Appeal panels

Prevention of disclosure or publication of documents and information

17.—(1) The panel may make an order prohibiting the disclosure of specified documents or information relating to the proceedings.

(2) The panel may give a direction prohibiting the disclosure of a document or information to a person if—

- (a) the panel is satisfied that such disclosure would involve disclosure of sensitive information, and
- (b) the panel is satisfied, having regard to the interests of justice, that it is proportionate to give such a direction.

(3) If one party to the appeal (“the first party”) considers that the panel should give a direction under paragraph (2) prohibiting the disclosure of a document or information to another party (“the second party”), the first party must—

- (a) exclude the relevant document or information from any documents that will be provided to the second party, and
- (b) provide to the panel the excluded document or information, and the reason for its exclusion, so that the panel may decide whether the document or information should be disclosed to the second party or should be the subject of a direction under paragraph (2).

(4) If the panel gives a direction under paragraph (2) which prevents disclosure to a party who has appointed a representative, the panel may give a direction that the documents or information be disclosed to that representative if the panel is satisfied that—

- (a) disclosure to the representative would be in the interests of the party, and
- (b) the representative will act in accordance with paragraph (5).

(5) Documents or information disclosed to a representative in accordance with a direction under paragraph (4) must not be disclosed either directly or indirectly to any other person without the panel’s consent.

(6) The panel may give a direction that certain documents or information must be disclosed to the panel on the basis that the panel will not disclose such documents or information to other persons, or specified other persons.

(7) A party making an application for a direction under paragraph (6) may withhold the relevant documents or information from other parties until the panel has granted or refused the application.

(8) Unless the panel considers that there is good reason not to do so, the panel must send notice that a party has made an application for a direction under paragraph (6) to each other party.

(9) In a case involving matters relating to national security, the panel must ensure that information is not disclosed contrary to the interests of national security.

(a) 1971 c. 80.

(10) The panel must conduct proceedings and record its decision and reasons appropriately so as not to undermine the effect of an order made under paragraph (1), a direction given under paragraph (2) or (6) or the duty imposed by paragraph (9).

Evidence

18.—(1) The panel may give directions as to—

- (a) the provision by the parties of statements of agreed matters and statements of matters which are not agreed,

- (c) the nature of the evidence which it requires to decide those issues,
- (d) whether the parties are permitted to provide expert evidence,
- (e) any limits on the number of witnesses whose evidence a party may put forward, whether in relation to a particular issue or generally, and
- (f) the way in which evidence is to be placed before the panel.

(2) In deciding whether to admit or exclude evidence, the panel must have regard to whether it would be just and proportionate to do so, taking into account—

- (a) the statutory provision under which the appeal is brought and the standard of review being applied by the panel;
- (b) whether or not the substance of the evidence was available to the respondent before the decision which is the subject of the appeal was taken;
- (c) the prejudice that may be suffered by one or more parties if the evidence is admitted or excluded;
- (d) whether the evidence is necessary to enable the panel to determine the appeal.

(3) Unless the panel directs otherwise, no witness of fact or expert witness may be heard unless the relevant witness statement or expert report has been submitted in advance of the hearing and in accordance with any directions of the panel.

(4) The panel may require witnesses to give evidence on oath or affirmation or if in writing by way of affidavit.

(5) The panel may allow a witness to give evidence through a video link or by other means of remote communication.

(6) The panel may dispense with the need to call a witness to give oral evidence if a witness statement or expert report has been submitted in respect of that witness.

(7) The panel may limit cross-examination of witnesses to any extent or in any manner it considers appropriate.

(8) The requirements set out in paragraphs 2 to 23 of Practice Direction 32 to the Civil Procedure Rules 1998^(a) apply to affidavits, exhibits, witness statements and other evidence given during the course of an appeal to the panel under these Regulations as they apply to evidence submitted for proceedings in court.

(9) For the purposes of paragraph (8), references in Practice Direction 32—

- (a) to the court are to be treated as references to the panel;
- (b) to filing documents at court are to be treated as references to filing them with the secretary to the panels;
- (c) to court officers are to be treated as references to the secretary to the panels;

(2) The appellant, the respondent and any party who has been given leave to intervene under regulation 11 may appear or be represented at the hearing.

(3) The panel may give a direction excluding from any hearing (or part of it), any person who the panel considers should be excluded in order to give effect to the requirement at regulation 17(10).

(2) Before making an order under paragraph (1)(c), the panel must give the party (or its representative) the opportunity to make submissions as to why the order should not be made.

Striking out

21.—(1) The panel may, after giving the parties an opportunity to be heard, either on its own initiative or on the application of a party, strike out an appeal in whole or in part at any stage of the proceedings if—

- (a) it considers that the notice of appeal, or part of it, discloses no valid ground of appeal,
- (b) it considers that the appellant does not have a sufficient interest in the decision in respect of which the appeal is made,
- (c) it is satisfied that the appellant has habitually and persistently and without any reasonable ground—
 - (i) instituted vexatious proceedings, whether against the same person or different persons;
 - (ii) made vexatious applications in the proceedings, or
- (d) the appellant fails to comply with these regulations or with any direction issued by the panel.

(2) When the panel strikes out an appeal it may make any consequential determination it considers appropriate.

Amendments to notice of appeal

22.—(1) The appellant may amend the notice of appeal only with the permission of the panel.

(2) Where the panel grants permission under paragraph (1) it may do so on such terms as it thinks fit, and may give any further or consequential directions it considers necessary, including directions permitting the respondent to respond to the amended notice of appeal.

(3) In deciding whether to grant permission under paragraph (1), the panel must take into account all the circumstances including whether the proposed amendment—

- (a) involves a substantial change or addition to the appellant's case,
- (b) is based on matters of law or fact which have come to light since the appeal was made, or
- (c) for any other reason could not practicably have been included in the notice of appeal.

Withdrawal of the appeal

23.—(1) The appellant may withdraw its appeal at any time.

(2) The regulator may only reconsider the decision which is the subject of the appeal before the appeal is determined with leave of the panel.

(3) Where an appeal is withdrawn, the panel or the Secretary of State (where no appeal panel has been appointed), may instruct the secretary to publish notice of the withdrawal on the panel website or in such other manner as the panel or the Secretary of State, as the case may be, may direct.

- (b) write to the appellant explaining—

 - (ii) when that action will be taken.

(6) Notice of the outcome of the appeal must be published by the secretary on the panel website unless paragraph (7) applies.
