1 Means Testing in the magistrates’ and Crown Courts: An overview

1.1 Introduction and overview

This manual is designed to provide comprehensive information and guidance on the criminal legal aid application process for magistrates’ court and relevant Crown Court proceedings.

It also covers the application process for proceedings in civil venues that are deemed criminal for the purpose of legal aid i.e. civil contempt proceedings and breach of Part 1 injunctions under the Anti-Social, Crime and Policing Act 2014. These are dealt with differently – see 6.13 civil contempt & 6.14 breaches of part 1 civil injunctions under ASBCPA 2014.

The manual is designed for defence practitioners.

Within the document there are clickable links to other sources of information as well as to other sections of the document.

This version includes updates following the mandating of the CRM14 eForm for criminal legal aid applications from 4 July 2016.

The CRM14 Post Submission Evidence eForm and other applications associated with criminal legal aid are not mandatory.

These include:

- interest of justice appeals
- withdrawal of legal aid
- adding offence to existing representation orders

However, it will benefit both providers and LAA if providers submit these applications electronically.

This will help you to gain further efficiencies from working electronically and enable the LAA to turn around work faster.

Enhancements have been made to the eForm to allow all applications for criminal legal aid, including applications for which proceedings are not subject to the usual means testing process e.g. Crown Court Order breaches, and to take applications for legal aid in civil contempt cases.

1.2 Administering the scheme

The core process of administering magistrates’ court applications and applications for relevant Crown Court proceedings will be dealt with by the Criminal Applications Teams (CAT) within the Legal Aid Agency (LAA).

The LAA’s National Crime Teams (NCT) deal with applications for criminal legal aid where the client’s finances are complicated, i.e. ‘complex means’ or a request for review on the grounds of hardship or eligibility is submitted.
2 Key Players (including contact details)

Information on the various organisations and departments involved in administering the legal aid scheme is set out below. This may assist with identifying the best place to direct any queries.

Criminal Applications Teams (CAT)

The Criminal Application Team is sited at LAA offices in Liverpool, Nottingham and Birmingham and is responsible for processing all applications for Criminal Legal Aid for magistrates’ and Crown Court proceedings and quasi criminal matters (following the completion of the Transfer of Grant which began in 2014 and completed at end June 2015).

Applications are processed by any of the 3 CAT sites irrespective of where the case will be heard however certain types of applications have a designated team/site:

- Applications for civil contempt and part 1 civil injunctions are processed by Nottingham NCT
- Applications relating to extradition and terrorism are dealt with by a small team of specialists in Nottingham CAT and Nottingham NCT.

A single telephone number should be used for enquiries about criminal legal aid applications:

National Crime Team (NCT)

The National Crime Team is sited at LAA offices in Nottingham and Liverpool and is responsible for processing complex, high-risk and hardship applications. In addition, NCT is responsible for processing any reviews where an applicant has been deemed ineligible for legal aid in a Crown Court trial. (This includes Eligibility Reviews, Eligibility Miscalculation reviews and New Applications Following Ineligibility) NCT also conduct pre-conviction capital and equity checks for selected applications and are responsible for income sanctions.

NCT in Nottingham also deal with legal aid applications for Civil Contempt and Breach of part 1 civil injunctions under the Anti-social Behaviour, Crime and Punishment Act 2014.

With the exception of extradition and terrorism cases (Nottingham NCT) and retrials (Liverpool NCT) complex and high risk applications referred to the National Crime Team may be processed by either NCT site.

Please note the CRM16 form for hardship or eligibility reviews is a paper form and should be submitted as follows:

If submitting a CRM16 at the point of application, or as part of a New Applications Following Ineligibility, the provider should upload the CRM16 as an evidence attachment to the CRM14 eForm, making a note in the further information field that a CRM16 is attached.

In all other circumstances the paper CRM16 form must be posted to your nearest National Crime Team.

A single telephone number should be used for enquiries about criminal legal aid applications:

National Crime Core Team (NCCT)

The National Crime Core Team oversee the administering of both the magistrates’ court and Crown Court means testing schemes ensuring that public funds are granted only to eligible defendants, and that those appearing in the Crown Court pay none, some or all of the cost of their defence. This means the LAA can target public funds towards those who cannot afford to pay privately and that criminal cases can proceed to conclusion without delay.

Enabling operations teams, CAT, NCT to deliver effectively, NCCT fulfil a supporting role. Delivery includes ad hoc assurance, quality, communications and stakeholder engagement, training, guidance, continuous improvement, data analysis and stats, escalated queries and new processes/procedures. They also authorise decisions on applying the Capital Contribution sanction.

The team manage a contract with Marston Holdings Ltd (the Debt Recovery Company). A small Crown Court Means Team in Manchester focus on the collections and income from defendants assessed as able to contribute to their legal aid costs.

The NCCT works with LAA and MOJ legal and policy departments and LAA Service Development on changes that affect criminal legal aid, and their subject matter expertise informs the feasibility and approach to making change an operational reality. Technical expertise informs IT enhancements working with LAA Digital and our delivery partners. Our work on eForms has transformed the application process for criminal legal aid.

The NCCT also maintains relations with key LAA partners such as HMCTS, MoJ, DWP, HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC), ATOS (service desk provider for the Means Assessment and Administration Tool) and defence practitioners.
Debt Recovery Company (DRC)

The LAA has contracted with Marston Holdings Ltd as our Debt Recovery Company (DRC) for Crown Court Means Testing (CCMT).

The DRC is responsible for collecting income contributions, for capital and equity checks post conviction, calculating final contribution orders (i.e. from capital and equity following conviction), communicating with applicants, taking enforcement action, or refunding where necessary.

Contact details for the DRC, which can be given to applicants, are as follows:

Criminal Cases Unit

The Criminal Cases Unit deals with claims from Central Funds (usually where defendants are acquitted in the magistrates’ or Crown Courts) and some Legal Aid claims (Proceeds of Crime Act applications and legacy work, as well as other claims not covered by the Graduated Fee schemes such as special preparation and wasted preparation claims.

The team deals with funding for criminal Very High Cost Cases (VHCCs) and providers are required to notify the team of any cases which may fulfil the requisite criteria (those with trials likely to last for 40 days or more.)

The team also grants individual case contracts where providers who do not have a standard crime contract seek to carry out work funded by criminal legal aid.

The team also work with NCT in Nottingham on the individual case contracts process where providers with a civil contract seek to carry out associated criminal work that is not covered by the civil legal aid certificate in place nor within scope of the civil legal aid contract. This will usually be an alleged breach of a civil court order where, on the breach being proven, the defendant is at risk of custody. Although the High Cost Crime Team works with NCT on the ICC in this case you should apply using the CRM14 eForm.

You should set out why you are applying and how you meet the criteria, and upload a copy of the committal application to the CRM14 eForm.

For further information see 6.13 Civil Contempt

The team also process applications relating to legal persons (e.g. companies). For further information see 6.15 Legal Persons or for further details email ccu@legalaid.gsi.gov.uk.

SIU investigate cases where fraud is alleged by way of misrepresentation or non-disclosure on the criminal legal aid forms. If fraud is alleged SIU will conduct a full investigation and take any appropriate action.

This team is responsible for any legacy work relating to Recovery of Defence Costs Orders (RDCO) for example in relation to the Court of Appeal.

3 Applying for criminal legal aid

To apply for criminal legal aid for legal representation in the courts, you and your client should use the CRM14 eForm.

The CRM14 eForm amalgamates the CRM14, CRM15 & CRM15C.

Applicants who wish to request a review of their financial circumstances on the grounds of hardship must submit a paper CRM16. This can be submitted at the point of application or afterwards.

3.1.2 CRM16 - Legal Aid in Criminal Proceedings: Application for Review on the Grounds of Hardship

Applicants who wish to request a review of their financial circumstances on the grounds of hardship must submit a CRM16. This can be submitted at the point of application or afterwards. Hardship and Eligibility Review applications are processed by NCT.

There may be applicants who have been refused legal aid in the magistrates’ court because they have disposable income over the £3,398 threshold, or applicants who are subject to an income contribution order in the Crown Court, who have higher than usual outgoings and are concerned that the living allowance in the means assessment do not reflect these.

Applicants who are refused legal aid for a Crown Court trial because they have disposable income over the £37,500 threshold may also submit a CRM16 to request an ‘Eligibility Review’.

Tick boxes on page 1 allow the application to be identified as relating to:

- magistrates court,
- Crown Court where income contribution assessed or
- Crown Court where legal aid refused

The CRM16 contains information about:

- The applicant
- Reasons for review
- Extra expenditure
- Additional information
- Solicitors details
- Solicitors/Advocates costs (only required for magistrates’ court cases and for Crown Court Trials where legal aid has been refused)

The CRM16 must be printed from the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/government/publications/crm16-review-on-the-grounds-of-hardship

3.2 Apply online using the CRM14 eForm

3.2.1 eForms and the eForms Portal

3.2.1.1 Set up and access the eForms portal

If a firm are not already using the eForms portal, the first stage of getting access to the eForms portal is to set up an eForm system administrator account. More information is available in the ‘Sign up for eForms’ section of the eForms page of the gov.uk site:

www.gov.uk/legal-aid-eforms

If a firm are already using the eForms portal to submit existing eForms like the CRM4 (for prior authority) then they should have an eForm administrator. The eForm system administrator will be able to create individual eForm accounts for each solicitor. Once initial set up is completed an account will take 24 hours to register on the system.
A quick guide, titled ‘registering a new user’ is available to download from the eForms page of the gov.uk website and contains full directions for how to create new accounts:

www.gov.uk/legal-aid-eforms

3.2.1.2 Roles and responsibilities in the eForms portal

Roles available within the ePortal

There are three user roles you can select within the eForms portal, eForms author, administrator and reviewer. Each of the roles allows you to perform different actions in the portal and the matrix below describes which actions can be performed by which role. Each eForms profile can be assigned more than one user role i.e. eForms author and eForms administrator and the number of users with particular roles is not limited.

Should Providers have problems using the system there is an Online Support Team. They can be contacted by telephone on 0203 334 6664 or email online-support@legalaid.gsi.gov.uk. Technical support is available Monday to Friday, from 09:00 to 17.30 excluding bank holidays.

3.2.2 Making an eForm application for Criminal Legal Aid

3.2.2.1 The portfolio of eForms

The CRM14 eForm is just one of 3 eForms that facilitate online applications for criminal legal aid. The CRM14 eForm, the offline version of the CRM14 eForm and the Post Evidence Submission form.

The CRM14 eForm amalgamates the CRM14, 15 & 15c paper forms:

- CRM14 – application form completed by defendants who want to apply for legal aid in criminal proceedings
- CRM15 – financial statement sometimes required to support the CRM14 form.
- CRM15c – financial statement continuation questions sometimes required to support the CRM14 form
• CRM14 offline form – allows completion of an application in an area without internet connectivity, the form is then submitted later when in an area of internet connectivity.

The eForm may be printed if required but only after it has been submitted. This can be done by accessing the submitted form through the ‘Track Forms’ tab on the Online Portal.

3.2.2.2 Types of Applications that can be submitted using eForms
The eForm can be used for all criminal legal aid applications including:

• applications from those on passported benefits confirmed by DWP (all case types)
• applications from youths (all case types)
• applications not subject to means testing (e.g. Crown Court breaches)
• applications from those remanded in custody (all case types)
• all Crown Court trials where evidence can be submitted within 14 days
• non-custody cases (employed or self-employed)
• cases involving an individual outgoing of over £500 a month which needs to be evidenced and
• applications for civil contempt cases².

The only exception being applications from legal persons – See Section 6.15 Legal Persons.

3.2.2.3 The Applicant Declaration Form
The eForm is submitted without a signature. To prevent false statements from the applicant, a paper applicant’s declaration form has been produced which the applicant signs to confirm the accuracy of the information provided. This process mirrors the approach taken in Scotland.

The applicant declaration form is available to download from the gov.uk website:

Providers are required to confirm that they have gone through the questions on the interests of Justice and financial assessment aspects of the application with the applicant, and that the applicant has not provided any information which contradicts the information entered into the form.

The declaration must be signed to declare what the applicant’s means are at the point of application – it is the defendant’s application for Legal Aid to be represented in defence of the charges brought against them. The application cannot therefore be made prior to the applicant being charged.

The LAA aim to identify fraudulent applications from the outset. For instance, when more than one eForm is submitted for an individual applicant, this will be investigated. There will also be a check at the audit stage.

Providers should keep the 1-page Applicant’s Declaration form on file. It can be saved as a PDF document to save on storage space.

3.2.3 Using eForms as an agent

It is possible to use eForms as an agent but the instructing solicitor or the solicitor who needs an agent will need to grant access to their eForms account or set the agent up as an eForms author on their account.

² If your firm does not hold either a Crime or Civil Legal Aid Contract, your application must be submitted on a paper CRM14 which should be submitted via email to Nottingham NCT.
3.2.4 Receiving the result of an eForms application

When an application has been processed, an email notification is sent to the provider that submitted the eForm confirming that there is a message waiting in the portal. The decision can be checked in the ‘Messages’ tab of eForms, which will give the case level funding decision (e.g. Granted or Refused). The Representation Order or Refusal Notice will still be sent in the post, together with any relevant Contribution Notices/Orders and Evidence Requests.

If the application covered multiple offences, the Representation Order should be checked to see whether all offences have been granted. The individual eForm should also contain notes regarding the Interest of Justice decisions.

3.2.4.1 Ancillary Processes which cannot be applied for using eForms

The following ancillary processes cannot be applied for using the eForms portal (please refer to the relevant sections on how to deal with each of these processes):

- Appeal against the refusal of the Interest of Justice test
- Transfers of Legal Aid
- Withdrawal of Legal Aid
- Hardship / Eligibility Review applications (CRM16)
- Adding charges to an existing rep order

3.3 Submitting applications

3.3.1 Where will your eForms be processed

The office processing your application will usually depend on where a case is being heard however certain types of applications have a designated team/site:

- Applications for civil contempt and part 1 civil injunctions are processed by Nottingham NCT
- Applications relating to extradition and terrorism are dealt with by a small team of specialists in Nottingham CAT and Nottingham NCT.

Details of where any applications not detailed above are processed, listed by which magistrates’ court is or would be hearing the case are available to download from the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/guidance/legal-aid-crime-eform

Contact details for each CAT office can be found in the Key Players section.
3.4 Dating the Representation Order

Magistrates’ court (and Committals for Sentence and Appeals to Crown Court)

Any magistrates’ court representation order granted will be backdated to the original electronic date stamp (either obtained by the provider when completing the eForm or assigned the first time the eForm is submitted via the online portal) even if the form is later returned for amendment\(^3\). This also applies to representation orders for Committals for Sentence and Appeals to Crown Court.

Crown Court

Representation Orders for Crown Court proceedings cannot be backdated\(^4\). This is because the requirement for an order to be issued is that a fully completed form is received. Therefore if the LAA has to return a CRM14 eForm, any subsequent representation order can only be dated from the date at which the CRM14 eForm is resubmitted. The date stamp is assigned upon the submission of a completed form. If the eForm is later returned to the provider because further information is required (or evidence for Committal for sentence cases) and is then resubmitted, the date and time will be updated with the date and time of resubmission.

For full details please see the following 2 tables.

\(^3\) For either way cases where the applicant fails the magistrates’ court means test and the case progresses to the Crown Court, the representation order will be dated the day after the committal hearing.

\(^4\) Applications for non-means tested applications will be backdated to the original date of submission
The following table summarises how the LAA will date Representation Orders:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>magistrates' court trials (summary &amp; either way pre committal)</th>
<th>Through order dated from the point the application was assigned a date stamp. Providers can date the application as part of completing the eForm. If the date stamp is not obtained whilst the application is being completed it will be assigned once the form has been submitted via the online portal. If the eForm is later returned to the provider because further information is required or for missing evidence and is then resubmitted the Representation Order will be backdated to the original date stamp assigned.</th>

<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>

---

5 Providers can date the application as part of completing the eForm (once the basic information about your client and their case has been entered). You then have as long as you need to complete the application and submit it for assessment. You can get a date stamp on an eForm up until 23:59. Note, the offline CRM14 eForm cannot generate a date stamp, you will need to transfer the offline eForm into the eForms portal before this can be done.
What about virtual courts?
Where the defendant is represented at a single virtual hearing then they should seek payment under the Virtual Courts Advocacy Assistance Scheme. Where further hearings are listed the defendant can make an application for a representation order, and if this is the case then no payment should be claimed under the Advocacy Assistance scheme.

If the provider applies for a representation order then the client must sign the applicant declaration form in the usual way. Again pre-order cover is available and the form(s) doesn’t need to be completed and signed straightaway in these circumstances in order for the solicitor to be able to legitimately claim payment for any pre order work undertaken.

Please see 5.3 Virtual Courts or further details.

What about Either Way cases where the form is rejected for further information or for missing evidence and the case is committed in the interim.

The onus is on the applicant and provider to re-submit the application at the point of committal. A Crown Court Representation Order will not be issued until the LAA are in receipt of a fully completed application form(s).

The table below shows an example of an Either Way application that was rejected pre-committal and how the date and type of Representation Order differ, dependant on the date of re-submission, the evidence provided and the result of the means assessment.

3.5 Documentation required to make an application

3.5.1 Magistrates’ court
Applications for representation in the magistrates’ court will not be complete unless the CRM14 eForm has been fully completed and is accompanied with supporting financial evidence of the applicant’s income and (where applicable) outgoings.

Those applicants who are employed or self-employed and who have been remanded into custody by the court (or already serving a custodial sentence) can submit applications without being required to evidence their income.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Self-declaration</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The CRM14 eForm asks whether the applicant has been remanded into custody.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| The ability to self-declare is restricted to:
  | Proceedings that conclude in the magistrates’ court (including Committals for Sentence) |
  | Appeals to the Crown Court (where the applicant is subject to an immediate custodial sentence) |

For other relevant Crown Court proceedings (i.e. trials, retrials, voluntary bills) applicants are required to provide evidence supporting their self-declaration within 14 days of committal, sending or transfer or date of representation order (whichever is the latest) unless they are refused as ineligible for the Crown Court proceedings.

Where an applicant is relying on a self-declaration, the LAA can then verify details with third parties and the applicant’s employer. Where the LAA contacts an employer, this is done as discreetly as possible.

It is not possible for applicants to self-declare when produced from police custody. What this means is that the CRM14 Form application cannot be submitted until the supporting documentary evidence can also be uploaded. In these circumstances the provider can however obtain a date stamp (by completing at least the first 3 parts of the CRM14 eForm) without evidence and the application can then be submitted once supporting evidence has been uploaded. This will ensure that any subsequent representation order is backdated and would cover the first hearing. Alternatively if the applicant is subsequently remanded into court custody the question ‘has a court remanded you in custody?’ on the eForm (Evidence: 1 section – Questions to inform evidential requirements can be answered) can be answered Yes allowing you to submit the eForm.

3.5.1.1 What if the case is subsequently committed for trial?
Applicants are required to provide evidence supporting their self-declaration within 14 days of committal, sending or transfer or date of representation order (whichever is the latest) unless they are refused as ineligible for the Crown Court proceedings. This can be uploaded using the CRM14 evidence form. A quick guide to post submission evidence is available from the gov.uk website:

Alternatively, evidence can be posted to the relevant CAT/NCT.

3.5.2 Crown Court
Applications for representation in Crown Court trials, retrials, voluntary bills will not be complete unless the CRM14 eForm has been fully completed.
Applications for representation for a trial in the Crown Court\(^6\) can initially be processed without the provision of supporting financial evidence of Income or Capital.

Where applicants are required to provide evidence of their income, outgoings or capital and this is not provided at the point of application, this must be submitted within 14 days of committal, sending or transfer or date of representation order (whichever is the latest).\(^7\)

This extends to those that previously self-certified on either way cases.

Where evidence does not accompany the eForm the LAA will assess the applicants means on the income and outgoings (and capital & equity) declared.

If the evidence subsequently supplied differs from the declaration a reassessment will be conducted.

Where funding is granted, failure to provide the required income evidence within 21 days of the proceedings being committed, sent or transferred from the magistrates’ court or date of the representation order (whichever is the later) could result in the applicant being liable to pay a monthly contribution of £900 or 100% of their disposable income, whichever is higher. Where an applicant is genuinely unable to provide the required evidence to support their application, there may be circumstances where a satisfactory explanation can be accepted or an extension may be agreed. Please contact CAT/NCT in these circumstances.

3.5.3 Committals for Sentence

Applications for committals for sentence are considered complete in the same way as for magistrates’ court applications. This means that where an applicant is required to provide documentary evidence of their income and outgoings (i.e. employed, self-employed or pension over £1k/month (before tax)), this must be provided before the application can be processed.

Because no contribution from capital is payable for these hearings, information relating to property and capital is not required therefore the eForm will not present these questions.

Applicants who had previously applied for representation in the magistrates' court and were deemed ineligible on means can submit a completed hardship application (CRM16) for consideration of any additional outgoings they have paid, for example the cost of representation in the magistrates’ court.

3.5.4 Appeals to the Crown Court

Applications for appeals to the Crown Court are considered complete in the same way as for magistrates’ court applications. This means that where an applicant is required to provide documentary evidence of their income and outgoings (i.e. employed, self-employed or pension over £1k/month (before tax)), this must be provided before the application can be processed.

As no contribution from capital is payable for these hearings, information relating to property and capital is not required therefore the eForm will not present these questions.

3.5.5 Definition of a completed application

Annex P: Hints & tips on applying for legal aid and Annex Q: Forms Guidance provide detailed guidance on completing the forms however the following sections highlights some main points to check before submitting in order to allow the LAA to process the application first time.

\(^6\) Including retrials and voluntary bills.

\(^7\) Evidence will not be requested or chased where the applicant is ineligible.
Further information on completing the eForms can be found on the GOV.UK website by following the link below:

https://www.gov.uk/legal-aid-crime-eform

3.5.5.1 Completeness of CRM14 eForm

- For applicants’ on passporting benefits\(^8\) have they provided their NINO? This must be provided even when they are able to supply a DWP letter or other documentary proof of their benefit claim.
- The NINO is mandatory for Crown Court trials, retrials and voluntary bills (excluding youths).
- Foreign Nationals will be expected to provide their Application Registration Card/number from the Home Office if they have not been issued a NINO.
- Illegal Immigrants – these types of applicants are likely to have a limited amount of information that they can give to support their application. However, we would still expect that they provide as much detail in relation to their name, address and financial position as possible.
- Tourists, other short term and business visitors- Tourists who are on holiday in this country or visitors who are only in this country for a short period are not expected to provide an ARC number but are expected to provide full details of their income on the CRM14 eForm.
- Is the applicant's status in a property completed? Where the applicant has indicated their home address is owned by them this should be cross-referenced against what has been declared for equity in property.
- If the applicant is married or has a partner - check the partner sections have been completed.
- For either way and indictable cases, the applicant must indicate what class of offence they have been charged with e.g. murder / drugs/ dishonesty under £30,000\(^9\) (For all Crown Court cases this information is essential for LAA to calculate and produce contribution notices and orders.)
- IMPORTANT: Please note it is only the most serious offence type which needs to be identified when the applicant has been charged with more than one offence.
- Check the date and brief details of the offence have been entered.
- Where co-defendants are listed, have their names been given?\(^10\) Have reasons been given why they can’t be represented by same solicitor. Ensure reasons for wanting legal aid are complete, including details of the reason(s) selected for summary only and either way proceedings.
- Ensure the solicitor has signed the applicant declaration form, and the correct solicitor’s LAA account number has been entered.
- Ensure the applicant (and partner if applicable) has signed and dated the applicant declaration form. If the applicant’s partner is not involved in the proceedings the partner must sign the form.

\(^10\) Section 16A Criminal Legal Aid (General) (No2) Regulations 2001 states an individual must select the same representative as a co-defendant unless there is or likely to be a conflict of interest.
See also 4.4.6 Signing the form, 4.4.6 Applicants with mental health problems and 4.4.7 Partner’s signature.

- If the applicant has a partner does the CRM14 eForm declare them to have a contrary interest?
- If No - is the form completed in relation to the applicant and their partner?
- Are the employment details fully completed for the applicant and or partner?
- For summary and either way offences has the relevant income evidence been uploaded to verify the details submitted?

Please note that applicants who are employed or self employed and who have been remanded into custody by the court can have their application processed without documentary evidence of their or their partner’s income throughout the magistrates’ court proceedings. In all cases where the applicant wishes to self-certify, you must ensure that you click Yes to the court custody question on the eForm (Evidence: 1 section – Questions to inform evidential requirements).

- If the applicant has a company car or gets benefits from their employer other than wages check you have uploaded form P11D.
- Check to see if the applicant/partner receives any state benefits. If they have children, check whether they have declared Child benefit and Child/ Working Tax Credits. See 12.1 Child benefit and Annex Q: Forms Guidance if your client is affected by the High Income Child Benefit charge.
- If the applicant or their partner have declared themselves to be in receipt of any other income have they provided evidence where this is required?
- If the housing costs/board and lodgings are above £500 per month, has the applicant provided evidence in the form of either a tenancy agreement or mortgage statement?
- If the applicant has declared that they are paying board and lodgings, have they specified how much they pay in contribution to food costs?
- If the applicant has declared childcare costs above £500 per month have they provided evidence of this outgoing?
- If the applicant or their partner has answered “Yes” to indicate that they have received a self-assessment tax calculation sheet in the last 2 years have they provided the calculation sheet?
- Has the applicant declared that they have no income and are not receiving any benefits? If so have they provided a full explanation in the eForm, including how they are paying their bills and meeting their day to day living expenses?
- If the applicant or their partner has declared self-employment have they provided evidence of their self-employed income (most commonly this will be a self-assessment tax return form and/or trading accounts for their business)?
- Have Property and Capital questions been completed in full?11 This is mandatory for either way and indictable proceedings (including late applications, retrials and voluntary bills). The ‘Forms Guidance’ gives more information on this and on what we expect applicants to complete - including differences for applicants in custody - and can be found at Annex Q: Forms Guidance.

11 Property and Capital questions are not relevant for summary only, committals for sentence or appeals to the Crown Court.
• Has evidence of Capital been provided? – This is not mandatory at the point of application.

3.5.5.2 Completeness of CRM16
The Hardship / Eligibility Reviews are processed by NCT. However the application should be submitted to the relevant NCT processing centre. It must be fully completed and signed and be accompanied by all required evidence.

See 15 - Hardship / Eligibility Review and Annex Q: Forms Guidance for further assistance in completing this form. This is currently only available as a paper form.

3.5.6 Signing the form
For audit purposes and with the exception of applicants with severe mental health problems, the applicant must sign the applicant declaration form in all cases.

Even though there are some circumstances where a solicitor interviews a client via video link or from behind a screen, the applicant must still sign the applicant declaration form. For clients appearing via video link the applicant declaration form can be faxed to the applicant to sign.

3.5.7 Applicants with mental health problems
There are some applicants who, because of mental health problems, are unable to give instructions to their solicitor, to understand the declaration and/or are unable to sign the applicant declaration form. It is likely that these applicants will be detained under the Mental Health Act or will be being kept under medical supervision.

Where the applicant lacks capacity, within the meaning of the Mental Capacity Act 2005, to instruct a solicitor as their representative and to sign the applicant declaration form, the LAA’s contract does allow the solicitor to get someone else to sign the application on the applicant’s behalf (See 4.25(b) of Specification of the 2017 Standard Crime Contract).

The applicant declaration form may be signed by

• The applicant’s attorney or deputy appointed under the Mental Capacity Act 2005
• The applicant’s nearest relative or guardian
• A person acting as a Litigation friend
• Any other person who is acting in the applicant’s best interest and who has sufficient knowledge of the applicant’s financial affairs to be able to sign the declaration on the applicant’s behalf

The solicitor or any other member, employee or associate of the solicitor’s firm cannot sign the form.

In addition to the signature, the third party must also be in a position to provide details of the applicant’s finances or the application form will be rejected. The person signing the form takes on the responsibility for providing evidence of the applicant’s income and capital, so that the applicant’s means may be determined. This will include evidence of any income and/or capital assets.

As the CRM14 eForm does not currently allow for the applicant’s signature to be bypassed in these circumstances solicitors should confirm that the applicant has signed but record in the further information field (that appears before you confirm that you wish to submit the eForm) the name of the person signing on the applicant’s behalf and their relationship to the applicant, and explain why this was necessary.

12 An evidence provision fee is available to solicitors. See Annex A for further detail.
In cases where the applicant does not have sufficient capacity to instruct a solicitor, is unwilling or physically unable to sign the applicant declaration form themselves and there is no one available to sign on the applicant’s behalf, then special circumstances may apply.

We recognise the difficulties faced by the solicitor in obtaining information in these circumstances. A solicitor who wishes to act for the client in this situation should complete the CRM14 eForm to the best of their ability on the information provided. To avoid rejection of the eForm, for any mandatory questions where you are unsure of the answer you may select ‘No’ or enter ‘0.00’ or ‘not known’ but you should then provide further explanation of your understanding of the applicant’s circumstances in the further information field that appears before you confirm that you wish to submit the eForm. Similarly solicitors should confirm that the applicant has signed but provide an explanation as to why the applicant has not actually signed the applicant declaration form. Should you experience any difficulty completing the form in this way you should contact the National Crime Team for assistance (See Section 1 - Key Players for contact details)

The NCT will work with you to build a picture of the applicant’s circumstances and assess the level of risk the client presents.

Whilst we do not expect the solicitor to commission a mental health report, if you are able to provide a copy of any existing reports, this can assist in achieving a resolution. If the applicant has been assessed by the court’s own psychiatric team, then providing this report can also be useful. Such reports can be uploaded with the eForm as with other types of evidence.

We understand that it may not be possible to provide reports in every case; however we ask that reasonable attempts to do so have been made. In the absence of any reports we will require as much detail as the solicitor is reasonably able to provide. For instance, how the applicant has been supporting themselves financially, where and with whom they have been living, have they been diagnosed with a mental illness, are they known to mental health services, have they been sectioned previously, how does their illness manifest itself and in particular how does it affect their ability to instruct the solicitor and understand the declaration. This will enable the NCT to work with the solicitor to achieve an acceptable solution.

Please note: Legal Advisers and Judges do not have the authority to accept unsigned forms for applicants in these circumstances, please see Criminal Legal Aid (Determinations by a Court and Choice of Representative) Regulations 2013 for further details.

3.5.8 Partner’s signature

3.5.8.1 Magistrates’ court trials, committals for sentence and appeals to the Crown Court
Where the applicant has a partner, the partner must sign the applicant declaration form. Their signature is essential for assessment purposes and allows the LAA to check the information provided about the partner so that we may fulfil our duty to prevent fraud.

