

Comments on Update Paper – Care Quality Commission

We welcome the CMA interim report setting out their provisional findings from their study into the Care Home Market.

Some of the issues they have highlighted reflect concerns that people using services, their families and carers have raised with inspectors and it is helpful that these will be considered.

We look forward to working with the CMA to consider the implications of their findings and potential remedies for the CQC in advance of the final publication of their report in December 2017.
