Please note that:

- the information provided on first time passes for the car theory and practical tests is based on tests conducted in each of those financial years. Therefore, any car theory or practical tests taken outside of these periods will not have been taken into account in the first time pass information. To explain that further if the same candidate took a car theory test in 2008/9 and failed it but took a further one in 2009/10 and passed it, that candidate would have a first time pass rate in 2009/10.

- The information on first time pass rates is based on a candidate's first attempt and not their first attempt at that test centre. To explain that further, if the same candidate took a car theory test at a test centre that isn't Lowestoft, King's Lynn or Norwich and failed it then passed their theory test at Lowestoft (for example) in the same financial year, the candidate wouldn't be included in the first time pass information in that financial year at Lowestoft.
