Foreword

Andy Adams
Chief Constable
Ministry of Defence Police

In introducing the MDP Policing Plan for 2018/19, I would firstly like to pay tribute to my predecessor Alf Hitchcock who sadly passed away on 16 June 2017. Alf had a long and distinguished career in the police service and I am determined to take forward and build upon the organisational reforms and operational successes that Alf was responsible for during his four years as our Chief Constable.

This Policing Plan provides an overview of the range of specialist armed policing services and capabilities that are provided by the MDP to the Ministry of Defence and to our various external customers. It also summarises the work we will be doing over the coming year to meet our Operational Objectives. The services and capabilities that we provide continue to be in demand, the Departmental Statement of Requirement clearly articulates what Defence wants from us – and, despite the well documented financial pressures across the UK police service, our Force has remained broadly unchanged over the past five years. Since 2014 around 800 new officers have joined the MDP and during 2018/19 we are aiming to recruit at least 250 more officers. Our ability to recruit and retain high quality police officers and non-uniform civilian staff is essential to our future success and we are committed to developing and supporting our people to ensure that everyone is given the opportunity to achieve their full potential.

The threat to the UK from terrorism remains constant and during May and November 2017 the MDP successfully deployed considerable numbers of armed officers under Operation Temperer in response to requests for support from a number of Home Office forces. We will continue to support the wider UK policing response to counter the threat from terrorism by meeting our agreed commitments to the national armed policing strategic reserve and Operation Temperer.

The College of Policing decision to reinstate our full Firearms Training Licence from May 2018 confirmed the considerable progress that we have made over the past 12 months to ensure that we comply with all relevant national armed policing standards. We intend to sustain and build upon the fundamental changes that we have introduced and we are committed to aligning our existing occupational fitness standards with the national standards that are endorsed by the College of Policing. We intend to achieve full alignment by 2020 and over the next 12 months we will continue to support our officers to ensure they have the best possible chance of achieving and sustaining the national police fitness standards that apply to their role.

It is no secret that the MDP, along with other police forces and organisations across the public sector, is operating in a challenging financial environment. The Force has delivered significant efficiency savings in recent years and will continue to demonstrate value for money to the MOD through a range of innovative and proactive initiatives that will further improve our operational efficiency and effectiveness.

Having been appointed as the Chief Constable in May 2018 my aim is for the MDP to be recognised as a centre of excellence for the specialist armed policing services and capabilities that we provide. I am very much looking forward to leading the Force and working with my chief officer team to deliver the programme of work that is summarised in this Policing Plan.

How MDP is Governed

GOVERNANCE AND OVERSIGHT of the MDP is provided by the independent MOD Police Committee. Its main task is to provide the Secretary of State for Defence with an independent assurance that the MDP is exercising its policing powers and authority lawfully and impartially, and is meeting the standards required of a UK police force. The Committee also provides advice to MOD senior officials on the Force’s efficiency, effectiveness and performance.

But, of critical importance at a local level, it also defines the style of policing by which these objectives should be delivered.

In an era of increasing threat and sustained pressure on resources, it is inevitable that things have to change. The environment in which we work demands ever higher professional and ethical standards, a greater focus on risk and its mitigation plus the ability to evolve our approach as the operational context develops new characteristics. These are the ingredients on which our posture of deterrence is built but they are also facets that owe their success to the motivation, determination and professionalism applied to everyday activity by those on the frontline and those in the command chain.

One example of this evolution is the implementation of the Operational Policing Model which has increased customer confidence whilst also making the most efficient use of resources. In this and other aspects, the Committee will be vigilant in ensuring that the command chain and the Defence Police Federation are constantly involved in the journey towards achieving the Chief Constable’s vision for the MDP as a centre of excellence for the specialist armed policing services.

The Chair of the Police Committee is Sir Brian Burridge who was appointed on 1 October 2017.

Sir Brian Burridge
Independent Chair
Ministry of Defence Police Committee

The POLICE COMMITTEE was grateful to have been fully involved in the creation of this Policing Plan. They recognise that it translates the MOD’s Statement of Requirement for the MDP, which reflects the needs of our various customers, into pragmatic, achievable objectives that should guide commanders at all levels in determining their local plans and objectives.

