Dear

Request for Information

Thank you for your email 14 November 2014 requesting information Daedalus. For ease of reference your request is below:

Please supply (via the above email address) to me all information regarding the creation and siting of demolition waste and stockpiles on the Daedalus site.

Information not held

The two demolition contracts at the Daedalus site were let and managed on behalf of the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) by a third party consultant. The consultants were responsible for submitting all the necessary applications to the Local Authority, stripping out the asbestos and the technical specification for all the work.

They let the tender in accordance with HCA procurement regulations via the HCA Procurement Team. The award to the successful contractor was made following a tender review.

In addition, the consultant's project managed the contract through to completion, including the management of the demolition materials which remain on site with the full knowledge of the Local Authority

As both demolition contracts were managed by a third party the HCA does not hold any information, other than the details above, on the creation and siting of demolition waste and stockpiles on the Daedalus site.
