Proposed Order in Council on Health and Health Services

Legislative Competence Orders (LCOs) are Orders in Council made under section 95 of the Government of Wales Act 2006 (the “2006 Act”) which confer legislative competence on the National Assembly for Wales.

This proposed LCO is part of the Welsh Assembly Government’s legislative programme for 2010-11, announced by the First Minister, the Rt. Hon. Carwyn Jones AM, on 13 July 2010. It would confer legislative competence on the Assembly in relation to consent or other authorisation for organ and tissue donation for the purposes of transplantation. I have consulted UK Cabinet colleagues on this proposed Order, and they support its publication for pre-legislative scrutiny.

Part 3 of the 2006 Act gave the National Assembly for Wales the power to pass legislation, known as Assembly Measures, which can do anything that an Act of Parliament can do, within the constraints set out in the Act. The scope of the Assembly’s powers to pass Measures is set out in Part 3 of, and Schedule 5 to, the Act. The scope of the powers can be extended by adding “matters” to Schedule 5, either through a Parliamentary Bill or, as in this case, by an LCO. The LCO route enables the Welsh Assembly Government - or Assembly Committees or backbenchers - to initiate a request for legislative competence.

Each “matter” simply defines legislative competence. Although the accompanying Explanatory Memorandum sets out the scope and background relating to the request, the details of the legislation to be passed would be set out in Assembly Measures and any subordinate legislation made under them.

Proposed LCOs are subject to pre-legislative scrutiny by the House of Commons Welsh Affairs Committee, the House of Lords Constitution Select Committee and by a committee of the Assembly. In scrutinising proposed LCOs, parliamentary committees consider whether or not it is appropriate to devolve legislative competence to the Assembly in the particular areas of policy specified in the Order.

Final draft Orders, prepared in light of pre-legislative scrutiny, require the approval of the Assembly and both Houses of Parliament before going forward to the Privy Council to be made.

I welcome the work of the Welsh Affairs Select Committee and the House of Lords Constitution Committee and await the outcome of the pre-legislative scrutiny on this proposed Order.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order amends the Government of Wales Act 2006 (“the 2006 Act”).

The Order extends the legislative competence of the National Assembly for Wales to make laws known as Measures of the National Assembly for Wales (or “Assembly Measures”). It does this by adding a new matter to the field of health and health services contained within Schedule 5 to the 2006 Act. Subject to general limitations on the legislative competence of the National Assembly for Wales, which apply by virtue of section 94 of, and Schedule 5 to, the 2006 Act, an Assembly Measure may make provision that relates to the matters contained in the fields set out in Schedule 5 to the 2006 Act.

Article 2 inserts matter 9.3 into field 9 (health and health services) of Part 1 of Schedule 5 to the 2006 Act. Matter 9.3 is about consent or other authorisation for the following activities for the purpose of transplantation to a human body—

- (a) storage and use of the body of a deceased adult;
- (b) removal, storage and use of any relevant material of which such a body consists or which it contains.

Matter 9.3 contains an exception relating to circumstances in which persons carrying out the activities mentioned in paragraphs (a) and (b) above know, or have reason to believe, that the body or relevant material subject to the activity is, or may be, required for the purposes of functions of a coroner. The matter does not include provision that allows the carrying out of the activities mentioned in paragraphs (a) and (b) in these circumstances without the consent of a coroner.

The new matter 9.3 contains definitions of “deceased adult” and “relevant material.”

A full regulatory impact assessment has not been prepared for this Order since the effect of this Order is only to confer competence on the National Assembly for Wales to legislate.

The National Assembly for Wales (Legislative Competence) (Health and Health Services) Order 2011

Proposed Legislative Competence Order relating to organ and tissue donation for the purposes of transplantation

Introduction

1. This Explanatory Memorandum explains the background to, and the scope of, the powers requested in the accompanying proposed Legislative Competence Order.

2. Schedule 5 to the Government of Wales Act 2006 (“the 2006 Act”) defines the extent of the competence of the National Assembly for Wales (“the Assembly”) to pass legislation. Schedule 5 to the 2006 Act (“Schedule 5”) contains 20 ‘fields’ (field 9 is “health and health services”) and these fields may contain related ‘matters’ (Matter 9.1 is to do with “...the provision of redress...in connection with... the health service in Wales”). The Assembly is empowered to legislate, within the scope of matters in Schedule 5, by passing Assembly Measures.