There are a limited number of circumstances where the application can be accepted without a partner’s signature. But this must be clearly explained on the CRM14 eForm. For example:

- If the applicant is in court custody or is serving a custodial sentence and is unable to get their partner’s signature
- The partner is in hospital and physically unable to sign
- The partner has a contrary interest

3.5.8.2 Crown Court trials
There are a limited number of circumstances where the application can be accepted without a partner’s signature. But this must be clearly explained on the CRM14 eForm. For example:
If the applicant is in court custody or is serving a custodial sentence and is unable to get their partner’s signature. The signature will be expected within 14 days however and the LAA will issue an ad hoc evidence request for this.

- The partner is in hospital and physically unable to sign
- The partner has a contrary interest

Where the applicant is in custody and their partner has been unable to sign the form, the application can be processed without the partner’s signature but must be provided within 14 days. The partner’s signature is not required if they are in hospital and are physically unable to sign the form. If this is the case, they must give details of the hospital and ward as part of the written explanation.

If the partner’s signature isn’t provided within the allowed timescales, the LAA can apply the income evidence sanction.

3.5.8.3 What if the partner is abroad?
Where the applicant’s partner is abroad, we would still expect a signature as the applicant declaration form can be faxed, signed and faxed back.

Where the applicant has a partner and the above exceptions do not apply, the partner’s details and signature are required. This cannot be waived even if the client would prefer to keep the proceedings from the partner.

Even where one of the exceptions does apply the applicant must explain what they have done to try and get the signature.

The solicitor must also endorse any explanations on the CRM14 eForm.

The start date for any consequent representation order will be the date the applicant first submitted the form, not the date their partner signed or when it was agreed that they need not sign (except for Crown Court trials where the representation order will be dated from when the applicant first submitted an otherwise complete form).

3.5.9 Signature by solicitor/counsel
The solicitor acting for the applicant must sign the applicant declaration form.

If the solicitor instructs an agent/accredited representative or barrister and so authorises them to work on their behalf, the agent/accredited representative or barrister can sign the solicitor’s declaration, however they must ensure they have the correct LAA account number.

3.5.10.2 Capital Evidence

Once a case has been identified as progressing to Crown Court, applicants will be required to submit evidence to support any capital (i.e. savings and investments) they have declared within the CRM14 eForm.

This can be uploaded using the CRM14 evidence form. A quick guide to post submission evidence is available from the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/guidance/legal-aid-crime-eform

Alternatively evidence can be posted to the relevant CAT/NCT.

It is not necessary to provide evidence to support equity in the applicant’s main home. This will be verified with third parties.

Applicants should be encouraged to provide the evidence at the earliest opportunity but once it has been confirmed that the case is progressing to Crown Court, if there is any capital evidence outstanding this will be requested.

Solicitors can claim an Evidence Provision Fee in relation to certain additional evidence required to support applications for relevant Crown Court trial proceedings. See Annex A: Solicitor Payments.

3.5.10.2.2 What time period should the evidence cover?

When evidence is submitted in support of a defendant’s application it is important to make sure that it covers the appropriate period to give an accurate representation of the defendant’s circumstances.

3.5.10.2.3 Income Evidence

For Magistrates’ court applications - evidence of income should be provided at the point of application, as part of a fully completed application (except those in custody who self-certify).

For Crown court applications – income evidence should be provided within 14 days of receipt of the application. If income evidence is not received after 14 days the LAA issue an evidence reminder giving a further 7 days to provide the outstanding information.

3.5.10.2.4 Capital Evidence

Capital evidence should cover the last 3 months for each account prior to the Crown Court application or committal. If any capital evidence is still outstanding at the point of committal, a capital evidence request will be sent to the applicant.

In effect, so long as it covers 3 months, it’s acceptable that capital evidence could be provided at the start of the case or at the end. Where bank statements have been provided as part of the income evidence for the magistrates’ court application, it is acceptable for this to be used as capital evidence so long as 3 months worth of statements have been provided. If only 1 has been submitted, 2 further months are required to satisfy the capital requirement.

3.6 Length of application process

Please see Section 17 Legal Aid Key Performance Indicators for our targets.

3.7 Prioritising of applications

Applications are dealt with in order of receipt. Should you be unable to act unless the outcome of Legal Aid is known, you may make an application to the Bench at Court for the request for Legal Aid to be prioritised. If the Bench agree the court will then escalate the case with the Legal Aid Agency and it will be dealt with as a priority.

Early cover or Pre-Order cover payments are available for the first hearing in the magistrates’ court.

Please see Annex A: Solicitor Payments for further information.

For expedited cases we aim to process applications received by the LAA by 4pm within 1 hour of a fully correctly completed eForm application with all necessary supporting documents.

Rep orders will be dated as follows:
Magistrates’ court (and Committals for Sentence and Appeals to Crown Court)

Any magistrates’ court representation order granted will be backdated to the original electronic date stamp (either obtained by the provider when completing the eForm or assigned the first time the eForm is submitted via the online portal) even if the form is later returned for amendment\(^{14}\). This also applies to representation orders for Committals for Sentence and Appeals to Crown Court.

Crown Court

Representation Orders for Crown Court proceedings cannot be backdated\(^ {15} \). This is because the requirement for an order to be issued is that a fully completed form is received. Therefore if the LAA has to return a CRM14 eForm, any subsequent representation order can only be dated from the date at which the CRM14 eForm is resubmitted. The date stamp is assigned upon the submission of a completed form. If the eForm is later returned to the provider because further information is required (or evidence for Committal for sentence cases) and is then resubmitted, the date and time will be updated with the date and time of resubmission.

\(^{14}\) For either way cases where the applicant fails the magistrates’ court means test and the case progresses to the Crown Court, the representation order will be dated the day after the committal hearing.

\(^{15}\) Applications for non-means tested applications will be backdated to the original date of submission.
Key differences between magistrates’ and Crown Court schemes

The tables below describe, briefly, how the means testing scheme works and the key differences between the award of legal aid for magistrates’ and Crown Court cases.

Magistrates’ Court
- Solicitors paid by LAA Standard Fee system Simple in / out test
- Income only means test
- Evidence of Income required
- Defendants in Court Custody can self-declare
- Test based on assessing ability to pay private costs (average £1,500)
- Representation orders issued for eligible defendants;
- Test extends to include Committals for Sentence
- Must meet Interests of Justice (IoJ) criteria
- Courts are structured to deal with unrepresented defendants
- Withdrawal of representation order possible during case if subsequently found to be ineligible
- Savings realised from not funding applicants deemed capable of paying privately

Crown Court
- Solicitors & Advocates paid by LGFS & AGFS systems
- In/out test AND Contributory scheme
- Income means tested to determine eligibility
- Income, Capital and Equity are means tested to determine contribution
- Evidence of Income and Capital required to follow within 14 days for eligible defendants
- Evidence provision fee for solicitors
- No self-certification
- Test based on ability to pay some or all defence costs if not passported
  - Wealthy individuals (household disposable income of £37,500 or more) are ineligible for legal aid in Crown Court trials and will have to pay privately
  - Of those who are eligible, some will pay during course of proceedings from income and/or at the end of proceedings from capital & equity
    Anyone found not guilty will be:
    - refunded any contributions paid or
    - able to claim their costs from central funds (at legal aid rates) provided they applied for legal aid and were refused.
- Representation orders issued for eligible defendants. Those that apply in the magistrates and are eligible in the magistrates’ court issued a through order.
- Refusal notice issued to those ineligible for Crown Court trials
- Contribution Notice / Contribution Order issued alongside Representation Order (or mags refusal)
- Appeals to Crown Court also means tested – income only and extra allowance. Contribution required at end if appeal fully or partly unsuccessful or abandoned and failed the means test
- Passported on IoJ (except Appeals)
- Securing representation more critical. Representation orders will not be revoked or withdrawn for non-payment
- Non-payment could increase cost liability through collection & enforcement
- Savings realised through collection of contributions and prevention of defendants with a disposable income of £37,500 or more receiving funding
The magistrates’ court scheme is often referred to as an ‘in or out’ scheme, where applicants are either:

- Eligible for legal aid (because they pass the initial or full means test) or
- Ineligible (because they fail the initial or full means test) and are therefore expected to pay privately.

Whether or not the applicant is granted a representation order depends on the outcome of the IoJ test and means test:

- A court (i.e. bench) cannot override the means assessment or grant the representation order where the means test has been failed
- Applicants can appeal a refusal on IoJ for proceedings in the magistrates court, first to CAT (it will be reviewed by a member of staff not involved in the initial decision and), second, via CAT to the court itself
- Applicants can only appeal a refusal on IoJ for Appeal proceedings to the Crown Court to the appropriate officer of the Crown Court
- Applicants can ask for a reassessment of means if their circumstances change
- Applicants can ask for a recalculation if they think an error has been made
- Applicants can (whilst their case is ongoing) ask for a hardship review of their means test result if they believe they cannot afford to pay the cost of their case.
- If either the IOJ appeal or the hardship review is unsuccessful, the overall decision remains a refusal.

Some applicants will choose to appear unrepresented. In the magistrates’ court, the Legal Adviser is under a duty to assist unrepresented applicants to understand the process (but cannot present the case on behalf of the applicant).

5.1 Assigned Counsel

Under a Representation Order counsel can be instructed in two ways, either unassigned, or, assigned.

If you need to instruct counsel you will need to apply to be assigned counsel and have your representation order amended.

Where the Representation order specifically authorises the instruction of counsel (under Regulation 16 of the Criminal Legal Aid (Determinations by a Court and Choice of Representative Regulations) 2013), he/she will be treated as assigned counsel. In all other circumstances instructed counsel will be treated as unassigned.

A solicitor may instruct unassigned counsel but has a duty to ensure counsel is of appropriate seniority and expertise. The professional relationship between the solicitor and unassigned counsel will be the same as that which exists in a privately funded case and the solicitor will be responsible for paying them.
Where Counsel is assigned under a Representation Order in accordance with regulation 16 of the Criminal Legal Aid (Determinations by a Court and Choice of Representative) Regulations 2013, Counsel must be paid directly by us.

An application to assign counsel must be made to the court. If an application is refused, it may be renewed to the court.

5.2 Either way funding process

For either way offences, where an applicant has failed the magistrates’ court means test (Disposable income was assessed as exceeding £3,398 or weighted gross income was above £22,325) and the case is subsequently committed to the Crown Court, eligible applicants (those with a disposable income of below £37,500) will automatically be issued a representation order together with any request of outstanding income and/or capital evidence. The Representation Order will only be dated the day after the committal hearing and will only cover work done in the Crown Court. The applicant will be subject to an Income Contribution Order so will also receive a Contribution Order (see 6.6.1 Income Contributions).

You do not need to reapply for legal aid in the Crown Court (unless your disposable income was previously assessed as being £37,500 or more and your circumstances have changed).

If an applicant is ineligible for funding in the magistrates court and the case does not proceed to trial in the Crown Court, you will not be able to claim for any element of work done at the magistrates’ court (with the exception being early cover and form completion fees - see Annex A: Solicitor Payments).

5.3 Virtual Courts

5.3.1 First Hearing

Under the Virtual Court/video link process whereby it is the defendant’s first hearing and the matter starts and finishes on the same day then the solicitor doesn’t require the client signature for the purposes of providing representation at such a hearing, be they at the police station or the magistrates’ court. The LAA’s guidance on virtual courts states that solicitor just needs to complete the CRM3 form and this form can be annotated to show that it is in relation to a Virtual Court/video linked first hearing and retain on the case file. The solicitor should record the client’s name and address, the date, time and venue of appearance and details of the relevant unit of work in accordance with clause 10.21 – 10.35 of the 2017 Standard Crime Contract Specification.

This representation is non means and paid as a Virtual Court Fixed Fee where the case is disposed of following the first hearing. In these circumstances the solicitor will claim the fixed fee using the Virtual Court Claim Form. The completed form should be submitted by email to:

Helen.Missing@legalaid.gsi.gov.uk

5.3.2 Adjourned Cases

If the case is adjourned to a second hearing the defendant will have to apply for a Representation Order in the normal way and the solicitor will require the client’s signature. However, the CRM14 eForm doesn’t need to be completed and signed straightaway in these circumstances in order for the solicitor to be able to legitimately claim payment for any pre order work undertaken. This means that the applicant declaration form doesn’t need to be faxed over to the client for signature immediately after the hearing.

In order to claim Pre Order Work the solicitor needs to submit their CRM eForm application within 5 days of initial instruction (clause 10.40 of the Specification of the 2017 Standard Crime Contract). This gives them the time to obtain the signature, either by visiting the client in custody, or if on bail, the client can attend the firm’s office in order to obtain the signature. Alternatively, the solicitor can fax or email the applicant declaration form across once they get back to their own office. The signed application form can then be scanned in and returned to the solicitor via email.

If the second hearing occurs within 5 days of the initial instruction then the solicitor can obtain the signature at that hearing and submit the application for Representation Order at that point.

Oral applications cannot be made.

CAT cannot grant a representation order without seeing a written application and this must be made using the CRM14 eForm.
6 Crown Court scheme

6.1 Relevant proceedings covered by Crown Court Means Testing (CCMT)

Relevant proceedings covered by CCMT are proceedings in the Crown Court that have been:

- Committed, sent or transferred for trial by a magistrates’ court.
- Commenced by way of the laying of a voluntary Bill of Indictment.
- Directed for retrial by the Court of Appeal.
- Committed for sentence from the magistrates’ court.
- Subject to an appeal of a magistrates’ court decision.
- Prescribed proceedings may be subject to CCMT. See Annex H: Prescribed proceedings for further details.

Whilst CCMT mirrors many of the processes of the magistrates’ court scheme means testing for Crown Court trials includes some key differences to the way the process works in the magistrates’ court. We refer to the magistrates’ scheme as being ‘in or out’, which means that applicants are either eligible or ineligible for legal aid based on the outcome of the IoJ and means tests.

In contrast, the Crown Court Means Testing scheme has an element of ‘in or out’ but is largely a contributory scheme. For Crown Court trials, all applicants who submit a fully completed CRM14 eForm will be passported on IoJ but will have to meet financial criteria to be granted a Crown Court representation order. Applicants with a household disposable income of £37,500 or more will be ineligible for legal aid. Therefore if an applicant’s case was to be heard in the Crown Court the means test would determine if they were eligible and if so how much they needed to contribute towards their defence costs, which could be from their income, their capital or a combination of both.

The process for committals for sentence and appeals to the Crown Court is different and is set out below.

Where an applicant faces a retrial in the Crown Court as a result of an aborted Crown Court trial - for example, where the jury are discharged part way through or are unable to reach a verdict, and a retrial is directed by the Crown Court judge - the original representation order continues in force.

The Crown Court does not have the authority to deal with late applications in relevant proceedings.

Where the judge remits a case back to the magistrates’ court, this is out of scope for CCMT. This also applies where the Crown Court judge swears him/herself in as a district judge to deal with the proceedings. In both of these scenarios, the applicant will be entitled to a refund of their contributions and regardless of the sentencing, the Crown Court case outcome will be recorded as an acquittal.
6.2 Interests of Justice Criteria for Crown Court proceedings

Some proceedings in the Crown Court automatically meet the IoJ criteria, which are those that:\(^{16}\)

- Have been committed, sent or transferred for trial to the Crown Court,
- Are in the Crown Court following the laying of a Voluntary Bill of Indictment
- Have been directed for retrial by the Court of Appeal.
- Have been committed for sentence

Applications for Appeals to the Crown Court are still subject to the IoJ test.

6.3 What can the Crown Court grant?

The Crown Court does not have a general power to grant a representation order and can only do so in relation to three specific sets of proceedings:

- Proceedings in the Crown Court which are referred to in Section 14(G) Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders Act 2012 for contempt of court proceedings or
- An alleged breach of an order of the Crown Court, where it appears to the court there is no time to instruct a litigator, (for example if the application is made on the day of the hearing), or
- Where an individual is brought before the court in pursuance of a warrant (Bench Warrant) issued under section 81 of the Senior Courts Act 1981. The order will cover any proceedings incidental to this\(^{17}\).

Legal aid applications for these offences can be dealt with at the Crown Court, a representation order should be produced by the Crown Court and there is no magistrates’ court involvement. Whilst these cases are brought before the Crown Court they are not subject to Crown Court means testing.

Any representation order not granted in accordance with these new arrangements will be treated as ‘ultra vires’. This has two significant implications:

- The solicitor or barrister will not be able to claim for work done under the representation order, and
- We will miss the opportunity to assess the defendant's liability to a contribution order.

6.4 Scenarios where CCMT does not apply

Any applications made for legal aid other than those outlined in 6.3 above, must be referred to the LAA for processing via the CRM14 eForm.

There will be a number of circumstances where CCMT does not apply to applications made for legal aid, although the CATs will still process the application.

\(^{16}\) Guidance on the consideration of Defence Representation Orders can be found at https://www.gov.uk/work-out-who-qualifies-for-criminal-legal-aid

\(^{17}\) If applicant already had legal aid at the time when the bench warrant was issued then this will extend to cover any subsequent hearings even if the solicitor has already submitted their bill.
In circumstances where CCMT does not apply, the CRM14 eForm will not present any financial questions.

Please see below list of scenarios where CCMT does not apply and where the above process will need to be followed:

Confiscation proceedings in the Crown Court

If the applicant already has legal aid, these proceedings are covered by the original Representation Order. However if the applicant was privately represented for the main proceedings, and wishes to apply for legal aid to cover the confiscation proceedings, a new CRM14 eForm application for legal aid will need to be submitted but will not be subject to CCMT. The Crown Court do not have power to grant representation in these circumstances.

(Note that enforcement of confiscation proceedings is dealt with in the magistrates’ court, and a fresh application for legal aid would be required. This application would be processed under the usual Magistrates’ Means Testing Scheme).

Please see 11.2 Applicants subject to freezing, restraint orders or confiscation proceedings for further guidance.

Application to vary a Crown Court order or to vary a suspended sentence imposed at the Crown Court

The existing representation order from the substantive Crown Court proceedings will cover the hearing to apply for the variation. This is regarded as ‘incidental’ to the main proceedings.

If there is not an existing order, the same process should be followed as for Confiscation orders (above)

Breach proceedings for a Crown Court order where there is time to instruct a litigator (any time prior to the date of the hearing).

Legal aid applications for Breaches of orders which are directed to be heard at the Crown Court by the relevant prosecuting authority are only subject to the IoJ test. If on the day of the hearing at the Crown Court the Defendant is without Representation, the Crown Court Judge has the discretion to grant an order for Representation.

Sentence Review hearings under section 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (SOCPA)

6.5 Crown Court trials

The application process uses the same CRM14 eForm as for the magistrates’ court scheme but there are additional information and evidential requirements.

Every applicant who appears for trial at the Crown Court will automatically pass the IoJ test. However, the issue of a representation order depends on the outcome of the means test and the submission of a fully completed CRM14 eForm.

The means test will determine whether they are eligible for legal aid in the first instance and if so how much they are required to contribute. For those that do have to contribute to some or all of their defence costs, this could be from income, from capital or in some cases, from both.

As part of the process, applicants are required to provide information about their income and capital assets so that you can conduct the means assessment. This will determine if the applicant is eligible and if so what, if any, contribution will be required from their income during the course of proceedings. Some applicants will also have to provide evidence of their income and capital.

Where evidence is required that is over and above what is needed in the magistrates' court, e.g. capital evidence, solicitors can claim an Evidence Provision Fee. See Annex A: Solicitor Payments for further detail.

For either way proceedings, where an application has initially failed the IoJ and/or means assessment for magistrates’ court proceedings, the information provided on the CRM14 eForm will be used if the matter subsequently proceeds to the Crown Court.

For either way cases where the applicant fails the magistrates’ court means test and the case is subsequently committed to the Crown Court, a representation order will be issued only if the applicants household disposable income is less than £37,500. The representation order will be dated the day after the committal hearing.

The means assessment determines whether an applicant is:

- Ineligible and therefore expected to pay privately
- Eligible and entitled to free legal representation;
- Eligible and exempt from the payment of income contributions (the applicant’s annual household disposable income is below the threshold of £3,398) - but may be liable for some or all their defence costs following conviction.
- Eligible but required to pay income contributions (the applicant’s annual household disposable income is above the threshold of £3,398);
- Eligible but required to pay income contributions and liable for some or all of their defence costs following conviction.

18 Information on capital and equity is captured during the application process but a determination on contribution from capital and/or equity will only be made following conviction.

19 The annual household disposable income threshold is the same as the magistrates' court scheme (currently £3,398).

20 This is because the applicant has capital and equity above the threshold. The combined capital and equity threshold is £30,000.
6.6 Making contributions in the Crown Court

There are two types of contribution a defendant in the Crown Court may have to make - either from income and/or capital.

They may have to pay all, some or none of their defence costs, depending on what the means test decides they can afford from their income and capital assets.

6.6.1 Income Contributions

For those applicants whose annual household disposable income is above the £3,398 threshold but below the £37,500 threshold, income contributions are required once the proceedings have been committed, sent or transferred for trial\(^{21}\). Income contributions are set at 90% of disposable income and will be for a maximum of 6 months.

At the end of the case, if the defendant is found not guilty they will get all their money back with interest at a rate of 2%.

The first payment date is 28 days after the date on which the case is committed/sent/transferred.

Payment options include the following:

1\(^{st}\) payment route Income contributions are required in monthly instalments over 6 months. If payments are made on time, only 5 monthly contributions will be collected.

2\(^{nd}\) payment route The applicant can pay a lump sum equivalent to the value of 5 monthly instalments on or before the first payment date.

6.6.1.1 Is there a minimum contribution from income?

For an applicant with household disposable income of £3,398.01 (i.e. just above the threshold), the monthly contribution would be £254.85. For applicants who have a higher disposable income than their likely case costs, contributions will be limited to a maximum income contribution to reduce the risk of over payment\(^{22}\).

For all applicants who have not provided evidence as required at the point of application, (not just those who are subject to an income contribution), CAT staff will issue a reminder.

Once the required evidence is received, the LAA will validate this against the information on the CRM14 eForm. Where there is a discrepancy, the LAA will reassess. This may mean that an income contribution is required (or varied) and a revised contribution notice or order issued. It could also mean that the applicant should not have been granted legal aid. Once a Crown Court Representation Order has been issued however it cannot be revoked. In these circumstances the applicant’s liability for a contribution will be amended. This means that if the applicant should have been refused legal aid because their disposable income is £37,500 or more but no Contribution Order has been issued the LAA will issue one. If the applicant was already subject to a contribution order the LAA will issue a revised Contribution Order for a higher contribution. In the latter case the applicant may be subject to an additional payment.

Where an income contribution has been made and the applicant is subsequently acquitted, all contributions will be refunded with interest\(^{23}\).

\(^{21}\) This includes proceedings directed for retrial or a voluntary bill of indictment has been preferred.

\(^{22}\) See Annex K: Case Costs

\(^{23}\) Unless exceptional circumstances apply (e.g. misleading the prosecution or the court) or costs have been incurred in connection with the enforcement of the order.
6.6.1.2 Applying the Income Evidence Sanction
The 'Income Evidence Sanction' can be applied if the supporting income evidence is not provided within 7 days after the Evidence reminder (i.e. 21 days total). The sanction is an income contribution set at £900 per month, or 100% of disposable income, whichever is greater.

Following the application of the sanction, the applicant will be issued with a revised Contribution Order.

Once all required income evidence is received, the sanction will be removed. Once the sanction is removed, the contribution will revert to an assessed value and a Contribution Notice/Order will be re-issued.

6.6.2 Collection of arrears
If the defendant is convicted in the Crown Court but has arrears under their Income Contribution Order (ICO), collection and enforcement activity will continue. They are liable for this payment even after the case has concluded.

6.6.3 Liability schedule
The table below shows how ICO liability is calculated.

If:
- sentence/order date = 2/9/2013, applicant is liable for 3 payments
- sentence/order date = 18/9/2013, applicant is liable for 4 payments
- sentence/order date = 18/11/2013, applicant is liable for 6 payments (or 5 payments, if payments 1-5 paid on time).

Applicant makes a lump sum payment, no crystallisation will take place.
If the amount payable during the payment schedule changes, this will be taken into consideration.
6.6.4 Payment from capital in the Crown Court

Where the applicant is found guilty or they plead guilty, they may have to pay towards their defence costs from capital if they have assets of £30,000 or more (the first £30,000 being disregarded unless a capital sanction has been imposed - see “Capital Sanctions”).

Although the Income Contribution Order or Contribution Notice sent to applicants after legal aid has been granted tells the applicant that there may be a contribution from capital if they are convicted, please assist your client by ensuring that they are fully aware of the possibility of a capital payment following conviction and the consequences for non-payment.

6.6.4.1 How payment from capital works

When clients are convicted in the Crown Court the LAA must establish whether a Capital Contribution Order should be issued.

This means any applicant who was not passported, regardless of whether they were asked to pay an income contribution or not, will have their capital and equity assessed. The initial assessment point of the client’s capital and equity is taken from the point of application but changes in circumstances may be considered if the LAA is notified within 28 days of the Capital Contribution Order being issued, or if further information comes to light to establish the client ability to pay at the end of the case.

This could result in clients being asked to pay towards their costs. This is also made clear on the Income Contribution Order or Contribution Notice sent to them after legal aid has been granted.

A Capital Contribution Order will be issued if the cost of representation has not already been met by any contributions from income.

6.6.4.2 Capital and/or equity contribution

Upon conviction, a contribution from capital and/or equity may be required.

Those applicants who are found guilty in the Crown Court and whose income contributions (if any were required) have not covered their defence costs in full will have to make a further contribution if they have capital or equity above the threshold.

The combined capital and equity threshold is £30,000.

Applicants who have capital assets (even if these are below the threshold) are still required to provide evidence of these if required. If this is not provided at the point of application, a Capital Evidence Request will be issued.

For applicants who do not provide evidence of their assets when asked for it, the Legal Aid Agency can remove the £30,000 allowance, and require them to pay their costs from their available capital (see Capital Sanctions below).

6.6.4.3 Capital Sanctions

A Capital Sanction is the removal of the £30,000 Capital & Equity threshold when calculating an applicant’s Capital Contribution Order at the end of a case. Capital Contribution Sanctions will only be applied in cases where:

- The applicant has failed without reasonable excuse to comply with requests to provide the required evidence.
- The LAA has reason to believe that the applicant has sufficient capital assets of an amount or value of £30,000 or more (See example below)

A Capital Sanction will be lifted as soon as the applicant complies with the request for information and their Capital Contribution Order (CCO) will then be recalculated to a level which accurately reflects the value of their capital assets.
If an applicant wilfully fails to comply with requests for evidence and further information in regard to their capital the LAA may decide to apply a sanction by removing the £30,000 allowance and the applicant will be deemed to have sufficient resources to pay all of their outstanding case costs

6.6.4.3.1 Where evidence is not provided
If a defendant wilfully fails to comply with requests for evidence and further information in regard to their capital the LAA may decide to apply a sanction removing the £30,000 allowance and the applicant will be deemed to have sufficient resources to pay all of their outstanding case costs

6.6.4.3.2 Where new information comes to light
The LAA and the Debt Recovery Company (DRC) conduct assurance checks to validate the information declared by applicants in their applications for Criminal Legal Aid. Where the declared Capital & Equity differs from the findings in the checks, the applicant will be issued a CCO based on this information, irrespective of whether that amount is more of less than capital and equity declared at the point of application. In some instances, your client may be contacted (prior to the issuing of any Capital Sanction) to request further information to clarify any discrepancies. If these requests are not complied with, the LAA will apply the capital contribution sanction and base the contribution liability on what was declared in the application and any additional Capital and Equity identified via their checks when calculating the applicant’s Capital Contribution liability.

For example - If independent investigations confirm to the LAA that the value of the equity in an applicant’s usual home address (which is owned by the applicant) is higher than the value declared on the application form, the LAA could have reasonable belief that the applicant did indeed have the relevant capital assets to contribute towards the costs of their case.

6.6.4.4 Contribution Notices & Contribution Orders
The outcome of the means assessment is communicated to the applicant via a Contribution Notice or Contribution Order which will accompany the representation order (or refusal notice for applicants who have failed the interests of justice test or full means test in the magistrates’ court). The applicant will also receive an initial contact letter from the Debt Recovery Company (DRC) advising the amount due, the due date and payment methods. For further information about the DRC please see 2 Key Players, 6.6.5 Collection & enforcement and Annex N: Debt Recovery Company's role in collecting criminal legal aid contributions.

6.6.5 Collection & enforcement
The LAA is responsible for the collection and enforcement of CCMT contributions. This work has been outsourced to a Debt Recovery Company, Marston Holdings Ltd. More information and contact details can be found in the Key Players section. The role of the DRC is further detailed in Annex N: Debt Recovery Company's role in collecting criminal legal aid contributions.

We would encourage you to ensure that your clients properly understand their liability and the importance of prompt payment. Although we would prefer not to resort to enforcement action, where there is repeated failure to pay, we must protect the legal aid fund.

It is important that clients understand how legal aid works in criminal proceedings, and what their responsibilities are under the scheme. Suggested paragraphs for use in client care letters can be found at Annex O: Standard paragraphs for client care letters.

The LAA will take all necessary steps to ensure that where a contribution is required, this is paid. For those applicants who fail to pay, the LAA can consider a range of sanctions and enforcement activity and this is made clear on the Contribution Notice and Orders. Enforcement action on Crown Court cases can be taken pre-conviction and post-conviction.

We would encourage you to ensure that your clients’ properly understand their liability and the importance of prompt payment. Although we would prefer not to resort to enforcement action, where there is repeated failure to pay, we must protect the legal aid fund.

- Enforcement options include but are not limited to:
• Charging order secured against any property owned
• 8% interest on charging orders
• Third party debt order against any money deposited in an account
• Attachment of earnings order, where payment can be deducted at source
• High Court enforcement, via writ of Fi Fa
• Distress warrants, where goods can be seized, removed and sold
• Order to clamp and/or sell any vehicle owned\(^\text{24}\).

Money recovered will be returned to the legal aid fund

If you receive enquiries from your clients regarding CCMT contributions, please direct them as follows:

• The accuracy of the assessment or provision of evidence – please direct your client to the criminal applications helpline.
• Ability to pay – you can advise them of the change in financial circumstances and hardship review routes. See 14.1.3 Change in financial circumstances in the Crown Court and 14.4 The Crown Court hardship review process.
• How or when to pay – you should provide contact details for the DRC which can be found in the Key Players section.

