

Dear sir,

I came across your site https://consult.justice.gov.uk/digital-communications/balance-of-competences/consult\_view and noticed that you are asking people in the UK to comment on EU membership matters.

My _____ is currently the victim of a huge injustice in _____ having her twin boys forcibly removed from her care when they were only two years old. Whilst the judge has taken many illegal steps, there appears to be no neutral court where these actions can be brought to account. The bias has infiltrated the appeal courts and disciplinary courts, effectively preventing any fair court process from taking place. It now seems like the courts are deliberately making this case as slow as possible to prevent it from reaching the ECHR. This is denial of justice and a breach of human rights, yet there is nowhere we can go to get our case fairly heard.

It is disgusting that an EU country can behave in this way without the UK government intervening on behalf of one of its citizens to ensure fairness in the courts.

Please can you put me in touch with someone who you think might be able to help.

Many thanks,
