The Armed Forces Covenant

An Enduring Covenant Between

The People of the United Kingdom
Her Majesty’s Government

– and –

All those who serve or have served in the Armed Forces of the Crown

And their Families

The first duty of Government is the defence of the realm. Our Armed Forces fulfil that responsibility on behalf of the Government, sacrificing some civilian freedoms, facing danger and, sometimes, suffering serious injury or death as a result of their duty. Families also play a vital role in supporting the operational effectiveness of our Armed Forces. In return, the whole nation has a moral obligation to the members of the Naval Service, the Army and the Royal Air Force, together with their families. They deserve our respect and support, and fair treatment.

Those who serve in the Armed Forces, whether Regular or Reserve, those who have served in the past, and their families, should face no disadvantage compared to other citizens in the provision of public and commercial services. Special consideration is appropriate in some cases, especially for those who have given most such as the injured and the bereaved.

This obligation involves the whole of society: it includes voluntary and charitable bodies, private organisations, and the actions of individuals in supporting the Armed Forces. Recognising those who have performed military duty unites the country and demonstrates the value of their contribution. This has no greater expression than in upholding this Covenant.
1.1 We Thames Water will endeavour in our business dealings to uphold the key principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, which are:

- No member of the Armed Forces Community should face disadvantage in the provision of public and commercial services compared to any other citizen
- In some circumstances special treatment may be appropriate especially for the injured or bereaved.

2.1 Thames Water recognises the value Serving Personnel, Reservists, Veterans and Military Families bring to our business. We will seek to uphold the principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, by:

- Continuing to further develop our internal Military network to create a positive and supportive culture within the business towards the Armed Forces community;
- Meeting our internal Military network on a quarterly basis to share ideas on how to continually move forward and engage with more people from the Armed Forces community;
- Maintain a specific Military group on our internal communications portal “Yammer” to share upcoming events and engage with new service leavers who are joining the Thames Water;
- Seeking to support the employment of veterans young and old and working with the Career Transition Partnership (CTP), British Forces Resettlement Services (BFRS), The Officers Association (OA) and Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers (REME), holding specific Military events at our sites in order to establish a tailored employment pathway for Service Leavers;

• Attending and presenting at the OE events. Working closely with them and other like-minded businesses to share best practice:

• Attending REME and BFRS careers events to discuss short term and long term career planning with service leavers and their family;

• Holding Military Insight Days at our treatment works 3 times a year to invite Service Leavers to meet our internal Military network including senior Managers, to get insight on their potential career paths for development within Thames Water and network with employees who have been through a similar experience;

• Endeavouring to offer a degree of flexibility in granting leave for Service spouses and partners before, during and after a partner’s deployment;