This section explains when the liability for the monthly contribution is created and what happens if the case concludes within six months.

6.6.5.1 When do contributions start and finish?
If an applicant is required to make contributions from income, this will be for the life of the case up to a maximum of 6 months. Contributions will begin once their case has been sent to the Crown Court and the liability starts from the day the financial assessment is completed or the sending/committal date whichever is later, and subsequent contributions become due each month thereafter. Applicants are however given 28 days in which to make each payment.

6.6.5.2 What happens if the applicant is acquitted?
At the end of the case, if they are found not guilty, all contributions will be refunded, less any enforcement costs. Interest is paid on the contributions paid a rate of 2%. It usually takes around 3 weeks for a refund following acquittal to be processed.

6.6.5.3 What happens if the applicant is convicted?
The date the liability for further income contributions ceases is the Sentence Order date.

Applicants who are convicted of any offence in the Crown Court may also have to pay towards the cost of their defence if they have assets of £30,000 or more.

6.6.5.4 What if there are unpaid income contributions?
If an applicant is convicted and is in arrears, they remain liable to pay any unpaid contributions and where necessary collection and enforcement activity will continue.

\(^{24}\) Practical guidance on the Motor Vehicle Order Scheme for those who are subject to an application for a clamping order or vehicle sale order and wish to contest the application is available on the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/criminal-legal-aid-means-testing#enforcement-action
6.6.6 £30,000 capital allowance

The amount payable under a Capital Contribution Order is based on the final defence cost, less any payments already made. It is issued if your client has more than £30,000 in capital.

This typically includes equity in properties and all types of savings and investments, but could include other assets.

It should also be noted that the £30,000 capital allowance can be removed if your client does not comply with requests for evidence or further information. (see 6.6.4.3 Capital Sanctions)

Capital assessments may be based on the following:

- the amount or value of the asset at the time of the application;
- the outcome of checks carried out to protect against fraud which may be carried out before or after conviction
- where new information has come to light following checks carried out at the conclusion of your client’s case. See section 6.6.4.3.2

As with income assessments the partner’s share of the equity is included in these calculations unless there is contrary interest.

6.6.7 Client’s responsibility

It is your client’s responsibility to make the payment and we would strongly suggest your client is made aware of potential liability.

It normally takes around six months from the end of the case for the order to be issued as we have to allow:

- Three months for submission of your solicitor’s and barrister’s bills
- Eight weeks for processing and resolution of appeals
- Time to conduct the capital assessment, calculate the value of the CCO and issue the order

6.6.8 Payment timescales

Payment needs to be made within 28 days of the order. If payment cannot be made in full then reasonable arrangements can be agreed with the DRC.

Where payment is not made or a payment arrangement is not maintained, the LAA continues to instruct the DRC to enforce unpaid contributions.

If payment is not made interest will be charged at 6% – enforcement action may follow.

The costs of any action will be added to the amount clients owe.

Enforcement options

These include but are not limited to:

- charging order secured against any property owned
- 8% interest on charging orders
- third party debt order against any money deposited in an account
• attachment of earnings order, where payment can be deducted at source
• High Court enforcement, via writ of Fi Fa.
• Distress Warrants, where goods can be seized, removed and sold; and Money recovered will be returned to the legal aid fund.
6.7 Voluntary Bills of Indictment

Applications must be made using the CRM14 eForm. Providers should make it clear that the form relates to a voluntary bill of indictment in the any other reasons box of the Interests of Justice 2 section (Reasons for wanting Legal Aid) of the CRM14 eForm. The process for administering applications is the same as for Crown Court trials. Further information on Voluntary Bills of Indictment can be found at Annex C: Voluntary Bill of Indictment.

6.8 Retrials from the Court of Appeal – Criminal Division

Applications must be made using the CRM14 eForm. The applicant should indicate that the application relates to a retrial from the court of appeal retrial in the any other reasons box of the Interests of Justice 2 section (Reasons for wanting Legal Aid) of the CRM14 eForm.

The process for administering applications is the same as for Crown Court trials. Further information on Retrials can be found at Annex B: Retrial ordered by the Court of Appeal.

6.9 Committals for Sentence

Applicants are passported through the IoJ test but are subject to the same means test applied to trials in the magistrates’ court

6.9.1 Applicants who did not submit an application in the magistrates’ court

Applicants who did not submit an application for the magistrates’ court proceedings will be subject to a means assessment for the sentencing hearing. If they are granted funding, the representation order will cover the sentencing hearing only.

Contributions from capital do not apply for committal for sentence cases.

6.9.2 Applicants who obtained a representation order in the magistrates’ court

Representation orders granted for magistrates’ court proceedings also cover any sentencing hearing in the Crown Court. Additional legal aid application forms are not required and the Crown Court means test does not apply. The 2017 Standard Crime Contract covers the framework for solicitors’ claims for payment.

6.9.3 Applicants who did not obtain a representation order in the magistrates’ court

Those deemed capable of paying privately in the magistrates court, (i.e. failed the means test) will also be required to fund their own representation in the Crown court following committal for sentence. A further application for legal aid to cover the sentencing hearing in the Crown court should not be submitted.

Any applicant who has failed the means test continues to have access to the hardship provision should they find themselves unable to afford their case costs. The hardship provision acts as a safeguard where private case costs are particularly high.

Applicants should submit a hardship application (CRM16). Further detail on the hardship process can be found at section 15.2 The magistrates’ court hardship review process.

Those who did not obtain a representation order in the magistrates’ court as they failed the IoJ test but would have been eligible on means will be granted a Crown Court only representation order dated the day after committal. There is no requirement to re-apply as the LAA will identify cases that have progressed to the Crown Court for sentencing.
6.10 Appeals to the Crown Court

The scheme for appeals against conviction, sentence or order is based on an ‘in or out’ principle driven by the Interests of Justice test. The means assessment threshold is the same as in magistrates’ court cases, however, applicants who have income above the threshold will not be refused legal aid provided the interest of justice test is met. Instead, those applicants above the threshold will have to make a one off contribution if their appeal is abandoned or fully or partly unsuccessful. The contribution is payable once the appeal is concluded.

The means test for appeals to the Crown Court includes an additional £500 allowance to represent the average cost of an appeal to the Crown Court.

Appellants who were entitled to a representation order for the magistrates’ court proceedings must submit a completed CRM14 eForm.

The IoJ criteria must be considered, as appeals to the Crown Court do not automatically satisfy the test. Where a decision to fail an application for Appeal to the Crown Court on the IoJ test\(^\text{25}\) is made a refusal notice will be issued. Any appeal of the IoJ decision must be made to the appropriate officer at the Crown Court. Please see 8.2 Interests of Justice Appeals for Appeal proceedings to the Crown Court.

Those who never applied or who were deemed capable of funding their own defence (i.e. failed the initial or full means test) are required to submit a completed CRM14 eForm, providing evidence of their income as necessary.

If both the IoJ criteria and means test are passed, no income contribution will be required.

Applicants who meet the IoJ criteria but have disposable income above the threshold will be issued with a representation order but will be liable to pay a contribution to the costs of their appeal:

- £500 if the appeal against conviction is abandoned or dismissed.
- £250 if the appeal against conviction is dismissed but sentence is reduced.
- £250 if the appeal against sentence or order is abandoned or dismissed.

Applicants serving an immediate custodial sentence that are employed or self-employed can self-declare their income on the CRM14 eForm.

6.11 Appeals to the Court of Appeal

The Court of Appeal Criminal Division grants Representation Orders to fund appellants whose cases are to be considered by the full Court of Appeal. This is not means tested therefore a Recover of Defence Costs Order (RDCO) can still be made for these proceedings.

In most instances, the Court will rely upon the means assessment made for the purpose of the previous proceedings if supported by a declaration from the appellant that his / her means have not improved since then.

6.12 Appeals by way of Case Stated to the High Court

Applications for appeals by way of case stated in the High Court are not means tested. They are however subject to the Interest of Justice test. An application for representation can be made via the

\(^{25}\) Part 5 Section 28 of the Criminal Legal Aid (General) Regulations 2013
6.13 Civil Contempt

Providers dealing with civil contempt cases should apply for criminal legal aid to represent clients for committal proceedings.

This is to allow clients to be represented in breach or contempt proceedings including the breach of a civil order.

Providers should not apply to the Legal Aid Agency (LAA) for an amendment to an existing civil certificate or submit a fresh civil legal aid application for this work. This is because it can only be funded under criminal legal aid.

It is important to note that in order to carry out committal work in civil contempt cases you must be authorised to both undertake criminal legal aid and apply for a representation order.

Why criminal legal aid?

Civil contempt proceedings are seen as criminal for the purposes of legal aid because of the risk of imprisonment for your client.

How the application process works

All applications for criminal legal aid in committal proceedings are processed by the NCT in Nottingham.

You need to use the CRM14 eForm and also upload a copy of the committal application.

If you hold a civil contract only then you will need to justify an Individual Case Contract (ICC) on the CRM14 eForm.

If you do not hold either a crime or a civil contract then you should apply for an Individual Case Contract (ICC) by emailing the Nottingham NCT at Nottingham.NCT@legalaid.gsi.gov.uk. If your application is urgent you should title the subject of the email ‘urgent - committal proceedings’. Otherwise the subject of the email should be titled ‘Committal proceedings’.

Your email will need to explain why you are applying and how you meet the ICC criteria.

N.B When emailing any sensitive or personal information remember to use CJSM Secure email. This is the best way of safeguarding personal or sensitive data when you send emails and avoids the risk of possible data breaches under the Data Protection Act 2018 (DPA).

Further guidance on how to apply can be found on the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/apply-for-legal-aid-for-civil-contempt-cases

The Legal Aid Agency (LAA) has issued ‘guidance on applying for legal aid in civil contempt cases’ for providers on the legal aid application process for these cases as well as how to make a claim.

6.13.1 Female Genital Mutilation Prevention Order

Following the introduction of the FGMPO, a civil order designed to protect girls at risk of FGM, legal aid will be available for the application, variation, discharge and appeal as well as the breach of an order.

Most applications for FGMPOs will be heard in the family courts therefore if these orders are breached and civil contempt is pursued as a remedy, the breach will be heard in the family court.
The application, variation, discharge and appeal are covered by civil legal aid whereas the breach is covered by criminal legal aid. Breach of an FGMPO will either be pursued as a criminal offence or contempt of court.

Applications for breach of an FGMPO where this is pursued as civil contempt will be processed in the same way as that outlined here. Where breach is pursued as a criminal offence it will be processed in line with other breaches deemed to be criminal offences.

6.14 Breach of an injunction under part 1 Anti-Social Behaviours Crime and Policing Act (ASBCPA) 2014

The process for applying for representation in proceedings concerning breach of an injunction under part 1 ASBCPA 2014 is the same as set out in the civil contempt guidance.

Further guidance on how to apply can be found on the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/apply-for-legal-aid-for-civil-contempt-cases

The ASBCPA 2014 guidance sets out how to complete the application form.

6.15 Legal Persons

From April 1 2013 the implementation of section 31 and Schedule 3 of the Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders (LASPO) Act 2012, enables legal persons (e.g. companies) to receive criminal legal aid in limited circumstances. To make an application for Legal aid in respect of a legal person you should submit a written request to the High Cost Crime Team, Complex and High Cost Cases, Legal Aid Agency, 102 Petty France, London SW1H 9AJ.

If you have any questions regarding the Legal Persons application process you should contact the Criminal Cases Unit. Please see Key Players section for contact details.

6.16 Extradition and Terrorism Proceedings

A dedicated team in the LAA Nottingham office process all CRM14 eForms for extradition & terrorism matters. This team forms part of the Criminal Applications Team (CAT). You should apply electronically using the CRM14 eForm.

Please make clear that this is an extradition or terrorism matter by using the message function when submitting the eForm.

The LAA will expedite cases where the judge determines this to be necessary. The LAA will not accept requests to expedite cases directly from providers.

For expedited cases, HMCTS will inform Nottingham CAT of the USN for the CRM14 eForm application. Incomplete forms or missing attachments will delay processing.

The target of processing 90% of applications within 2 days and 100% within 6 working days applies for non-expedited cases

For expedited cases we aim to process applications where the USN/application is received by the LAA by 4pm within 1 hour of a fully correctly completed application with all necessary supporting documents.
6.17 Multiple offences or a series of offences

6.17.1 Where new offences are added to existing proceedings
Where new offences are added to existing proceedings the Legal Aid Order may need amending depending on whether the case is being heard in the Magistrates’ Court or the Crown Court.

Crown Court

If the new offence is added to existing proceedings once the case is at the Crown Court there is no requirement for the Representation Order to be amended (to include the additional offence), irrespective of the classification of the new offence. This is because the LAA has access to the court system and will use this to identify what is on the indictment which will determine the correct level of fee payable.

Where the applicant is subject to an Income Contribution Order, however, the provider should write to the LAA to advise additional offence(s) added to the indictment in order for the LAA to consider whether the new offence(s) change the severity of the offence type and whether the contribution should increase to take into account a higher maximum income contribution cap.

Magistrates Court

For cases heard in the Magistrates’ Court, an application to amend the existing Representation Order will be required because the offences listed on the Legal Aid Order are used to determine the payment to the solicitor (this is not the case for Crown Court). Claims for payment are validated against the offences listed on the rep order and the offences listed can make a difference as to whether a standard fee or non-standard fee is paid. All requests to amend a Legal Aid Order should be directed to the relevant CAT in writing using the pro forma detailed below.

6.17.2 Where new offences form separate proceedings
If the new offences are due to be heard as a separate set of proceedings, then a fresh application and assessment will need to be made at the time at which those later proceedings begin. If granted a new Representation Order will be issued. The fresh CRM14 eForm application will be considered by the relevant CAT regardless of where the case is being heard.

If applying for more than one set of proceedings at the same time a separate application should be submitted for each separate set of offences the applicant has been charged with.

6.18 Adding offences to an existing Representation Order

A pro forma for applying for offences to be added to an existing Representation Order is available on the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/government/publications/simplifying-criminal-legal-aid-processing

These applications should be submitted to the relevant CAT (this includes Representation Orders originally issued by HMCTS). LAA will consider any such application and produce an amended Representation Order where appropriate. For details of when the Representation Order should be amended please refer to 6.17.1 Where new offences are added to existing proceedings above.

6.18.1.1 What if two partners apply for Legal Aid? (And there is no conflict of interest)
When two applicants who are "partners" apply for legal aid and there is no conflict of interest, income will still be aggregated at the household level for the means assessment. They are both still required to declare the financial details of their partner on their application form.

In the magistrates' court this means that either both applications fail, or both applications pass, as it is a simple in or out test.
In the Crown Court, a contribution from income may be required. Whilst the ‘in or out’ element introduced through the Crown Court eligibility threshold will mean that applicants who are partners with an adjusted household disposable income of £37,500 or more will both be ineligible, those whose disposable income falls under the threshold will be eligible but may have to pay a contribution. Where disposable income is between £3,398 and £37,499.99 a contribution will be required but we will not ask for a contribution from both at the same time.

The DRC will collect from one applicant at a time. Once 5 payments have been made, if the case is still ongoing for the other applicant, they will then be asked to make payments for up to 6 months. Where partner A is acquitted or proceedings are withdrawn, a contribution from partner B could still be payable if proceedings against them are ongoing.

Both applicants are under an obligation to inform the court if their circumstances change, such as the example given above, and a reassessment will then be conducted as a result of change in financial circumstances.

6.18.1.2 What happens in Either Way cases revisited upon Committal for trial?
In the magistrates’ court, if the assessment result was fail on both applications, it will be revisited after committal.

If an income contribution is required, this would apply to Partner A and Partner B’s circumstances will be reassessed in order to follow the rules above for Crown Court cases.

6.18.1.3 What if an applicant or their partner is already subject to an income contribution for legal aid and a subsequent application is received?
Only the following legal aid contributions will be included when assessing liability for a contribution:

- Civil legal aid contributions that the applicant or the applicant’s partner is paying
- Criminal legal aid contributions being paid by the applicant’s partner if the applicant was previously included in their assessment.
- If the applicant is already paying an income contribution for another Crown Court matter they will still receive a Contribution Order for the second application but data transferred from the LAA will advise the DRC to collect accordingly. If the initial application concludes within the 6 month collection period and further contributions are payable, these can ‘run on’ from the first application. The correspondence the applicant receives from the DRC will explain this.
Chapter 7: Transfer & withdrawal of Representation Orders

7.1 Transferring representation orders

If an applicant has been granted a representation order, any application for a change of solicitor remains subject to the existing provisions at admin of the Criminal Legal Aid (Determination by a Court and Choice of Representative) Regulations 2013 and Criminal Procedure Rule 46.3. Applications for transfers have to be made to the court before which the proceedings are being heard. The application for transfer of legal representative should be submitted to the court using the form prescribed by the Criminal Procedure Rule (2015).

Representation orders, following transfer will be dated from the date the court agrees the transfer, not the date the request is submitted.

There is no right to appeal the Court’s decision if it chooses to reject a request to transfer a representation order between solicitors.

7.1.1 Applications made in writing

Applications to transfer solicitor for cases both in the magistrates’ and Crown Court should be made to the relevant Court using the mandatory application form as prescribed by Criminal Procedure Rule 46.3 which is available on the Ministry of Justice website:

The client should complete part 1 of the form and the new solicitor should complete part 2 and, in compliance with Criminal Procedure Rule 46.3, should send a copy of the application form to the existing solicitor to seek their consent, as well as a copy to the Court. The existing solicitor should complete part 3 of the form and send a copy to the Court and to the client.

A solicitor need not submit a new application form when requesting the transfer.

The Court will check the application has all the information that is required for the court to make a decision and will arrange for the application to be considered. The Court will notify LAA of the outcome. The LAA will write to the provider and produce an amended Representation Order where relevant.

If the first firm do not give their consent the court will arrange for the bench to consider and make the final decision.

Please note even if all parties are agreeable to the transfer; the decision still has to be made by the Court.

If the Court authorises the transfer CAT will produce a new Representation Order and will send copies to the new solicitor and to the applicant. All 3 parties will receive confirmation of the transfer.

Where the court refuse the transfer they will notify the LAA and CAT will notify all 3 parties in writing.

7.1.2 Urgent transfer requests made in Court

There will be cases where a transfer of solicitor application needs to be dealt with as a matter of urgency where for example a conflict has been identified on the day of a hearing. In these circumstances, the Court will hear the application and make a decision on the day. The Court will notify LAA so that an amended Representation Order can be produced where required.
7.2 Withdrawal of application

For both the magistrates’ and Crown Court a request for withdrawal by the applicant should be made in writing to the relevant CAT. A pro forma has been produced for providers to use and is available on the gov.uk website www.gov.uk/government/publications/simplifying-criminal-legal-aid-processing

Urgent applications to withdraw can be made to the Court direct. Where the solicitor or their client requests withdrawal in Court and the court approve the withdrawal they will notify the LAA.

The LAA will issue the Withdrawal Notice in all cases and dispatch copies to the Solicitor and the applicant. If the applicant is subject to an Income Contribution Order the LAA will notify the DRC of the withdrawal.

If the applicant is subject to an Income Contribution Order and subsequently withdraws, they remain liable for any contributions that were due up to the point that Legal Aid is been withdrawn.

If the applicant is in arrears on their contributions, the Debt Recovery Company may continue collection activity even once the application for Legal Aid has been withdrawn. They will also retain any contributions paid to date pending the outcome of the case. This is because the solicitor and advocate (if instructed) are still entitled to bill the Legal Aid Agency for any costs incurred up to the point of withdrawal and the applicant may be required to contribute towards these costs.

If both solicitor and advocate give an undertaking that no claim will be made on Legal aid, the Debt Recovery Company will be able to stop collection activity and/or refund any contributions already paid (minus any enforcement costs). This undertaking should be made in writing to the relevant National Crime Team and should contain the following information:

- Applicant’s first and last names and date of birth
- Name of committing Magistrates’ Court and Crown Court
- MAAT ID and Crown Court case number
- Name of solicitor’s firm and LAA Account number
- Name of advocate and LAA Account number

Please note, where the relationship between client and solicitor has broken down an application should be made to transfer by another firm.

7.2.1 Withdrawal of representation order by the LAA

Where the charges or proceedings against an applicant are changed the LAA must reconsider legal aid and must withdraw the representation order if the new charges mean that the case does not satisfy the IoJ test.

Where the applicant refuses to accept legal aid under the terms offered – for example they do not wish to pay (or potentially be liable for) a contribution, the LAA must consider withdrawing the representation order.

7.2.2 Application for a new representation order following withdrawal

The solicitor on the previous order will be assigned unless good reasons for not doing can be provided.
7.3 Solicitor transfer process - apply for a novation

The Novation Policy is available on the gov.uk website. If you require further information you should contact your contract manager.

www.gov.uk/government/publications/novation-policy

There is no need to request rep orders in the name of the new entity following a novation. The new entity must write to the Contract Manager with details of all live cases where there is a representation order in place. This should include the following:

- Client full name & D.O.B
- MAAT Number
- Court hearing the case

When the provider comes to bill the case, they need to provide a covering letter confirming there has been a novation. This could be a copy of the letter sent to the Contract Manager, or another letter confirming the date the novation was agreed, the other firm involved and name of the Contract Manager.

For all other scenarios, such as where one provider has withdrawn and another provider has picked up the case, the existing transfer process must be followed – see 7.1 Transferring representation orders.

For bulk transfers unrelated to novation e.g. a firm has closed down, the provider taking over the cases should first write to their Contract Manager who will advise accordingly.
8 The Interests of Justice (IoJ) test

CAT caseworkers will process the IoJ test.

The following proceedings are passported on IoJ and the reasons for wanting legal aid do not need to be completed on the CRM14:

- Committed, sent or transferred for trial
- Voluntary bills of indictment
- Retrials
- Committals for sentence.

IoJ must be considered for the following proceedings:

- Summary
- Either way (pre-committal)
- Appeals to the Crown Court

Solicitors or advocates should decide how much detail to enter in the IoJ sections of the form. If referring to the applicant’s previous convictions they should attach copies or provide a detailed list of recent and relevant convictions/sentences. Insufficient information may mean the application is refused due to not satisfying the IoJ criteria.

Solicitors can access the guidance on considering the IoJ criteria on the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/work-out-who-qualifies-for-criminal-legal-aid

8.1 Interests of Justice Appeals (magistrates’ court)

Where IoJ consideration applies, applicants are entitled to request a reconsideration following refusal. They should put their reasons in writing. This is known as an administrative review.

A pro forma must be completed for each decision and is available on the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/government/publications/simplifying-criminal-legal-aid-processing

iojappeals@legalaid.gsi.gov.uk

If, following an administrative review, CAT decline to grant a Representation Order having reviewed the IoJ assessment, the applicant can then ask for their appeal to be heard by the court. This should also be made in writing to the relevant CAT. CAT will arrange for it to be heard before the court.

In these circumstances, providers should send their submission using the email address above. This should make it clear in the email subject header that this is for judicial consideration.

CAT will then send relevant paperwork to the court and notify the provider of the outcome. You should note that turnaround times on this will be subject to the court listing arrangements.
N.B When emailing any sensitive or personal information remember to use CJSM Secure email. This is the best way of safeguarding personal or sensitive data when you send emails and avoids the risk of possible data breaches under the Data Protection Act 2018 (DPA).

Note: There is no appeal to the court or a single magistrate if an application has been refused on means. If a change of circumstance has occurred, the application can be reconsidered on this basis. If not, the applicant can request a review on the grounds of hardship by completing and submitting a CRM16.

8.2 Interests of Justice Appeals for Appeal proceedings to the Crown Court

Where the LAA decline to grant representation for an appeal to the Crown Court the applicant may request a reconsideration. They should put their reasons in writing using the same pro forma as for magistrates court Interests of Justice Appeals above.

If, following a review, CAT are satisfied that it fails the IoJ test the matter will be referred on to the Crown Court for consideration.
9 General principles of assessment

The rules about who qualifies for legal aid are set out in Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders Act 2012 (LASPO)

As the representation authority, the LAA aims to make an assessment that is:

- Transparent, and
- Justifiable, and
- Consistent on the aggregation of means.

9.1 Levels of means test

There are two levels of means test:

- The initial means test: the applicant’s gross household income is weighted to take account of family circumstances – the result is their adjusted income
- The full means test: the applicant’s gross household income, allowable outgoings and a weighted living allowance are combined – the result is their disposable income

The means test is used to determine whether:

- the client is funded in the magistrates’ court (including Committals for Sentence)\(^{26}\)
- the client is funded in Crown Court trials and, if so, whether they have to make an income contribution.
- the client will have to make an income contribution if their appeal is unsuccessful or abandoned

\(^{26}\) For summary or either way pre cases client also has to meet the IOJ criteria

July 2019
9.3 Initial means test formula

The initial means test formula considers the applicant’s gross household income and ‘weights’ this of their family circumstances – the result is their adjusted income.

Gross household income

| Applicants gross annual income | + | partner’s gross annual income | = | gross household income |

Include income from:
- Employment
- Self-employment (NCT referral)
- Friends, relatives
- Pension, property, lodgers
- Student loan
- Interest from savings
- Maintenance from former partners
- Withdrawals from savings
- State benefits*

* A number of state benefits are disregarded; please see 12.4 Disregarded benefits 11 for the full list.

The income categories are covered in more detail below.

Weighting

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weighting scale (used to calculate weighting factor):</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Applicant</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Partner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child aged 0-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child aged 2-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child aged 5-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child aged 8-10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child aged 11-12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child aged 13-15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child aged 16-18</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The child’s age is their next birthday from the date of application.

Include children only if they live in the same household as the applicant (for example, include children of separated parents only if for purposes of Child Benefit the applicant is counted as the main carer).

Multiply the number of children in each age group by the relevant value.
How does weighting work?

For example; applicant A (1) has a partner (0.64) and 2 children, the first child will be one at their next birthday (0.15) and the second child will be eleven at their next birthday (0.41). This means the applicant’s family has a weighting figure of 2.20.

E.g.

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>client</td>
<td>1.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>partner</td>
<td>0.64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>child (0-1)</td>
<td>0.15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>child (11-12)</td>
<td>0.41</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Weighting = 2.20

Gross household income $\div$ weighting = adjusted income

Applicant A’s gross annual income is £30,000 and this is divided by the weighting figure 2.20, to give the adjusted income of £13,636.

E.g.

| Gross household income | = | £30,000 |
| Weighting              | = | 2.20    |
| Adjusted Income        | = | £13,636 |

9.4 Full means test formula

The applicant’s gross income minus the allowable outgoings and the weighted annual living allowance produces their disposable income.

The annual living allowance is £5,676 and represents cost of living expenses on:

- Food and non-alcoholic drinks
- Clothing and footwear
- Housing*, fuel and power
- Household goods and service
- Health
- Transport
- Communication
- Education (excluding school fees)

27 Subject to the IoJ test, for magistrates’ court and appeals to the Crown Court

28 If unsuccessful or abandoned

29 Depending on whether still in the magistrates’ court
- Water rates
- Insurance premiums
- Miscellaneous goods and services

(*Net of mortgage payments, rent and council tax)

A living allowance calculated in accordance with the weighting scale will automatically be deducted.

\text{Annual living allowance} \times \text{weighting} = \text{weighted living allowance}

E.g. annual living allowance £5,676
\text{weighting} \times 2.2 = \text{weighted living allowance} = £12,487

\text{Gross household income} - \text{weighted living allowance} - \text{allowable outgoings} = \text{disposable income}

Allowable outgoings
- tax and National Insurance
- annual housing costs* excludes any Housing Benefit or Council Tax Benefit.
- annual childcare costs*
- annual maintenance to former partners and any children*

*Where the outgoing is more than £500/month, supporting evidence is required.

E.g. gross household income £30,000
\text{weighted living allowance} - £12,487
\text{allowable outgoings} - £10,000
\text{disposable income} = £7,513

\(^\text{30}\) Subject to the IoJ test, for magistrates’ court and appeals to the Crown Court

\(^\text{31}\) the means assessment for appeals automatically includes an additional £500 allowance and a contribution is only required if the appellant is unsuccessful or abandons their appeal.
What about payments from Property & Capital in Crown Court cases?

The means test considers an applicant’s income at the point of application, however where:

- The applicant is convicted
- Defence cost haven’t already been covered by income contributions
- The applicant has £30,000 or more of assets (e.g. equity, savings, premium bonds, stocks & shares)

They will be liable for a further contribution at the end of the case. The collection and enforcement agency are responsible for this.

9.5 Aggregation of means

What does aggregation mean?

Aggregation of means is the total amount of the applicant’s income and their partner’s (where applicable) to be included in the assessment.

Do we include Partners income?

The income of the applicant’s partner must be taken into account and added to that of the applicant unless the partner has a contrary interest in the proceedings. A partner is defined as anyone (including a person of the same sex) with whom the applicant lives as a couple. This includes any partners who may be living separately at present due to reasons other than that they have separated. For example: where one party lives away for work (armed forces, oil rig) or is in prison.

If the relationship has ended the resources are not aggregated, even if the two people remain under the same roof, as long as they consider the relationship over and live separate lives. For example: they may be waiting for the property to be sold in divorce proceedings. If this is the case it needs to be clearly explained on the application form.

Unmarried Couples: Do we aggregate?

For unmarried couples to be seen as partners, although not conclusive, there should usually be some evidence of a pooling of financial resources and they must regard themselves as a couple. It would not be appropriate to aggregate the resources of, say, a brother and sister, or flatmates who are not living as a couple. Further evidence of living as a couple may include joint care of a child of the couple.

If an applicant has left his or her spouse or civil partner and has gone to live with a new partner as a couple in the same household, then the means of the new partner should be aggregated with those of the applicant.

9.5.1 Contrary interest

Means are not aggregated if the partner has a contrary interest in the matter for which the applicant is seeking funding.

Contrary interest in the most obvious sense will arise where the partner is the alleged victim of the crime(s) the applicant is accused of and is seeking the representation order for; for example an allegation of domestic violence. A question on the CRM14 establishes whether the applicant’s partner has a contrary interest in the proceedings.
Means are also not aggregated if:

- The applicant and partner are both applicants in the same proceedings and a contrary interest is identified
- The partner is a prosecution witness in the case for which the representation order is sought.

9.5.2 Equivilising children in domestic violence cases?

In domestic violence cases where the applicant remains under the same roof the children will be included in the assessment as that person still has a responsibility to care for those children. However, any Child Benefit and Tax Credits received by the partner will be included in the applicant's income.

This also applies in cases where the partner is a prosecution witness or has a contrary interest in the proceedings. In cases where the applicant has moved out of the main dwelling, however, the children will not be included in the assessment.