3. A Measure has the same effect as an Act of Parliament. Subject to certain limitations set out in Part 2 of Schedule 5 to the 2006 Act, it can amend existing legislation and make new provisions in relation to any matter in Schedule 5.

4. An Order made by Her Majesty in Council is one way in which the competence of the Assembly to pass legislation may be extended. Such an Order is known as a ‘Legislative Competence Order’ (“LCO”) and is made under section 95 of the 2006 Act. It amends Schedule 5 by adding matters specified in the Order that relate to one or more of the ‘fields’ in Schedule 5.

5. The purpose of the accompanying proposed LCO is to extend the legislative competence of the Assembly in field 9 (health and health services) of Schedule 5. Schedule 5 is attached at Annex A showing the legislative competence that the Assembly has acquired to date. This will allow Welsh Ministers, Assembly Members and Assembly Committees to bring forward proposals for legislation, relating to consent or other authorisation for organ and tissue donation for the purposes of transplantation, within the scope of the new matters, which may then be scrutinised and passed by the Assembly.

Background

6. The Welsh Assembly Government wishes to increase the number of organ and tissue donors in Wales to improve both the health and quality of life of citizens.

7. The proposed LCO covers organ and tissue donation. The use of both tissues and organs are currently governed by the Human Tissue Act 2004. The current organ donation opt-in system includes organs and tissues. The Organ Donation Register (“ODR”) covers organs and corneas. It should be noted that there is often a general lack of precision when reference is made in reports and publications to organ and tissue donation. Indeed this Explanatory Memorandum makes reference to reports and publications that refer to “organs”, where “tissues” are also included. Therefore for the avoidance of doubt, this Explanatory Memorandum and the accompanying LCO refer to both organs and tissues.

8. It should be noted that where reference is made to externally sourced publications, the term “presumed consent” is sometimes referred to by those authors, with reference to the opt-out system.

9. The Welsh Assembly Government seeks to introduce an opt out system of organ donation for those living and dying in Wales, in addition to continuing to participate in the existing UK-wide opt-in system.

10. This document explains the rationale for further intervention in Wales over and above the current opt-in system in the UK. It should be noted that much progress has been achieved in recent years across the UK, with a record number of transplants (3,706) carried out in the last year, an increase of 5% over the previous year<sup>1</sup>. An even higher increase has been recorded in Wales, which has seen a 20% rise in the number of organ donors, with the deceased donation rate rising to 13.7 per million population (“pmp”), from 12.2 pmp. These improvements are based on the implementation of the Organ Donation Taskforce recommendations made in 2008, which aims to bring about a 50% increase in organ donation rates by 2013. To date, donor rates across the UK have increased by about 22% over the baseline year of 2007/08.

Demand for organs and tissues

11. Across the UK, hundreds of people die each year while waiting on the transplant waiting list for a suitable donor to become available. Of the 1,000 or so people that die each year for want of a transplant, only about 500 are actually on the waiting list<sup>2</sup>. There is evidence to suggest that the transplant waiting list under-reports the number of people actually in need of a transplant and that more people would be placed on the list by clinicians if more organs were available.

Supply of organs and tissues

12. Infrastructure changes as a result of the implementation of the Organ Donation taskforce recommendations are addressing the need to identify all potential donors. But once potential donors are identified, it is possible that organs are not being made available in a number of cases not because the deceased objected to donation but because they never took the step of signing the ODR or informing their relatives of their wishes. When relatives were approached for a decision on this matter, up to 40% opted not to donate, often without knowing the deceased individual's wishes.

13. This is supported by surveys, including one by NHS Blood and Transplant ("NHSBT") which reported that 90% of people claimed to support organ donation but only circa 28% of the UK's population are registered on the NHS ODR. Around 30% of organ donors in 2009/10 had registered their positive choice for donation on the ODR but in the remaining 70% of cases, families decided on behalf of the deceased.

14. To further illustrate the shortage of cadaveric organs and tissues for donation, it is relevant to note the rise in the number of living donor transplants, particularly in respect of kidney transplants. (This entails healthy individuals undergoing major surgery, with possible consequences for their own health and wellbeing and with implications for the NHS due to the extra operation and subsequent care costs of the living donor.) In 2009/10 living donors provided 50 (42%) of the total kidneys transplanted into people who live in Wales.

