during which the certificate is operational. Certificates will normally be operational up to 9 p.m. but earlier or later times may be specified. A certificate remains in force until revoked.
Restriction orders	Section 3 of the Licensing Act 1988 inserted new Sections 67a-67d into the 1964 Act providing for the making of restriction orders. These orders require particular premises to close for some or all of the hours between 2.30 p.m. and 5.30 p.m. on some or all weekdays for a maximum of twelve months.

Extended Hours Orders Orders granted under section 70 of the Licensing Act 1964 to permit the sale and consumption of liquor until 1.00am on particular days in on-licensed premises and registered clubs which provide substantial refreshment and entertainment. The supply of liquor in these premises must be ancillary to the provision of refreshment and entertainment so that, in practice, these orders are mostly given to restaurant type premises. An order remains in force until revoked.

Methodology

1. The tables in this bulletin were compiled from returns submitted by Clerks to Justices in England and Wales. However, no returns were received from 11 petty sessional divisions and only partial returns received from a further 28 divisions.

2. Where data for 2001 were completely absent, figures from the previous return in 1998 were used (shown in Table 9 in italics). Where data were partially absent (typically a total for on- or off-licences might be given in the 2001 returns, but with no breakdown of types of premises within the category), then estimates were made based on the actual total value given and the corresponding data from the previous (1998) return. These are shown as figures within a shaded cell.

3. Mid-2000 population estimates (being the latest available at the time of publication) published by the Office for National Statistics were used to calculate the per 10,000 population figures in the maps and in Table 9.

4. The following symbols are used throughout:

-	nil
italic figures (table 9 only)	actual 1998 figures (2001 data being unavailable)
shaded cell with contents	estimated figure, based on 1998 value (table 9 only) (2001 data unavailable)
blank shaded cell	not available

NOTES FOR TABLE 9

1. Figures in italics are values as at 30 June 1998, no information from 2001 being available.
2. Figures in shaded cells are estimates based on relevant information from 2001 together with corresponding values from 1998.
3. Figures for density of on- and off-licensed premises use mid-2000 population estimates provided by ONS
4. English figures are grouped by counties, but Welsh figures are grouped by police force areas, since no other sub-national population figures are available for calculating densities.

FURTHER INFORMATION

Readers should note that liquor licensing is now the responsibility of the Department for Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS) and all enquiries of whatever nature* should be directed to that department and not to the Home Office. Contact details are given below.

*The exception is requests for old bulletins (see next paragraph).

Liquor Licensing statistics were collected annually up to 1980 but following a review of Home Office Statistical Services completed in the same year, it was decided that they should be collected thereafter only once every three years. Statistics for the year ending 30 June 1979 and earlier years were published annually by the Home Office in "Liquor Licensing Statistics for England and Wales". Statistics for the years ending 30 June 1980, 1983, 1986, 1989, 1992 and 1995 were published in Home Office Statistical Bulletins issues 2/81, 24/83, 37/86, 5/90, 4/93, 25/95 and 27/98. Copies of these and earlier Bulletins can be obtained from:

Publications section, Home Office Research Development and Statistics Directorate
Room 275, 50 Queen Anne's Gate, London SW1H 9AT
Telephone 020 7273 2084

This bulletin was prepared by Richard Allen with assistance from Darrell Moraes in the Social and Regulatory section of the Immigration and Community Unit in the Research Development and Statistics Directorate of the Home Office, and Adrian Smith of the Alcohol and Entertainment Licensing team of the Department for Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS). Collection of these statistics was already under way when responsibility for liquor licensing passed from the Home Office to DCMS. We should also like to acknowledge all the hard work done by Liz Braines, Liza Murray, Joanne Sturgis, Monique Sy-Yan and Vivienne Murray of the Data Collection Unit in collecting and assembling the information in the tables. If you have any enquiries about figures in this bulletin or wish to request further analysis of the data you should contact Adrian Smith or Ronnie Bridgett of the Alcohol and Entertainment Licensing Team, Department for Culture, Media and Sport, 3rd Floor, 2-4 Cockspur Street, London SW1Y 5DH; telephone number 020 7211 6358 or 6374.

Press enquiries should be made to: Press Office, Department for Culture, Media and Sport, Ground Floor, 2-4 Cockspur Street, London SW1Y 5DH, telephone 020 7211 6269 or 6267.
