RE: Invitation to speak at private event on consumer credit review

My company is hosting a private lunch on consumer credit, looking at how Government and industry can best work together and I wondered whether you would be our guest speaker?

Held at One Aldwych, we would gather fifteen senior representatives from the consumer credit industry to explore how best to serve the consumer in light of the current review of consumer credit and personal insolvency as well as the consultation on the regulation of consumer credit.

hanover regularly hosts such discussions and I am confident that this event would be a productive platform for you to set out to industry their role in helping achieve your Department's objectives.

Ideally we would hold such a meeting once the consultation on consumer credit regulation has closed, in this instance, a date in the week commencing April 4th. However, we can of course be flexible in order to best suit your diary commitments.

I would be pleased to talk about the event further detail with your office.