What the Ministry of Defence requires of MDP

- The MOD faces a range of crime and security related threats and risks that require specialist and dedicated civil policing capabilities. These threats include:
  - Terrorist attack and the threat of such attacks
  - Disruption and disorder caused by protesters
  - Unauthorised intrusion onto the Defence Estate
  - Theft or compromise of, and damage to, key assets and materiel that would have a significant impact upon Defence capability
  - Major financial fraud and corruption that would have a significant impact upon Defence capability

The requirement for the MDP is based on supporting the achievement of the objectives that are set out in the Ministry of Defence Single Departmental Plan. For example:

- Defend and contribute to the security and resilience of the UK and Overseas Territories against state and non-state threats
- Deliver nuclear deterrence and the Defence Nuclear Enterprise
- Conduct overseas defence activity
- Deliver key enabling functions

In order to support the achievement of Defence objectives, the MOD requires the MDP to provide the following operational services:

- Armed Nuclear Policing and Security: To provide a specialist dedicated armed policing and security service in support of the protection of the UK’s strategic nuclear deterrent
- Territorial Policing and Security: To provide a dedicated armed policing and security service in support of the protection of non-nuclear Defence sites
- Operational Surge: To maintain an armed capable mobile policing and security resource that can be deployed at short notice in response to temporary Defence requirements
- Intelligence Gathering and Analysis: To counteract Defence crime and security threats and to facilitate the most efficient and effective deployment of MDP resources
- Crime Prevention, Investigation and Detection: To prevent, investigate and detect fraud, corruption and the theft of or criminal damage to key Defence equipment and assets
- International Policing: In support of Defence operations overseas and other international policing commitments in support of UK Government policy
- Support to wider UK Government requirements: Including supporting the wider UK Counter Terrorism response, and providing policing and security services to US Visiting Forces and other UK Government Departments and customers on a full repayment basis.
MDP’s Operational Objectives 2018-19

1. We will provide specialist armed policing to help protect the UK’s strategic nuclear deterrent.

2. We will provide specialist armed policing to help protect UK Defence and national infrastructure establishments.

3. We will contribute towards the UK’s national armed policing response to major incidents.

4. We will provide specialist policing services to help protect the UK’s NATO and other Defence partners.

5. We will develop and improve the effectiveness and capability of the MDP to protect UK Defence interests.
MDP’s Organisational Objectives

Business Change and Improvement

We are committed to the development and continuous improvement of our range of specialist operational policing capabilities to ensure that we achieve our Strategic Objectives.

During 2018/19 we will introduce a new Force Portfolio Office that will oversee ongoing work activities that are focused on the continuous improvement of our range of capabilities.

The MDP Operational Policing Model

The MDP Operational Policing Model is based on scientific evidence from policing within the UK and the Centre for the Protection of National Infrastructure. This model maximises the impact of the deployment of MDP resources and tactical capabilities to create the greatest security effect for our Defence and external customers at reduced cost.

Our Operational Policing Model is based on the following principles and initiatives:

- High profile armed patrols in and around the sites where MDP officers are deployed
- Effective intelligence gathering and analysis
- Establishing Security Vigilance Areas
- Interoperability with other policing and security agencies

Since 2016, and as part of our Operational Policing Model, we have been introducing Project Servator as a new policing tactic at the locations where MDP officers are deployed. The aim of our Project Servator deployments is to deter, detect and disrupt criminal and terrorist activity, and to provide reassurance to the various communities that we serve.

Recruitment

We are looking to recruit 250 new officers into the Force over the coming year to fill anticipated vacancies. This will enable us to continue our focus on increasing the number of MDP officers from under-represented groups.

Leadership and Management

We will continue our well-established programme of Leadership and Management training to equip our police and non-uniform civilian managers with the skills they need to lead and develop their people. During the coming year, we will also be introducing a new Leadership Charter that is linked to the delivery of our Leadership Standards.

Workforce Development

The development of our existing workforce is essential to identify and support our future leaders throughout their careers. We will continue the work that commenced last year to align a range of workforce development activities with operational service delivery.

Standards

We are committed to aligning ourselves with national policing standards as set by the College of Policing, adapting these where appropriate to reflect our specialist policing role. We are also mandated to follow the regulatory standards that are relevant to our role within the Ministry of Defence and our external customers.