9.5.3 Third party resources

In certain circumstances assets belonging to persons other than the applicant can be taken into account. These are where:

(a) Another person is, has been, or is likely to be, substantially maintaining the applicant or their partner, or

(b) Another person’s resources are, have been or are likely to be made available to the applicant or their partner.

Note: ‘person’ for these purposes includes a company, partnership, trust or other group.

If (a) or (b) above apply, the monies that are being made available to the applicant will be treated as belonging to the applicant.

This would not normally include someone providing lodgings and food on a temporary basis.

The LAA may assess or estimate how much of the other person’s or parties resources should be treated as the financial resources of the individual. In practice the assessment officer will include the income that the applicant or their partner has received from the third party, whether directly or paid out to another party on the applicant’s behalf to meet their living expenses (e.g. utility bills, housing costs) during the period of calculation. (The period of calculation is the 12 months leading up to the date of the application for representation)\(^\text{32}\)

The assessment officer will assume, unless shown compelling evidence to the contrary, that assistance given to and resources made available for the applicant in the past will continue to be given or made available in the future and will make their assessment on that basis. This situation will most commonly arise where a family member has supported the applicant, even though the applicant himself has no assets of his or her own.

The LAA may also assess the third party financing of private legal services when assessing the applicants eligibility for legal aid or their liability for an income contribution i.e. where a third party pays for a legal representative such as an advocate in the magistrates court or for QC in the Crown Court. The additional funding will be considered by the LAA irrespective of whether the court has refused to extend the representation order to provide for the additional representation. Consideration of third party

\(^\text{32}\) It is only the support provided to the applicant that should be counted for assessment purposes funding also extends to the ‘topping up’ of the remuneration of the publicly funded legal representative i.e. where a third party pays for an upgrade of service from the litigator or advocate listed on the Representation Order. If the applicant is benefitting from third party resource this can be included in the LAA’s assessment of the applicant’s financial resources.

What does this mean?

The recipient of legal aid is under an obligation to disclose information about any change in their financial circumstances (which will include access to additional resources provided by a third party whether received directly or indirectly) and this may trigger a reassessment of means.

9.6 Calculating annual disposable income

The calculation of an applicant’s gross annual income means the total annual income as at the date of the application. The relevant deductions are based on the 12-month period before the date of the application.
9.7 Magistrates’ Court Means Test Examples

The means test in the magistrates’ court is made up of an initial income test, which compares an applicant’s adjusted income with a lower and upper income threshold. Every applicant’s income is adjusted to take into account the number and age of any dependents they might have and their partner’s income. These are the weighting factors shown in 9.2 Initial means test formula.

The upper and lower income thresholds act as a proxy for identifying whether an applicant has an adjusted annual disposable income above the limit of £3,398.

The adjusted income thresholds are currently set at:

- Lower Threshold – annual household income below £12,475
- Upper Threshold – annual household income above £22,325

Where the applicant’s adjusted income falls between the upper and lower income thresholds, a more detailed means assessment (known as the ‘full means test’) is carried out to assess their annual disposable income. This takes into account a range of actual expenditure and also builds in a cost of living allowance.

Once all these costs are accounted for, if the applicant has an annual disposable income greater than £3,398 they are deemed capable of paying privately for their defence costs in the magistrates’ court (which are estimated to average at £1,500).

Example 1

The applicant is single and has no dependants. Their annual income exceeds £22,325 and therefore they are ineligible for a Representation Order in the magistrates’ court. If their annual household income is less than £12,475 a year they will be eligible for a Representation Order in the magistrates’ court with no further assessment required.

Example 2

The applicant lives with a partner and their annual household income is £34,000. The applicant’s weighted income is calculated as follows:

£34,000 divided by a weighting factor of 1.64 (obtained by adding 1.00 for the applicant + 0.64 for their partner), which equals £20,732. The applicant’s weighted income is below the upper income threshold and the assessment will move to the full means test.

Example 3

The applicant is a single parent with a dependent child aged 2 at the end of the period of calculation (i.e. the date of application) and has annual household income of £15,000. The adjusted income is calculated as follows:

£15,000 divided by 1.30 (obtained by adding 1.00 for the applicant + 0.30 for the child), which equals £11,538. The applicant’s weighted income is below the lower income threshold, so the applicant is financially eligible in the magistrates’ court without the need for further assessment.

Example 4

The applicant lives with a partner and two children aged 9 and 13 at the end of the period of calculation (i.e. the date of application) and annual household income is £50,000 with adjusted income as follows:
£50,000 divided by 2.46 (obtained by adding 1.00 + 0.64 + 0.38 + 0.44), which equals £20,325. The applicant’s weighted income is below the upper income threshold, and the full means test would be undertaken to establish their annual disposable income.

9.8 Crown Court Means Test Examples

These examples are designed to show a range of circumstances where income contributions during the course of proceedings may be required or where legal aid is refused. Examples of contributions from capital/equity are not included.

The means test for Crown Court cases is based on the same calculation formula as for magistrates’ court cases. The initial income test still applies and every applicant’s income is adjusted to take account of his or her family circumstances.

The key difference for the Crown Court scheme is that applicants may still be eligible for a Representation Order where their disposable income exceeds the £3398 threshold. Those with a disposable income of between £3399 and £37,499 will be eligible for a Representation Order but will be expected to make a contribution from their income towards their defence costs during the course of proceedings. Those whose disposable income is equal to or exceeds £37,500 will be ineligible for legal aid in a Crown Court Trial (for Appeals to the Crown Court these applicants will be eligible subject to a contribution from income should their appeal be unsuccessful or abandoned).

Applicants with adjusted income above the lower income threshold will be subject to full means test in order to calculate their annual disposable income and therefore whether they are eligible and, if so, the required income contribution where appropriate. Applicants who are required to pay an income contribution will have this clearly stated on the Contribution Order, which will accompany the Representation Order, both of which are issued by the LAA. Applicants who are ineligible will receive a Refusal Notice.

Those applicants with annual disposable income below the £3,398 disposable income threshold will have a Contribution Notice issued alongside the Representation Order. This will explain that they are not required to make an income contribution.

In addition, those applicants who are convicted in the Crown Court, who have capital or equity in excess of £30,000 and who have not covered their defence costs during the course of proceedings, will be liable for a further contribution. This is also explained on the Contribution Notices and Contribution Orders.

Example 1

Applicant is on a passporting benefit. Due to their passporting benefit status, they will not be required to make a contribution – either from income or capital – towards their defence costs.

Example 2

Applicant is married with two children aged 10 and 7 and an annual household income of £34,500. The adjusted income is as follows:

£34,500 divided by 2.36 (1.00 + 0.64 + 0.34 + 0.38), which equals £14,619. Because the applicant’s adjusted income is above the lower adjusted income threshold, the full means test would be carried out to establish annual disposable income and therefore whether an income contribution is required. So:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual household income:</th>
<th>£34,500</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Adjusted living allowance:</td>
<td>£13,396 (£5,676 x 2.36)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

33 Subject to the CRM eForm being fully completed and submitted.
Outgoings £20,271

Annual disposable income £833

An income contribution is not required because the annual disposable income is below the threshold of £3,398.

Example 3

Applicant is married with no children and an annual household income of £45,000. The adjusted income is as follows:

£45,000 divided by 1.64 (1.00 + 0.64), which equals £27,439. Because the applicant’s adjusted income is above the lower income threshold the full means test would be carried out to establish the annual disposable income and therefore whether an income contribution is required. So:

- Annual household income: £45,000
- Adjusted living allowance: £9,309 (£5,676 x 1.64)
- Outgoings £20,440
- Annual disposable income £15,251

An income contribution is required and this is calculated as follows:

- Annual disposable income £15,251
- Multiplied by 90% £13,726
- Divided by 12 £1,143.83

The monthly contribution would be £1,143.83. The total contribution would be £6,862.95 (£1,143.83 x 6) or £5,719.13 (£1,143.83 x 5) if paid in a lump sum or on time each month.

Example 4

Applicant is married with no children and an annual household income of £75,000. The adjusted income is as follows:

£45,000 divided by 1.64 (1.00 + 0.64), which equals £45,732. Because the applicant’s adjusted income is above the lower income threshold the full means test would be carried out to establish the annual disposable income and therefore whether an income contribution is required. So:

- Annual household income: £75,000
- Adjusted living allowance: £9,309 (£5,676 x 1.64)
- Outgoings £25,500
- Annual disposable income £40,191

The applicant is ineligible because their disposable income exceeds the £37,500 Crown Court eligibility threshold. The applicant is deemed to have sufficient resource to pay privately and is refused legal aid.
10 Passported applicants

10.1 Category one: Department for Work and Pension (DWP) benefits

An applicant automatically satisfies the means test if they directly or indirectly receive:

- Income Support, or
- Income Based Jobseeker’s Allowance, or
- Guarantee State Pension Credit (‘Guarantee Credit’).
- Income Related Employment and Support Allowance
- Universal Credit (this is a short term measure that will be revised for June 2016)

An applicant directly receives the passporting benefit if they are the claimant. If the applicant's partner gets one of these four benefits, then unless the applicant indicates otherwise, he or she is to be regarded as an indirect recipient of that benefit. As such, they are treated as being 'included' in the partner's claim and are therefore passported through the means assessment.

To be passported, the applicant must be receiving the benefit at the time of the application. The applicant will not be passported on the basis that a benefit application decision is pending or if a benefit claim has been suspended (e.g. due to an investigation into suspected fraud).

A claim may be held 'clerically' by the DWP. This means it is not registered on the DWP database. This may be due to technical reasons or because the applicant has not yet been issued with a National Insurance number (NINO).

In these circumstances the applicant must provide a letter from the DWP confirming that they are getting Income Support, Income-Based Jobseeker’s Allowance, Income Related ESA, Guarantee State Pension Credit, or Universal Credit, or an increased rate of such benefit, and the date it applies from.

Universal Credit is currently a passported benefit but this likely to change following consultation. This is due to the wider roll out and increased volume of applicants receiving Universal Credit and which benefits this replaces, which means passporting all recipients may not be appropriate.

10.1.1 Providing details of the applicants or partner’s National Insurance number

A National Insurance number (NINO) is required where the applicant has declared that they are on a passporting benefit.

An applicant who is under the age of 18 is not required to provide their NINO.

Whose passporting status takes precedence?

In cases where either the applicant or their partner has indicated on the CRM14 that they are in receipt of a passported benefit, the application will be passported regardless of who is in receipt of the benefit. This is of course subject to the DWP link confirming their passported status.
What if the DWP link returns a fail result?

When you click Check Benefits Status within the CRM14 eForm, a ‘real time’ link to the DWP benefits checker will confirm the Passported Benefit status within a few moments.

When completing the forms, if your client is unsure of the specific benefit they receive or the DWP link returns a result of either NO or undetermined, and you have checked the information submitted is correct, the applicant will be required to complete further questions on the CRM14 eForm, confirming the applicant and partners financial situation including any capital and equity. This is known as the BenefitBypass and will enable CAT to carry out a means assessment.

Alternatively they can provide evidence.

Please note, for Crown Court cases, if the applicant is in receipt of a passported benefit and the DWP link fails, it is in their interests to provide proof of the benefit (i.e. DWP letter) rather than using the ‘Benefit Bypass’. This is because passported applicants are exempt from any contributions from capital or equity if they are convicted and using the Benefit Bypass could mean that they are liable at the end of the case.

10.1.2 Hints and tips on ‘passported’ applications

Why do applications come back as ‘undetermined’?

To get a ‘pass’ through the DWP check, the National Insurance number, the date of birth and the first three letters of the surname must exactly match the DWP records. If any piece of information differs, the result will come back as ‘undetermined’. The common problems we identify are detailed below.

National Insurance Numbers (NINOs)

The NINO is in a standard format - two letters, followed by six numbers and a single letter which will always be either A, B, C or D. If the NINO is not in that format, the DWP check will give an ‘undetermined’ result.

NB for cases progressing to the Crown Court, where the applicant is on a passporting benefit but the DWP link returns a contrary response, it is in the applicants best interest to provide documentary proof of receiving the benefit. Otherwise, they could be liable for capital/equity payments if convicted.

In any event, a correct NINO must be provided for Crown Court cases.

Dates of birth

About a third of the ‘undetermined’ results are because the date of birth is wrong. Some of the dates of birth have figures transposed e.g. 06/07/1980 instead of 07/06/1980, but other errors are that the day, the month or the year does not match the DWP records. We recommend that solicitors check the date of birth with the client and from the custody records.

‘Check brick’ errors

The ‘check brick’ is the first three letters of the applicant’s surname. If these are entered incorrectly, the DWP check will return an ‘undetermined’ result. We find this most often fails with clients from cultures where the first name and surname are terms not commonly used.

However, it could be a spelling error, or the surname and first name may have been entered on the form the wrong way round. Again, it is worth doing a sense check on how the form has been completed.

10.1.3 When is a NINO mandatory? (magistrates’ court)

There is an expectation that applicants on passported benefits will know their NINO. We will not process applications from applicants on a passported benefit if they do not provide us with their NINO.
The only exception to this is where the applicant is remanded into Court custody and does not know their NINO.

10.1.4 Court Custody

When an applicant has been remanded into Court custody they should supply their NINO to allow their receipt of passported benefits to be confirmed through the DWP link.

Where an applicant does not know their NINO and they are being produced from police custody, their application for legal aid should not be submitted until the Court has determined the issue of custody or bail.

If the applicant is released on bail, they are expected to find out their NINO and once this has been provided to CAT with the appropriate forms, their legal aid application will be processed and if their passported benefits status is confirmed the representation order will be issued and back-dated to the date the application was first submitted to the LAA.

If the applicant is remanded into court custody, you should click Yes to the court custody question on the eForm (Evidence: 1 section – Questions to inform evidential requirements can be answered).

10.1.5 Bail

Applicants on bail should always provide their NINO if they claim to be on a passported benefit.

10.1.5.1 Progressing to the Crown Court

For relevant Crown Court proceedings, as the NINO is mandatory, an evidence request will be issued at the point of committal/sending/transfer and it must be provided within 14 days.

If the applicant “failed” the DWP link in the magistrates’ court and did not provide documentary proof of receiving the benefit or the Benefit Bypass was not already used, no Representation Order will be in place. Therefore when the case is committed to the Crown Court, you will be asked complete the additional questions or provide evidence of the benefit and the Representation Order will not be issued until the CRM14 eForm is further completed with benefit details or the evidence is supplied. The order will then be backdated.

10.2 Category two: age-related passporting criteria

10.2.1 18 Year olds and over

Any applicant who is 18 years of age or above at the time of the application cannot be passported on the basis of their age (if the applicant is 17 at the time of the offence but turns 18 before signing an application, then they cannot be passported on the basis of their age).

10.2.2 For under 18s

Any applicant who is under 18 years of age at the time of signing the application is passported on the basis of their age. No documentary evidence is required. If a defendant turns 18 during the proceedings they remain passported and do not need to be reassessed as they were age passported when they signed the forms.

For applicants under 18, the named applicant should still sign the form.
11 Means tested applicants

The means-tested formulae are based on the gross income of the applicant (and their partner where applicable) minus their outgoings and their living allowance, which is weighted for any children and partners.

Definition of income

The calculation period is based on the 12-month period at the time of the application but the assessment must reflect the applicant's current and expected usual income. If the applicant is at present employed then it should be assumed that this employment would continue. If the applicant has been unemployed for some time over the last 12 months it would clearly not be appropriate to take this into consideration as this would not reflect the applicant's current financial situation.

The majority of assessments will be based on the applicant’s circumstances at the time of the application. If employed the most recent wage slip will be used. This will be considered carefully in order to assess whether these reflect usual income or are merely one-off payments.

11.1 Types of income - income categories explained

11.1.1 Nil income applications

Applicants who have no income and are not claiming any benefits are not expected to prove this but they are expected to provide further information on the CRM14 eForm about how they are managing to support themselves and meet their day-to-day living expenses.

Applicants who declare that they are a tenant or homeowner should explain how they are covering their housing costs.

Applicants who live with parents and are supported by them do not need to provide their parents' income details. Parents' income is not aggregated for the purpose of the assessment. Applicants who are stating they are being supported by friends/family do not need to provide proof of the support they receive but they should declare the monetary value and any figures declared will be used in the assessment.

Tourists who are on holiday in this country or visitors who are only in this country for a short period are not expected to provide an ARC number but are expected to provide full details of their income on the CRM14 eForm.

Illegal Immigrants – these types of applicants are likely to have a limited amount of information that they can give to support their application. However, we would still expect that they provide as much detail in relation to their name, address and financial position as possible.

Negative disposable income

A negative disposable income is when an applicant does not have sufficient income to cover the outgoings that they have declared. Where this is the case they should explain on the form how they are managing to pay the outgoings.

---

34 The parent's income does not count as third party resources. Only the support they provide the defendant with.
Evidence requirements for nil income cases

Applicants declaring a nil income do not need to provide evidence per se however where the applicant has lost their job it will assist the assessor if the applicant provides their dismissal letter. If the agency of offence is likely to require income i.e. drink driving more information should be provided in the eForm.

11.2 Applicants subject to freezing, restraint orders or confiscation proceedings

If an applicant has indicated that they are subject to a freezing or restraint order or confiscation proceedings, you must include a copy of the order for magistrates’ Court cases (excluding applicants self declaring, due to being in custody). For Crown Court cases, as with other evidence, this can be provided within 14 days.

Any allowances (e.g. if the applicant receives £250p/w to support themselves) under the order cannot form part of the income assessment, regardless of whether the order relates to the case.

Equally for the capital and equity assessment, restrained assets cannot be taken into account either.

Any income or assets not subject to the order, including partners’ assets can be included in the assessment.

However, for any restraint or confiscation orders made after the 1st June 2015 the LAA will liaise with the prosecuting authority named on the restraint order to confirm whether any assets will remain in order to satisfy a capital contribution order for final defence costs. Legal aid costs from restrained assets will therefore be pursued after victims’ compensation and any confiscation order has been paid in full or otherwise discharged

What should applicants put on the form if they are subject to an order?

If an applicant is subject to a restraint or freezing orders they should indicate this on the CRM14 eForm and clarify whether all of their assets are restrained. If they are all restrained this should be detailed in the further information section.

If they have any assets that are not included in the restraint or freezing order these should be declared on the form in the appropriate sections.

How do solicitors get legal aid for hearings in relation to restraint/freezing orders or confiscation proceedings?

Any cases where an applicant is subject to a restraint, freezing or confiscation order and wants to apply to vary or discharge the order and they have been charged with a criminal offence should apply for a Representation Order for the Criminal Proceedings. If this is granted the legal aid will extend to any work done in respect of the restraint/freezing orders or confiscation proceedings, as they are incidental to the substantive Criminal Proceedings.

What happens if an applicant wants to transfer solicitor after the criminal case has concluded?

If an applicant wishes to apply to transfer solicitor in restraint or confiscation proceedings even after the criminal case has concluded they can do this.

The normal transfer procedure would apply.

35 If an applicant has not yet been charged with a criminal offence, they may be able to claim for this work under civil legal aid for further information on this please see the Gov.uk website: 2017 crime contract and refer to section 13.20 or 13.21 of the Specification.
What happens if the applicant did not receive legal aid for the criminal proceedings?

An applicant who was not granted a representation order for the main trial proceedings but who now wishes to be publicly represented at the subsequent confiscation proceedings in the Crown Court, must submit a fresh CRM14 eForm application. The application will not be subject to Crown Court means testing and will be assessed solely on the basis of the ‘Interest of Justice’ test.36

What happens if the applicant faces enforcement proceedings in respect of the confiscation order?

Enforcement of the confiscation order takes place before the magistrates' court. If a representation order is already in place, it will not extend to enforcement proceedings of this sort. Instead, they will be regarded as new proceedings and as such a fresh CRM14 eForm application will have to be submitted. This application will be subject to the ‘Interests of Justice’ test as well as the magistrates’ court means test.

Please see Annex E: Criminal Funding in Proceeds of Crime Matter for further guidance on the legal aid process for Proceeds of Crime Matters.

11.3 Applicants who have been made bankrupt

If an applicant has been made bankrupt and they are not in receipt of a passported benefit they will need to fully complete a CRM14 eForm as any income must be taken into account for the purposes of their means assessment.

If an applicant is subject to an Income Payments Order (IPO), this outgoing can be considered in the full means assessment. The applicant should declare this in the CRM14 eForm and provide a copy of the IPO when submitting their application. Alternatively, this payment will be accepted under a Hardship/Eligibility Review application.

Where the applicant has been informed by the Official Receiver that an IPO will be made against them, any outgoing relating to the IPO will not be considered until the Order has actually been made. The applicant's current income must be assessed and once the Order has been made, they should submit a change in financial circumstances application.

36 In these circumstances, where defendants are charged under section 70 Proceeds of Crime Act the representation order will cover both the sentencing and confiscation hearings.
12 Non-passported applicants: Other benefit and income categories

The following are the different types of income which should be included on the CRM14 eForm.

12.1 Child benefit

Child Benefit is a weekly cash benefit payable to a claimant who is responsible for a child who qualifies and is paid by HMRC. Benefit is paid for each qualifying child, at a higher rate for the first or only child and a lower rate for each subsequent child. Check Annex S: State Benefits for rates.

Whilst all those responsible for a qualifying child are entitled to claim child benefit if their individual income or their partner's individual income exceeds £50,000 they will have to pay back some or all of the benefit by way of a tax charge. For every £100 above £50,000 they will have to pay back 1 per cent of their child benefit. If the applicant or the partner's income exceeds £60,000 the full amount of the child benefit has to be paid back. This is called the High Income Child Benefit Charge.

Those where HICBC applies may either:

1. pay back the relevant amount through their tax code/self-assessment tax return (i.e. it is repaid at source over the financial year)

2. opt out of receiving child benefit altogether

Note: anyone can opt out regardless of their level of income

Applicants affected by the HICBC who continue to receive child benefit should declare the full amount of child benefit as any HICBC will be reflected by the evidence they supply of the tax they pay.

If this is paid back through PAYE it will be included in the tax deducted on the wage slip they provide. If this is paid back through the self-assessment tax process, the applicant should provide their tax return/tax calculation sheet.

12.2 Tax credits

Tax credits refer to Working Tax Credit and Child Tax Credit, which are paid by HMRC. Working Tax Credit and Child Tax Credit are means tested, but are more generous than subsistence benefits such as Income Support or Income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance.

Tax credits are not passported benefits, and the amount received by the applicant or their partner (or both) must be declared on the form. HMRC will issue a Tax Credit Award Notice TC602 specifying how much the claimant is entitled to. Tax credits are paid four-weekly, weekly or fortnightly and should be claimed by all those with children who are earning less than £58k, or less than £66k if their child is one year old or younger.

Couples (whether married, civil partners, or otherwise cohabiting - including same-sex couples) must make a joint tax credits application, although separate award notices may be issued. For example, in the case of a married couple the husband may get Working Tax Credit while the wife gets the Child Tax Credit if she is judged to be the main carer of the children in their household.
12.3 State benefits

Certain state benefits are wholly disregarded for assessment purposes (see 12.4 Disregarded benefits). All other state benefits should be declared (including pensions). Please note, benefit will be payable four-weekly.

12.4 Disregarded benefits

Certain state benefits are wholly disregarded for assessment purposes.

Calculate the applicant’s gross annual income by assessing their total annual income from all sources, except the following:

(a) Any of the following payments made under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992:

i. Attendance Allowance paid under section 64 or paragraph 4 or 7(2) of Schedule 8

ii. Severe Disablement Allowance

iii. Carer’s Allowance

iv. Disability Living Allowance

v. Constant Attendance Allowance paid under section 104 as an increase to a disablement pension

vi. Council Tax Benefit

vii. Any payment made out of the Social Fund

viii. Housing Benefit

(b) Community Care and Special Educational Needs direct payments i.e. any direct payments made under section 49(3) of the Children and Families Act 2014 (personal budgets and direct payments), sections 31 to 33 of the Care Act 2014 (direct payments), section 57(1) of the 2001 Act, section 17A of the 1989 Act or section 8(1) of the 2002 (Northern Ireland) Direct Payments Act

(c) Any Exceptionally Severe Disablement Allowance paid under the Personal Injuries (Civilians) Scheme 1983

(d) Any pensions paid under the Naval, Military and Air Forces etc (Disability and Death) Service Pensions Order 1983

(e) Any Independent Living Fund payments.

(f) Any financial support paid under an agreement for the care of a foster child.

(g) Sure start maternity grant

(h) Any Personal Independence Payment paid under Part 4 of the Welfare Reform Act 2012.

Except for the benefits shown above, all other income that is due or will become due for the period of calculation should be taken into account.
12.5 Pensions

12.5.1 State Pension
Applicant should declare any State Pension (Retirement Pension) they receive.

12.5.2 Private Pension
Applicant should declare any occupational pensions or private pensions.

Evidence (e.g. bank statement or pension statement) is required for total pension income received of £1,000 (before tax) or more per month.

Certain pensions are disregarded for the purposes of the means assessment, in particular any pensions paid under the Naval, Military and Air Forces etc. (Disability and Death) Service Pensions Order 1983.

12.6 Income from other sources

12.6.1 Maintenance income
This is maintenance the applicant receives for themselves or their dependent children or both. A spouse, former spouse or civil partner, or other parent of the child will pay it. The maintenance may be being paid voluntarily, through a court order, or through the Child Support Agency, all of these types of maintenance should be declared.

12.6.2 Student income
Most undergraduate students apply for student finance; more commonly labelled a “student loan”. It is made up of the following components:

Student loan for maintenance

Student loan for tuition fees which is paid directly to the students’ university

Maintenance grant or

A bursary from the student’s university / college

Tuition fee loans are not taken into consideration if they are paid directly to the student’s university but all other portions of the student loan are included as income.

Other sources of income available to students include Professional Studies Loans, Initial Teacher Training and nursing bursaries, Scholarships, Sponsorships and Access to Learning fund.

In addition to income that is student specific some students may receive income from part time employment, support from family / friend, appropriate benefits such as child benefit and income from savings. This should all be declared alongside their student loan.

12.6.3 Trust Income
A trust may provide income directly to the applicant or their partner, or commonly may make payments on the individual’s behalf, for example meeting housing costs. Any income that the applicant receives or may expect to receive from a trust (including payments to a third party on their behalf) for the period of calculation should be declared.
12.6.4 Income from Savings and Investments

This section covers income derived from savings or investments. For relevant Crown Court proceedings, if the applicant is subsequently convicted, the collection and enforcement team will consider the capital value of any savings or investments at the end of proceedings.

It is important to note that including the income derived from savings and investments does not mean that we are double counting when making an assessment. For relevant Crown Court proceedings, income from savings and investment will be incorporated into the means assessment in the same way as for magistrates’ proceedings.

If the applicant’s capital, i.e. savings and investments, produces a regular monthly income, then this must be declared on the form.

Any substantial one off credits or withdrawals will be considered on a case-by-case basis and may be included in the assessment; however there may be certain exceptions such as one off compensation or insurance payments.
Employed Applicants

Employed applicants will receive a payslip detailing their income, overtime and bonuses where applicable and their deductions typically tax, national insurance, and pension contributions. This could be weekly, fortnightly, four weekly or monthly.

In addition to deductions from gross salary the payslip should show any salary sacrificed in return for non-cash benefits such as childcare vouchers, travel tickets, food, or payments into a pension fund. The amount sacrificed will usually show as a minus figure on the payments side of the payslip but could also appear in a separate benefits column. Sacrificed salary will be included when assessing gross income from employment.

If the earnings calculated from the year to date figure are significantly more (more than 10% higher) this figure will be used in the assessment. If this is the case Tax and National Insurance outgoings will also be calculated from the year to date.

Where the applicant is in receipt of Maternity pay or Statutory Sick pay income will be calculated using their actual income at the time of applying for legal aid i.e. the amount of SSP or maternity pay they receive. If the applicant returns to work earning their normal wages whilst their case is still ongoing, they are obliged to submit a change in financial circumstances application and be reassessed.

12.7 Armed forces

Applications from those serving in the Armed Forces or with a partner serving in the Armed Forces are all referred to NCT.

Please note, where they live apart because one partner is posted abroad, for example, they would be separated by circumstances only therefore their partner’s income will be included in the assessment.

Please note that criminal legal aid provided by the Legal Aid Agency is not available to armed forces personnel who face prosecution in the Services Criminal Justice System. In such cases, any application for legal aid will be dealt with by the Armed Forces Criminal Legal Aid Authority (AFCLAA), details of which can be found on the gov.uk website:

https://www.gov.uk/armed-forces-criminal-legal-aid-authority-afclaa

12.8 Benefits in kind

This refers to benefits provided, usually by an employer, instead of or in addition to cash payments or normal salary. The most common example is the provision of a company car, fuel allowance or both. Free health insurance; free accommodation and luncheon vouchers are other common types of benefit in kind. Sometimes employers provide childcare vouchers or help to pay the employee’s mortgage.

Benefits in kind are counted as income and must be added to the wages figure.

Even though not received in cash, HMRC treat all these benefits as taxable income. As a general rule, therefore, from an assessment point of view we will take the value of any benefit in kind to be its taxable value. That is, we will treat this benefit as income in the same way as HMRC.

The applicant is asked to specify the taxable value of any benefit in kind received on the CRM14 eForm and to provide a copy of tax form P11D, which will show the annual value.
12.9 Erratic income/seasonal workers

A seasonal worker’s income will vary because of the type of work they do. Despite working throughout the year, in some months their income is particularly high/low compared to the rest. For example, an ice cream seller may sell ice cream throughout the year, but in the summer months their business is likely to be more profitable than during the winter.

When assessing a seasonal worker the LAA will use the income from the most recent wage slip to calculate an annual figure. If a seasonal worker fails the means test based on a monthly income that would not be available to them in other periods of the year and for which they must budget accordingly, they will need a more detailed review of their means. In this scenario the applicant should apply for a Hardship/Eligibility Review, enclosing supporting evidence.

12.10 Agency workers and Agency only paid staff

Temporary workers (for example agency workers or students) might only be employed for short periods of the year instead of working throughout the year. This type of worker will be employed under a temporary contract for a set period, which may have the potential to be extended. Workers falling into this category will have their income assessed on what they are earning at the time of the application and if their employment subsequently ceases, they should submit a new CRM14 eForm detailing the change in circumstances.

12.11 Cash in Hand – employed

There are two types of cash in hand applicants, one type is employed and we will cover their assessment requirements here, the other type is self-employed who are covered in the next section.

An employed ‘cash in hand’ applicant is someone who gets paid cash in hand for working for someone else on a regular employed basis i.e. a waitress/waiter who works for a restaurant but gets paid in cash rather than through his or her bank account.

