Freedom of Information Act 2000 Request

You asked for the following information from the Government Legal Department ("the Department"):

"is it permissible to advise me of the source of the date (15/02/1913) you hold"

Your request will be dealt with by the Bona Vacantia Division ("the Division") under the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

The Division holds all the information that you have requested.

I have withheld the this information from the file as it is exempt from disclosure under section 32(1) of the Act. The information is exempt from disclosure because it is held only by virtue of being contained in a document filed with, or otherwise placed in the custody of a court for the purposes of proceedings in a particular cause or matter and/or a document served upon, or by, a public authority for the purposes of proceedings in a particular cause or matter and/or a document created by a court or a member of the administrative staff of a court for the purposes of proceedings in a particular cause or matter.

This information is also exempt from disclosure under section 40(2) of the Act. The information is exempt from disclosure because it constitutes the personal data of a living individual as defined in section 1(1) of the Data Protection Act 1998 and disclosure of the information would be in breach of the data protection principles set out in Schedule 1 of that Act. In particular, disclosure of the information would contravene the first data protection principle, which requires that personal data be processed fairly and lawfully.

Additionally it is exempt from disclosure under section 41 of the Act as the Division considers that the information was received in confidence, and that to reveal the information would constitute an actionable breach of the duty of confidence.

In considering whether disclosure would be an actionable breach of confidence the Division has considered whether there is a public interest in disclosing the information that would outweigh the public interest in keeping the information confidential.

There is a strong public interest in keeping confidential information that has been disclosed in confidence, and in this case there is no specific reason in favour of disclosure of the information. Disclosure would not protect public safety, nor would it expose wrongdoing such as misfeasance, maladministration, negligence or other iniquity on the part of the Division. In this case the Division considers that the public interest in keeping the information confidential outweighs the public interest in disclosing it.