15. Despite such developments, the disparity between the number of donors and the number of people requiring a transplant in the UK continues to increase by about 8%<sup>3</sup> a year. Although donor rates have increased by about 22% since 2007/08, it is noteworthy that this gap has persisted despite prolonged advertising campaigns, encouraging people to become donors, and the fact that kidney transplantation is the most clinically and cost effective treatment for those with end stage renal failure ["ESRF"]. Also, for end-stage failure of organs such as the liver, lung and heart, it is the only available treatment.

Consideration of current arrangements

16. In 2008, following a review of organ donation in the UK and elsewhere, the Organ Donation Task Force ("ODTF")<sup>4</sup> made fourteen recommendations within the current legislative framework.

17. All four UK administrations supported the fourteen ODTF recommendations and the Wales Organ Donation Implementation Group ("WODIG") was set up to ensure that they were implemented in Wales. The work of WODIG continues but even if fully implemented is not expected to provide the required number of donors to meet expected demand.

18. Later in 2008, as a second piece of work, the ODTF looked into the potential impact of an opt-out system for organ donation in the UK and recommended<sup>5</sup> against it. Some organisations who supported the introduction of presumed consent included the Chief Medical Officers (in all four nations), the BMA, the British Transplant Society and the Royal College of Nursing.

19. Also in 2008 the Assembly's Health, Wellbeing and Local Government Committee held an inquiry into presumed consent for organ donation. It recommended against the Assembly seeking legislative competence at that time but added that any future legislation to introduce presumed consent in Wales should adopt a "soft" opt-out system.

20. Also in 2008, the Welsh Assembly Government ('WAG') Minister for Health and Social Services, Edwina Hart AM OStJ MBE, launched public debates on organ donation in Wales and in May 2009 the WAG published a consultation paper<sup>6</sup> on the issue. The feedback from these demonstrated support for the introduction of new laws for a "soft" opt-out system in Wales. This outcome reflected the results of similar surveys undertaken across the UK<sup>i</sup>, which found that the majority of the public, around 60%, would support a change to an opt-out system.

Rationale

21. In summary, the principle reasons for introducing a "soft" opt-out organ donation system in Wales are shown below. This list was originally produced by the BMA<sup>7</sup> but is endorsed by the Welsh Assembly Government:

- "Studies show that the majority of people say that they would be willing to donate their organs for transplantation purposes, but only around a quarter of the population are on the NHS Organ Donation Register [in the UK]
- Given that the majority of people say that they would be willing to donate, presuming consent rather than presuming objection is more likely to achieve the aim of respecting the wishes of the deceased person.
- Unlike the current system, there would be a clear mechanism for protecting the wishes of those who do not want to become a donor.
- While relatives would still be consulted, they would be relieved of the burden of making the decision in the absence of any indication of the deceased person's wishes.
- A shift to presumed consent would prompt more discussion with families about organ donation.

<sup>7</sup> BMA Brief of Clinical Working Group Report, contained in Annex E Appendix B of A report from the Organ Donation Taskforce. January 2008

- With such a shift, organ donation becomes the default position. This represents a more positive view of organ donation, which is to be encouraged.
- Despite the acknowledged difficulties of obtaining meaningful data about the presumed consent in other countries, the BMA believes that, as one part of a broader strategy, a shift to presumed consent is likely to have a positive effect on donation rates”.

Welsh Assembly Government policy

22. The Minister for Health and Social Services made a Written Cabinet Statement on Organ Donation in Wales on 18th December 2009 and on 13th July 2010 the First Minister announced the intention to seek the necessary legislative powers in the 2010/11 legislative programme.

23. Legislative competence is requested to provide for changes to the system of consent to cadaveric organ and tissue donation for the purposes of transplantation.

Current legislative and administrative framework

Human Tissue Act 2004

24. The Human Tissue Act 2004 (“HTA”) applies to England, Wales and Northern Ireland (there is separate legislation in place in Scotland: The Human Tissue (Scotland) Act 2006). The HTA governs the removal, storage and use of organs and tissue from a deceased person for transplantation and other purposes not covered by the LCO. The HTA makes consent the fundamental principle underpinning the lawful storage and use of organs and tissue.

Human Tissue Authority

25. The Human Tissue Authority was established in 2005 to regulate the removal, storage, use and disposal of organs and tissue and to act as the UK national competent authority under the European Tissue and Cells Directive (“EUTCD”) for regulating tissue and cells for human application (except those regulated by the Human Fertilisation and Embryo Authority). It is also responsible for approving organ donation from the living, licensing sundry activities and carrying out inspections.

