

Dear Sir /Madam

Following hidden disclosure after a F.O.I request it has been found that the nuclear industry is being offered a taxpayer subsidy on the disposal costs of waste from new reactors following a secret lobbying campaign by EDF.

The private foreign investors are already benefiting from legacy disposal passed to the taxpayer ,running into billions ,low interest loans for nuclear forges and free indemnity insurance worth billions. The nuclear subsidies already run at 124 times that of the entire renewables industry ,exceeding even the criminal fossil fuel industry subsidies at 6 -8 times that of renewables.

The Lobbying focused on reducing the final disposal costs and increasing taxpayer responsibility.

This must be reversed immediately. The new elected coalition government has repeatedly given assurances that the nuclear industry (famously 'Too cheap to meter') will not receive any taxpayer subsidies.

The final disposal cost must be offered at the original far higher price to give taxpayers value for money and security from cost overruns and responsibility for the waste must be legally the industries not the taxpayers until at least 110 years as originally consulted.

--

Regards,

Bryan Norris

Email powered by onsite renewable energy ,excess sold to ecotricity.

Hug that tree. Don't print this e-mail unless you really REALLY need to ,Print both sides to save paper.

The biggest impact you can make with your electricity bill is to be with Ecotricity. To switch your home or business, sign up online at www.ecotricity.co.uk or call free on 08000 302 302.

The 'Big Six' spend, on average, just £5 per year per customer building new forms of clean power, like wind turbines. Ecotricity spends over £400 per customer every year doing the same thing. Check www.whichgreen.org for more details.

The Three Muses

When viewed in line

Their arms entwined

Three maidens clad in white

Upon the hill

So seldom still

In motion day and night

Why dance they so
I'd like to know
What music do they hear
Day after day
In Harmony
With movement crisp and clear

Sweet Zephyr's song
Urges them on
In whispers calm and soft
So tireless till
Coffers they fill
They swing their arms aloft