

Under the Freedom of Information Act (FoIA), I would like you to provide me with the number of applicants who failed to complete the application form to become a driving examiner due to missing information. Also please could you provide me with the number of applicants that completed the application form correctly?

580 applicants failed eligibility for the driving examiner campaign run between 10 and 24 January 2011 due to ruined, incomplete or incorrectly completed application forms. 5,539 applicants completed the application form correctly.

The information supplied to you continues to be protected by copyright. You are free to use it for your own purposes, including for private study and non-commercial research, and for any other purpose authorised by an exception in current copyright law. Documents (except photographs) can be also used in the UK without requiring permission for the purposes of news reporting. Any other re-use, for example commercial publication, would require the permission of the copyright holder.

Most documents supplied by the Driving Standards Agency will be protected by Crown Copyright. Most Crown copyright information can be re-used under the Open Government Licence (<http://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/doc/open-government-licence/>). For information about the OGL and about re-using Crown Copyright information please see The National Archives website - <http://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/information-management/uk-gov-licensing-framework.htm> .

Copyright in other documents may rest with a third party. For information about obtaining permission from a third party see the Intellectual Property Office's website at www.ipo.gov.uk.