

The Home Office,
Direct Communications Unit,
2 Marsham Street,
London.
SW1P 4DF

3 January 2013

To the Co-ordinator of responses to consultation on Minimum Price Alcohol

Dear Sir,

The Government's proposal for a minimum unit price is unwanted and unnecessary. To discourage binge drinking I suggest the following measures be taken which is what used to happen when I was a youngster in the 1950's.

1. Apprehend and arrest people who are drunk and/or disorderly.
2. Charge them and keep them overnight in police cells.
3. Have them in court before magistrates at the earliest opportunity.
4. Fine them and publish in the local press their names, addresses, and fines imposed.

Yours faithfully,

RECEIVED
IN DCU

- 4 JAN 2013