Message: Dear Theresa May,

Your proposed plan to introduce you minimum 45p per unit of alcohol is nothing but another way of taxing the people of this land who vote you and your fellow MP's into government. If you was really serious about tackling the issues of alcohol abuse in our society then you would introduce plans to punish the people who cause the problems. Heavier fines for alcohol related public order offences, the kind we see all the time on our TV's which get let off with cautions or a paltry £80 fine. This would be a much fairer system than what you are trying to do. The only thing you will create is increased bootlegging and illegal alcohol making factories as people will find ways to get alcohol cheaper.

The government are guilty yet again of punishing responsible people for the minority who cause the problems, i would like to suggest you have a rethink on this issue and come up with a better and fairer way of dealing with the people who are the problem. May i suggest you read the comment on this link.