If a payslip cannot be provided, then bank statements showing wages paid in or a letter from the person employing them should be obtained.

12.12 Self-Employed applicants

If the applicant is self-employed, they must provide accounts or a tax return (SA100).

Please be aware that a tax calculation sheet (SA302) is not adequate evidence of self-employed income when submitted on its own (it should be accompanied by a tax return, accounts or bank statements). This is because it does not cover all types of income that a self-employed applicant may receive.

If the business is very new or particularly small so that no accounts or HMRC documents are available, they may submit bank statements or a cashbook or any other account information as evidence.

12.12.1 Establishing whether an applicant is self-employed - complex referral

It is sometimes difficult to establish if an applicant is self-employed or not.

Applicants who work in the construction industry are mostly employed on a sub-contract basis, which means they are classed as self-employed even though the company they work for provides them with the work and pays them. The company pays them through a scheme known as the CIS scheme and will provide them with a pay statement. This will usually show a deduction of 20% for Income Tax only. A person who is a sub-contractor is responsible for paying his or her own National Insurance. They will not be entitled to sick pay or holiday pay and at the end of each financial year; they are responsible for submitting their business accounts to HMRC.

The applicant is considered to be self-employed for means assessment purposes and as such the application will be referred to NCT.

12.12.2 What happens if an applicant has declared they are previously self-employed or that their business ceased trading?

Applicants who declare they have been self-employed within the last 12 months and have since ceased trading are considered high risk because they may still be receiving residual income from the business. The applicant should provide a copy of their closing accounts and a letter from HMRC showing their final tax liability as evidence of the business closure.

12.12.3 Self-Employed Cash in Hand

Applicants who provide a service e.g. a plumber, builder, odd-job person may be paid cash in hand but could fall into the self-employed category. Key indicators that the applicant is self-employed could be the applicant has responsibility for getting their own work, providing their own tools, staff and/or other business decisions. Self-employed applicants must provide accounts and, where applicable, a tax return. If no accounts or HMRC documents are available, bank statements or a cashbook or any other account information may be submitted as evidence. Where attempts have been made to obtain the required evidence has not been forthcoming, solicitors should provide justifications for the absences in the eForm message when resubmitting.

Applications referring to the applicant’s income as being self-employed Cash in Hand are referred to the NCT.

12.13 Unobtainable evidence

If an employed or self-employed applicant cannot provide evidence of their salary (because they have been remanded into custody by the court), then the applicant can self-certify on the CRM14 eForm.

If the case concludes in the magistrates’ court, no evidence will subsequently be required.

However, if the case is committed, sent or transferred to the Crown Court, evidence is required to support the application and, for income, this mirrors the magistrates’ court requirements. Applicants are required to provide the evidence within 14 days of the case being committed/sent/transferred.

See also When is NINO mandatory table and 3.5.8 Partner’s signature, as these are both mandatory in the Crown Court.

The evidential requirements are not deemed to be onerous. For the vast majority of applicants only one or two pieces of income evidence is required and therefore there should be no difficulties in providing.

There is provision within the scheme to agree extensions to evidence provision deadlines and you should contact the LAA to make such a request.

13.2 Tax and National Insurance

The following sums are treated as tax and NI outgoings:

- any income tax paid on that income
- any NI contributions paid or payable on that income under Part I of the Social Security (Contributions) Act 1992.

^37 For Crown Court trials, retrials and voluntary bills, where housing, childcare or maintenance costs are more than £500/month and evidence is not provided, the outgoing will be limited to £500/month.
13.3 Housing / accommodation costs

In calculating disposable income you can make an allowance for:

- the mortgage or rent (net of housing benefit) being paid for the applicant’s main home, or
- the cost of the applicant’s living accommodation
- Council Tax paid or payable for the period of calculation (please be aware that council tax is usually only paid for 10 months).

If the applicant declares Mortgage / rent of more than £500 a month (£6,000 a year), they must provide supporting evidence. For Crown Court cases if no evidence of accommodation costs has been provided then costs will be limited to £500.

13.4 Board and lodgings

If an applicant states they are paying board and lodgings, then only the amount for accommodation can be allowed. Applicants are asked on the form to declare how much of the board and lodging declared is for food. If no amount is declared then the LAA will assume 50% is for food and only allow half of the board/lodgings figure.

If arrangements are informal, for example lodging with a close family member, and the applicant cannot specify how much they spend on food, then you should assume that half of the declared board and lodging element is for accommodation, with the rest for food and other incidentals not covered by the regulations.

13.5 Childcare costs

An allowance can be made for child minding expenses (e.g. paid to a registered childcare provider). Unless there are exceptional circumstances (e.g. disability of the child) such a deduction will only be made for a dependent child aged 15 or under.

The regulations state that ’childcare costs’ means the costs of care that is provided by one or more of the following childcare providers –

- A school on school premises, out of school hours
- A local authority, out of school hours:
- For children who are not disabled, for the period starting on their eighth birthday and ending on the day before the first Monday in September after their 15th birthday
- For children who are disabled, for the period starting on their eighth birthday and ending on the day before the first Monday in September after their 16th birthday
- A childcare provider approved by an organisation accredited by the Secretary of State under the scheme established by the Tax Credit (New Category of Care Provider) Regulations 1999
- Persons registered under Part XA of the Children Act 1989 or registered under part 3 of the Childcare Act 2006
- Persons referred to in paragraph 1 or 2 of Schedule 9A to the Children Act 1989, in schools or establishments referred to in those paragraphs
- Persons prescribed in regulations made under section 12(4) of the Tax Credit Act 2002.
However, this definition excludes costs paid in respect of:

- The child’s compulsory education or by a claimant to a partner (or vice versa) for a child for whom either or any of them is responsible under Regulation 10 of the Council Tax benefit regulations 2006; or
- Care provided by a relative of the child wholly or mainly in the child’s home.
- Private education or private tuition.

If an applicant is claiming for childcare costs, their application should include a claim for tax credits. Please refer to 12.2 Tax credits for more details about this claim.

If the applicant has declared expenditure of over £500 a month on childcare, they must give evidence (e.g. copy of bank statement, copy of agreement/contract with the childcare provider) to support the figure stated. For Crown Court cases if no evidence of childcare costs has been provided then costs will be limited to £500.

13.6 Maintenance payments

An allowance can be made for maintenance payments regularly made by the applicant (or their partner, or both, if they have an aggregated assessment).

Such payments will go to: (a) a spouse/civil partner or former spouse/civil partner, or (b) a child, or (c) a dependent relative. The allowance can only be made if the recipient does not live in the applicant’s household.

Where applicants are making maintenance payments of over £500 per month they will be required to evidence these payments. For Crown Court cases if no evidence of childcare costs has been provided then costs will be limited to £500.

If the applicant’s maintenance payments are as a result of a court order or CSA ruling an allowance will be made for these payments.

Where the applicant is making maintenance payments but there is no formal agreement in place, payments will only be allowed to a reasonable level.

The reasonable level is defined by the CSA guidelines:

If the non-resident parent has to pay child maintenance for;

1 child, they will have to pay 15% of their net weekly income

2 children, they will have to pay 20% of their net weekly income

3 or more children, they will have to pay 25% of their net weekly income.

We can only allow for payments actually made.

Maintenance payments could also include payments towards an ex-partner’s household bills or mortgage. Where these are paid in addition to the maintenance for children, an explanation from the applicant should be provided on the form.
14 Means appeals and reviews - income

14.1 Review of means where there has been a change in financial circumstances

Once assessed for Criminal Legal Aid, an applicant should submit a new CRM14 eForm form when:

- The level of income used in the original assessment is no longer available to the applicant
- The applicant’s disposable income has increased/decreased since their original application
- The applicant becomes in receipt of a passported benefit
- There has been a change in their partner’s circumstances

There is a check box on the CRM14 eForm to identify applicants who are reporting a change in financial circumstances.

The change in circumstances needs to be evidenced before it can be processed by the LAA.

14.1.1 Timescales for submitting a change in financial circumstances application

If the applicant submits their change in financial circumstances application within 28 days of their change with the appropriate evidence then any reassessment of their means will be effective from the date of that change.

Where a change in circumstances application is submitted more than 28 days after the change it should be accompanied by a reasonable explanation for not complying with the time limit. If the explanation is deemed to be acceptable then the reassessment can be backdated to the date of the change.

Failure to provide reasons for the delay in submitting a change in financial circumstances application will result in any reassessment being dated only from the date that the completed form and evidence of the change was received.

Note: This backdating rule does not apply to New Applications Following Ineligibility. Where an applicant submits a New Application Following Ineligibility, i.e. they have been refused legal aid for a Crown Court trial because their household disposable income is equal to or exceeds £37,500, and the applicant is then deemed to be eligible the Representation Order will be dated only from the date that the New Application Following Ineligibility was received.

14.1.2 Change in financial circumstances in the magistrates’ court

If the reassessment is due to a change in circumstances and the application is submitted with evidence within 28 days of the change or a reasonable explanation is provided for the delay in notifying the LAA of the change then the representation order will be granted from the date of the change in circumstances.

If it is due to a change in circumstances and the application is submitted outside the 28 day period and no reasonable explanation for delay has been provided, the representation order will only be granted from the date the new form and evidence of the change was received.

Note: where the applicant previously passed but now fails the Representation Order will be withdrawn as of the date of the reassessment.
14.1.3 Change in financial circumstances in the Crown Court

There are a number of situations where a contribution recalculation needs to take place, including:

- If there is a Change in Financial Circumstances
- If an applicant feels that a mistake has been made in the calculation of their means and therefore, the level of monthly contribution is incorrect
- If the evidence the applicant has provided shows incorrect information was declared on the Criminal Legal Aid Form(s)
- If quality checking within LAA identifies a possible calculation error
- If new information comes to light as a result of LAA assurance work

14.1.3.1 Contribution recalculation

If a Crown Court Representation Order is already in place then a new CRM14 eForm will be required for the LAA to review the level of contribution. The reassessment could result in a Contribution Notice being issued or the level of the Contribution Order being varied. If this is the case, a Notice/Order will be issued to the applicant and their solicitor.

Where there is a Change in Financial Circumstances, the applicant remains liable for any contributions that were due before the change took place. If the defendant’s contributions are reduced any new contribution order will be dated from the date of the change (if completed form and evidence submitted within 28 days) or the date by which both the form plus evidence have been received (if not submitted within 28 days) and the DRC will begin collecting the revised contribution figure for the remainder of the payment schedule.

14.1.3.2 New application following ineligibility

Where applications are processed under the CCMT scheme a completely new application (CRM14 eForm) will be required where there has been a change in circumstances since the applicant was refused legal aid for their Crown Court trial (a New Application Following Ineligibility) and if eligible the order will be granted from the date the new application was received.

14.2 Review of means where there has been an error

If an applicant believes an administrative error has occurred their solicitor should send CAT the printout of the financial assessment that accompanied the refusal notice with the error highlighted.

If the applicant omitted information in the previous application (for example, they did not give childcare costs and they or their partner has children), they can do one of the following:

- Provide a new CRM14 eForm or
- Amend, sign and date the printout of the financial assessment or
- Put the omitted information in a letter

Evidence of the omitted income/outgoings must be provided

If it is because of CAT or NCT error on the original assessment then the representation order will be backdated to the date of submission of the original forms. In the case of Crown Court, where a Contribution Order has previously been issued, the reduced contribution will be backdated to when the applicant was first asked to pay.

If the applicant previously omitted information then the reassessment will be backdated provided that the applicant notifies LAA within 28 days.
For applicants assessed as ineligible for their Crown Court trial please note that a request for review should be submitted within 21 days of the refusal notice being issued. For further information please see below.

14.2.1 What if legal aid has been granted in error?

14.2.1.1 For Magistrates’ Court cases
Where the representation order has been issued in error and the case is ongoing the order will be withdrawn from the date the error was identified. The LAA will immediately contact the provider advising of the issue and that their client will have to pay privately for any work undertaken after the withdrawal.

The applicant may re-apply if their circumstances change. This would be a new CRM14 eForm application.

14.2.1.2 For Crown Court cases
Where the representation order has been issued in error i.e. the applicant’s disposable is found to be £37,500 or more (therefore exceeding the eligibility threshold for Crown Court trials) this will not result in withdrawal of the Representation Order. Instead, the LAA will review the applicant’s liability for an income contribution and liaise with the solicitor to ascertain whether the applicant wishes to accept the revised income contribution or have the representation order withdrawn. If the applicant prefers to withdraw then the solicitor and advocate will be required to provide an undertaking that there will be no claim for payment.

If the reassessment results in the applicant now being liable for an income contribution the LAA will issue a Contribution Order for the relevant amount and the income contribution will be payable for a maximum of 6 months from this point.

If the reassessment results in an increased contribution amount this will apply from the point the LAA issue a revised Contribution Order. The defendant may however, be asked to pay an additional income contribution to cover the difference between what they should have been asked to pay (had their original assessment been correct) and the contributions that they were previously asked to pay in the period between their liability being created and their reassessment.

If an applicant’s contribution amount decreases following the reassessment their liability to pay the revised contribution amount will be backdated to when the liability for their previous contribution amount became effective from.
15.1 What is a Hardship / Eligibility Review?

Applicants can apply to the LAA to have their financial eligibility reviewed on the grounds of hardship where they are not granted legal aid because they:

- fail the means test (in the magistrates’ court or
- are assessed as ineligible in the Crown Court or
- are subject to an income contribution order because they have disposable income above the threshold (in the Crown Court).

A hardship or eligibility review application can be made where the applicant feels they have higher than usual outgoings or expenditure that has not been taken into account in the full means test, e.g. care costs for a disabled relative, loans or fines and/or, in the case of the magistrates’ hardship and the Crown Court eligibility review, the estimated private defence costs will cause them hardship.

The review is used where the applicant does not have sufficient means to pay privately for the cost of legal representation, even though they have failed the magistrates’ court means test, or have been assessed as ineligible for their Crown Court trial i.e. they have disposable income above the threshold.

In addition, where an applicant has been granted legal aid in the Crown Court, the applicant may wish to have additional expenditure taken into consideration, which may reduce the value of their Income Contribution.

Please note the CRM16 form for hardship or eligibility reviews is a paper form and should be submitted as follows:

If submitting a CRM16 at the point of application, or as part of a New Applications Following Ineligibility, the provider should upload the CRM16 as an evidence attachment to the CRM14 eForm, making a note in the further information field that a CRM16 is attached.

In all other circumstances the paper CRM16 form must be posted to your nearest National Crime Team.

15.2 The magistrates’ court hardship review process

An applicant may wish to apply for a hardship review after they have been refused legal aid on the basis of their financial eligibility.

The magistrates’ court hardship review involves considering whether any extra expenditure can be allowed as part of the means assessment. The solicitors’ costs are also deducted from the applicant’s disposable income.

The application will be returned if not signed by the applicant and partner where applicable otherwise NCT will process a review based on whatever information/evidence has been provided. Where evidence is missing the caseworker will advise whether provision of the evidence would make a difference to the outcome.

Where any extra expenditure is allowed and this takes the disposable income figure to £3,398 or below, the applicant will be financially eligible for legal aid in the magistrates’ court.
In circumstances where there is no additional expenditure that can be allowed, the solicitors' costs will be deducted from the disposable income figure. If the result of this calculation is that disposable income remains over £3,398 the application will be refused. If the figure is £3,398 or below the applicant will be financially eligible for legal aid.

A further hardship review application may be allowed if the circumstances of the case change significantly so that the costs estimate is no longer a reasonable assessment. An example of this might be where an expert is now required. A new CRM14 eForm should be provided if there is a change in the applicant’s financial circumstances.

15.3 The Crown Court eligibility review process

An applicant may wish to apply for an eligibility review after they have been refused legal aid on the basis of their financial eligibility i.e. their annual household disposable income has been assessed as £37,500 or more. An application for an eligibility review must be submitted within 21 days of the refusal.

In addition, if an applicant believes they will not be eligible for legal aid under the means test when the initial application is made, they can submit an application for an eligibility review at the same time. If CAT does not grant the applicant legal aid because their income is above the threshold, the Eligibility Review application will be forwarded to the NCT by CAT.

If the eligibility review is successful, the representation order will take effect from the date that the original application was received or the day after committal; whichever is later. Please note, however, that if the eligibility review relates to a New Application Following Ineligibility the representation order will only be dated from the date the New Application Following Ineligibility was received.

Like the magistrates’ court hardship review, the Crown Court eligibility review involves considering whether any extra expenditure can be allowed as part of the means assessment. In the Crown Court eligibility review, we also consider advocate’s as well as solicitors’ costs and these are both deducted from the applicant’s disposable income.

The application will be returned if not signed by the applicant and partner where applicable otherwise NCT will process a review based on whatever information/evidence has been provided. Where evidence is missing the caseworker will advise whether provision of the evidence would make a difference to the outcome.

Where any extra expenditure is allowed and this takes the disposable income figure to below £37,500, the applicant will be financially eligible for legal aid in the Crown Court, but will be subject to a Contribution Order where the assessed disposable income following the eligibility review exceeds £3398.

In circumstances where there is no additional expenditure that can be allowed (or following deduction of allowable additional expenditure the applicant’s annual disposable income is still £37,500 or more) , the solicitor’s and advocate’s costs will be deducted from the disposable income figure.

If the result of this calculation is a disposable income of £37,500 or more the funding decision will remain as refused. If the figure is below £37,500 the applicant will be financially eligible for legal aid but will be subject to a Contribution Order.

The solicitor’s and advocate’s costs will not be included when determining the applicant’s income for the purpose of working out their level of contribution. This is because, once the applicant has been granted legal aid, they will not be required to pay these private costs from their income.

If the hardship review is successful, the representation order will take effect from the date that the original application was submitted.

Eligibility Review - Example
An applicant’s annual household disposable income is assessed under the means test at £50,000. The applicant is assessed as ineligible for Crown Court legal aid.

The applicant applies for an Eligibility Review. On assessment of the information provided, the applicant’s additional allowable expenditure is assessed at £1,000 and solicitor’s and advocate’s costs at £15,000.

Both the additional expenditure and estimated costs are subtracted from the amount assessed under the means test to produce the applicant’s revised annual disposable income.

Revised annual household disposable income = £34,000

The applicant’s revised annual household disposable income is now below the financial eligibility threshold and the applicant is granted legal aid in the Crown Court.

The applicant’s Contribution Order will be based on an annual household disposable income of £49,000 i.e. £50,000 assessed under the means test less £1,000 additional expenditure allowed under the Eligibility Review.

Note: Evidence requirements are the same as those for the Crown Court hardship review.

15.4 The Crown Court hardship review process

The Crown Court hardship process broadly mirrors the Crown Court Eligibility Review processes; however there is a key difference;

Solicitor’s and advocate’s costs are not included in the assessment

An applicant may submit a hardship review using the CRM16 at any point, including the point of application, up until the conclusion of proceedings. The applicant can use the further information section to state the reason they are requesting the review and in Crown Court hardship reviews this is likely to be where the applicant believes that the stated level of monthly contribution is too high or unaffordable. Cases will be reviewed on an individual basis and a decision will be made on the information and evidence provided by the applicant.

If the contribution is unaffordable due to a change in the applicant’s circumstances, then the applicant should complete a fresh CRM14 eForm with supporting evidence and request a re-assessment rather than use the hardship review process.

Some examples of expenditure that can be considered are:

- Unsecured Loan
- Secured Loan
- Car Loan
- IVA
- Credit/Store Card Payment
- Debts
- Fines
- Rent Arrears
- Bailiff Costs
- DWP Overpayment
- Student Loan
• Mortgage on Second Property
• Monthly Prescription Charges
• Pension Payments
• Medical Costs
• Other

Items covered in the living allowance, such as household bills for gas and electricity cannot be taken into account as extra expenditure. Further to this, items such as alcohol and cigarettes are not taken into account.

Where an applicant has personal debt, the Crown Court hardship review will consider the minimum level of payment. Voluntary overpayments will not be allowed e.g. minimum monthly credit card payment is £30 but applicant is paying £250; only the minimum payment will be allowed.

Please note costs of private education and/or private healthcare are excluded.

Once a hardship review is processed, any change to an applicant’s contribution amount will apply from the date a complete application form was originally received.

If the applicant has requested a reassessment, submitted a change in financial circumstances or Hardship review they still need to pay contributions on time. Because failure to pay contributions on time means your client will be expected to make a sixth payment, this can create a tension between the payment schedule and timescales for reassessment. To recognise this and to protect the interests of the client and the legal aid fund; where a reassessment or hardship decision is outstanding – based on the information that the LAA provides – the DRC are instructed to collect the minimum contribution amount of £25538 until the reassessment has been completed. The outcome of the reassessment or hardship review will be taken into account when revising the defendant’s remaining payment schedule. If your client passes the means assessment following a hardship review, any contributions will be refunded.

15.5 Completing the application form (CRM16)

It is important that supporting evidence is enclosed with the application form.

For all CRM16 applications, if some evidence has been provided, an assessment will be considered using this partial evidence. If the applicant wishes to have additional expenditure considered, for which evidence has not been provided, they must submit the evidence to NCT with a covering letter.

Note, for a Crown Court Eligibility Review the missing evidence must still be received within the 21 days from the original refusal (or from the refusal decision relating to a New Application Following Ineligibility).

Applicants must complete all relevant sections on the application form except questions 8, 9 and 10, which must be completed by their instructed solicitor where applicable. The CRM16 form will indicate exactly which questions must be completed for magistrates’ court and crown court cases. Please see Annex Q: Forms Guidance for full instructions on completing the form.

15.5.1 How to ensure that your client’s application for hardship/eligibility review is not rejected

Whilst detailed guidance on completing form CRM16 and what evidence to provide in support of the application for hardship/eligibility review can be found in Annex Q: Forms Guidance, the following table

38 The contribution amount of £255 per month is the minimum contribution amount based on an applicant having a disposable income above the threshold of £3,398.00.
highlights the common issues that result in NCT having to return the application for missing information or evidence.

<thead>
<tr>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>No or insufficient details of ‘Solicitors Costs’</td>
<td>For magistrates’ court hardship and Crown Court eligibility reviews the solicitor must give a full breakdown of the cost details, including an itemised, hourly breakdown of what work will be done as this can be a deciding factor in whether the hardship is successful. At this stage, this can be estimated. For Crown Court eligibility reviews this will include advocate costs.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Not signed and dated by the solicitor and/or the defendant and their partner</td>
<td>In all cases we must have signed authority from all parties, agreeing to the declaration in the CRM16 form</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No or insufficient evidence of extra expenditure</td>
<td>For each and every item of extra expenditure that the defendant wishes to be taken into account, we must receive evidence in the form of the individual financial statements, bills, or finance agreements. For credit card obligations we must receive the individual credit card statement. For loans and other finance agreements we must receive the individual finance agreement in place.</td>
</tr>
<td>Defendant has had a change in financial circumstances since the original assessment (e.g. the defendant has become unemployed, changed jobs, become ill and is unable to work)</td>
<td>The defendant MUST complete a ‘Change of Circumstances’ application by completing a fresh CRM14 eForm and providing evidence of the change. Any such changes will then be taken into account in a reassessment of the defendant’s means. We will still consider a Hardship Review in addition to the change of circumstances, but the changes MUST be put to us formally.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Hardship reviews will only be considered if they are submitted whilst the case is still ongoing (except for Appeals to Crown Court where the LAA will consider a hardship application following the issue of the Income Contribution Order).

Day to day living expenses, such as utility bills, insurance premiums and travel to work cannot be taken into consideration because they are factored into the cost of living allowance which is included as an outgoing in the Full Means Assessment. See above for examples of extra expenditure that can be considered.

All items of extra expenditure listed in a hardship review application will need to be evidenced by the defendant with the individual statements / bills / finance agreement from that specific creditor in order for them to be considered. We cannot accept bank statements alone, as evidence of the money that must be paid.

If a case is being heard in the magistrates’ court you must also ensure that:

You complete in full the ‘Solicitor’s Costs’ section and provide a full cost breakdown.
Where 'evidence of payment' (in addition to the loan agreement) is indicated in Annex Q: Forms Guidance acceptable evidence includes bank statements clearly showing payments made, or statements of the loan/debt showing credits to the account. This should be recent evidence and should show payments made in the computation period.

15.5.2 Where to send your application

Please note the CRM16 form for hardship or eligibility reviews is a paper form and should be submitted as follows:

If submitting a CRM16 at the point of application, or as part of a New Applications Following Ineligibility, the provider should upload the CRM16 as an evidence attachment to the CRM14 eForm, making a note in the further information field that a CRM16 is attached.

In all other circumstances the paper CRM16 form must be posted to your nearest National Crime Team.

15.6 How the hardship application is processed

This section aims to give you an overview of the principles behind how an application is assessed on a hardship review in the magistrates’ court

Computation Period

The calculation period is based on the twelve-month period immediately prior to the time of the application but the assessment must reflect the applicant’s current and expected usual income. If the applicant is employed at the point of application, then it will be assumed that this employment would continue. If the applicant has been unemployed for some time over the last twelve months it would clearly not be appropriate to take this into consideration as this would not reflect the applicant’s current financial situation.

The majority of assessments will be based on the applicant’s circumstances at the time of the application. If employed the most recent wage slip will be used. Any other forms of income will be considered carefully in order to assess whether these reflect usual income or are merely one-off payments.

For applicants whose employment circumstances vary, for example, due to seasonal reasons please refer to section 12.9 Erratic income/seasonal workers.

Only items of expenditure that have occurred within the twelve-month period before the application for legal aid will be considered. Where loans or credit agreements have been taken out prior to the application for legal aid, the LAA can take into consideration any future payments remaining.

Where a commitment has been taken on at the point of applying for legal aid or later the applicant would have to demonstrate that it relates to essential expenditure for it to be considered.

If the applicant has shown that they have been denied access to a source of income, the LAA may only allow the amount which has been denied to the applicant during the twelve-month computation period.

Evidence

The applicant will be required to provide sufficient evidence to support the claims made in the CRM 16 i.e. if the applicant claims they have to make debt repayments they must provide credible and independently verifiable documentary evidence in the form of the loan agreement and bank statements to support the claim and to prove the payments are being made.

Please see Annex Q: Forms Guidance for further information on the evidential requirements for common outgoings.
How the result is determined

Please see the tables below showing how the result is calculated. Example figures have been used to illustrate the process.

Magistrates’ court Hardship Review

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Disposable income (from full means assessment)</th>
<th>£8,742</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Less extra expenditure (Allowable expenditure £2000)</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less denied access to income figure (No denied income)</td>
<td>£6,742</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&gt;£3,398?</td>
<td>Yes</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If the adjusted disposable income is above £3,398, solicitors’ costs are then considered:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Less estimated solicitors’ costs</th>
<th>Estimated costs £3,742</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>= £3,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&lt;£3,398?</td>
<td>Yes, PASS</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If the adjusted disposable income is below £3,398 or below, the applicant will pass. If the figure is above £3,398, the applicant will fail the hardship review.

| Disposable income | £6,742 |
| (from full means assessment) | (current contributions £505.65 monthly, £6,067.80 upfront) |
| Less extra expenditure | (Allowable expenditure £2,742) = £4,000 |
| Less denied access to income figure | (No denied income) = £4,000 |
| >£3398? | Yes |

If the result is that the adjusted disposable income is £3398 or less, the applicant will no longer be expected to make contributions from their income. If the figure is above £3398, they will be expected to make some contribution towards their case costs from their income.

In the example above this would result in a revised monthly contribution of £300 or £1,500 up front.

When will a Hardship application be accepted - magistrates’ court

An application for Hardship (on a CRM 16) must be submitted whilst the case is ongoing. If the application is rejected, due to being incomplete, or further information required, then the application will be re-considered, even if the case has concluded.

If the hardship application is successful, then the applicant will be entitled to legal aid backdated to the submission of your initial legal aid application.

When will a Hardship application be accepted - Crown Court

The application must be completed with accompanying evidence and submitted whilst the case is ongoing. Ordinarily we would expect a hardship application to be submitted promptly once the case has been sent to Crown Court unless exceptional circumstances apply.

In the Crown Court the applicant’s contribution may be reduced and depending on their circumstances the review could lead the applicant to no longer being liable to pay an income contribution. The contribution order amount will be altered from the point the case progresses to the Crown Court, or the submission of your initial legal aid application, whichever is the latest.

What happens with the assessed monthly contributions if applicant has submitted or is submitting a Hardship application?

The applicant should be advised that if they make the minimum payment of £255 (which is the minimum contribution for someone failing the full means test), the DRC will not treat this as a broken arrangement. If the contribution amount following hardship is above £255 then the arrears will need to be made good. If the applicant passes on hardship then any payments will be refunded.

When will a Crown Court Eligibility Review be accepted?

Following the refusal of legal aid for a Crown Court trial the applicant has 21 calendar days to apply for an Eligibility Review. Evidence of any additional expenditure also has to be provided within the 21 days to be considered.

After 21 days the applicant will need to make a New Application Following Ineligibility.

NCT has the discretion to conduct an Eligibility Review assessment after the 21 day period in exceptional circumstances. If an extension of time is sought please contact NCT.

If an item of additional expenditure is missed off the CRM16 then a new CRM16 together with the evidence will be required for NCT to consider the additional item.

Multiple Eligibility Reviews will be accepted within the 21 calendar days but once the 21 days have passed a New Application Following Ineligibility will be required (new CRM14 eForm) and any Representation Order will only be dated from the date that the new application is received.

Note: if evidence is missing this can be submitted after the CRM16 but again this has to be submitted within the initial 21 days for the additional expenditure to which it relates to be considered. Once this time has passed a New Application Following Ineligibility will be required (new CRM14 eForm). When submitting a new application you may submit a resigned and re-dated copy of the CRM16 and endorse it to show that the information is still relevant.

15.7 Appealing a hardship / eligibility review decision

Hardship review applications that have been refused may only be resubmitted to the LAA if it is believed that there has been a miscalculation or the assumptions made by the LAA are incorrect or there has been a material change in the circumstances of the case, so that the original costs estimate is no longer a reasonable assessment (magistrates’ court Hardship Reviews and Crown Court Eligibility Reviews only).

If there has been a change in the applicant’s circumstances since a hardship or eligibility review was conducted then a new CRM14 eForm should be submitted.

Where legal aid has previously been refused for a Crown Court trial as well as clicking ‘This application relates to a change of financial circumstances’ the please make it clear using the message function within the CRM14 eForm that this is the case and your client wishes to submit a ‘New Application Following Ineligibility’.