NHS Blood and Transplant (“NHSBT”)

26. The Organ Donation and Transplantation Directorate of NHSBT (an England and Wales Special Health Authority) manages transplant waiting lists, allocates organs, collects and analyses transplant data for all transplant units in the UK, and promotes organ donation and the NHS ODR. All organs donated in Wales are allocated on a UK basis by NHSBT.

Scope

27. It is proposed that this Legislative Competence Order inserts one matter (Matter 9.3) into Field 9: health and health services in Schedule 5 to the Government of Wales Act 2006. This will enable the Assembly to legislate by way of Assembly Measure.

Matter 9.3

28. The matter would provide the Assembly with competence to introduce legislation concerning consent or authorisation for the following activities for the purpose of transplantation to a human body:

- (a) storage and use of the body of a deceased adult;
- (b) removal, storage and use of any relevant material of which such a body consists or which it contains.

29. The matter does not extend to consent or other authorisation for any of the activities set out in paragraph 28 (a) and (b) where a person who is carrying out that activity knows, or has reason to believe, that the body of a deceased person, or relevant material which has come from the body of deceased person, is or may be, required for the purpose of functions of a coroner.

30. The matter defines “deceased adult” to mean a deceased person who had attained the age of 18 before death. “Relevant material” is defined in the Human Tissue Act 2004 as material, which consists of or includes human cells, apart from gametes, embryos outside the human body and hair and nails from the body of a living person. This includes organs, part-organs, tissue and cells of which such a body consists or which it contains. A similar definition is used for the purposes of the LCO.

31. This legislative competence would enable legislation to be developed to take forward the Welsh Assembly Government’s policy of increasing the number of organs and tissues available for donation, and in particular by introducing a “soft” opt-out system. By “soft” opt-out system we mean doctors can remove organs from every adult who lives and dies in Wales where the law applies, unless a person has registered to opt out; but adopting good practice whereby doctors ask the relatives for their agreement at the time of death. The persons to whom such legislation applies will need to be clearly identified in the legislation.

32. Work is already underway to develop a mechanism to determine those to whom the Measure would apply. It will be important to ensure that in the case of the introduction of a “soft” opt-out system in Wales, those to whom it applies have been in Wales for a sufficient period of time to acquire a knowledge and understanding of the system, in order to make an informed decision about whether to opt out and to ensure compliance with the European Convention of Human Rights. Possible eligibility criteria considered to date include people that are, or whose details are listed on the following:

- ordinarily resident in Wales;
- Electoral Register;
- GP Register;
- resident in Wales for at least 6 months, plus another test. This is akin to the Belgium model.

33. With regard to “ordinarily resident”, this term is often used in relation to health and social care but is not defined in statute. The term has been considered by the courts on a number of occasions including in the case of Shah v Barnet London Borough Council [1983] 1ALL ER 226. In that case Lord Scarman concluded that “ordinary resident refers to a man's abode in a particular place or country which he had adopted voluntarily for settled purpose as part of the regular order of his life for the time being, whether short or long duration”.

34. In order for ordinary residence to be established it is important that the residence is voluntarily adopted and that there is a degree of settled purpose. However there are issues with this option as someone could become ordinarily resident in a day and so may not have had an opportunity to opt out. Consent can only be presumed if people are properly informed and given a genuine opportunity to opt out.

35. Subject to the LCO being made, these options will need to be developed further as part of the legislative process and the appropriate criteria would be set out in the Assembly Measure. These criteria will be developed to ensure that they only apply to those people who both live and die in Wales. In addition provision would also need to be made in the Assembly Measure for certain groups to be excluded. These are likely to include the following:

- All minors under 18 years;
- Adults lacking capacity.

Geographical limits of any Assembly Measure

36. Section 94 of the 2006 Act prohibits Assembly Measures having effect other than in relation to Wales. This LCO applies only to people who live and die in Wales. The means by which this will be defined is a matter for a subsequent Measure.

Minister of the Crown functions

37. Part 2 of Schedule 5 prevents Assembly Measures from altering the functions of a Minister of the Crown without the consent of the Secretary of State. No such functions have been identified as being engaged by this proposed LCO.

Conclusion

38. For the reasons outlined above, it is proposed that the legislative competence of the Assembly is extended in accordance with the provisions of the proposed LCO to which this Explanatory Memorandum relates.
