Dear xxxxxxxx,

Thank you for your email dated 15 March 2012, which I am treating as a request for information under the Freedom of Information Act. The Act entitles you to receive any information held by the department at the time your request was made subject to any exemptions that may apply. It has been passed to my department and I have been asked to respond.

You requested:

“I would like to request annual statistics on the number of recruits to the Armed Forces over the past 10 years, broken down by recruitment location, up to and including the most recent statistics you have?”

In the following Annexes, statistical information is provided that list the number of entrants from named recruitment centres around the UK. This will give an indication of the geographical spread of recruitment but does not provide a comprehensive picture of where these individuals may reside as they may not always apply to join the services through their nearest career office or may choose other means by which to apply.

In addition Royal Navy and Royal Marine officers are primarily recruited via regional officer careers liaison centres, each of which covers a large area of the UK. Prior to 2009-10 RN/RM officers were not recruited through armed forces career offices. The recruitment data for army officers are based on data related to the location of the schools and universities from which Officers are recruited together with the small number recruited via careers offices. Army officer entrant figures before 2007-08 were collected on a different basis than currently and are not included.

At Annex A is an extract to an answer we have provided in response to a Parliamentary Question tabled by Ms Bridget Phillipson MP. This information represents the period 1 April 2000 to 31 March 2010. At Annex B similar information is provided covering the period 1 April 2010 to 29 February 2012.

I hope you find this information useful.

Yours sincerely

DCDS Personnel & Training Secretariat