Improving Performance and Attendance

Our programme of annual medicals and fitness testing for all MDP officers will continue to be a top organisational priority during 2018/19. Our well-established Performance and Attendance Strategy provides a framework for the efficient and effective management of sickness absence and police officer capability issues within the MDP. Our Occupational Health team will continue to work alongside the providers of Occupational Health services to the wider MOD civilian workforce, to provide our officers with bespoke health and wellbeing advice and support.

Value for Money and Efficiency

We will continue to develop and refine a new financial model for the MDP to inform and facilitate a decision by the MOD Corporate Committee during the coming year.

During 2018/19, we will be undertaking a review of rank structures across the Force as part of our ongoing value for money commitment and to ensure that we have the optimum number of police supervisors and managers in place at the right locations.

We will be introducing new shift patterns across the Force to ensure the efficient and effective delivery of our operational policing services. This will be enabled by centralised shift roster management.

We intend to review how we deliver firearms training to establish whether there are opportunities to deliver this more efficiently through regional training delivery. As part of the ongoing work to develop our Firearms Strategic Threat and Risk Assessment we will be looking at the possibility of rationalising the types of firearms currently in use across the Force, together with the associated training.

MDP’s Capabilities

ARMED POLICING
MDP Authorised Firearms Officers are trained to national police firearms standards and are deployed within and outside of the establishments where the MDP is located in accordance with our Operational Policing Model.

Armed MDP patrols provide an overt deterrent against potential terrorist attack and can provide a rapid response to an attack on any establishment where the MDP is located. Armed patrols outside of establishments are undertaken in accordance with agreed policing protocols between the MDP and the local police force.

The MDP also forms part of the national armed policing strategic reserve that can be deployed in response to support the wider UK policing response to major incidents.

MARINE POLICING
The MDP has the largest Marine Policing capability in the UK with more than 300 officers working in our armed Marine Units, located on the Clyde and at the Portsmouth and Devonport Naval Bases.

The MDP Marine Policing capability comprises of authorised firearms officers who are deployed on waterborne patrols in Police Launches and Rigid Inflatable Boats. They form a key part of the security arrangements at the establishments where they are located and provide a deterrent against potential terrorist attack and other illegal activities that present a security and/or safety threat.

POLICE DOGS

The MDP also has specialist police dogs that are trained in the detection of arms, explosives and drugs. We also have specialist tactical firearms support dogs that operate with MDP firearms teams.

Our specialist police dogs can be deployed across the UK in response to specific threats or customer requirements.

SPECIALIST POLICING TEAMS

SPECIAL ESCORT GROUP
Our Special Escort Group provides armed protection for the safe and secure transportation of Defence nuclear materials throughout the UK, liaising with local police forces throughout.

OPERATIONAL SUPPORT UNIT
The MDP Operational Support Unit (OSU) provides a range of specialist capabilities that can be deployed at short notice in response to specific incidents and threats in the UK. Our OSU capabilities include arms and explosive search teams, protestor removal, public order, public safety and firearms response.

PROTESTER REMOVAL TEAMS
The MDP has appropriately trained specialist Protester Removal Teams who can call upon a range of tactical options to safely deal with protesters who have locked on to each other using padlocks or chains, or who have attached themselves to gates, fences etc. Our protester removal capability includes specialist Rope/Height Access teams who can safely deal with protest activity that takes place at height.

CRIME COMMAND

The specialist resources contained within the MDP Crime Command are focused on the following operational areas:

SECURITY – Combating the threats and risks to Defence interests resulting from Terrorism, Domestic Extremism and Public Order
- Delivering counter terrorism investigation and intelligence capabilities in support of security at Defence establishments
- Providing information to support MDP frontline policing operations and wider Defence and Law Enforcement partners and stakeholders
- Delivering Counter Terrorism and Domestic Extremism awareness products within Force
- Supporting the wider UK National Counter Terrorism Policing Network in delivering the CONTEST strategy

CRIME – Combating the threat and risk of major fraud, theft, bribery and corruption to Defence interests
- The prevention, detection, disruption and investigation of crime against Defence interests, with a specific focus on:
  - Complex, serious and organised crime

- The recovery of the proceeds of crime

Delivering the priorities and objectives shown above will be supported and enabled by a new MDP Crime Command Strategy, to be launched in 2018.

INTERNATIONAL POLICING
The MDP continues to maintain a capability to deploy police officers in support of Defence operations overseas.
