Dear Sir,

I am writing to express my complete opposition to your proposal that retail alcohol sales have a minimum price of 45p per unit.

This I regard as an attack on moderate drinkers and is unfair. You also need to be reminded of the disgraceful tax "accelerator" on beer etc., that is helping to ruin the pub trade.

No doubt politicians will maintain that all these taxes are needed for vital government spending. I suggest an end to invading other countries ("armchair generals" God help us!) and stopping your pals in the City and abroad asset stripping the nation. I wish you every failure.
Yours faithfully,
