26 September 2012

You will be receiving in due course a letter from my colleagues in the BAT office in UK containing a CD holding British American Tobacco's 2012 Ingredients Submission for product on sale in UK.

To ensure secure transmission of the CD, the CD has been encrypted and the data can only be accessed by providing the correct password. Upon putting the CD into your CD drive you will be prompted for this password in a Safeguard extraction page. The password is as follows:

The password needs to be inserted exactly as provided above, taking note of any capital letters. When clicking the extract button the file will be downloaded to the file specified in the target directory box. Please note that there is the ability to change the target directory should you wish to.

You will not require any special software to extract the data.

Should you have any queries regarding the use of the password or access to any data files please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours sincerely
