Role of the Civil Procedure Rule Committee

The Civil Procedure Rule Committee is an Advisory Non-Departmental Public Body, established under the Civil Procedure Act 1997¹ which paved the way for the most extensive reforms in the civil justice system for over a century.

The function of the Committee is to make:

rules of court (to be called “Civil Procedure Rules”) governing the practice and procedure to be followed in –

- a) the civil division of the Court of Appeal,
- b) the High Court, and
- c) county courts.

Schedule 1 to the 1997 Act makes further provisions about the extent of the power to make Civil Procedure Rules.

Section 2 of the 1997 Act provides:

- the statutory composition of the Committee;
- a requirement that the Lord Chancellor consult before making certain appointments;
- arrangements for the reimbursement of Committee members’ expenses;
- the terms under which the Committee operates; and
- a requirement that a specified proportion of the Committee sign rules before they are submitted to the Lord Chancellor.

Freedom of Information Act 2000

The Freedom of Information (FOI) Act 2000² (the Act) received Royal Assent on 30 November 2000. It establishes a general right of access to all types of recorded information held by public authorities, sets out limitations to that right and places a number of obligations on public authorities. The Act applies to a large number of public authorities, including Non-departmental Public Bodies. Under the Act, you are entitled, on making a request for information to this Non-departmental Public Body (unless the information falls under one of the specific exemptions in the Act):

- a) to be informed in writing by the Committee whether it holds information of the description specified in your request, and
- b) if that is the case, to have that information communicated to you.

The Act provides for a time limit for dealing with a request for information – that is, within 20 working days. The Act also provides for an appeal mechanism whereby you may apply to the Information Commissioner for a decision as to whether a specified request was dealt with in accordance with the Act.

A fee may be charged for processing Freedom of Information requests. The fee will be prescribed by secondary legislation. Most requests will be free.

² Copies of the Act are obtainable, for a charge, from the Stationery Office. A copy of the Act is also available via OPSI website at <http://www.opsi.gov.uk/> or the Statute Law Database at www.statutelaw.gov.uk/.

Publication Scheme

Under the Act all public authorities are obliged to adopt and maintain a Publication Scheme specifying:

- classes of information which they publish or intend to publish;
- the manner in which the information is or is intended to be published; and
- whether the material is or is intended to be made available to the public free of charge or on payment.

The purpose of the Publication Scheme is to ensure that information is readily available to members of the public, i.e. without the need for specific consideration under the Act, and to inform the public of the extent of material that is available.

It is for this reason that the information is available on the Civil Procedure Rule Committee's website, may be purchased from Her Majesty's Stationery Office (HMSO), may be obtained from a public library or will be supplied immediately on receipt of a letter or telephone call to the person specified in the publication scheme.

The classes of information that the Civil Procedure Rule Committee publishes or intends to publish are set out on pages 10 and 11.

The Publication Scheme is reviewed annually.