39 If 21 days have elapsed since the original decision a new CRM14 eForm should also be submitted as a New Application Following Ineligibility will be required.
In all other cases the review’s decision on financial eligibility or level of income contribution is final. However, if there is a change in the applicant’s circumstances then this should be brought to the Legal Aid Agency’s attention using a CRM14 eForm as set out above.
16 Means appeals and reviews - capital

16.1 Review of Capital Contribution Order where there has been an error

The applicant can ask for the Capital Contribution Order to be reviewed if it has been miscalculated or an error has been made. They are not required to submit a new CRM14 eForm, but they do need to put their request in writing with evidence to either the DRC or the National Crime Team. The request must be made within 28 days of the date of the Capital Contribution Order. If the LAA agree that the value is incorrect, the Capital Contribution Order will be revoked or varied.

16.2 Review of Capital & Equity where there has been a change in circumstances

What if there is a change in the applicant’s Capital whilst the case is still live?

If the case is still live and the defendant’s capital position has changed due to a change of address e.g. sale of home etc, then the defendant should submit a change in financial circumstances application on a CRM14 eForm.

What if there is a change in the Capital & Equity position once the case has concluded but before a Capital Contribution Order has been issued?

A further CRM14 eForm is not required in this instance. The applicant should put their request for a review in writing with the appropriate evidence, to the either the DRC or NCT.

Magistrates Court

Payments before legal aid is granted

When an application for legal aid is submitted, there may be occasions when the first hearing in the magistrates’ court takes place before a decision on legal aid is reached.

Solicitors claim for payment under the legal aid Representation Order, in accordance with the 2017 Standard Crime Contract. However, there are also a number of other payment mechanisms available.

Payment can be claimed if solicitors represent a client at the first hearing in the magistrates’ court but subsequently no Representation Order is granted, either because the applicant has failed the magistrates’ court means test (Early Cover) or they have failed the Interests of Justice test (Pre Order Cover).

There is also provision for solicitors to make a claim if they assist a client in completing the criminal legal aid application form, where notification is given before the first hearing that the applicant is ineligible for legal aid in the magistrates’ court.

The table below summarises the circumstances for claiming Early Cover, Pre Order Cover and the Form Completion Fee:

Early Cover

The early cover payment scheme was introduced in response to solicitors’ concerns that they may be asked to represent applicants at first hearing in the magistrates’ court without having funding in place and to therefore ensure that first hearings are effective.

A fixed fee of £68.44 +VAT is available.

Early cover is available in the following circumstances:
• A properly completed legal aid application is submitted, whilst the case is ongoing, no later than the 6th working day from instruction, provided that first instruction is on or before the date of the first hearing in the magistrates court; and

• CAT or NCT (where the case has been referred) fail to reach a decision by the time the first hearing takes place; and

• The first hearing moves the case forward and any adjournment is justified; and

• The eventual decision is that the application satisfies the IoJ test but fails the magistrates’ court means test.

To claim Early Cover, solicitors must:

• Complete a CRM11 for the case in which the Early Cover fee is being claimed

• Complete a claim line on the Monthly return, entering the code for Early Cover (PROT)

• Submit Monthly return claim. (See LAA Online for further details on submitting monthly claims)

If the Representation Order is granted in the magistrates’ court the solicitor does not need to claim Early Cover. The Representation Order will be dated from the date the application was first submitted and would therefore cover the work undertaken at the first hearing in the magistrates’ court.

Pre-Order Cover

Pre-Order cover will continue to offer solicitors an additional safeguard.

Where legal aid is refused on Interests of Justice grounds, regardless of whether the applicant passes or fails the means test, a claim can be made for a limited amount of work to an upper limit equivalent to one hour of preparation work.\(^{41}\)

To claim Pre-Order Cover solicitors must:

• Complete a CRM11 for the case in which Pre-Order Cover is being claimed.

• Complete a claim line on the Monthly return, entering the code for Pre-Order Cover (PROP).

• Submit Monthly return claim. (See LAA Online for further details on submitting monthly claims).

Pre Order Work – further information for practitioners

Para 10.40, of the Specification of the 2017 Standard Crime Contract allows for solicitors to claim for work designated as representation from the date on which the order was granted. It also covers any legal advice or representation given on the same case before an order was granted where certain criteria are met.

The criteria for Pre-Order Work are:

• The interests of justice required that the advice or representation was provided as a matter of urgency i.e. there is a court hearing within ten working days or less of the date when initial instructions were taken;

\(^{41}\) Limited to the Hourly Rates specified in the Criminal Legal Aid (Remuneration) (Amendment) Regulations 2016.
• There was no undue delay in making an application for Representation i.e. the application was submitted no more than five working days after initial instruction; and

• The provider who was subsequently assigned under the Representation Order gave the Pre-Order advice or representation.

Form Completion Fee

Where a solicitor spends time going through the criminal legal aid application form to assess a client’s eligibility for means, and:

• The application is submitted and fails the magistrates’ court means test before a hearing takes place

Or

• The application is not submitted on the basis that the solicitor is certain that the applicant will not pass the magistrates’ court means test

And

• The client does not proceed to instruct the solicitor as a private client

A refused means test form completion fee of £22.81 + VAT can be claimed.

To claim the Form Completion Fee solicitors must:

• Complete a CRM11 for the case in which Form Completion Fee is being claimed.
• Complete a claim line on the Monthly return and enter the code for the Form Completion Fee (PROU).
• Submit Monthly return claim. (See LAA Online for further details on submitting monthly claims).

Crown Court

Evidence Provision Fee

Recognising that in completing their legal aid application, some applicants will look to their solicitors for support and assistance, an Evidence Provision Fee can be claimed.

On a practical level, this may involve solicitors contacting family members or friends of an applicant in custody to arrange for the collection of evidence to support the application. Alternatively, contact may be made directly with third parties who can confirm the applicant’s financial position e.g. their employer or their bank.

The Evidence Provision Fee will only apply where evidence is required, and provided, in cases that are committed, sent or transferred for trial to the Crown Court. Where a solicitor assists an applicant for legal aid for a committal for sentence or appeal hearing, the existing fee structure for the magistrates’ court means testing scheme applies.

To remunerate solicitors for this role, solicitors can claim an Evidence Provision Fee to support the applicant through the process and provision of additional evidential requirements

42 Additional evidence being that which is over and above what is required to support applications in the magistrates’ court.
The demands posed by some of the more complex applications means that a two-tier fee structure has been introduced:

- Lower Tier - Flat fee of £45 + VAT for the majority of standard applications that do not involve applicants on passporting benefits and are not ‘complex’.
- Upper Tier - Flat fee of £90 + VAT for a complex application.

Complex applications are where the applicant is required to provide 5 or more pieces of evidence to establish an accurate picture of their income and capital position.

The higher tier fee can also be claimed for Self Employed applicants, where the case has been committed, sent or transferred for trial to the Crown Court and the application has been referred to the NCT.

The Evidence Provision Fee cannot be claimed for:

- Summary only proceedings
- An either way offence that concludes in the magistrates’ court.
- Applicants who are under 18 and/or in receipt of a passporting benefit
- Applicants who do not have capital assets and there is no additional evidence to be provided.
- Equity evidence as this is not required
- Hardship applications or Eligibility Review applications.
- Evidence provided post conviction
- Applications where there is evidence required but this has not been provided. This includes for cases referred to NCT.

Claiming the Evidence Provision Fee

The Evidence Provision Fee is claimed and is payable as part of the LGFS scheme. Solicitors should indicate on the LF1 form where they are claiming the EPF and whether this is at the lower tier or upper tier.

Further guidance on claiming can be found on the gov.uk website:

www.gov.uk/claim-the-evidence-provision-fee

43 This is because youths are not required to provide any evidence alongside an application for criminal legal aid and applicants on a passporting benefit are only required to provide proof of receiving that benefit if the relevant financial check with the Department for Work & Pensions fails to provide the necessary validation.

44 The applicant’s declaration will be verified through checks with other agencies.
19 Annex B: Retrial ordered by the Court of Appeal

The original Crown Court representation order does not cover a retrial ordered by the Court of Appeal. Where a retrial is so ordered, the legal aid application for a representation order should be made using the CRM14 eForm. Applicants should clearly mark the CRM14 eForm that the application relates to a retrial ordered by the Court of Appeal.

A dedicated member of staff at the Court of Appeal will have notified a member of staff at the relevant CAT that a retrial has been ordered at the relevant Crown Court so that the application can be processed as a matter of priority when it is received.

Applicants should submit a fully completed CRM14 eForm. Means testing applies to retrials.

For example:

The Court of Appeal directs a retrial for proceedings against Mr X.

A CRM14 eForm must be completed and submitted with details of income and capital.

Mr X may be liable for contributions from his income to pay for his legal representation during the retrial. If he is convicted, he may be liable for any outstanding amounts from capital.

The process for administering applications is the same as for indictable offences.

Pending a prosecution application to the Court of Appeal for a retrial under section 76 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003, the individual concerned may have been arrested and remanded into custody. In such cases, CAT may grant a representation order - non means tested - in order to cover any relevant bail applications, as well as the section 76 hearing at the Court of Appeal. If the Court of Appeal subsequently orders a retrial, any representation beyond this point will be means tested and the usual route of submitting applications via the CRM14 eForm will apply.
There will be occasions when a Voluntary Bill of Indictment is preferred by virtue of Section 2(2)(b) of the Administration of Justice (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1933.

Applications for a representation order must be submitted using the CRM14 eForm.

Providers should clearly mark on the CRM14 eForm that the application relates to a Voluntary Bill of Indictment.

It would be helpful to also note on the application that the proceedings were heard at the particular magistrates’ court or would have been heard at a particular magistrates’ court.

The process for administering applications is the same as for Indictable offences.
This provision allows an individual who was convicted at the Crown Court to be brought back before that court for a review of their sentence if they have provided the relevant authorities with assistance into the investigation of other criminal offences. Equally, the provision allows an offender to be brought back to court if their original sentence was discounted on the basis of a pledge to assist the investigating authorities in respect of other offences, but that assistance was then not forthcoming.

If the offender was granted a legal aid representation order for the main trial proceedings, it will automatically extend to cover the section 74 hearing under SOCPA on the basis that it is 'incidental' to the substantive proceedings. This applies even if there has been a gap of several years between the original trial and the section 74 hearing. In cases where the offender may have instructed new solicitors since the original trial, the representation order may be transferred to the new solicitors in the usual way (see 7.1 Transferring representation orders).

If the offender was not granted a legal aid representation order for the main trial proceedings at the Crown Court but now wishes to be publicly funded at the section 74 hearing, he must submit a legal aid application to the relevant CAT. The section 74 hearing comes within scope of the criminal legal aid scheme courtesy of section 14(b) of the LASPO Act 2012 - ‘proceedings before any court for dealing with an individual convicted of an offence (including proceedings in respect of a sentence or order)’. The legal aid application will not be subject to Crown Court means testing, but will have to pass the ‘Interests of Justice’ (merits) test.
Criminal funding may be available in respect of some proceeds of crime work, if the client has been charged with an offence at the conclusion of the criminal investigation. If the client has not been charged, or is not a defendant (i.e. a partner of a suspected drugs dealer or some other third party) then civil funding may be available. Civil funding is available under the Associated CLS section in the 2017 Standard Crime Contract Specification.

In some cases people will choose to represent themselves. There are certain circumstances where HMCTS will intervene to protect witnesses.

Cases involving sexual offences

The Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 (YCEA) prevents cross-examination by the applicant of victims in sexual offences cases (section 34). If this possibility arises, the court will ask the applicant to instruct a solicitor/advocate to carry out the cross-examination.

Applications for legal aid will be subject to means testing.

If the applicant:

- Fails to choose a solicitor/advocate, or,
- Has their application for legal aid refused in the magistrates, or,
- Is appearing unrepresented in the Crown Court

The court will consider whether it must appoint a solicitor or advocate. If the court appoints a representative, payment will be made via Central Funds.

Any representative appointed in the Crown Court to cross-examine only will also be paid out of central funds.

Cases involving assault

In the case of assault, the prohibition on cross-examination, as provided for by section 35 of YCEA, applies only if the witness is a child or had given evidence chiefly by video recording or in some other way when a child. For these purposes, 'child', in the case of an assault, means a person under the age of 14.

In cases to which section 34 or 35 does not apply, section 36 permits the prosecution to apply for an order prohibiting cross-examination, or permits the court to decide to make such an order.

See also 9.5.1 Contrary interest in relation to contrary interest and cases involving domestic violence.
Pre-court work

If it has been necessary for a solicitor to incur interpreter’s costs to assist with work carried out before the first court hearing and even perhaps before charge, the Justices could order payment from central funds, applying the judgment of Lord Justice Auld in R (on the application of Hale) v North Sefton Justices [2002] EWHC 257 (Admin).

Auld defined ‘proceedings’ very broadly for the purposes of the court agreeing payment from central funds for pre-court work. The question was whether it could reasonably be said that the advice being sought/given was ‘in the proceedings’ even though a charge had not yet been preferred.

Solicitors who want to submit a claim for pre-court work should agree it with a court officer beforehand. This is current practice when claiming on central funds.

Cost of interpreters in court proceedings

Where the police or other investigating agency charge a person with an offence and detain or bail that person for a magistrates’ court hearing within two working days of charge (i.e. the following day or over a weekend or Bank Holiday), the police or investigating agency will arrange the interpreter for the court hearing. It is important that so far as possible the interpreter arranged for court is not the one who interpreted at the police station either for the police or the applicant’s solicitors at any stage prior to the court appearance. If however it is not possible to find another interpreter (i.e. the language is rare) then the Court and all parties must be notified of the intention to use the same interpreter for the court proceedings and agree to that course of action.

Where the court appearance is more than two working days (not including Saturdays) after the charge or summons, it is the responsibility of the court to arrange for an interpreter if an applicant requires one.

In both instances, the interpreter’s costs will be paid for by the court out of central funds.

If an applicant requires an interpreter for Crown Court proceedings, the court is responsible for arranging the attendance and payment of an independent interpreter (Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 s.19(3)(b)). This is then paid out of central funds.

Cost of interpreters in investigation stage

If an interpreter is required when a solicitor is giving advice during the investigation stage of a case, the interpreter’s costs may be included as a disbursement when claiming for payment under the 2017 Standard Crime Contract.
25 Annex H: Prescribed proceedings (From 23 March 2015)

S14 (h) of the Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders (LASPO) Act 2012 allows the Lord Chancellor to prescribe civil proceedings as being ‘criminal’ so that those cases may be funded under the criminal legal aid scheme instead of the civil legal aid scheme.

The list of civil proceedings which the Lord Chancellor has prescribed as criminal (‘prescribed proceedings’) are at regulation 9 of The Criminal Legal Aid (General) Regulations 2013 as amended by The Criminal Legal Aid (General) (Amendment) Regulations 2015.

These proceedings are criminal solely for the purposes of criminal legal aid funding, and so a client has to apply for a representation order in order to be represented with the benefit of legal aid.

Prescribed Proceedings in the magistrates’ court

Magistrates’ Court means testing applies to all criminal proceedings heard in the magistrates’ court (see regulation 9 of the Criminal Legal Aid (Financial Resources) Regulations 2013. All prescribed proceedings in the magistrates’ court are subject to means testing and the usual processes for application and assessment apply.

The following proceedings are criminal proceedings for the purposes of section 9 of the Criminal Legal Aid (General) Regulations 2013 as amended by The Criminal Legal Aid (General) (Amendment) Regulations 2015:

Applications to vary or discharge Prescribed Proceedings are criminal proceedings, and so funded under a representation order, subject to passing the means and interests of justice test.

Prescribed Proceedings in the Crown Court Applications for funding in ‘prescribed proceedings’ in the Crown Court is less straightforward. This is because, whilst most ‘prescribed proceedings’ fall within scope of the Crown Court means testing scheme (CCMT), a small number will not.
The different approach to ‘prescribed proceedings’ in the Crown Court is necessary because, under Regulation 6 of the Criminal Legal Aid (Contribution Orders) Regulations 2013, as amended by the Criminal Legal Aid (Contribution Orders) (Amendment) Regulations 2013,, CCMT only applies to criminal proceedings:

- in respect of an offence for which an individual may be, or has been, sent by a magistrates’ court for trial at the Crown Court;
- in respect of which a bill of indictment has been preferred by virtue of section 2(2)(b) of the Administration of Justice (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1933(1); or
- Cases which are to be heard in the Crown Court following an order by the Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court for a retrial.

Applying those criteria (and the usual provisions regarding criminal proceedings, such as the rule that representation orders for criminal proceedings cover preliminary or incidental proceedings), CCMT applies to all prescribed proceedings in the Crown Court other than those listed below (references to regulations are to Criminal Legal Aid (General) Regulations 2013) as amended by The Criminal Legal Aid (General) (Amendment) Regulations 2015:

Regulation 9(f), as it applies to proceedings under section 8(1)(b) of the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 relating to parenting orders made in circumstances where a sexual harm prevention order has been made in respect of a child or young person under section 103A of the Sexual Offences Act 2003 (order following conviction etc for a listed offence). CCMT would not apply to a parent who applies for a representation order in respect of such proceedings;

9(g), as it applies to proceedings under section 8(1)(c) of the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 relating to parenting orders made on the conviction of a child or young person for an offence in the Crown Court. CCMT would not apply to a parent who applies for a representation order in respect of such proceedings;

Regulation 9(h), as it applies to an application to vary or discharge a Parenting Order made as in proceedings described in paragraphs (1) and (2) above.

Regulation 9(s), as it applies to:

an order made under section 19 of the Serious Crime Act 2007 in respect of a person within section 19(1)(a) (Serious Crime Prevention Order made against a person committed for sentence to the Crown Court).

variation of a Serious Crime Prevention Order pursuant to 20 of the Serious Crime Act 2007 in respect of a person within section 20(1)(a) (a person committed for sentence to the Crown Court).

variation of a Serious Crime Prevention Order pursuant to section 21 of the Serious Crime Act 2007 in respect of a person within section 21(1)(a) (a person convicted of an offence in the magistrates court under section 25 of the 2007 Act who is committed for sentence to the Crown Court).

CCMT does not of course apply to any prescribed proceedings that do not take place in the Crown Court. So, for example, CCMT does not apply to proceedings under Regulation 9 (a) of Criminal Legal Aid (General) Regulations 2013 (civil proceedings in the magistrates court arising from failure to pay a sum due etc).

CCMT also applies to appeals to the Crown Court in respect of matters disposed of in the magistrates’ court (Regulation 40 of Criminal Legal Aid (Contribution Orders) Regulations 2013).

Where the prescribed proceedings follow from ordinary criminal proceedings in the Crown Court (so that they are part of those proceedings or incidental to them) and a representation order is already in place in respect of the main proceedings, that representation order will cover the prescribed proceedings. In such cases, CCMT will already have been applied at the point of the original application for the representation order and no new legal aid application (or CCMT assessment) is required.
Where no representation order is in place for the main proceedings, the availability of public funding for any subsequent prescribed proceedings heard before the Crown Court will require a fresh legal aid application. This should be submitted in the normal way via the CRM14 eForm. The application will be subject to the IoJ test, and in light of the guidance outlined above, may also be subject to CCMT.
26 Annex I: Magistrates’ Court Means Test
Examples

The means test in the magistrates’ court is made up of an initial income test, which compares an applicant’s adjusted income with a lower and upper income threshold. Every applicant’s income is adjusted to take into account the number and age of any dependents they might have and their partner’s income. These are the weighting factors shown in 9.3 Initial means test formula.

The upper and lower income thresholds act as a proxy for identifying whether an applicant has an adjusted annual disposable income above the limit of £3,398.

The adjusted income thresholds are currently set at:

- Lower Threshold – annual household income below £12,475
- Upper Threshold – annual household income above £22,325

Where the applicant’s adjusted income falls between the upper and lower income thresholds, a more detailed means assessment (known as the ‘full means test’) is carried out to assess their annual disposable income. This takes into account a range of actual expenditure and also builds in a cost of living allowance.

Once all these costs are accounted for, if the applicant has an annual disposable income greater than £3,398 they are deemed capable of paying privately for their defence costs in the magistrates’ court (which are estimated to average at £1,500).

Example 1

The applicant is single and has no dependants. Their annual income exceeds £22,325 and therefore they are ineligible for a Representation Order in the magistrates’ court. If their annual household income is less than £12,475 a year they will be eligible for a Representation Order in the magistrates’ court with no further assessment required.

Example 2

The applicant lives with a partner and their annual household income is £34,000. The applicant’s weighted income is calculated as follows:

£34,000 divided by a weighting factor of 1.64 (obtained by adding 1.00 for the applicant + 0.64 for their partner), which equals £20,732. The applicant’s weighted income is below the upper income threshold and the assessment will move to the full means test.

Example 3

The applicant is a single parent with a dependent child aged 2 at the end of the period of calculation (i.e. the date of application) and has annual household income of £15,000. The adjusted income is calculated as follows:

£15,000 divided by 1.30 (obtained by adding 1.00 for the applicant + 0.30 for the child), which equals £11,538. The applicant’s weighted income is below the lower income threshold, so the applicant is financially eligible in the magistrates’ court without the need for further assessment.
Example 4

The applicant lives with a partner and two children aged 9 and 13 at the end of the period of calculation (i.e. the date of application) and annual household income is £50,000 with adjusted income as follows:

£50,000 divided by 2.46 (obtained by adding 1.00 + 0.64 + 0.38 + 0.44), which equals £20,325. The applicant’s weighted income is below the upper income threshold, and the full means test would be undertaken to establish their annual disposable income.
These examples are designed to show a range of circumstances where income contributions during the course of proceedings may be required. Examples of contributions from capital/equity are not included.

The means test for Crown Court cases is based on the same calculation formula and thresholds as for magistrates’ court cases except for the disposable income threshold being less than £37,500 for Crown Court trials rather than £3398. The initial income test still applies and every applicant’s income is adjusted to take account of his or her family circumstances.

The key difference for the Crown Court scheme is that applicants may still be eligible for a Representation Order where their disposable income exceeds the £3398 threshold. Those with a disposable income of between £3399 and £37,499 will be eligible for a Representation Order but will be expected to make a contribution from their income towards their defence costs during the course of proceedings. Those whose disposable income is equal to or exceeds £37,500 will be ineligible for legal aid in a Crown Court Trial (for Appeals to the Crown Court these applicants will be eligible subject to a contribution from income should their appeal be unsuccessful or abandoned).

Applicants with adjusted income above the lower income threshold will be subject to full means test in order to calculate their annual disposable income and therefore whether they are eligible and, if so, the required income contribution where appropriate. Applicants who are required to pay an income contribution will have this clearly stated on the Contribution Order, which will accompany the Representation Order, both of which are issued by the LAA. Applicants who are ineligible will receive a Refusal Notice.

Those applicants with annual disposable income below the £3,398 disposable income threshold will have a Contribution Notice issued alongside the Representation Order. This will explain that they are not required to make an income contribution.

In addition, those applicants who are convicted in the Crown Court, who have capital or equity in excess of £30,000 and who have not covered their defence costs during the course of proceedings, will be liable for a further contribution. This is also explained on the Contribution Notices and Contribution Orders.

Example 1

Applicant is on a passporting benefit. Due to their passporting benefit status, they will not be required to make a contribution – either from income or capital – towards their defence costs.

Example 2

Applicant is married with two children aged 10 and 7 and an annual household income of £34,500. The adjusted income is as follows:

£34,500 divided by 2.36 (1.00 + 0.64 + 0.34 + 0.38), which equals £14,619. Because the applicant’s adjusted income is above the lower adjusted income threshold, the full means test would be carried out to establish annual disposable income and therefore whether an income contribution is required. So:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Annual household income:</th>
<th>£34,500</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Adjusted living allowance:</td>
<td>£13,396 (£5,676 x 2.36)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

45 Subject to the relevant forms being fully completed, signed and submitted.
Outgoings £20,271
Annual disposable income £833

An income contribution is not required because the annual disposable income is below the threshold of £3,398.

Example 3

Applicant is married with no children and an annual household income of £45,000. The adjusted income is as follows:

£45,000 divided by 1.64 (1.00 + 0.64), which equals £27,439. Because the applicant’s adjusted income is above the lower income threshold the full means test would be carried out to establish the annual disposable income and therefore whether an income contribution is required. So:

- Annual household income: £45,000
- Adjusted living allowance: £9,309 (£5,676 x 1.64)
- Outgoings £20,440
- Annual disposable income £15,251

An income contribution is required and this is calculated as follows:

- Annual disposable income £15,251
- Multiplied by 90% £13,726
- Divided by 12 £1,143.83

The monthly contribution would be £1,143.83. The total contribution would be £6,862.95 (£1,143.83 x 6) or £5,719.13 (£1,143.83 x 5) if paid in a lump sum or on time each month.

Example 4

Applicant is married with no children and an annual household income of £75,000. The adjusted income is as follows:

£45,000 divided by 1.64 (1.00 + 0.64), which equals £45,732. Because the applicant’s adjusted income is above the lower income threshold the full means test would be carried out to establish the annual disposable income and therefore whether an income contribution is required. So:

- Annual household income: £75,000
- Adjusted living allowance: £9,309 (£5,676 x 1.64)
- Outgoings £25,500
- Annual disposable income £40,191

The applicant is ineligible because their disposable income exceeds the £37,500 Crown Court eligibility threshold. The applicant is deemed to have sufficient resource to pay privately and is refused legal aid.
28 Annex K: Case Costs

In some circumstances, an applicant who is required to make an income contribution may have a very high disposable income such that collecting 90% of it over six months equates to a value in excess of their expected case costs.

It is likely that very few applicants will be in this position, but to guard against an applicant vastly overpaying, the Regulations include a ‘maximum income contribution’, which represents 90% of the range of defence costs for each class of case.

What this means is that the amount payable under an income contribution order will not exceed the specified amount for the class within which the offence falls (regardless of the classification of the offences charged in the indictment).

Where the applicant is charged with offences falling within more than one class, the relevant class shall be that for which the specified amount is the highest.

The table below shows the class of offence and a range of indicative case costs, including the maximum income contribution:

</table>

What this means is that if an applicant has been charged with a Class F offence and their income contributions will exceed £6,754, then the collection and enforcement agency will stop taking contributions once this level has been reached.
29  Annex L: Judicial Apportionment

Application for apportionment of costs

A convicted applicant may apply to the Crown Court under regulation 26 of the Criminal Legal Aid (Contribution Orders) Regulations 2013 for an order that he/she is only liable for proportion of their defence cost on the grounds that it would be manifestly unreasonable to pay the whole amount.

This provision is only available where the applicant is convicted of one or more, but not all, offences. Judicial Apportionment is not appropriate or necessary in multiple defendant cases as the cost will be automatically split between the defendants.

An application under regulation 26 must be made in writing (the Judicial Apportionment form is available on Gov.uk) within twenty-one days of the sentence. The application should state the grounds on which the application is made and the proportion (as a percentage) of the costs that would be reasonable.

The trial judge, or where he/she is not available a judge nominated by the resident judge, must consider the application and grant or refuse it. Where the application is granted, the judge should state on the order the percentage of costs payable and the reason for the decision. Where the application is granted, the order shall not require any other co-defendant to pay any of the applicant’s costs and a copy of the granted Order must be sent to the applicant and their solicitor.

The solicitor and barrister must then submit the Judicial Apportionment Order with any claim for payment from the Legal Aid fund (LF1 and AF1). If the LAA does not receive a copy with the bill we will be unable to apply the apportionment and the applicant could be asked to pay more of their legal aid costs.

There is no right of appeal from refusal.
If, at the end of the case the applicant:

Receives a not guilty verdict (on all counts)

Any income contributions will be refunded in full with interest (at 2%). Any enforcement costs incurred if the applicant did not pay on time may be deducted from any refund issued.

Very occasionally the applicant may be required to make a contribution towards their defence costs, even if they have been found not guilty, e.g. they misled the police, prosecution, or the court, or otherwise appear to have brought the prosecution on themselves by their own conduct. The judge would decide this. This is a ‘Wasted Costs Order’ and a matter for the judge/ Court, and is not a legal aid contribution.

The DRC is responsible for issuing any refund. See Key Players section for contact details.

Receives a guilty verdict (on any or all counts)

If the applicant has paid less than the actual costs, they may have to pay some or all the balance from capital if they have £30,000 or more of capital assets (including equity).

If they have paid more than the actual costs (calculated at the end of the case) — any overpayment will be refunded with interest.

If an applicant is found guilty of some, but not all counts, then they can apply to the court for a Judicial Apportionment (see CLAM Annex L “A convicted applicant may apply to the Crown Court under regulation 26 of the Criminal Legal Aid (Contribution Orders) Regulations 2013 for an order that he/she is only liable for proportion of their defence cost on the grounds that it would be manifestly unreasonable to pay the whole amount.

This provision is only available where the applicant is convicted of one or more, but not all, offences. Judicial Apportionment is not appropriate or necessary in multiple defendant cases as the cost will be automatically split between the defendants.

An application under regulation 26 must be made in writing (the Judicial Apportionment form is available on the justice website) within twenty-one days of the sentence.

When will applicants have to pay from their capital?

Once the case has finished, the applicant’s capital position must be confirmed and the final defence cost established. Confirming the capital position includes a range of checks with third parties, such as Land Registry and credit reference agencies. Where there is an amount to pay from capital, the Debt Recovery Company will notify the client by way of a Capital Contribution Order detailing the amount they owe, how to pay and when.

In certain circumstances, the DRC are able to enter into repayment agreements.

If they don't pay - what are the sanctions?

If the applicant has been assessed as able to contribute from their assets, it is important that payment is made. Where payment is not made in full, or an arrangement made, there is a range of enforcement measures available to ensure any money outstanding is paid in full. Please see 6.6.5 Collection & enforcement.
How do applicants pay from equity?

If the equity can’t be released and there are no other ways of making the payment, applicants could ask to delay payment and if payments are not made straight away, a charge could be put on the property until the debt is repaid. This could accrue interest at 8%.

It is important to understand that placing a charge on a property is only one of a range of enforcement actions available and would only happen once the convicted applicant had been given the opportunity to pay but failed to do so.

Will you force people to sell their family homes after they have been convicted?

Placing a charge on a property is very different from asking or forcing someone to sell their home. The individual circumstances of each case will be considered before taking enforcement action.

Applying for an order for sale is a last resort.

An order for sale requires an application to the courts and any decision to apply for an order for sale needs to carefully consider the individual circumstances of each case and take into account a range of factors, e.g. the interests of co-owners and the extent of their equity, or whether any dependants live in the property.
31 Annex N: Debt Recovery Company’s role in collecting criminal legal aid contributions

This section sets out the Debt Recovery Company’s role and procedures, who to contact with queries and how to make complaints.

