

*I'm in,
Liam Brady.*

Starting with larger companies, from October 2012 bosses across the UK will have to offer their workers a workplace pension. It means millions of working people will be enrolled. And better still, when you pay in, your boss pays in too. You'll also get some tax relief from the Government. You don't have to do anything right now, just look out for a letter from your employer that tells you more.

For more information visit direct.gov.uk/workplacepensions

Workplace pensions. We're all in.

Department
for Work &
Pensions