The Legal Aid Agency (LAA) is responsible for collecting criminal legal aid contributions and must ensure that recovery is made in appropriate circumstances.

The LAA contracts with Marston Holdings Ltd as our Debt Recovery Company (DRC) for Crown Court Means Testing (CCMT).

Where a defendant has been asked to pay an income or capital contribution they are given 28 days to make each required payment. Where payments are missed we expect the DRC to ensure that money owed to the taxpayer is recovered swiftly. Where there is persistent failure to pay we expect the DRC to take all steps available to them to enforce the outstanding debt.

With regards to procedure, in all cases the DRC act on instruction from the LAA.

Income contributions are calculated by the LAA’s Crime Applications Teams (CAT) or National Crime Teams (NCT) and provided to the DRC. The DRC will look to collect on every case where an Income Contribution Order has been issued by the LAA unless and until the LAA advises otherwise.

- The DRC set up an account for the defendant within 1 working day of receiving the file from the LAA
- The introduction letter - They send an initial contact letter within 1 working day of creating the defendant’s file. Advises amount due, date, payment methods etc and invites them to get in touch to arrange payment
- The Reminder Letter - Max 5 working days before payment due reminder sent (letter and phone)
- The Broken Arrangement Letter - Within 5 working days of missed payment –Letter and phone call to defendant. 2 missed payments triggers enforcement action which could involve attachments of earnings, vehicle clamping orders, or bailiffs etc.
- Finally the Default Notice - A further 5 working days after the broken arrangement letter is sent for a second time and payment remains outstanding – default notice is sent to defendant notifying them of the commencement of enforcement action

Capital contributions Orders are issued by the DRC on our behalf, and these are calculated based on information provided by the defendant on his application and on the basis of fraud prevention checks.

Imprisoned Defendants

The DRC may not always be aware that a defendant has been remanded in custody or is serving a prison sentence and will continue writing to defendants at their last known address until such time as they are updated.

If the DRC are informed that a defendant has been imprisoned, either by the LAA or by someone calling or writing to advise that the defendant is not at their address, the DRC will use the prisoner location service to identify the current location of the defendant and update their details accordingly so that correspondence is sent to the defendant in prison.

Dealing with family members

The DRC cannot recover debts from family members. The liability remains with the defendant. It is therefore the Defendants responsibility to ensure payment. Under data protection laws the DRC will only discuss cases with parties other than the defendant or their solicitor with the permission of the defendant. Even on cases where permission has been given to discuss matters with a member of the defendant’s family, the DRC will always be clear that the debt is the defendant’s and the debt can only be enforced or recovered against assets which belong to the defendant.

Complaints

The DRC has a dedicated welfare and complaints manager and all complaints about the DRC’s conduct should be directed to them in the first instance. The DRC look to respond to all complaints within 5 working days of receipt, or, if further information is required from the LAA or further investigation is needed, they will confirm receipt in 5 working days and look to respond in full within 10 working days.

The LAA monitors all complaints received by the DRC to ensure that service standards are being met.

Should your clients or their family members have concerns about the DRC’s conduct, then we would advise them to put their complaint in writing to the DRC. Please see Key Players sections for contact details.

Please note, should the complaint relate to the value of an Income or Capital Contribution Order, the DRC will not be able to assist with this and such complaints should be made to the National Crime Team.
It is important that clients understand how legal aid works in criminal proceedings, and what their responsibilities are under the scheme. These suggested paragraphs have been designed for solicitors to use in their client care letters. They are a guide only, they are optional and they can be amended by firms to fit the circumstances of their clients.

Do you have to pay for your case in the magistrates’ court?

We will apply for Legal Aid to cover your case in the magistrates’ court, and have asked you to complete the application forms. The decision to award Legal Aid is made on the basis of both the details of your case (called the Interests of Justice Test) and the financial information you provide (called the Means Test). It is therefore very important that you complete the forms accurately and (where necessary) send evidence to support the information you provide. If you do not tell the truth on your legal aid application about your income, assets and expenditure you could be prosecuted.

If you are under 18 or on certain benefits you do not need to pay for the work we do for you in the magistrates’ court. These benefits are Income Support, Income-Based Job Seeker’s Allowance, Universal Credit, Guaranteed State Pension Credit and Income-related Employment and Support Allowance. You need to provide your National Insurance Number so that the benefit can be checked.

In all other circumstances your finances will be assessed to decide whether you are eligible for Legal Aid. Your annual household income and family circumstances will be taken into account and then:

- If your annual household income is £12,475 or less you get free Legal Aid
- If it is £22,325 or more you are not eligible for Legal Aid

The assessment of your income makes an allowance for a partner or any children that you have living with you so it is important that you include details of these on the form.

If your annual household income is more than £12,475 but less than £22,325 then the Legal Aid Agency will look at your disposable income. This is the money you’re left with after you’ve paid your main bills. A standard amount is allowed for some bills such as gas, electricity and insurance, and there is an allowance for a partner and/or any children. If you’re left with:

- £3,398 or less a year (£283.17 or less a month) you get free Legal Aid
- More than £3,398 a year (£283.17 a month) you are not eligible to receive Legal Aid

If you don’t think you can afford to pay privately, or you think that a mistake has been made, you can ask for a review of your Legal Aid assessment.

Do you have to pay for your case in the Crown Court?

If your case is heard in the Crown Court your financial situation will be assessed with one of the following outcomes:

You don’t have to pay for the work that we do for you because you have been awarded Legal Aid to cover all your costs
You have to pay a contribution towards our costs because you can afford to pay from your income, capital or both.

You have to pay privately for all the work that we do for you.

You will be asked to provide evidence of your income and assets. If you do not provide this evidence, your payments could be increased. If you do not tell the truth on your legal aid application about your income, assets and expenditure you could be prosecuted.

You will not have to pay towards the costs of your case if you are under 18 when you make your application or if you receive any of the following benefits: Income Support, Income-Based Job Seeker’s Allowance, Universal Credit, Guaranteed State Pension Credit and Income-related Employment and Support Allowance.

If your annual household disposable income is £37,500 or more (the money you’re left with after you’ve paid your main bills, and taking into account your family circumstances, such as a partner and/or any children) then you will not be eligible for Legal Aid and you will have to pay privately for any work that we do for you.

You will have to pay a contribution towards the costs if your annual disposable income is above £3,398. A standard amount is allowed for some bills such as gas, electricity and insurance, and there is an allowance for a partner and/or any children. Where you are required to pay towards your legal costs, you will receive a Contribution Order from the court giving details of how much you must pay, and how to make the payments. The first payment will be due within 28 days of your case being committed, sent or transferred for trial. The payments will be collected by a private company on behalf of the Legal Aid Agency, and they will also write to you. You must tell the LAA about any changes to your financial circumstances during your case because a change may affect the amount you have to pay towards your defence costs. If you don’t think you can afford to pay, or you think that a mistake has been made, you can ask for a review of the amount the LAA has told you to pay.

At the end of the case, if you are found not guilty, any payments you have made will be refunded with interest. If you paid late or not at all and action was taken against you, the costs of this action will be deducted from the refund.

If you are found guilty, you may also have to pay towards your defence costs from any capital assets you may have. This would only apply if:

- You have £30,000 or more of assets, for example: savings, equity in property, shares or Premium Bonds; and
- Any payments you have already made have not covered your total defence costs.

You will be told at the end of your case if you have to make a payment from capital. The Collection and Enforcement Agency for the Legal Aid Agency will notify you of the amount you owe once your legal costs have been finalised.
This section is designed to help you avoid rejects and have your applications processed first time. By following these hints and tips you will reduce delays for you and your client, and reduce the administrative cost of resubmitting applications.

As you complete the CRM14 eForm a red ? help symbol will provide further information where applicable.

The paper forms guidance, which can be found at Annex Q: Forms Guidance and separately on Gov.uk, may also assist as for example the completeness criteria and evidential requirements remain the same, the benefit of the e form is that depending on how you answer preceding questions only those questions potentially relevant to our determination will appear, thus shortening in many cases the information to be provided.

The eForm significantly reduces the number of applications that are rejected however there are still a few things providers should consider when completing the CRM14 eForm.

If your client has a partner they will need to ensure that your partner details section of the eForm is complete.

Where the partner is not a victim, prosecution witness or co-defendant with a conflict then details of their financial circumstances will also need to be declared in the application.

If your client has been remanded into custody by the court...

Where your client is remanded into custody by the court please ensure that you click Yes to the court custody question on the eForm (Evidence: 1 section – Questions to inform evidential requirements).

Defendants remanded into custody by the court are able to self-certify their income/outgoings and are not required to provide documentary evidence endorsing the information declared in their application. Please be aware that the rules allowing an applicant to self-certify their income do not extend to those defendants held in police custody for whom any appropriate documentary evidence is required before an application can be processed.

Interest of Justice Test requirements

Under the Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders (LASPO) Act 2012 legal aid should (subject to means testing) only be granted in cases where it is in the interests of justice for the defendant to be represented.

Each application for legal aid is considered individually, against all the relevant factors, known as the Widgery criteria and listed below. It may be appropriate to refer to additional factors not on this list, but they must be relevant to the interests of justice and when completing the forms, applicants must make it clear which of the factors they are relying on to support their application.

Further information regarding the Widgery Criteria can be found in pages 4-13 of the Guidance on the Consideration of Defence Representation Order Applications - August 2013 which is available on the gov.uk website at: www.gov.uk/work-out-who-qualifies-for-criminal-legal-aid
The 'Widgery Criteria':

- It is likely that I will lose my liberty
- I have been given a sentence that is suspended or non-custodial. If I break this, the court may be able to deal with me for the original offence
- It is likely that I will lose my livelihood
- It is likely that I will suffer serious damage to my reputation
- A substantial question of law may be involved
- I may not be able to understand the court proceedings or present my own case
- I may need witnesses to be traced or interviewed on my behalf
- The proceedings may involve expert cross-examination of a prosecution witness
- It is in the interests of another person that I am represented
- Any other reasons.

In some cases two or more factors may combine together to justify a decision to grant when neither by itself would have sufficed. When such a combination is relied upon, this should clearly be noted on the application form.

It is the responsibility of the applicant (with the assistance of a solicitor), to provide sufficient relevant information to support an application. Where insufficient information is provided the application will be refused rather than returned. Where refused, an Interest of Justice decision can be appealed if the application is resubmitted with further information.

It is not a requirement that a list of previous convictions be provided to the defence for the purposes of completing their application as these are often not available at the time the application is submitted. However, if an application is to rely upon previous convictions, it is important that sufficient information about them is given.

A comprehensive guide to the Interests of Justice test is available in the following location on the gov.uk website:

The Benefit Bypass – Avoiding delays caused by a failed or undetermined benefit check

When you click Check Benefits Status within the CRM14 eForm, a 'real time' link to the DWP benefits checker will confirm the Passported Benefit status within a few moments.

When completing the forms, if your client is unsure of the specific benefit they receive or the DWP link returns a result of either NO or undetermined, and you have checked the information submitted is correct, the applicant will be required to complete further questions on the CRM14 eForm, confirming the applicant and partners financial situation including any capital and equity. This is known as the Benefit Bypass and will enable CAT to carry out a means assessment.

Alternatively they can provide evidence.

Please note, for Crown Court cases, if the applicant is in receipt of a passported benefit and the DWP link fails, it is in their interests to provide proof of the benefit (i.e. DWP letter) rather than using the ‘Benefit Bypass’. This is because passported applicants are exempt from any contributions from capital or equity if they are convicted and using the Benefit Bypass could mean that they are liable at the end of the case.

Evidential Requirements (bailed defendants only)

Outgoings under £500 per month

| No |

Makes sure it’s clear how the applicant is supporting themselves

Whether they are employed, self-employed, unemployed and in receipt of benefits or supported by friends and family the form needs to clearly define how your client is supporting themselves or being supported by others on a day to day basis. If an application is completed to state that your client has no income then it must include a full explanation of how they are managing to cover their day-to-day living expenses.

If your client declares outgoings on the CRM14 eForm and these exceed their income they will also need to provide an explanation as to how they are able to afford their outgoings before an application can be processed.

Completing the declarations

In the vast majority of instances an assessment will not be conducted if your client has not signed the applicant declaration form. If your client cannot sign the form because they suffer from severe mental health issues you should refer to 3.5.7 Applicants with mental health problems for further guidance.

Missing partner signatures

Where your client has a partner, the application should be completed to include information on both of their personal details and financial circumstances. The partner should also sign the relevant declaration on the applicant declaration form.

The table below sets out the limited number of circumstances where the application can be accepted without a partner’s signature and common scenarios where it cannot. If one of the exceptions in the table applies, the applicant must explain the reasons for a lack of their partner’s signature and what attempts have been made to obtain it prior to submitting the application.

If your client is remanded into custody we do not assume that their household income ceases
Employed applicants who fail the means test and later lose their job will need to complete a fresh application that reflects the change in their circumstances and provide a letter from their former employer that sets out the terms of the termination of their employment.

For those applicants who are self-employed and have failed the means test, the evidence required to support a change in financial circumstances application will depend on whether they are a sole trader or employ others. For a sole trader it is sufficient to complete a change in circumstances application stating sole trader remanded in custody. For all other Self-employed types closing accounts demonstrating that a business has ceased trading would be required.
Guidance for completing forms CRM14 and CRM15

Guidance for CRM14

- This guidance and the forms to which it refers are available in Welsh.
- If you need help or advice when you use this Guidance, please contact a solicitor (but see About evidence on page 3, and question 38 when you may ask the Court for advice).

When you fill in the form

- Answer all the questions from 1 to 39 unless there is an instruction to move to a later question. For example, if you answer No to question 34 you should then answer question 36 because question 35 will not apply to you.

Use form CRM14 to apply for legal aid if your case is:
- dealt with in a Magistrates’ Court
- a Crown Court trial
- a Committal for sentence
- an appeal to the Crown Court
- a Retrial or Voluntary Bill in the Crown Court.
- An appeal by way of case stated to the High Court
- Confiscation, Restraint or Receivership proceedings
- Enforcement proceedings.

We use the information you provide on this form and forms CRM15 (and CRM15C) to decide whether you may receive legal aid – and if so, whether it will be free or whether you must pay part of the cost.

Use this Guidance as you work through the questions on the form. If you do not, you may not fill in the form correctly.

A correctly completed form includes:
- all questions being answered fully
- and evidence being provided when we require it.
GUIDANCE
Where you see this sign on the form, we want you to go to the question number on pages 5 to 12 of this Guidance. Read the advice opposite the GUIDANCE sign.

EVIDENCE
Where you see this sign on the form, we want you to go to the question number in the table on pages 5 to 12 of this Guidance. Read the advice opposite the EVIDENCE sign. This will tell you about the evidence which we need you to provide for that question. See also About evidence on page 3.

• Do not cross out any question just because it does not apply to you. If you do, we will send the form back to you and ask you to explain.

• Make sure we can read your answers. The form may be copied so we suggest you use a pen with black or a dark ink. If we cannot read your answers, we will return the form.

• If you have a partner (see question 8) you must also fill in their details throughout the form where these details are required — unless you answer Yes to question 12 because your partner is involved in the case as a victim, prosecution witness or as a co-defendant who has a conflict of interest (in these circumstances, you should follow the instructions on the form). This may mean that when you answer some of the later questions on the form you will not provide details for your partner and your partner will not have to sign the declaration. In all other circumstances, you must provide details for your partner, even if you have been remanded into custody by the court or are already a serving prisoner.

• Before you fill in the form, you may find it helpful to read the declaration at question 39, which you must sign when you have completed the form, and the guidance for question 32 on page 11 of this Guidance.

• It is important that you are accurate when you fill in the forms.

We will check the information you provide with the Department of Work and Pensions, HM Revenue and Customs and other organisations. If you tell us anything on the application that is not true or leave anything out:

   you may be prosecuted. This could result in you going to prison or paying a fine or you may have to repay all of the cost of the legal aid which you have received, and your legal aid may be taken away. This may mean that you have to pay your solicitor’s costs using your own money.

or if your case is in the Crown Court, the Legal Aid Agency may vary the amount of any Contribution Order under which you have to pay towards the cost of your legal aid.

Warning: if your case is being heard in the Crown Court and we send a form back to you because it is not completed fully or correctly, and later we receive a form that we accept, the representation order that grants you legal aid will begin on the date when we receive the correct form. This may mean that you pay some of your solicitor’s costs using your own money. So when you fill in the form, use this Guidance to help you apply correctly.

When you have filled in this form

• Check your application to make sure that there are no empty boxes where you should have given information.

• Make sure you have signed and dated the declaration.

• If you have a partner, make sure they have signed and dated at question 38

• Send the form, and any evidence you have to provide with the form, to the LAA. If you send the forms and evidence by post, we suggest you consider using recorded delivery. This will give you proof that you posted the documents and a record that they have been received by the LAA.
About evidence

We may need to see evidence that proves the information you give in this form and in any other forms you use to apply for legal aid, is true. The evidence we need to see is described on pages 5 to 12 of this guidance.

If you provide original evidence, the LAA will usually make a copy and return the original to you. Or you may provide a copy which is certified by your solicitor.

If you have genuine difficulty in providing evidence we require, you or your solicitor should contact the LAA for advice.

Rules about evidence

There are rules about who needs to provide evidence and when they need to provide it.

These rules are:

• If your case is in the magistrates’ court and you are in prison or detention centre, you do not need to provide evidence.

• If your case is in the magistrates’ court and you are on bail or you are committed to the Crown Court for sentence or you appeal to the Crown Court,

you must provide the evidence with this form.

• If your case is a trial in the Crown Court, you must provide the evidence but you have 14 days to do this, beginning on the day on which you sign the form CRM14.

If you have to provide evidence but you do not provide it according to these rules, the following may happen:

  if your case is dealt with in the magistrates’ court only, we may delay considering your application. We will usually return the application form to you and ask you to send it back to us with the appropriate evidence.

  or if your case is dealt with in the Crown Court and the missing evidence is about your income, we may ask you to pay £900 each month or all of your disposable income, whichever is the greater.

  or if your case is being dealt with in the Crown Court and the evidence refers to your capital, we may wait to see if you are convicted.

  If you are convicted, we may remove the £30,000 capital allowance and ask you to pay the full cost to the legal aid fund.

Remember:

• A correctly completed application includes the evidence we require being provided according to these rules.

• If you have any doubts about whether to send the evidence described in this guidance (the requirement for which is indicated by the evidence symbol in the panel on the forms), send it with the forms.
About the granting of legal aid

When we decide whether to grant you legal aid, we will use two tests of your case:

1. The Interest of Justice Test
   This considers whether it is in the interest of justice that a solicitor represents you.

   A means assessment.
   We look at the income and outgoings, and savings, investments and property of you and your partner (if you have one) to decide whether you are financially eligible, in the magistrates' court and in Crown Court trials. Where you are eligible for funding for a Crown Court trial your income and outgoings are also used to assess whether you have to contribute to your defence costs.

   The outcome of these tests
   This depends on the type of case for which you require legal aid and the court where your case will be heard.

   Your completed form CRM14 should show at the top of page 1 the type of case for which you require legal aid.

   If your case is heard and dealt with in a magistrates' court
   You will get free legal aid if you pass both tests.

   If your case is committed for sentence from the magistrates' court to the Crown Court,
   You will get free legal aid if you pass the means assessment.

   If your case is a Crown Court trial, or your case is a retrial or a Voluntary Bill
   You will get legal aid if your disposable household income is less than £37,500. However, if your income or capital, or both, are above a certain level, you may have to contribute towards the cost of your solicitor and defence under a Contribution Order.

   If you appeal to the Crown Court against your conviction, sentence or order of a magistrates' court
   You will get legal aid if you pass the Interests of Justice Test. However, you may have to pay towards the cost of your representation in the appeal, under a Contribution Order if you do not pass the means assessment and:
   - your appeal is not successful
   - or you abandon the appeal.

   If you are applying for Legal Aid for an appeal to the High Court by way of case stated
   These proceedings are not means tested but are subject to the Interests of Justice Test. You should complete form CRM14 and pass it to the relevant CAT.

   If you are applying in relation to Confiscation, Restraint or Receivership proceedings
   These proceedings are not means tested but are subject to the Interests of Justice Test. You should complete form CRM14 and pass it to the relevant CAT.

   If you are subject to Enforcement proceedings
   Your representation will be subject to a means assessment. You should complete a new form CRM14, and CRM15 if necessary, and submit it to the relevant CAT.

   If you want to know more:

   - Your solicitor will be able to tell you more about the Interest of Justice Test and the means assessment.
   - You may also find out more about the financial assessment by reading the guidance at:
     www.gov.uk/criminal-legal-aid-means-testing

   Your solicitors will also have a copy of the same.
Question Guidance and Evidence requirements for questions on CRM15

1 Guidance National Insurance Number

You must provide this number if:

- you receive one of the benefits listed in question 14. If you are included on your partner’s benefit claim, you will need to give your partner’s National Insurance Number at question 11.
- you are over 18 when you apply and your case is going to the Crown Court for trial, retrial or a Voluntary Bill.

If you cannot provide a National Insurance Number, and you answer Yes to question 14 on form CRM14 (we call the benefits listed for this question, ‘passport benefits’) you must provide recent evidence instead – for example, a benefit book, a notice of entitlement or letter from a Job Centre Plus which sets out the benefits which you receive. This evidence must be dated within the last 3 months

Application Registration Card (ARC) Number

This is for applications from foreign nationals. If you are a foreign national, we expect you to provide your ARC number which is printed on your Application Registration Card. If you are alleged to be an illegal immigrant, you may have a limited amount of information to give. However, we would still expect you to provide your name, address and as many details as possible about your financial position.

8 Guidance A Partner is someone to whom you are married or in a civil partnership with, or someone who you usually live with as a couple. This includes where you are living apart due to any reason other than a breakdown in your relationship that is likely to be permanent.

9 Guidance Separation means no longer living together or your relationship has broken down, not only separation with a court order.

11 Guidance National Insurance Number

You must provide this number if:

- your partner receives one of the benefits listed in question 14.
- your partner is over 18 when you apply and your case is going to the Crown Court for trial, retrial or a Voluntary Bill.
If your partner cannot provide a National Insurance Number, and you answer Yes to question 14 on form CRM14 (we call the benefits listed for this question, ‘passported benefits’)

Your partner must provide recent evidence instead – for example, a benefit book, a notice of entitlement or letter from a Job Centre Plus which sets out the benefits which your partner receives. This evidence must be dated within the last 3 months.

Application Registration Card (ARC) Number

This is for applications from foreign nationals. If your partner is a foreign national, we expect you to provide your partner’s ARC number which is printed on their Application Registration Card. If your partner is alleged to be an illegal immigrant, you may have a limited amount of information to give about your partner. However, we would still expect you to provide your partner’s name, address and as many details as possible about their financial position.

14 Guidance

About the benefits which you receive

If you tell us that you or your partner receive any of the benefits listed for this question, we will use your National Insurance Number, or your partner’s, to check with the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) that the information you give about the benefits is correct. If it is, you will automatically pass the means assessment. However, for some cases you may also have to pass the Interest of Justice Test.

If our checks with the DWP do not confirm the information you gave, we will tell you. You may then either provide evidence to support the information that you gave on the form or complete questions 15 to 22 on the CRM14 and form CRM15 where these questions direct you to.

15 Guidance

The figure of £12,475 a year (or £1,039.58 a month or £239.90 a week) is a gross amount – the amount before income tax and other deductions are taken away.

So if the sum of your income and your partner’s income from all sources, before income tax is taken away, is £1,039.58 a month or £239.90 a week or more, you must complete form CRM15 as well as this form.

16 Guidance

Income from employment

Give the total income from all employment. Before you answer this question, read the guidance for question 17.

If you work for an agency, you may not be classed as an employee of the company you are working for.

We need to see evidence of your employment, or your partner’s, or both if you both work. This evidence may be a wage slip or a salary advice. The evidence should be as recent as possible but must be dated within the last 3 months before the date of the application form.

Evidence

See About evidence on page 3.

Income from other benefits
For the purposes of the means assessment some benefits such as Housing Benefit, Disability Living Allowance and Carer’s Allowance are disregarded and you should not declare benefits on the form. See section 12.4 of the Criminal Legal Aid Manual for a full list of disregarded benefits.

Benefits in kind

If you receive ‘benefits in kind’, their value should also be included when calculating whether your total income is more than £12,475 a year. Please enter their value in the any other sources of income box and state ‘benefits in kind’. Benefits in kind are benefits which you or your partner receives from your work instead of money.

Examples of benefits in kind are:

- the use of a company vehicle
- fuel allowance (or vehicle and fuel allowance)
- free accommodation
- luncheon vouchers
- payments for relocation of where you live
- vouchers for children
- private health insurance
- help with mortgage payments.

Income from other sources which you have not described in the form so far.

For example, financial support from anyone (not just friends or family), or from someone who allows you to use assets or money.

Self-employment (working for yourself)

If you are not sure whether you are self-employed, these questions may help you decide:

- Do you give invoices to clients for the work you do for them?
- Do you have a number of different clients who you work for?
- Do you find the work that you do?
- Are you responsible for the losses of your business as well as receiving the profits?
- Can you hire other people to do the work you've taken on?
- Have you invested your own money into your business?
- Do you provide major items of equipment, which are essential for your work?
- Have you had to fill out a self-assessment tax return for Her Majesty’s Revenue and Customs (HMRC)?

If you answer Yes to most of these questions, then you are probably self-employed. However, being self-employed does not mean that you cannot also work for someone else (as an employee).

Types of self-employment

Sole-traders

Many small businesses are sole-traders. This means that you receive all the income generated by the business to keep for yourself or to re-invest. You are in complete control and can make decisions as you choose. Sole-traders also assume complete responsibility for liabilities and debts. As a sole-trader you are required to make an annual self-assessment tax return to HMRC. You must also keep records showing your business income and expenses.

Partnerships

In a partnership, two or more people share the risks, costs and responsibilities of the business. Each partner is self-employed and takes a share of the profits. Each partner usually shares in the decision-making and is personally responsible for any debts of the business. A partnership is not the same as a limited company. You should answer Yes to this question even if you are a sleeping partner (that is, you are not involved in the partnership, but you are entitled to a share of the business and its profits). →

The partnership itself and each individual partner must make an annual self-assessment tax return to HMRC. The partnership must also keep records showing business income and expenses.

Company director

A company director is anyone registered as a director of a limited company (this does not include charities). A company director does not need to hold shares in that company.

Shareholder

For the purposes of this form shareholder means anyone who holds a number of shares in a private limited company.

Sub-contractor

If you are a subcontractor you undertake work which you get from a contractor. From 6th April 2007, the Construction Industry Scheme (CIS) places an obligation on contractors to make a monthly return. CIS paper vouchers will not be used after this date.

19 Guidance

The form may help you answer this question: check whether the Case type box at the top of page 1 has been completed. If it has not, ask a solicitor how you should answer this question. It is important that you answer the question correctly because your answer will decide whether you have to fill in form CRM15 and give us details of your property, savings, investments, outgoings and other matters.

As a rough guide, a summary offence will usually be dealt with in a magistrates’ court only – but remember that your answer to this question depends on the most serious offence that you have been charged with.

21 Guidance

Before you answer this question, ask yourself whether you or your partner have any of the following types of saving:

- Bank accounts
- Building society accounts
- Cash ISAs
- National Savings or Post Office Accounts
- Any other cash investments
- National Savings Certificates
- Premium Savings Bonds

Ask yourself whether you or your partner have any of the following types of investment:

- Stocks, including gilts and government bonds
- Shares
- Personal Equity Plans (PEPs)
- Share ISAs
- Unit Trusts
- Investment Bonds
- Other lump sum investments

You should answer No to this question if:

- you have nothing more than a single current account, into which your benefit/wages/salary are paid
- and you have not already been directed to complete a CRM15 because of your answers to Questions 15 to 20

If you have already been directed to complete a CRM15 then you will need to declare all bank/building society accounts including any current accounts here and when you provide details on the CRM15.

23 Guidance

You should ask a solicitor to help you answer this question (and questions 24 to question 31).

Your solicitor can provide you with the proper legal reasons why you should be given legal aid.

Your solicitor may want to consult the Guidance on the Consideration of Defence Representation Order Applications. This is available at:

www.gov.uk/work-out-who-qualifies-for-criminal-legal-aid

24 Guidance

The class of offence

This question must be answered for all either way or indictable offences. Your solicitor will be able to help you answer it.

The class of offence is vital to ensuring we decide whether you must pay a contribution towards the cost of your legal aid, and if so, the amount.

If the form tells us the wrong class of offence and you are required to pay towards the cost of your legal aid, you could pay more than you should.

29 Guidance

Reasons for wanting legal representation
Your solicitor will be able to help you with this question and this guidance.

It is likely that I will lose my liberty if any matter in the proceedings is decided against me

Loss of liberty does not include non-custodial sentences but does include remand into custody and prison sentences (including hospital orders).

Solicitors: If the entry point for this offence in the magistrates' guidelines is not custody, please explain why you think custody is likely in this case: for example, relevant previous convictions or aggravating features of the offence. Please give dates of relevant convictions, if you know them.

I have been given a sentence that is suspended or non-custodial. If I break this, the court may be able to deal with me for the original offence

You should give details of your sentence, its conditions, the alleged breach and say whether this is the first or subsequent breach of the order.

It is likely that I will lose my livelihood

The loss of livelihood should be a direct result of the conviction or sentence – please provide supporting evidence where possible. This would normally refer to your current livelihood, although it can apply if someone is genuinely unemployed for a short period between jobs. If you plan to plead guilty, please explain how legal representation might help you avoid losing your livelihood.

It is likely that I will suffer serious damage to my reputation

Reputation refers to good character, including honesty and trustworthiness, and is not related to social class or position. 'Serious' damage is judged to happen in cases where the disgrace of a conviction is more than the direct effect of the penalty. If you plan to plead guilty, please explain how legal representation might help you avoid serious damage to your reputation.

A substantial question of law may be involved (whether arising from an act, judicial authority or other source of law)

This applies where any matter in relation to the proceedings raises a point of law, which you cannot be expected to deal with unaided. Please explain why the question of law is relevant to the case. Questions of fact alone are not relevant. Where possible, please list the cases or laws, which give rise to the question of law.

I may not be able to understand the court proceedings or present my own case

There may be a number of reasons why you may not be able to understand court proceedings or to present your own case. These may include (but are not limited to) mental or physical disability, poor knowledge of English, age or vulnerability. The ability to understand proceedings or to present your own case is also likely to depend on how complicated the case is.

Witnesses may need to be traced or interviewed on my behalf

You may need witnesses to be traced or interviewed to see whether they can support your case. This may be because you are pleading not guilty, or because you are pleading guilty and need help with a plea of mitigation (an explanation for the offence given on behalf of a guilty party in order to excuse or partly excuse the offence committed in an attempt to minimise the sentence). You should explain why you need legal representation to trace or interview witnesses.

The proceedings may involve expert cross-examination of a prosecution witness (whether an expert or not)

Expert cross-examination is likely to be needed where you are pleading not guilty and you expect the prosecution to call witnesses whose evidence you want to challenge. You are likely to need a lawyer to carry out expert cross-examination on your behalf if the evidence to be given by the prosecution witness is complicated or technical.

It is in the interests of another person (such as the person making a complaint or other witness) that I am represented

If you are charged with a sexual or violent offence, or where the person making a complaint is a child, it would not be appropriate for you to cross-examine in person. This criterion should not be used to argue that legal representation is in the general interests of your family or of the court.

Any other reasons

Please provide full details of any other reasons (which you have not mentioned elsewhere on the form) why you think it would be in the interests of justice that you are represented. For example, legal representation might be justified if you are likely to receive a demanding community sentence if convicted or if defence witnesses need skilful examination.

30 Guidance

If you have been charged with another person, the court may appoint a solicitor who is not the solicitor you have asked to represent you.

32 Guidance

You must answer 1, 2, and 3 but you may prefer to check the box labelled ‘I prefer not to say’.

Your answers to this question will help us understand more about the people who apply for legal aid. As a result, we or HM Courts and Tribunals Service on our behalf, may produce management or research information. This will only be published in a statistical or anonymous form.

The protection of the information which you provide in the forms

- The Legal Aid Agency is the ‘data controller’ (as defined in the Data Protection Act 2018). You have the right to look at the personal information held about you, to inspect it, and have it corrected if it is wrong.
- We understand that your answers are personal information. We will treat the information that you provide confidentially, subject to data protection law. The Protect-Personal notice at the top of page 1 of the forms warns court staff to take care to protect the information in the form.

- We may share the information you provide with law enforcement agencies, and organisations such as the Department for Work and Pensions, HM Revenue and Customs, Land Registry, Companies House, and sometimes Credit Reference Agencies. We will share the information only if it is necessary to protect public funds or where we are lawfully required to do so.

- We will keep information for as long as is necessary to – fulfil our duties under the Legal Aid Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders Act 2012.

- If you provide false or inaccurate information and we identify fraud, we will pass details to fraud prevention agencies which work to prevent fraud and money laundering. You can find information about these agencies by going to the Fair Processing Notice at:

  www.justice.gov.uk/legal-aid/make-an-application

Other sources of information we use to decide whether to grant you legal aid

- We (and others such as enforcement agencies) may use the information recorded by fraud prevention agencies.

- If necessary, we may use information we may already hold about you (we may hold information because you have applied for civil legal aid or criminal legal aid before).

36 Evidence

Income from employment

We need to see evidence of your employment, or your partner’s, or both if you both work. This evidence may be a wage slip or a salary advice. The evidence should be as recent as possible but must dated within 3 months of the application form being completed.

38 Guidance

Your partner’s declaration

If your partner is unable to sign the declaration – for example, because they are in hospital, you must tell us the reasons and give contact details in case we decide to check that information. You should provide this information below your signature on your own declaration at question 39.

If your partner does not sign the declaration before you send us the application, and you do not give a satisfactory reason at the end of question 39, we may return your application and tell you that your partner must sign.

This may happen for example, if your partner is working away from home. However, if your case goes to the Crown Court for trial, the court may make a representation order giving you legal aid.

The court will then issue a reminder to tell you that your partner needs to sign the form. This will happen even if you have been remanded into custody by a court.

If that happens and your partner still does not sign the form, you may be asked to pay £900 a month (or more if your monthly disposable income is higher than that).

If you are having real difficulty obtaining your partner’s signature to the declaration, you or your solicitor may ask the court for advice.
When you fill in this form

The form is designed like form CRM14. For instance, in some questions we ask you to give details for both you and your partner.

Remember:

- Answer all the questions from 1 to 39 unless there is an instruction to move to a later question.

- The advice for form CRM14 on pages 1, 2, 3 and 4 of this Guidance applies to this form also.

- GUIDANCE

  This means that we want you to go to the question number in the table on pages 14 to 22 of this Guidance document.

- EVIDENCE

  This means that we want you to go to the question number in the table on pages 14 to 22 of this Guidance. We may need to see evidence that confirms the information that you give in this form and in any other forms you use to apply for legal aid. The evidence we need to see is described on pages 14 to 22.

- CRM15C

  This means that we want you to use the form CRM15C if you need more space to answer some of the questions: see the box opposite.

- You may not have to provide the evidence we ask for: see Rules about evidence on page 3 of this Guidance.

- You may not have to give information about your partner if you answered Yes to question 12 on form CRM14.

Use form CRM15 if:

You have completed form CRM14 and you have been directed by your answer to either question 15, 17, 18, 20 or 21 to complete this form or your financial circumstances have changed and you are notifying us of the details of the change.

Use form CRM15C if:

You need to give more information when you answer questions 2, 5, 13, 24, 25, 26, 28 or 29 of this form.

Question Guidance and Evidence requirements for questions on CRM15

1 Guidance
If you have already been assessed for legal aid and you are submitting a new application because you or your partner has had a change in financial circumstances you should tick the box next to “A change of my financial circumstances”

2 Guidance
If you or your partner are employed by someone else as an employee, you must give the employer’s full name and address. If you do not, we will not accept your application.

If you work for an agency, you may not be classed as an employee of the company you are working for. See question 3.

If you are a subcontractor you undertake work which you get from a contractor. Since 6th April 2007, the Construction Industry Scheme (CIS) contractors have been obliged to make a monthly return. A subcontractor is classed as being self-employed.

If you receive income from being self-employed, employed in a business partnership or employed as a company director or shareholder only, see question 3.

Deductions
You should complete the question to the best of your ability. Where deductions information is missing, the court can still process your application. If the information you provide does not match the supporting evidence your application will be reassessed once the evidence is received. If your case is in the Crown Court, this could mean a change to whether you need to pay contributions to the cost of your case from your income and the amount.

Evidence
If you receive cash in hand, you should provide documents that prove the amount you declare in the form.

If you receive a wage or salary, you should provide the most recent available pay slip. This must be dated within the last 3 months. We would prefer the evidence to show your National Insurance Number and the total earnings for the financial year so far.

If you cannot provide this evidence, then you should ask your employer for a letter on the company notepaper stating the amount you have earned in the past 12 months.

If you work for more than one employer, we need evidence from each employer.

3 Guidance
We need to know the number of businesses, partnerships or private companies from which you or your partner receive an income. You may be employed in more than one of these so you may put a number in more than one of the answer boxes (do not leave any boxes empty – put NIL if a box does not apply to you).

Self-employment
If you are not sure whether you are self-employed, these questions may help:
• Do you give clients invoices for the work you do for them? →
• Do you have a number of different clients that you work for?
• Is it up to you to find the work that you do?
• Are you responsible for the losses of your business as well as receiving the profits?

- Can you hire other people to do the work you’ve taken on?
- Have you invested your own money into your business?
- Do you provide major items of equipment, which are essential for your work?
- Have you had to fill out a self-assessment tax return for Her Majesty’s Revenue and Customs (HMRC)?

If you have answered Yes to most of these questions then you are probably self-employed. Working for yourself (being self-employed) does not mean that you cannot also work for someone else (as an employee).

Types of self-employment:

Sole-traders

Many small businesses are sole-traders. This means that you receive all the income generated by the business to keep for yourself or to re-invest. You are in complete control and can make decisions as you choose. Sole-traders also assume complete responsibility for liabilities and debts.

As a sole-trader you are required to make an annual self-assessment tax return to HMRC. You must also keep records showing your business income and expenses.

Partnership

In a partnership, two or more people share the risks, costs and responsibilities of the business. Each partner is self-employed and takes a share of the profits. Usually each partner shares in the decision-making and is personally responsible for any debts of the business. A partnership is not the same as a limited company. You should answer Yes to this question even if you are a sleeping partner (that is, you are not involved in the partnership, but you are entitled to a share of the business and its profits).

The partnership itself and each individual partner must make an annual self-assessment tax return to HMRC. The partnership must also keep records showing business income and expenses.

Directorship

A company director is anyone registered as a director of a limited company (this does not include charities). A company director does not need to hold shares in that company.

Shareholder

For the purposes of form CRM15, a shareholder means anyone who holds a number of shares in a private limited company.

Sub-contractor

If you are a subcontractor you undertake work from a contractor. From 6th April 2007, the Construction Industry Scheme (CIS) places an obligation on contractors to make a monthly return. CIS paper vouchers will not be used after this date.

Agency worker

If you work for an agency, you may not be classed as an employee of the company you are working for.

If you or your partner have submitted a self assessment tax return (SA100) in the last 2 years, HM Revenue and Customs should have provided you with a tax calculation sheet (SA302) showing your income for the year and the tax liability that HMRC has calculated that you should pay in relation to that income.

You must provide a copy of your P60 or your tax calculation sheet (SA302).

Based on your type of employment, complete the breakdown of your income, to the best of your ability.

We understand that some parts of this question may not be relevant to your type of employment. However, if a particular part has not been addressed (which we believe would be relevant), we will return your application to you.

If you think a part of the question does not apply to you, please follow the instruction in the panel on the form and say so in the answer box for that part.

Self-employed income

There are three main types of income you are likely to get if you are self-employed:

- Turnover: The total of invoices (sales) issued during an accounting period, excluding any VAT.
- Drawings: Money or goods that the owner or partner takes out of the business for personal use.
- Profit: This is your turnover minus expenses such as travel, rent and rates and telephones.

If you are a sole trader:
You must provide the annual self-assessment tax return that you make to HMRC or records which show your business income and expenses.

If you are in a business partnership:
You must provide your tax return and the partnership's tax return and/or the partnership's most recent business accounts when applying for legal aid.

If you are a director:
You must provide your company's business accounts and/or your full self-assessment tax return when you apply for legal aid.

If you are a shareholder:
You must provide the most recent copy of your completed business accounts or your full self-assessment tax return form (SA100). It is not sufficient to provide your tax calculation sheet only, because not everything that is counted as a deduction in your tax calculation is an allowed outgoing on the means assessment.

If you are a subcontractor:
You should provide a Statement of payment and deduction.

If you work for an agency:
You must supply wage slips for the last three months to date.

The benefits referred to are also called ‘benefits in kind’. These are any benefits which you receive, usually from your employer, either instead of, or in addition to, a cash payment, wage or salary. For example:
• a company car
• fuel allowance (or car and fuel allowance)
• private health insurance
• free accommodation
• luncheon vouchers
• childcare vouchers
• help with paying your mortgage
• relocation payments.

HM Revenue and Customs treats benefits such as these as taxable income even though they are not received in cash. If you receive any of these you must tell us about them because their value is counted as income in the means assessment.

You need to provide a copy of form P11D. You can obtain this form from HM Revenue and Customs.

7 Guidance

Child Benefit

If you or your partner are entitled to child benefit but have opted out of receiving this because of the High Income Child Benefit Charge then you should enter NIL or 0.00. You will still need to declare the children for whom you are entitled to child benefit at question 8.

If you or your partner are still in receipt of child benefit but the High Income Child Benefit Charge applies, then you should enter the full amount of child benefit that you or your partner receive. The amount of child benefit that you pay back through the charge will be reflected by the evidence that you supply of the tax you pay.

Other benefit

Do not put housing benefit – we ask about this in question 15.

8 Guidance

If you have opted not to receive child benefit due to the High Income Child Benefit Charge then you should still tell us the ages, at their next birthday, of any children for which you or your partner are entitled to receive child benefit.

9 Evidence

If your pension before tax is £1000 or more per month, you must provide either a recent bank statement (within the last 3 months) to show the amount which you receive from a private pension, or your annual pension statement which shows how much you will receive.

10 Evidence

If your maintenance income is £500 or more each month, you should provide documents that confirm this.

11 Guidance

Savings and Investments include:
• Bank Accounts
• Building Society accounts
• Cash ISA’s
• National Savings certificates
• Post office accounts
• Stocks, including gilts and government bonds
• Shares
• Personal Equity Plans (PEPs)
• Share ISAs
• Unit Trusts
• Investment Bonds
• Other lump sum investments.

If you receive interest or income from savings or investments, you should provide bank statements for the last 3 months.

12 Guidance

Income from other sources
This does not refer to income from a directorship, shareholding or a trust fund.

Evidence

If you have income from rent:
You must provide bank statements for the last 3 months.

If you have income from rent or any other source:
You must provide bank statements that show that you or your partner are now receiving this income, for the last 3 months.

13 Guidance

If you do not have any income and do not get any benefits, you need to tell us how you support yourself and pay for things like your bills or day-to-day living expenses. The court will look at the reasons you have given and decide whether it is acceptable. If you are subject to a restraint or freezing order, you need to tell us about this and clarify whether all assets are restrained. If you have any income or an asset that is not included in the orders, please declare this on the form when you answer the questions.

14 Guidance

Rent
Is where you pay someone for a house or flat in which you live.

Board and lodgings
Is where you pay for a room in someone’s house, treated as bed and breakfast, or for a flat in the property with or without food.

15 Guidance

Tell us the total amount which you and your partner, together, pay for the rent and mortgage. If you or your partner receives housing benefit, take away the amount you receive in housing benefit from the total amount you pay for the rent and mortgage, to give the final amount that you should declare on the form.

Water, gas, electricity and other household expenditure
We do not ask you to tell us the amounts you pay for these household bills because the means assessment automatically includes a living allowance which takes your family circumstances and these payments into account. This living allowance covers payments for food, clothing, education, transport and utility payments like water, heating and power.

For more information about the Living allowance see section 9.4 of the Criminal Legal Aid Manual (CLAM) which can be found on the on the gov.uk website at: www.gov.uk/government/publications/criminal-legal-aid-manual
If your housing costs, after deducting housing benefit, are more than £500 per month, you will need to provide evidence of this. This could be a copy of your tenancy agreement or mortgage statement.

We may also need evidence that you are paying this, so we may ask for bank statements too.

If your Council tax is more than £500 per month, you will need to provide evidence of this. This could be a document from your council.

When you answer this question you must make sure you state how much of the cost of your board and lodging is for food. If you don’t we will assume that half the cost of your board and lodging is for food.

If the cost of your board and lodging is more than £500 each month, you will need to provide documents which confirm this.

Childcare costs can be taken into consideration in the means assessment if they are paid to a registered childcare provider. Unless there are exceptional circumstances (e.g. disability of the child) you should only make such a deduction for a dependent child aged 15 or under. For more information on childcare costs, see section 13.5 of the Criminal Legal Aid Manual (CLAM).

If your childcare costs are more than £500 each month, you must provide a receipt of payment or bank statement.

Maintenance payments made to:
- a spouse or civil partner
- a former spouse or civil partner
- a child
- a dependent relative

can be taken into consideration in the means assessments. However, these outgoings can only be taken into account if the recipient does not live in the applicant’s household. For further information please see section 13.6 of the Criminal Legal Aid Manual (CLAM).

If you pay more than £500 per month, you must provide evidence that you pay the amount you have declared on the form. This may be a receipt of payment or bank statement.

You should only include the following legal aid contributions:
- Civil legal aid contributions that you or your partner may be paying
- Criminal legal aid contributions being paid by your partner if you were previously included in their assessment.

You do not need to tell us about any contribution that you are making on an existing Crown Court case because our records will show this and we will include any contributions you are paying in our assessment. You will only be asked for one contribution at a time.

If you have paid income-tax within the 40% bracket, you must provide a copy of your P60 or your tax calculation sheet SA302 (which shows your tax liability).
Your solicitor will tell you whether to answer No or Yes. Or you may find the answer on page 1 of form CRM14 under Case type.

If you jointly own a property or land with your partner, you should only refer to this property in the box marked ‘you and your partner jointly’ (in these circumstances enter NIL in the box marked You and the box marked Your partner).

You must provide sufficient information so that we can verify your property or land. If the information isn’t sufficient, we will not accept your application and we will return it to you.

Other owners of a share of property or land
This would usually apply if you have bought your property on a shared ownership basis, with for example the housing association; or if someone other than you or your partner (if you have one) owns a share of your property. This would include ex-partners and partners with a contrary interest in the case. Do not include a share owned by a mortgage lender.

Market value
We do not expect you to obtain a valuation or mortgage statement to answer this part of the question but you should provide a reasonable estimate (we will check the information you provide with other parties such as the Land Registry).

You must provide sufficient information so that we can verify it. If the information isn’t sufficient, we will not accept your application and we will return it to you.

You need to tell us about all of your bank and building society accounts, including your current account, and any accounts that are empty or overdrawn.

You should also tell us about any accounts into which you or your partner has benefits, wages or salary paid.

Sort code or Account number:
These are usually on bank statements (there may be several codes). However, if you do not know this information, we will accept your application providing you have put the name of the bank or building society, and of the branch for each account.

Balances in an account: we do not expect you to put an exact balance (unless you have statements available when you fill in the form). But you should put a reasonable estimate.

You must provide sufficient information so that we can verify it. If the information isn’t sufficient, we will not accept your application and we will return it to you.

You will need to provide documents that support the information you have given on the form, such as:

- Bank statements for the last 3 months, for each account
- Building society statements or pass books showing transactions for the last 3 months, for each account
27 Guidance

Premium Savings Bonds:
The holder number is a 9 digit number. If you do not have the holder’s number or the cash value, you should confirm that you have Premium Savings Bonds (answer Yes) and give a reasonable estimate of the value.

You must provide sufficient information so that we can verify it. If the information isn’t sufficient, we will not accept your application and we will return it to you.

Evidence

Certificates for all Premium Savings Bonds or the Bond Record (this may be called a Summary). See About evidence on page 3.

National Savings Certificate:
The holder number is a 9 digit number. If you do not know your Holder number you can enter your customer number (the customer number is an 8 digit number followed by a dash and two digits). If you do not know the cash value, you should confirm that you have a National Savings Certificate (answer Yes) and give a reasonable estimate of the value.

You must provide sufficient information so that we can verify it. If the information isn’t sufficient, we will not accept your application and we will return it to you.

Evidence

All National Savings Certificates or a passbook. See About evidence on page 3.

29 Guidance

If you have any investments:
The information you declare must be sufficient so that they can be identified. If the information provided is not sufficient to identify the investment your application form will be returned to you. For example, if you have shares to the value of £5,000, you should tell us how the shareholding is made up, such as National Express £2,000, Marks & Spencer £1,500, HSBC £1,500.

You must provide sufficient information so that we can verify it. If the information isn’t sufficient, we will not accept your application and we will return it to you.

Evidence

You will need to provide documents that support the information you have given on the form, such as:

- Certificate for each Stock held
- Latest dividend counterfoil for each company in which you hold shares
- Certificate for each PEP investment
- Certificate for each Share ISA investment
- Certificate for each Unit Trust investment
- Certificate for each Investment Bond
- Statement, passbook, certificate covering transactions for the last 6 months

30 Guidance
Trust funds
If you have been remanded into custody by the court, you should give us a reasonable estimate of the amount held in the trust fund and the yearly dividend. But, if you have been released on bail, we expect you to get this information before you submit your application.

Evidence
You need to provide the original trust document or a certified copy of it.
See About evidence on page 3.

31 Guidance
Restraint orders
If you are subject to a restraint order, you would have been formally notified by the court where your case is being heard. Freezing orders are made by the High or County Court to stop a defendant from disposing of assets or removing them out of the country pending resolution of a dispute.

Evidence
If you answered Yes, provide a copy of the restraint order or freezing order.

32 Guidance
If you have been charged with an either-way or indictable offence, you may have to contribute to some or all of the defence costs; this could be from your income, your capital or a combination of both. Please note: If your disposable income is equal to or exceeds £37,500 you will not be eligible for legal aid in a Crown Court trial and will have to pay privately.

33 Guidance
Motor Vehicles
You should tell us about all motor vehicles that you own by yourself or with anyone else by providing the vehicle registration numbers.

34 Guidance
You should only tick Yes if you have been remanded into custody by the court.

35 Guidance
If your case is heard in a magistrates’ court and it decides whether you are guilty or not guilty, you should tick Yes. If your case will be committed to the Crown Court for trial you should tick No.

36 Guidance
A 'correctly completed form' includes not only all questions being answered fully, but evidence being provided to confirm the information you give, when we require it (See About evidence on page 3). The checklist should help you to make a correct application. Please keep in mind that:

- If you provide original evidence, the court will usually make a copy and return the original to you. Or you may provide a copy which is certified by your solicitor.

  If you send the forms and evidence by post, we suggest you consider using recorded delivery. This will give you proof that you posted the documents and a record that they have been received by the court.

- If you have genuine difficulty in providing evidence we require, you or your solicitor may contact the court for advice.
Guidance for completing form CRM16

This guidance and the form to which it refers are available in Welsh.

When to use this form

If you have applied for Criminal Legal Aid and we decided that you have:

- sufficient income to pay privately in the magistrates’ court (magistrates’ court hardship); or
- sufficient income to pay privately in the Crown Court (Crown Court eligibility review); or
- sufficient income to pay towards the costs of your legal aid in the Crown Court (Crown Court hardship) or if you are applying for legal aid and you expect to be told that you have sufficient funds to pay privately or must pay towards the costs of your legal aid and you or your partner are not able to pay the cost without suffering financial hardship, use this form to ask us to review our decision.

When not to use this form

If your financial circumstances have changed since you applied for legal aid so that you cannot now afford to pay towards the costs of your legal aid, do not use this form. For instance, you and your partner may have separated or your hours of work may have been reduced. If your financial circumstances have changed in a way such as this, complete another CRM14 and/or CRM15 and ask us to re-assess your application.

If you have been refused legal aid for a Crown Court trial and your circumstances have changed you will need to submit a New Application Following Ineligibility. As this is a brand new application, even where you are providing all you financial details on the CRM15, a new CRM14 is also required.

If you have been refused legal aid for a Crown Court trial and you have not submitted an application for an Eligibility Review within 21 days of the refusal you will also have to submit a New Application Following Ineligibility with your CRM16 form.
If you are not sure whether you should use this form, contact your solicitor.

When you complete the form

- If you need help or advice to complete the form or when you use this guidance, please contact your solicitor.

  There is more information about hardship reviews in the Criminal Legal Aid Manual at:

- Complete this form following the guidance under ‘When you fill in the form’ on pages 1 and 2 of the guidance for form CRM14 which is available on the gov.uk website at:

When you have completed this form

Send this form to the magistrates’ court which dealt with, or will deal with, your application for legal aid. Before we can process it:

- We require your completed forms CRM14, CRM15 (and where you have completed one CRM15C.). If you have already applied for legal aid, the court will have the forms and will refer your application to the Legal Aid Agency with the CRM16 for them to consider your application.

- You must also provide the evidence that we ask for at questions 2, 3 and 4.

Data protection

The information about data protection at question 32 on CRM14, and in the Guidance for that question covers this form and the way we use your personal information.

Crown Court Eligibility Review

If you have been refused legal aid for a Crown Court trial and you believe that you have insufficient income to pay privately you should tick the box next to “Crown Court where legal aid refused”

2 📜 Guidance

Income

You may answer both questions 2 and 3 (if you have been denied income that you told us about on form CRM15 and/or have additional outgoings to those we asked you about on form CRM15).

You must provide evidence that shows the income that you have not received during the past 12 months. This could for example be a letter from your employer which gives details of wages that have been stopped or reduced.

3 📜 Guidance

Outgoings

These will usually be outgoings which you had taken on before you applied for Legal Aid that were not included in your means assessment.

Costs such as telephone contracts, cigarettes, insurance, food, clothing or alcoholic drinks are not allowable expenses under the review

Water, gas and electricity payments

In the table of common outgoings below, ‘utilities’ includes water, gas and electricity payments. Utility bills can only be taken into account on a hardship/eligibility review if you are in arrears with your payments and enforcement action is being taken against you. We will then only allow the payments being made to reduce the arrears.

When we first assessed your application for legal aid, a living allowance was factored into your means assessment that represents the cost of living. This allowance covers payments described below and we will not consider a further claim for such costs when considering your additional outgoings.

The living allowance represents cost of living expenses on:

- Food and non-alcoholic drinks
- Clothing and footwear
- Housing*, fuel and power
- Household goods and services
- Health
- Transport
- Communication
- Education (excluding school fees)
- Water rates
- Insurance premiums
- Miscellaneous goods and services

Pension payments

When we assessed your application for legal aid, we used an annual living allowance. This includes pension payments of up to 6% of a salary. As a result, the only pension payments which you can claim for are those which are more than 6% of a salary.
For the costs you describe on the CRM16 to be taken into account you must provide evidence that you are paying these outgoings. A table of the most common outgoings and the evidence requirements are detailed below.

You will need to provide evidence of your additional outgoings before they can be taken into account as part of your hardship/eligibility review. The evidence requirement is also dependent on whether your Trial:

Is being heard in the Crown Court (Indictable only and either way post committals) or Is being heard in the magistrates’ court (this includes, committals for sentence and appeal cases).

The table below provides details on the evidence required for different types of outgoings we will consider. If your outgoing is not on this list, ask your solicitor what evidence you should provide.

Please note that bank statements alone are insufficient evidence of debts such as loans and credit cards. You should provide Credit card statements or loan agreements that show the minimum monthly payment, how many payments you have left to make and, in the case of a loan, when the loan began.

Proof of payment
If your trial is not being heard in the Crown Court you will be required to demonstrate that you are paying the additional outgoings listed in your application. Please refer to the table below for the relevant evidence requirement for each type of expenditure.

A copy of a document is sufficient however copies will need to be signed and dated by either your solicitor or an officer of the court to certify that they are a true copy of the original document.

Where ‘evidence of payment’ is indicated, acceptable evidence includes bank statements clearly showing payments made, or statements of the loan/debt.
showing credits to the account. This should be recent evidence and should show payments made in the computation period.

Please note, for Crown Court hardships and Crown Court Eligibility Reviews, in addition to providing evidence of extra expenditure declared on the CRM16, if we have limited any outgoings in the means test (e.g. housing costs, maintenance and childcare) we will need evidence of the outgoing to allow the higher figure when calculating any income contribution.

4  GUIDANCE Additional information
Use this question to tell us anything that is not covered by questions 2 and 3 and will affect your ability to pay towards the costs of your defence. For instance, if your outgoings are debts and must be paid quickly, explain the debts in your answer to this question.

EVIDENCE
You may have to provide evidence for any information you provide in answer to this question.

5  GUIDANCE Declaration by your partner
The words 'Information on this form' include circumstances when the form does not contain any details about your partner's financial circumstances. This means that you and your partner (where applicable) are required to confirm the information provided, even if the information on the form only relates directly to one of you.

If your partner is not able to sign this declaration, you must give the reason at the end of question 6.

6  GUIDANCE Declaration by you
The words 'Information on this form' include circumstances when the form does not contain any details about your financial circumstances. Therefore both you and your partner (where applicable) are required to confirm the information provided on the form even if the information relates directly to only one of you.

8  GUIDANCE Details of the instructed solicitor
The solicitor should answer this question irrespective of whether the case will be heard in a magistrates' court or the Crown Court.
Costs
Your solicitor should answer this question where you are applying for a magistrates' court hardship review or a Crown Court eligibility review. Do not complete this section where your application relates to a Crown Court hardship review.

9.1 Solicitors’ costs
Hourly Rate
Please state the amount of time you estimate will be spent on Attendance and Preparation and how many hours will be spent at hearings.

You should use your private rates when quoting costs. The Legal Aid Agency will consider your private rates against historic DCA rates.

Grade of fee earner
As the applicable DCA rate differs depending on the grade of the solicitor you will also need to state the grade of the fee earner.

In addition, if the rate you are declaring is significantly higher than the corresponding DCA rate please tell us why the case justifies such a high rate at 9.4 (Explanation of costs).

Disbursements cost
Estimate the cost of any disbursements which you judge will be actually and reasonably incurred.

For magistrate’ court hardships include counsel's fees with the disbursements (for Crown Court eligibility reviews detail advocates' costs at 9.2).

9.2 Advocate’s costs
Your solicitor should only answer this question where you are applying for a Crown Court eligibility review.

Level of advocate
Please state the level of advocate, e.g. Junior, Queen’s Counsel etc.

Brief Fee
Include a breakdown of the amount of time spent on pre-trial preparation, attendances, conferences and the first day of trial.

Refreshers
Estimate the costs of attendance at the second and subsequent days of trial.

Disbursements
Estimate the cost of any disbursements which will be actually and reasonably be incurred.

If your estimate of advocate costs is based on instructing more than one advocate or Queen's Counsel or both, please set out the costs for the other advocate(s) at 9.4 (Explanation of costs); and explain why the case requires this level of representation.
The Legal Aid Agency will consider advocacy hourly rates against VHCC hourly rates.

9.3 Total costs
For Crown Court Eligibility Reviews only – the total cost of the Solicitor’s and Advocate’s costs estimates

The total estimate of the costs will be compared to average Defence Costs Orders for the relevant type of case.

9.4 Explanation of costs
In addition to completing the Solicitor’s Costs and Advocate’s Costs section of the CRM16, the solicitor must also provide further information in the costs details section stating the name of the court in which the case will be heard and explaining why the case requires the estimated hours, disbursements, fee-earner grade and level of advocate. This statement should include a breakdown of the hours spent on the case e.g. hours of preparation, or time spent with witnesses, amount of disclosure, length of trial (i.e. 1 day trial)

The applicant’s solicitor is expected to provide the best possible information on the likely costs of the particular case based on their knowledge of the case and professional experience of similar criminal litigation.

For Crown Court eligibility reviews the total estimate of the costs will be compared to average historical Defence Costs Orders for the relevant type of case.

If your total estimate of the costs considerably exceeds the average Defence Cost Order for the type of case, please ensure that a clear explanation has been provided.
LAA File Retention Policy

All Legal Aid applications (files) will be retained by the Legal Aid Agency for a minimum of 3 years in accordance with the retention policy.

Provider’s Obligations:

E-Form Applications – Providers are required to keep the applicant’s declaration form for 6 years from the date their file is closed. The High Income Child Benefit Charge is 1% of the Child Benefit received for every £100 of individual income over £50,000 (the full amount of child benefit has to be paid back where income exceeds £60,000). Those affected can choose not to receive Child Benefit payments or to pay the tax charge through Self Assessment or PAYE.
